CHRISTMAS EVE.

DARWIN, Dec. 24.

MESSRS. EDITORS—To the young patrons of your valuable paper this article is particularly dedicated.

If there ever was a people under the sun who ought to feel thankful to their Heavenly Father for the privileges that surround them this Christmas, for His manifest mercies and blessings meted out to them during the past year, the people of California are the ones (excepting Inyoites.)

Upon almost every hand the experiences of those who are engaged in honorable and noble employment have been of the most favorable nature, being free from all great calamities that befall mankind in almost all parts of the globe (excepting Inyoites.)

One cannot take up a daily paper of late without finding in its columns a report of some dreadful disease prevailing, or heartrending accident happening to our brothers in other States or climes, while here in our own homes the year has nearly unrolled its series of lessons and experiences and will soon be numbered with the list of dead ones gone, never to return, and still we are all in good health—too good to please the M. D.'s—have all the common necessaries and substantial comforts of life (excepting Inyoites), and every prospect of living to see the glorious festivities of 1879.

Let us wish from the bottom of our hearts to all "a Merry Christmas;" that it may be a gala day in reality, and hope to-night that to-morrow's sun may rise upon us in more than usual golden splendor, and that we all may be prepared to enter into its varied festivities and privileges with double our former zeal and power, and resolve anew to make the coming year the brightest and and happiest in our lives.

What would Christmas be without a Santa Claus?—the old, gray-haired and hearted man, with his loaded-down sleigh, drawn by his four, fleet, tiny reindeers to the tops of the roofs of all our houses (except Inyoite dwellings.)

Did you ever hear, my yound friends, the origin of this ever-loved person? So far as my limited knowledge extends, I found that Santa Claus is the Dutch name for St. Nicholas. St. Nicholas was known as the patron saint of boys. He is said to have been a bishop of Myra, and to have died in the year 329. The young were universally taught to revere him, and the popular fiction which represents him as the bearer of presents to children is well known and sprung from the following:

"St. Nicholas is said to have supplied three destitute maidens with marriage portions, by secretly leaving money at their windows, and as this day occurred just before Christmas he thus was made the purveyor of the gifts of the season to all children in Flanders and Holland, who put out their shoes and stockings, in the confidence that Santa Claus would put in a prize before morning."

Another legend describes the saint as having brought three murdered children to life again, and this rendered him the patron saint of boys. Thus it will be seen from this simple story of centuries past has grown the time-honored and beautiful custom of celebrating Christmas eve, by preparing gifts for our children, and as the evening or morning appears how eager each little throbbing heart is to know what Santa Claus has dropped into the stockings or placed on the Christmas tree.

Children, when you view the tree or your stockings loaded down with every conceivable thing to please and gratify you, in your varied tastes and wishes, does there not arise a desire in your hearts to humbly thank your kind and loving parents for their manifestations of goodness to you? How can you after this day speak to them an unkind word, or allow to enter in your minds a bad thought? Remember, God knows and reads your hearts, and when you ill-treat your fathers or mothers by word or deed, you at the same time displease Him. Young girls and boys, you should strive to be good and always do right, and remember that:

"Time is, thou hast; improve thy portion small;
Time was, is past; thou can'st not it recall;
Time future, it may never be;
Time present is the only time for thee."

Yours, etc. C. F. O'BRION.

Soft hearted grandpapa (to Tommy, who has just been castigated by his mamma): "And you know, Tommy, it really pains mamma more than it does you." "Oh, yes, I know it does; she says so; it hurts her hands."

Among all the causes of a candidate's defeat, that assigned by Congressman Waddell, of North Carolina, is the most unique—sweet potatoes. The voters soured on him in their zeal to harvest their saccharine tubers.

Independents elected to Legislatures are the most independent of all politicians when they hold the balance of power. They are independent of party and caucuses, and may reserve the privilege of selling out to either side.

Don't Waste Vital Energy.

The most vigorous persons do not have too much vitality. People generally inherit a lack; or at least find that much vital energy has been permanently lost in their childhood and youth through the ignorance or carelessness of their parents. Often it is impaired by wrong indulgence in early manhood. The endeavor with all persons should be to husband what is left, be it much or little. Therefore:

1. Do not do anything in a hurry.
2. Don't work too many hours a day, whether it be farm work, shop work study work or house work.
3. Don't abridge sleep. Get the full eight hours of it, and that, too, in a well ventilated and sun-purified room.
4. Don't eat what is indigestible, nor too much of anything, and let good cheer rule the hour.
5. Don't fret at yourself or anybody else; nor indulge in the blues, nor burst into fits of passion.
6. Don't be too much elated with good luck, or disheartened by bad.

Positively—be self-controlled, calm brave. Let your brain have all the rest it needs. Treat your stomach right. Keep a good conscience, and have a cheerful trust in God for all things and both worlds.

In less than thirty years 72,000 miles of railroad have been constructed in the United States. The value of property in this country has in the same period increased from $8,000,000,000 to $30,000,000,000.

Mail carriers cannot carry unsealed communications outside the mails.

The Postoffice Department, wishing to avoid any complication with the rivalries existing between publishers, decline to furnish information showing the amount of postage paid by any publications in any one year.

The law providing for the forwarding of letters at the request of the parties addressed, without additional charge for postage, does not apply to printed or third-class matter.

The addition of the date on a printed circular by a hand-stamp, subjects the same to letter rates of postage.

Advertising sheets, folded within the issue of any publication, sent to regular subscribers, subjects the same to the rates for third-class matter.

Hand-bills, sent from the printer to the party ordering the same, must be charged as merchandise, and postage paid at the rate of one cent for each ounce or fraction thereof.

A publication, in order to avail itself of the pound rates, must be mailed at the postoffice nearest the claimed office or place of publication. It may also be mailed at other offices at the pound rates, to regular subscribers, by news agents.

A husband cannot control the wife's correspondence, nor can the wife control the correspondence of the husband.

Postmasters are exempt from militia duty.

Private individuals cannot send any communications in the mails free of postage, no matter to whom it may be addressed.

The words "please forward" on the address side of a postal card subjects the same to letter rates of postage.

A postmaster may attend to business for private parties, if it does not interfere with his duties as postmaster, if he chooses to do so.

The erasure of an address on a postal card and the substituting of another does not make such card unmailable. —Western Postal Review.

Encourage Mining.

There are as many men engaged in mining in the United States as can profitably pursue that occupation until the market for the product of the soil can be extended. Congress should bear this fact in mind, and at the same time remember that, besides the thousands of idle men now in the country, the number will probably be swelled by 20,000 people per month for the coming twelve months. Something must be done for these people, something direct and immediate. And it is a matter for men of wealth to consider, as well as for legislators. Wealth is of no use unless it is protected, and there is no protection against crowds of starving and desperate men. There is a field open for all, large enough for all, broad enough for all, ample enough to exhaust the energies of as many as can work. That field is mining. It should be the work of Government to open cheap communication with the mining districts which are still remote, and the wealthy men all over the Union should attack the mines and make work for those who need it. And every miner who is given work helps to make a market for the product of the farm, and for the wares of the manufacturer. It is the only field not yet in great part explored, the only one the product of which conflicts with the interests of no man, but rather, inasmuch as it makes the world richer, enhances the welfare of all the world. Despite the carping of knaves and imbeciles, it is the industry which has always given wealth and prominence to this coast, and today the prosperity of the coast depends more upon the work of the miner than upon all other causes combined. And mining is no longer the hazardous business that it formerly was. The signs which insure permanency to mines are well known, and the most rebellious ores are now made to yield what is precious in them. If the poor are to be given employment, that employment must come through opening roads and mines. Every blow struck upon a drill in the mountains adds to the mansions being upreared in the cities, makes the foundry blast brighter and gives to the forge a new flame. It helps the mechanic and farmer hundreds of miles away, because while other men toil to lay up wealth the miner toils to create it.—Virginia Enterprise.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:
SATURDAY, JANUARY 4 1879

1879.

THE INDEPENDENT extends a Happy New Year greeting to all its friends and patrons and the rest of mankind, and hopes that peace and plenty will be vouchsafed to all for the coming year. But few indeed, perhaps none of our readers, but have enjoyed a liberal share of both peace and plenty during the year just closed. It would be hard to find a community anywhere on the face of the globe who have less of real deprivation, less of actual want, less of sorrow for general misfortunes from the elements, by disease or pestilence, than this in this sage-brush land. In view of our remarkable and most merciful exemption from all the great causes of distress, suffering and death, such as have put badges of mourning upon so many communities elsewhere and almost everywhere else, we have too much to be thankful for to indulge in complaints for the comparatively unimportant matter of "hard times." True, cash is scarce, and business quite generally is and has been greatly depressed on account of that scarcity. Nevertheless, times are not so hard, cash is not so scarce, as to threaten serious evil to a disproportionate number of individuals, as compared to former years rated as more prosperous, much less to the community in the aggregate. Altogether, this section has much to congratulate itself upon in the past, quite as much to hope for in the future, and our "Happy New Year to All" is not a mere conventionality, not an unattainable hope.

URANINE is the latest discovered, and perhaps the most remarkable, of all the coal tar or analine group of coloring substances, now so extensively used for the adornment of the finest fabrics. Uranine is said, by chemists, to be the most highly flourescent body known to science. Its coloring power is astonishing; a single grain will impart a marked color to nearly five hundred gallons of water. An interesting experiment, which anybody may try, consists in sprinkling a few atoms of uranine upon the surface of water in a glass tumbler. Each atom immediately sends down through the water what appears to be a bright green rootlet; and the tumbler soon looks as if it were crowded full of beautiful plants. The rootlets now begin to enlarge, spread and combine, until we have a mass of green colored liquid. Viewed by transmitted light, the color changes to a bright golden or amber hue; while a combination of green and gold will be realized, according to the position in which the glass is held. For a day or evening experiment nothing can be prettier than these trials of uranine, which are especialty entertaining for the young folks. We are indebted for samples of the color to the editors of the Scientific American, who are sending out specimens, free of charge, to all their subscribers. There is no paper published in the Eastern States which, in our estimation, is as well worth its cost (only $3 20 a year) to all classes of readers than the Scientific American, 37 Park Row, New York.

THE Supreme Court Judges do not see things in exactly the same light that certain of the smaller fry in the same line business pretend to. There is District Judge Fawcett, who snatched those attorneys for contempt some $250 worth each because they professed to believe he was no Judge, seeing that he was a delegate to the Constitutional Convention. He is ordered to review his summary action. Then there is County Judge Brown, over in Amador, who resolved himself into a Court and Jury both and straightway sent an editor man, Webb of the Amador Ledger, to prison for one hundred days for expressing a contemptuous opinion of the manner and lack of fairness in which his honor had tried a case. The Supreme Judges tell him he is exceeding his authority, and that Webb must be turned loose. This Webb is a contumacious cuss, but it is possible his contempt for Judge Brown is legitimate and not of a recent growth.

A PECULIAR species of toad abounds in the vicinity of Clear Lake, Modoc county. They are nearly round, and shaped very much like a terrapin. Chinamen catch these toads by the sackful, split them open and after drying them in the sun, send them to San Francisco, where they are used for medical purposes.

WE have in this country now, says the Cincinnati Commercial, in gold, silver, greenbacks and bank notes, nearly one thousand million. Never before did we have so much purchasing power in cash of all descriptions. Resumption increases this power to the extent of two hundred millions.

THE MINING BUSINESS.

The San Francisco Bulletin of December 26 gives a statement of mining results for the past year which must be of considerable interest to mining communities. We can give but a synopsis, as follows:

The aggregate of assessments for the year foots up to nearly $14,000,000. The year has not been a good one for dividends, while the assessments have been larger than in any previous year. The dividends and assessments for the coast compare as follows:

	Dividends.	Assessments.
California.....	$1,850,500	$2,035,300
Nevada.....	15,708,000	10,677,700
The Territories..	525,000	1,238,500
Totals.....	$18,083,500	$13,951,000

Giving a balance in favor of stockholders of $4,132,000. This looks like a small return for the amount risked. "But," as the Bulletin truly remarks, "so long as a new dollar is returned for an old one, mining is not a failure." It is an industry from which thousands derive their entire means of livlihood, while hundreds of thousands of others are indirectly benefitted by its prosecution.

During the year one hundred mining claims in California have appealed for aid. The heaviest demand has come from Mono county. Of the numerous claims in that county, twenty have levied assesaments, 'while only two,' the Bulletin incorrectly states, "have ever paid a dollar of dividends." These are the Bodie and Standard, the former only commencing in July, while the latter has paid regularly every month for the year as follows:

Bodie	$750,000
Standard	600,000
Total.....	$1,350,000
Mono county assessments.....	544,000
Balance in favor of stockholders...	$806,000

There should have been at least three dividends of 25 cents per share each by the Indian Queen added in the above dividend credit. We have no data, however, by which to arrive at the exact amount, any more than we have of the thousands of dollars of bullion produced and shipped every month by the Diana and Comanche companies in the same district, and which should figure in the bullion credits of the county.

Six mines in Inyo county stand charged with assessments as follows:

Coso Con.....	$ 10,000
Kearsarge.....	10,000
Lucky Jim.....	5,000
Modock.....	200,000
Rex Montis.....	22,000
Union Con	25,000
New Coso.....	120,000
Total.....	$402,000

There is not a dollar in divdends to offset this. In fact, it is stated there never was a mine in the county that paid a dividend. This is probably true if restricted strictly to incorporated stock; but it is not true in its general application. It can be demonstrated that Inyo mines have produced upward of $12,000,000, and probably, as we believe, at least a million more than it has ever received in the shape of assessments of all sorts. It is true all this goes back prior to the past year, upon which alone the foregoing deductions are based; for the most part, it goes back beyond the existence of any of our present mining incorporations, but in justice to our real mining values, must be considered in connection with the above unfavorable abstract showing. Until litigation crippled its resources, the old Union, now the Union Con., paid dividends right along every year and almost every month for over six years. During that time its gross products would approximate about $1,000,000 yearly, of which about 20 per cent was clear profit. For the last four or five years, when run at all, it has turned out probably near $2,000,000 more, though it has paid nothing in dividends, one assessment of $25,000, as above, having been levied, not for mining arrearages strictly, but to replace works destroyed by fire. Except when idle for the cause mentioned, this mine has yielded splendidly for over ten years, and though it has paid more to owners than any other second rate mine on the coast, and has had three times as much work done upon it as any other mine in this county, it is not yet considered even prospected. This mine, too, is entitled to the distinction of being the very first on the Pacific slope whose ores were successfully reduced by smelting. Other of our mines have yielded handsome profits, though none continuously, as did the Union; among these may be mentioned the Emigrant, which last year paid over $80,000 profit. Not one of our Inyo mines but what heretofore has had to be operated under disadvantages involving extra cost equal, inversely, to the dividends of any but the Bonanzas. These disadvantages in the main require but a little time, experience, and above all, cheap transportation, for removal; and a little time will bring it all about. We conclude that Inyo does not owe the world a dollar.

RAIN fell quite copiously throughout the State during the late storm, and agriculturists are greatly encouraged in consequence thereof.

OUR BODIE LETTER.

BODIE, Dec. 29.

MESSRS. EDITORS—Still we have fine weather, new comers, new saloons and other enterprises, and still we strike friends for a twenty-fours' loan on a margin. That's about the way we stand in Bodie, and when I use the plural "we" I mean our busted boys in general. Quite a number of the principal mines have their pay-day on the 5th of each month—making that a sort of a steamer day for Bodie, but in the meanttme the way about two-thirds of the community rustle for "sugar" to pay up assessments, rents, board bills, whisky accounts and other sundries would touch the heart of any one but a hook-nosed money lender. In a camp like Bodie money changes hands as often as an Inyo county girl changes her mind, and, considering the masses in which it is distributed, it is rare as eternal constancy in Paris. It is an every day occurrence to meet an unfortunate cuss who had the audacity to migrate into a new camp flat broke, and in whom you must recognize an old acquaintance; your reluctant hand goes slowly down with a protest into a much abused pocket, and one more five dollar piece is added to the wrong side of the profit and loss account. Kind-hearted, generous soul! Your bottom dollar evaporates like mist; only the jingling of a bunch of keys is heard, which grates harshly upon your ears and is about as soothing to your weary mind as a funeral dirge.

CHECKS, ETC.

Some of our mining checks are looked upon with suspicion—even when indorsed by responsible parties, and when you find it necessary to break a good one you are referred to the banks, where they charge two per cent. for looking at it. We have two banks—the fires of which institutions never bank, judging from the dividends declared every now and then. The suspicious paper alluded to are the checks of the Spaulding, Rustler and Humboldt companies. The Superintendent of the former guarantees that they are all right, or will be in a few days.

WAGES.

Miners receive $4 per day, engineers' and higher positions in proportion. But nearly all kinds of labor is contract work, and competition follows in every case. Mechanics have enjoyed a good season and none are idle. They take jobs, too, and the way barberous woodbutchers are brought into requisition and the rapidity with which flimsy structures are knocked together by unskilled hands is a marvel to the designers. They command from $5 to $8 per day, and are fortunate when finishing a building to get away from it before it falls on them—thereby jeopardizing life insurance companies and rejoicing their own widows and orphans. Blacksmiths are legion, but they stick with commendable tenacity to old '49 charges. They will set a figure on a completed job, and if paid cash down will proceed to abuse their wives and bewail their own imbecility for a month afterwards for not charging more.

PROSPECTING

Is about suspended for the season, so that the many little wild-cat locations wedged in and around claims of real merit may preserve their reputations for the time being. When the indomitable prospector shall have replenished his exhausted haversack, recuperated his constitution and given the faro games a shake and taken a copious draught or two of water, then may we know that Spring has come, with the usual recording of new claims, litigation and all that. The new field that will attract attention is in the vicinity of the placer diggings at Dogtown. That point is undoubtedly a break or the tail end of the rich mineral belt of Bodie. An

ELECTION

For Mining Recorder of this District is to take place on the 1st proximo. Some four or five Richmonds will will enter for the contest—each patronizing the print shop to the extent of posters, dodgers, tickets, etc.

MAIL IRREGULARITIES.

Clugage is a popular stage man, so the papers invariably tell us; but there are many little discrepancies, one of which is instead of delivering the mail on schedule time he would put in an appearance haphazard from 9 o'clock A. M. to 2 o'clock P. M. The abuse was noted by the citizens and the Postmaster General appealed to. It had the desired effect at once, for the stage arrivals have been pretty regular ever since. John Allman has started his new line via Mason's Valley to Virginia City. It will be a success, provided "the old man" don't kick and indulge in absurd fancies, as is his wont. The people of Mason's Valley will be pleased with the arrangement for they have quite an important settlement. They furnish barley and other products to a number of important camps, and are to Aurora and Bodie as Bishop Creek is to Benton and Belleville. The mail is still carried tri-weekly to Bridgeport by the Pioneer Company, although the contract is not awarded yet. A Wells, Fargo & Co. express office will be established soon at the county seat—a luxury the people of hay-seed and butter never enjoyed before.

A FEW SUNDRIES.

No light on the land office business as yet, except that H Z. Osborne is duly installed as Receiver. Judge Briggs is now at his old home in Jackson, his health being very much shattered. No business will be transacted until his return. There will be a large delinquent tax list this year in Mono county. The Board of Supervisors met last week and awarded the publishing of the list to the Alpine Chronicle, a new weekly paper recently started in Bodie. The Chronicle will have a heavy contract, if it survives at all, for how can an interior paper live decently and do good work at Sacramento rates? I wish it success, but must be allowed to criticise the poor, worn out material, bad work and countryfied make-up. The Standard has enlargd both its daily and weekly, and will soon put in a cylinder press.

Christmas passed rather quietly for Bodie—not more than forty drunks could be seen at a time. But few arrests were made, however, for there is a system even in getting drunk.

Ned Foster, it is reported, will start a theater this Winter in Bodie. Theaters are well patronized here. Divine services are held at the Miner's Union hall frequently, and are well attended.

Wishing you and all Inyo friends an ugly New Year and continued happiness and prosperity for the remainder of the year, I will not write again till 1879.

INNOCENT.

MRS. MARY WILSON, a teacher in Indianapolis and a sister of Mrs. Senator Bruce, said the other day concerning that sister: "She is fairer than either of us; her complexion is as fair as a Spaniard's. She is as fair as father—mother is a little darker. You wouldn't know that my sister had a drop of African blood in her veins. She is very talented; her accomplishments are practical, though. She received a thorough English education, and is a capable teacher. I don't know how they will treat her in Washington, but I do know how she was treated in Cleveland, and what she deserves in her new home. She is so good and gentle that I am sure she will be liked before she leaves the Capital."

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:

Suicide of John B. Rowley.

It is with a feeling of great sadness that we have to record the death, by his own act, of our late Postmaster, John Berlin Rowley. It has been generally known for months past that Mr. Rowley was in poor health; that his nerves were very much shaken up. In consequence of this, he had for a year or two past indulged considerably in drink, so much so at times as to unfit him for the proper discharge of his official duties. For many years past he has remained continuously in his office, in connection with which he also did a small merchandising business. His duties in connection with the mails were such that during all these long years it is doubtful if he ever had a single night of unbroken rest, save on those rare occasional nights when no mails were received or dispatched. Though thus confined to the routine of business day in and day out, there never was except for brief moments business of any kind sufficient to entirely occupy his mind or to give needed bodily exercise. His business as storekeeper became less and less prosperous. What more natural than his mind should settle into a morbid condition, that his nerves for lack of proper exercise should become so unstrung as to compel him to seek relief in stimulants? And more certain still, that this recourse should so aggravate his mental and physical disorders as to eventually lead him to think life too great a burden to bear? Though his sad demise through his own act could but cause surprise as well as great sorrow on the part of all intimate friends, there is after all, considering the conditions of his case, no substantial reason for surprise. Deceased was a man of fine sensibilities, and his confessed inability to amend his own habits degraded him in his own heart. Near friends had told him that his own life, self-respect and well-being in every particular demanded that he should quit his sedentary mode of living and seek more active pursuits. Further, that if he did not do so of his own volition, his best friends would seek to have him removed from office, though he had well and faithfully performed its almost thankless duties for full thirteen years—with but a short intermission in '70, from the day the first postoffice was established in the county. And he admitted both the necessity and propriety of such action. Nevertheless, when made acquainted with the fact that steps were being taken to effect his removal, he was touched and humiliated to a painful degree, though well aware that no man had impeached his intregity in the slightest degree or questioned his capacity to fulfill the office when at himself. Its weight, however, was too much for his sensitive but weakened mind to bear, and no doubt exists but that he deliberately resolved upon suicide as his only hope of relief. Yet up to the last moment, and in all probability in the full consciousness that death was momentarily closing around him, his chief thought and care was that his official duties should be attended to; his very last words were in relation thereto.

No better hearted or more exemplary man, save in this one weakness, could be found than John B. Rowley. He became his own only enemy, and that through the peculiar forces we have endeavored to describe. Had he, but a year or two ago, adopted a more active calling he would never have committed this last great crime against himself, nor would the mention of his own shortcoming and the causes that led to it have become his best apology to friends left behind. Truly, it is a most saddening affair, and one that causes a community to mourn. The deceased left no family, and so far as is known no relatives on this coast.

The substance of the inquiry as to the cause of death is given in another article. It only remains to add that yesterday the mortal remains of John B. Rowley were consigned to their last resting place in the Post Cemetery, to which they were attended by a large concourse. Very appropriately, the following Inyo pioneers and old-time friends of the deceased acted as pall-bearers: T. F. A. Connelly, W. A. Greenley, Thomas May, Joseph Fernbach, James Shepherd, Wm. L. Moore, J. L. Wood and Geo. W. Brady. Hon. S. P. Moffat, another of Inyo's oldest citizens, read the Episcopal burial service in the most feeling and impressive manner.

A GENEROUS GIFT.—Some weeks ago, a mention of which pleasing fact was prepared at the time but somehow failed to get into print, Isaac Harris, Esq., of the well-known firm of Harris & Rhine, deeded to John Viel a one-sixth interest in the Masonic Hall property at this place, being the donor's entire ownership therein. Its worth to the unfortunate Viel will be about four dollars per month, and this with the $30 per month provided for him by the Masonic fraternity, at present constitute the blind man's resources.

AGREEABLE.—The weather was unusually stormy during the first of the week, and looks forboding to-day. Nevertheless it has been agreeable notwithstanding its disagreeableness, inasmuch as quite a large amount of snow has fallen to relieve apprehensions of drought.

COUPONS PAID.—The annual interest on the Inyo county bonded indebtedness, amounting to $3,100, was paid by County Treasurer Isaacs on the 2d instant, upon presentation of the coupons.

CHUFAS.—See Bell's advertisements of chufas and alfalfa seed for sale. A description of the former will be given next week, which will prove interesting to our farming patrons.

MEETING.—The stated meeting for January of Inyo Lodge, F. & A. M., will be held at the hall to-night.

The Inquisition.

On Thursday, January 2, Coroner J. A. Lank held an inquest upon the body of John B. Rowley, Postmaster at this Independence office, and who was found that morning dead in his bed in the Postoffice building, his usual place of business.

A jury, as follows, was sworn: H. T. Walker, J. D. Mairs, John Willett, J. N. Rose, J. A. Shoemaker and W. F. Matlack.

The verdict adduced was that deceased was named John B. Rowley, that he was a native of the State of New York, aged between 45 and 50 years, and finally, that he came to his death at the time and place stated through the effects of a dose of morphine administered the previous evening by his own hand, and with suicidal intent.

In substance the sworn testimony is as follows: Jos. Seeley, County Surveyor, called in the office on the evening of the 1st; deceased requested him to come and change the mail for him; also to stay all night, adding that this would probably be the last time he should thus trouble witness. When asked for an explanation of this, the reply, after some moment's hesitation, was that he had taken some morphine to quiet his nerves; that if he could not quit drinking, as he had vainly been trying to do, he would sooner leave the world than to live as he had been living. Witness proposed to call the doctor, to which deceased willingly assented. Accordingly, Dr. Blair came, this being about 9 o'clock, and probably over an hour after the narcotic had been taken. When the doctor arrived deceased was up attending to mail matters behind the counter. In response to the inquiries, deceased said he had taken all of a certain quantity of morphine he had bought of the doctor on the Sunday preceding; that, as he could not stop drinking, he would put a stop to himself; that Seeley wanted him to take an antidote, and that he would do so. It further appeared in the doctor's testimony that deceased had procured four grains of the drug, stating at the time that it was to fill a mail order from up country, not stating from whom. The doctor then went to Dr. Bicknell's office to obtain a stomach pump, but as Dr. Bicknell was out of town, failed to get one, so returned and administered an emetic composed of 15 grains sulphate of zinc, followed by copious draughts of tepid water, and constant walking exercise. This seemed to produce all required effect; he returned to his office for a short time; coming back about half past 10, found deceased up and reeling about as a drunken man; deceased wanted to know if the stage was in, and went to the front door with the doctor to look for its light. Subsequently, perhaps half an hour later, deceased, then sitting in his chair in the back room, inquired if the mail had come, and being answered in the affirmative, proposed to go and distribute it. The doctor and Mr. Seeley, who were the only persons present during the night, attended to the mail. A little after 12 the doctor, believing all immediate danger past, went home. Mr. Seeley, though himself quite unwell, remained, and according to instructions, kept the patient moving as much as possible, and did not permit him to go to bed till near 3 o'clock; spoke to him about every thirty minutes till about 5 in the morning; deceased at times was exceedingly sick at the stomach; once, when rising from his chair, he fell to the floor, but said he would be all right after a sleep. At 6 deceased proposed to get up and deliver the mail, the stage having driven up, desiring Mr. S. to lie down and get some sleep. He was told to lie still. Shortly after 7, Mr. S., having been absent a few minutes for his own breakfast, procured some at Fromm's restaurant for deceased, but of which the latter partook of but a little coffee; he then said if Seeley would see to the office, he would sleep a little while. Half an hour later the doctor went to his bed only to find him in the sleep that knows no waking. He had passed away, all alone, without a struggle.

CERRO GORDO.—Through a note from the Hill to an old Cerro Gordoite now located in town, we glean the following items concerning that auriferous and elevated region: On the 1st the snow had fallen to a depth of four inches; was still falling and if it continued they calculated to have some. Mr. V. Beaudry and M. W. Belshaw were expected soon. [We are in hopes that this particular expectation may be realized by the denizens of Buena Vista Hill, more especially as many old friends there and hereabouts would be glad to shake paws again with the genial Beaudry.] There was nothing new to mention in the Union. Mr. Ely, of Raymond & Ely fame, has been there for the past two weeks looking at the mines, and stated that he had never seen anywhere so much rich ore in one country as in Inyo. We are permitted to quote the remaining portions of the letter, as follows: "Elutario and Rafael Diaz are now working the San Lucas mine; have four men employed extracting good ore. Messrs. Evans and Jackson, with Mr. Pat Clinton, are working the Ygnacio. They are still sinking the main shaft, and while the ledge increases in size the ore becomes richer. They are continually adding wealth to the large pile of ore now on the dump. * * We had, on Christmas night, a ball in Duval's hall. A dozen couples were in attendance, besides several old 'bach's.' All went home saying they never had a better time in Cerro Gordo. Our old friend Squire Henning has had no cases as yet, but for the kind advice of a friend he would have had one to-day—a case of slander or slaughter, I don't know which. * * Well, friend K—, wishing you a happy new year, I will go and take a drink of water. But, upon mature deliberation and second thought, it might freeze—so I will do as the rest of the boys and take benzine."

BULLION.—The Emigrant mill, on Christmas day, shipped 94 pounds of silver bullion, 990 fine—with compliments of the season.

LETTER FROM BENTON.

BENTON, Dec. 31.

MESSRS. EDITORS—Madam Snow has asserted her right to appear before the old year expires, and accordingly came upon the scene of action last night; this morning she is making a handsome display by draping the trees and shrubs in the purest of white. Having completed her decorations in the mountains, which now show a picture of cold grandeur, she has come to the valley to "do us all the same."

1878,

Reposing upon the lap of the downy earth, is passing away without a struggle. For well she knows that the time allotted for her to live will in a few hours be past and gone, never more to return. Yet Time can look back upon the past and count by scores the important events of her life, and say "Who can tell what 1879 may bring forth?" But just before '78 expires there occurs a social event well worthy of record—a union of the hearts and hands of two of California's fairest youth. Wm. Adams, Jr., was united in matrimony to Miss Annie C. Yaney, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. I. P. Yaney, the Rev. Mr. Hinkle, of Bodie, officiating. At 1 o'clock P. M. the snow was falling gently as a vapor, when a goodly number of guests entered the residence of Mr. Yaney to witness the solemnization of the marriage ceremony. The bride was most handsomely dressed in white Swiss, trimmed with boquets of orange flowers, while the groom was arrayed in the conventional black. Both passed the ordeal with a gentle and truly becoming diginity. After the ceremony and the usual congratulations had been passed, Mrs. Yaney, the hostess, threw open the doors of the dining room, where the tables were loaded with everything toothsome and delicious, of which the guests partook with complete relish and satisfaction—full twelve baskets of the choicest fragments remaining. After a few hours in social conversation, Mr. and Mrs. Adams took their departure for the Indian Queen mine and mill, which is under the superintendency of Mr. A., and where the bride will in future so gracefully preside over the Indian Queen mansion. Your correspondent, being of a dusky hue, obtained a favorable view, unobserved, from the window, among the other Piutes. To-night

A SOCIAL DANCE

Will be given at the Partzwick Hotel, where all are invited to stand in and trip the light fantastic to the music of Parker's string band, and then as the new year ushers in repair to Mrs. Harbin's and there devour the toothsome provisions piled up in profusion—and so forth and so on, etc.

MINING.

Mr. J. B. Badger recently returned from San Francisco, where he made an amicable settlement with the defunct Comanche M. & M. Company, and states that if a settlement can be accomplished with all the creditors that the company will soon resume operations, and Benton will be itself once more. The Diana mill has been crushing some very rich ore from the Laura and Modock mines, and that helps a little. The Mammoth M. & M. Co., at Lake District, under the superintendency of Jim Cross, is running the mill to its full capacity, with very satisfactory results and without sorting the ore. Supt. Adams, of the Indian Queen, announces his intention to provide the bullion for another dividend on the 1st of the coming month or soon thereafter, although he is laboring under a great many difficulties at this time of the year because of the high altitude. Morris Burke lately returned from San Francisco, where he incorporated the East Mammoth mine. Burke is operating with some of the best men of the city, who propose to spend considerable money prospecting the mine for their interest. Burke is superintendent of the East Mammoth and will probably have charge of one or two other mines in Lake District.

INTERESTING TO EDITORS.

Brother Barnes, editor and proprietor of the defunct Columbus Miner, proposes to come to Benton and resurrect it under the name of the "Silver Age" or "Golden Era," or some other calculated to excite the anxious miner and cause him to come this way. I verily believe that if Barnes can make a living here in these times he ought to get wealthy ordinarily. We all promise to help.

PERSONAL.

Mr. P. W. Bennett was here last week. He and L. E. Tubbs have taken numerous claims and filed many liens for laboring men on the Comanche property, of which they propose to collect 100 per cent on the dollar. Messrs. Creaser & Millner have just received a large stock of groceries, liquor and tobacco. Mr. Tubbs goes to Bridgeport to attend a term of Court, and from there to Nevada county, on some legal business. The Mammoth Company now carry the mail between this place and Mammoth City. W. H. Morris has gone to San Francisco on mining business. The genial Harry Wright, of Taboose, was in town yesterday. Mrs. Sneden, of Bishop Caeek, is visiting friends here. Mr. Rice, of Mammoth City, passed through en route for Bakersfield. He proposes to stock Owens river with cat, trout and other fish, if the good people will pay him for it. This story is not too fishy, for Mr. Rice does as he agrees to.

SAXE.

NEW ESTABLISHMENT. — Elsewhere, this week, will be noted the advertisement of a new mercantile institution at Bishop Creek. Al. Briggs, the proprietor, is an old Inyoite too well and favorably known from Round Valley to Panamint to require any special mention on our part. We understand that his stock is complete and specially adapted to the wants of the upper country.

DEAN STANLEY says that American newspapers are not veracious. Somebody has been telling on us.

THE Virginia Chronicle advocates the organization of a stock board on the Comstock.

LEFT US. — Hess Yaney, who has been with this papar most of the time almost from its "bornin'," returned to his home, at Benton, just before Christmas, and with the view of engaging in some line of business that will afford a tittle less expeditious mode of starving to death than printing—and in which hope we wish him the highest success, and good fortune in all his undertakings.

THE DYING MOTHER.

FOR "THE INYO," BY BERYL STAR.

I am dying, husband, dying;
My spirit is slipping away,
And though I've longed for death
I find myself wishing to stay—
To stay for you and the babies.
My babies so tender and coy,
For the world has many a snare
For the feet of a motherless boy.

O, God! look down on the babies,
Whose mother is dying to-night,
For the voice that now is pleading for them
Will be hush'd ere the morning's light.
O, heaven! be kind to my babies:
I must plead for them while I may,
For the lips that now are speaking
Will to-morrow be silent clay.

You need not weep for me, husband,
For I do not fear to die.
Nor do I care for my own slight pain,
'Tis for you and the babies I cry.
O! promise me one thing: husband—
You've been a father tender and true—
O, say you will be kind to our boys,
No matter what they may do.

For you know that without a mother
Our boys may be led astray;
Help them back from the haunts of sin,
And show them the heavenly way.
The angel of death is waiting,
I am going, but do not weep;
Nor do not wake my babies,
But let them quietly sleep.

And tell them in the morning,
When my spirit has passed away,
That their mother has gone with God
And the beautiful angels to stay.
For the babies' hearts are so tender
It would almost break them to know
That the mother who worshipped her boys
Was buried under the snow.

For a while you will miss me, husband,
And perhaps will long for my face;
But Time will heal your sorrow,
And another will fill my place.
Not so with my motherless babies,
For in their hearts, I know,
No other can ever fill the place
Of the one under the snow.

And so I weep for my babies;
They'll miss me far more than you,
For I know that they to a mother's love
Will ever be tender and true:
While you—well, 'tis the way of the world,
And a man is a man, I know,
And I could not expect you to often think
Of the dead wife under the snow.

THE London Times, in its financial summary for 1878, says: Industries have been disorganized, credit shaken and failures multiplied on every hand. The failures will be nearly 5,000 more than during the last year. Not only have wages been reduced and many thousands of artisans thrown out of employment, but many thousands of these, above the artisan class, are either in actual want or on the confines of it. The increasing numbers driven to grant bills of sale on their effects is one significant proof of what is going on in the ranks of the lower or middle classes.

THE railroad graders will work pretty near to the old Oroville ruins. They may be lucky enough to find two yeast-powder cans full of gold dust, which were left there in 1872 by old Gardner. He buried the gold near the old house while he was drunk, and never could find it again after he got sober. Gardner mined there and kept boarders in 1858. He made quite a raise and went off. Eight years ago he came back, and after a few year's work he went off again, with considerable gold, besides having dissipated a great deal here in Yuma.—Yuma Sentinel.

THE advocates of the Texas Pacific Railroad bill say that they have made a careful canvass of the House and Senate, and find a majority of seven in the House and six in the Senate in favor of the bill. Speaker Randall, it is claimed, has given a promise to help the measure in the House.

"VARIETY," remarked the West Hill woman who put thirty-two ingredients into her mince-pies, "variety is the pies of life."

So close is the sympathy between Night and Day, that after one falls the other breaks.

The Chufa, or Earth Almond.

An article that appeared in a recent number of the Sun, on the cultivation of the chufa, or earth almond, seems to have attracted unusual attention. As stated in the article referred to, the chufa was introduced into the United States some twenty-five years ago, tubers having been imported from Spain by the Agricultural Department, and distributed quite extensively; but so little was known of the nature of this plant by those who received tubers that the greater part of the stock was lost through exposure to frosts in Winter. And we will observe here that the chufa (cyperus esculentus), although closely allied to the coco, or nut-grass (cyperus hydra) of the Southern States, is a far more delicate plant, and soon perishes if exposed to frost or any considerable amount of moisture when in its dormant state; consequently, there need be no fear of its ever becoming a pest like its near relative, the coco grass.

The chufa is a low-growing, grass-like plant belonging to the sedge family, and consisting of small rush-like herbs, usually called grasses, although they are quite distinct from the gramineæ. The leaves are slender, erect, and about eighteen inches long, rather coarse and woody, but while young and in succulent condition, are eaten by cattle. The plants are not known to have produced flower stems or seed in the Northern States, although they may have done so in the South. They multiply by offsets; starting from the tubers planted, roots shoot out in all directions; from these leaves push upward, and at the base of each a tuber is formed. The increase is so rapid that from one tuber planted in Spring five hundred to a thousand or more may be gathered in autumn.

The tubers lie close to the surface, seldom penetrating deeper than three inches, and a clump may be pulled up with every tuber adhering to the leaf-stalks by a very slender thread-like root.

The tubers are about one inch long and half an inch in diameter, oval and slightly rough, and the skin is of a light yellow color. The flesh is very white and firm, but brittle, containing a sweet, milky juice, somewhat resembling chestnut in taste. Tubers shrivel considerably in drying, and become hard and firm, but not leathery like a dried potato.

Chufas succeed best in light, rather dry soils, and even grow luxuriantly in poor sandy land; but the yield will be greater if the soil is rich and in good condition generally. The tubers should be planted in drills about three feet apart, dropping one every eighteen inches or less in the row, and covering them about an inch deep or a little more. It is not well to plant too early in the Spring, especially in the Northern States, for long, cold rains are likely to cause the tubers to rot in the ground. About the time of planting corn, or a few days earlier, will be the proper season, whether in the North or South. As soon as the small grass-like shoots appear, run a cultivator between the rows and dress out with a hoe. The ground should be kept level; to bank up a hilling would not only be useless but probably quite injurious, as the roots spread laterally and in all directions. When the plants become well established they will usually require no further attention during the season, unless the land is infested with large and coarse kind of weeds.

If the tubers are dropped three feet by one and a half, it will require 9,680 to an acre, or, to use round numbers, we will say 10,000. Now a bushel of the freshly gathered tubers contains 30,000, and when shriveled (as they will be in the Spring at the time of planting) not far from 37,000; consequently a half-bushel will be an abundance for seeding an acre, even if two tubers are occasionally dropped together, as may frequently be desirable in case they are small or slightly damaged. From this our readers can see that planting an acre of chufas will not cost any more, if as much, for seed than an acre of potatoes, unless the price of the former should advance above the figures at which they have been sold during the last few years. About 1,000 of the dry tubers weigh a pound, and this information may be of use to those ordering seeds.

We do not think any one will care to raise chufas with the expectation of gathering them to feed out to stock, for the cost of harvesting such small tubers would make them rather expensive, at least, require more time than the ordinary farmer has to spare. The few tubers for seed the ensuing year may be gathered by hand, or the clumbs of roots thrown upon a coarse sieve, such as is used by masons for sifting sand, and the fine soil will pass through, leaving the tubers comparatively clean. The importance of planting the chufa upon light, dry soil will be apparent at the time of gathering the seed, for if they are grown in a heavy, sticky, clay soil, to separate the tubers from it will be no easy task.

After the requisite quantity of tubers are gathered, the hogs may be turned in to harvest the bulk of the crop. The amount of exercise required to root out the tubers is just about enough to keep swine healthy; and their droppings and the thorough mixing of the soil will leave it in first-rate condition for the next crop, whatever it may be. Sheep will also dig out the tubers, but not so thoroughly as hogs; and if the soil is somewhat firm and sticky, they soon get tired of such food.

The yield is so enormous and the crop so easily raised, there appears to be no good reason why any farmer who keeps hogs should not avail himself of so valuable a plant.—New York Sun.

Agricultural Brevities.

There is nothing a farmer pays so dearly for as negligence.

Labor has more conquests and monuments than any power agency on earth.

A good gate will save its cost in a short time.

A complete farmer, out of debt, is a character to be envied just at this time.

Let the rich and indolent recollect that all luxuries are the result and product of labor.

Change of feed for horses from dry to green, and vice versa, should be gradual and carefully watched.

On the genuine farm, flowers and vines in great abundance please the senses, educate the taste and tends to purify the soul.

It requires no less brains to manage successfully a farm than it does an extensive mercantile business.

Brain-work comes into play on the farm to as much advantage as in any other department of industry.

Some do not understand what is meant by "scientific farming." It is simply "truth ascertained."

The farmer's capital is well tilled fields, good horses, cows, sheep, personal health and strength, good tools and machinery.

Hogs are cheap; but with good clover pasture and constant attention, pork can be produced more cheaply than other flesh.

The good farmer looketh well to the title to his farm that his children may not become outcasts.

The farmer stands close to nature. He receives direct from her hands the bread and meat of the world.

"Farming won't pay," says the farmer who spends half his time loafing about town instead of attending to his crops and stock.

Bromine is a good application to make in case of poison by poison-ivy or oak. Fifteen drops of bromine to one ounce of olive oil.

One of the farmer's important missions, when the hogs have the range of the farm in the Fall and Winter, is to keep the fences about the stacks, house, lawn and garden in perfect repair.

Let every farmer treat his cows honestly, and require of them an equal return. Any cow which will not make 250 pounds of butter a year should at once be fattened and sold for beef.

A cave dug in a side hill or in a sand bank is a better place to keep potatoes during the Winter than any cellar or warehouse. They retain their natural volume and virtues in such a situation. —Des Moines Register.

ALF CHARTZ.—A reporter of the Reno Gazette visited the Nevada State Prison at Carson recently. Among other things he has the following: "The reporter met Alf. Chartz, formerly proprietor of the Eureka Republican, who shot and killed a railroad conductor last June at a meeting resulting from a grossly insulting letter concerning some playful paragraphs in the paper. He is under life sentence. Mr. Chartz is steward of the prison and is well treated. He studies phonography in his leisure time. His young wife is still at Eureka, supporting herself and her infant child with her needle. Chartz has never seen his first-born, his wife being too poor to bear the expense of a journey to Carson. He says that he is confident the people of Eureka, among whom he had lived and worked for eight years and earned a high character, will do him justice in time. What with work, reading, writing and study, he succeeds in making the time pass less tediously than he had supposed possible. It is a fearful fate for a man of his intelligence and refinement of feeling, but he bears it with the cheerful fortitude of a brave man.

EFFECT OF QUININE ON THE HEARING. It is a well known fact to medical men that there exists a great prejudice among a large number of people against taking quinine, the idea being very prevalent that a prolonged use of it not only affects the hearing, but (to use the common expression) that it "gets in the bones." As regards the former belief, Dr. Roosa, of New York, has been collecting and examining the evidence as far as possible, and has come to the conclusion that in some cases there really is a permanent nervous affection of the ear produced which justifies common opinion. Hitherto physicians have generally disbelieved this, and ascribed the notion to prejudice.

A MANUFACTORY of paper bricks has been opened somewhere in Wisconsin. The bricks are said to be exceedingly durable and moisture proof. They are also larger than the clay article. Paper is also used for making barrels. Straw pulp is run into a mould made in the shape of a half barrel, cut vertically. The ends are of paper, but are protected by wood. The barrels are lighter and two-thirds cheaper than those of wood, and flour will not sift out of them while in transit. The staves are three-eighths of an inch thick.

THE humanities of outside convict labor have a startling illustration in Virginia, where it appears from the surgeon's report that out of 350 convicts hired to the James River and Kanawha Canal Company, thirty-two died from exposure and bad treatment —a percentage of mortality four times as great as that inside the penitentiary. A committee has been appointed by the General Assembly to investigate the matter.

THE Philadelphia courts have decided that a person in point of law is at the age of twenty-one the day before the twenty-first anniversary of his birthday.

SATURDAY, JANUARY 11.....1879

RESUMPTION.

One of our statesmen said "the way to effect resumption is to resume." He was quite right, it seems. Lots of overwise politicians vehemently maintained that if this beneficent Government undertook to pay all demands in hard cash so soon as January 1, A. D. 1879, there would happen such a tremendous financial crash as would shake us from center to circumference—as would make even the impecunious tramps stand aghast. Fog-Horn Allen and plenty of other Greenbackers harped on this string so pertinaciously, and so loud withal, quite a large number of very well meaning people looked forward to January 1, 1879, in pretty much the same spirit the Millerites waited for the day fixed by Mr. Miller, the Prophet, when this round world and all it contained was to "go up the flume" together. The dispatches don't specifically state that old Fog-Horn and others of a similar gloomy turn of mind had actually prepared their ascension robes ready for this woeful day when everything must go up; but it is fair to presume they were so prepared, judging from their efforts to repeal the Resumption Act, and the lugubriousness of their prognostics generally. It is recorded, anyway, that very many looked for a grand movement, some general financial convulsion, on resumption day. Owing to those dismal prophecies, and also, the fact that the question of government finance is conceded to be the most abstruse that ever worried the real statesman, yet became the main stock in trade of the small politician, this apprehension was quite natural. Besides that, it is well known that John Sherman has peculiar idiosyncracies, if nothing worse, consequently it was inferred he did not how to resume. It turns out, however, that he did; that he knew or suspected that the only way to resume was to resume, and that in all respects save a formal announcement resumption had actually taken place some time prior to January 1, 1879, the day fixed by law. So formal resumption did not create even a ripple anywhere on the broad ocean of finance. Such being the case, we suspect Mr. William Allen and other rag-baby dry nurses, are beginning to pull off their long ascension shirts, with which all were provided long ago, in about the same spirit of astonishment in which William Miller's followers doffed theirs that bright May morning in '43 as they got down from the trees and fences to go to work again, not having heard a single toot from Gabriel's horn the whole night through. In this last matter, though, we have the percentage of the Millerites, for our our Greenback Gabriel has been tooting his fog-horn right along up to the appointed day; but, it now seems, without sufficient provocation. Perhaps his stentorian toots were merely to herald the beginning of the golden era, not a time of tribulation.

THE Alpine Chronicle is now published at Bodie under the title of the "Mono Alpine Chronicle." It certainly has our best wishes for its success, for which the chances ought to be first-rate in its new and flourishing location. But if it hopes to keep up with the times and its bright looking neighbor, the Standard, it will have to spruce up somewhat in dress and style, and get out of that pictorial business, which don't become any but a country paper back in the States. No offense intended by this—quite the contrary.

THE Christmas number of the San Francisco Spirit of the Times, received last week, does Boruck, his office and the State great credit. It contains thirty large illustrated pages, devoted to public men, including a number of our prominent preachers, noted places, buildings, a map of the coast, etc. Its form is not a convenient one to handle, otherwise it would be just the thing for the book table.

OUR thanks are due the San Francisco Alta for a copy of its highly valued almanac and book of facts for 1879. It is just such a work as every business and professional man should have at hand for reference in regard to the statu quo of officers of both the General and State Governments, and of the military of this Department, postal matters and everything of that sort. Price, 30 cents per copy.

THE New Year's edition of the Sacramento Record-Union, though largely devoted to the affairs of its own city and county, gives valuable statistics and other interesting information relating to about every locality in the State. It is a work of decided value to keep for future reference.

A Scene in the Convention.

A lively correspondent of the San Francisco Post gives a graphic account of what took place in the Convention when Dowling rose to a question of privilege, growing out of his expulsion from the Workingman's Constitutional Club, because he voted contrary to its dictum in the choice of a new member to fill a vacant seat in the Convention. That part in which our delegate, Mr. Reddy, figured so characteristically will possess local interest; the whole would be worth reproduction, were our space not so limited. Introducing Mr. Wyatt the correspondent says:

This gentleman is about six feet six inches in hight. He is of a ruddy countenance, full of humor, kindness and work. He always carries weight by his strong common sense. He is one of those men who impress you by being fair and just. The Workingmen would do well to make him a judge of some court, and I imagine they have few men better qualified for a position of that kind. He said: "As I figure at the tail end of this farce now being acted before the people, I ought to be permitted to speak. I have nothing personal against Messrs. Vacquerel and Dowling. We have a club for consultation and organization. In that club we determine upon action and hold one another to the principles upon which we were elected. Both these gentlemen went back on us, and I for one wanted nothing more to do with them. I voted for their expulsion and would do so again. If the Delegates desire to fire me out let them do so."

Mr. Reddy then took up the case. Mr. Reddy is a strong, vigorous, handsome man, who seems ever ready to do battle when necessary. He has an empty sleeve and a broad scar on his forehead. A bolder and braver man is not to be found in the Convention. It is not safe for any man to cross swords with him. He knows how to put his points in a telling way, and he never hesitates in pursuing his selected course. I know of no man in the Convention who would be more effective as a stump speaker in a political campaign.

He said: "If the chair decides that a case has been made the Convention ought at once to protect its members. Let the question be settled whether members are to be hooted at on account of their votes. Stand up like men and protect your dignity. If there is anything doubtful, let it be tried. Two members have been punished for casting their votes. If the Convention is to be run by voluntary clubs we had better adjourn. The people will reject any Constitution that may be the offspring of slaves. A principle is involved, and I came here to do right. Intimidation has been attempted, and it is a question of privilege."

Barbour.—Did you not make out the papers for your client, Mr. Dowling?

Reddy.—He is not my client. I assisted him in preparing his papers, and would do the same for any other man.

West.—I desire to explain.

Reddy.—You will have an opportunity to explain if you are called to the bar.

Reynolds.—Mr. Dowling says he has repudiated the caucus. Since when? Has he not participated in that caucus?

Dowling.—I have declared the Constitutional Club to be a humbug ever since it was established.

Reynolds.—You attended its meetings.

By this time the excitement became very intense, and every member of the Workingman's party was worked up to a white heat. They evidently expected some unfriendly action by the Non-Partisans. Mr. Reynolds then declared that Mr. Dowling had been guilty of a deliberate falsehood, and the President called him to order.

Mr. West then arose and demanded an investigation.

The President called upon those in favor of an indefinite postponement to arise, and the Workingmen and others arose.

Reddy.—Mr. President, I deny the right of those charged with contempt to vote.

The Chair.—According to all parliamentary usage they have no right to vote.

"Yeas and nays!" Rap, rap. "What's the question, Mr. President?" Rap, rap.

Barbour.—Have I a right to vote?.

The Chair.—No.

Each moment added to the excitement of the members of the Constitutional Club and to the serenity of the Non-Partisans.

Larkin.—Read the names, so we that we may know who cannot vote.

Barbour.—I appeal from the decision of the chair.

At this moment a dozen men rose in their places.

Beerstecher.—I object to the vote of Reddy, who is Dowling's attorney.

Rap, rap!

Barbour.—I appeal.

The Chair.—An appeal cannot be taken while a vote is being taken.

Reynolds.—Mr. President, I understand——

Barbour.—I wish to enter a protest upon the journal.

Edgerton moved to make the subject the special order for the 4th of July. The Convention laughed, and everybody settled down to absolute quietness.

Fifty-three voted for postponement and twenty-one against.

BODIE has been considerably excited in regard to a matter of land title covering a portion of the town site, and many of the principal mines. The point at issue is whether the State can obtain and give title to a school (16th or 36th) section when it happens to fall upon mineral lands as in this case. The local papers assert that this adverse claim, which is based on the State's title to the school section, is a blackmailing affair, having no existence in fact. Such may prove to be the case; otherwise, if facts are as stated, this new claim is going to cause trouble. The details will be worth a review next issue, unless it should in the meantime appear that the adverse claim is a humbug.

WE are constrained to say that we believe the Virginia Chronicle, Bodie Standard and some other papers are accusing the Eureka Sentinel most unjustly as to its position in this Alf. Chartz matter. Anyway, for reasons not necessary here to give, we from the first down to the present have scanned the Sentinel closely with the express view of ascertaining if it did maliciously condemn or persecute its old time employé. We have yet to see the first word editorially expressed that could be so construed. At least, its expressions of opinion if any as to the merits of the case prior to and during the trial were certainly never such as to justify the widely published allegation that "Chartz's case was materially prejudiced by the efforts of the rival paper." The Sentinel gave a plain statement of what took place at the time of the fatal affair, a full transcript of the testimony given at the trial, fully corroborating that statement, but refraining at all times from comments of any character—a forbearance that was made a subject of remark in this office, as well as its most touching account of the prisoner's departure for his death-like imprisonment. We were shocked at Chartz's bloody deed, but far more so at the severity of his sentence, which, in effect, was a worse murder—blacker—than his own hasty act because it was deliberate and cold blooded, though done in the name of the law. In that belief we would, if circumstances required, aid in this effort to obtain Chartz's pardon, and in which our contemporaries above named have our hearty good will.

IT is understood that there is a division of sentiment in the Cabinet upon the Chinese question, some members favoring a modification of the treaty by which the number of immigrants from China may be limited. It is known that the Chinese Government will resist any offer to modify the treaty, but will not formally object to its abrogation should the United States insist upon that course. The Secretary of State is to open an immediate correspondence upon the subject.

DEMOCRATS have published a list of the members of the next House, which, they claim, gives them a majority of from six to ten, excluding both Nationals and the members to be elected from California. The Republicans claim that the majority is much less than these figures. It looks strange that such a simple question of politics and arithmetic cannot be accurately determined by those who make a study of it.

CIRCULATION is given to the rumor that Tilden has personally intimated to Representative Potter that he desires to appear before the Potter Committee and tell what he knows about the cipher dispatches. The story finds many believers in Democratic quarters, where the opinion is expressed that unless Tilden does so he must accept the verdict that he knew all about improper attempts to purchase electoral votes.

PAUL BENNETT, Esq., came in from Bridgeport last Saturday evening, and returned to that place yesterday. The firm (Bennett & Hetzel) have some very important law cases on hand, the importance of which will soon be known to the public.—Bodie Standard, Jan. 6.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:
SATURDAY, JANUARY 11.....1879

THE MODOCK.—Early last week we received a call from Mr. Chas. Barber, Superintendent of the Modock; this being his first visit, we feel constrained to say he is a very genial gentleman, and no question but the encomiums upon his sensible, practical system of managing the affairs of the valuable property under his charge are well deserved. He informed us that the power drill had got into soft ground, in which it did not make quite as rapid progress as in harder rock where the concussion of the drill would more perfectly clear the hole of dust. Nevertheless, fair progress in the tunnel was being made, and never at such comparatively small cost in all departments as here of late—a result due in good part to an improved system generally, as well as in the use of improved machinery, particularly this drill, which is a great institution itself. Week before last the total length of tunnel was 830 feet, and each week adds from 43 to 50 feet to its length. This tunnel constitutes the 1,000-foot level, and in about 250 feet further, will reach the vertical line and point of connection with the shaft. At the time mentioned the shaft was down a little over 200 feet. Within four or five weeks, according to indications in both tunnel and shaft, especially the former, we may look for important developments in the Modock.

THE COURT HOUSE ROOF.—During the snow and wet weather of new year's day and for a week or so thereafter the roof of the Court House gave plenty and further proof of its faulty construction. The Court room might have been made to answer for shower bath purposes, while streams of water percolated down to the offices below, endangering the plastering and probably entailing a considerable expense for repairs in that direction. The whole thing is radically wrong in its construction, the gutters being upon the inside of the "fire-walls" and the tin soldered to shape without a proper support underneath. The amount already expended upon it for repairs would probably have remedied the difficulty permanently had the work been rightly directed.

THE CHUFA, AGAIN.—On the outside of this issue we give place to quite a lengthy account of the chufa, believing it will repay perusal by agriculturists generally. Mr. Thos. Bell's trial of the tuber last year affirms the good points claimed for it in the article referred to—more than does so in the matter of its remarkable productiveness. He thinks the seeds need not be planted over a foot apart either way, and finds it a very easy job in this sandy soil to gather the crop, or so much of it as may be required for seed, leaving the hogs the pleasing contract to root out the remainder: quite as fattening a job to them as an Indian agency to the political swine.

KEARSARGE.—The work of deep mining on the south side of Kearsarge hill, by means of a deep base tunnel, has been settled upon by the Kearsarge company, and the enterprise begun by laying in timbers and commencing the preliminary grading. The tunnel, as reported to us, is to be wide enough for a double track and will start into the mountain immediately above the mill. It will be from 1,500 to 2,000 feet in length, cutting known stratas and ledges from 400 to 1,100 feet in depth. The concern is backed up by fresh capital and the work in hand is to be speeded by all modern methods of power drills, etc.

ITS EFFECT.—During the late wet snow-fall, probably amounting to three inches in depth altogether, our little local telegraph line of copper wires came out of the affair considerably damaged. The stretches of wire running east and west were weighted with frozen snow, forming fleecy ice-ropes an inch in diameter and stretching the wires to the ground, leaving them but two-thirds their former size. Owing, doubtless, to the "ozone" influence noted by telegraphers during such times, no electrical current could be obtained.

THE MINNEATTA.—We were informed a few days ago that R. C. Jacobs was expected up shortly to start up the Minneatta Belle. Certainly, that is a "consummation most devoutly to be wished for." That property rates as too valuable to lie idle much longer.

POLL TAXES.—Poll and Road Poll taxes are yet receivable at the Assessor's office at $3 each, and will be till Monday, January 20, when nothing less than $4 each can be received. There is no raise on the Hospital Poll tax, which remains at $2, as at the first.

WARRANTS PAYABLE.—Elsewhere will be found Treasurer Isaac's notification to holders of certain county warrants to call and get their money, and that Inyo county won't pay any more interest on them whether presented for redemption or not.

MORE.—Another invoice of standard styles of stationery just received at THE INDEPENDENT job office. We would like our friends everywhere to see how near they can come to exhausting it, immediately.

THE GUIDE.—All interested in floral and horticultural matters are hereby reminded that James Vick is still in the field, and to be found at the old stand. See his new ad. in this issue.

GONE TO AURORA.—MRS. A. LOWE, soon after closing her school at the Post, departed for Aurora, intending, we believe, to locate in that place.

BENTON.—A letter from Benton, containing mining and other items of unusual interest, arrived only this morning and is unavoidably laid over until next week.

POSTPONED.—The Modock sale of delinquent stock is postponed until the 30th instant.

OUR BODIE LETTER.

BODIE, Jan. 7.

MESSRS. EDITORS—But few who visit Bodie, and especially those not directly interested in the mines, are aware of the existence of quite a village and a large population on the mountain above and entirely out of sight of Bodie proper. It is situated at the Standard, Bodie and several other mines in active operation, and is peopled by miners and their families. Nestled in and around the various dumps, it has the air of sobriety and quiet industry, for when the exhuberant spirit of the miner is uncontrollable, as on pay days, he finds relief in a prolonged bust down town. Down town is composed of 52 saloons, 3 keno games, 8 faro and innumerable auxiliaries; also, 4 wholesale liquor dealers. Other kinds of business, legitimate and otherwise, stand in due proportion. [If our correspondent is correct in this particular, then Bodie must have more or less than a million inhabitants.—EDS.] Buildings are now quite numerous, empty ones, I mean; and a nice cosy office or other quarters can be obtained. Rents, however, are rather high. A room is worth $30; two rooms $50, and a small dwelling house from $60 to $100 a month.

CLIMATE AND MORTALITY.

Pneumonia is a dread disease in Bodie, and it has been the cause of every death recorded for the past three months. Five persons died from it inside of three days this week. The malady is more dangerous among the miners who are working their own claims and have not the facilities for guarding against colds. The majority of those who have lost their lives were of the sober, industrious class. In one case a physician recommended brandy, and as soon as the fact became known about two-thirds of the citizens imagined themselves sick, tried the remedy in rather an exaggerated, bunglesome way, and realized a genuine sickness before morning. The climate this Winter is really past the comprehension of the oldest, etc., and remains dry and cold. But very little snow lies on the hill sides.

THAT LAND GRAB.

The "put up job," alluded to some time since and promptly published elsewhere after you first put it in type, whereby Section 16, Township 4 North, Range 27 East, M. D. B. & M., covering a portion of Bodie and several of her valuable mines—which were jeopardized and made a prey for all the sharks in the country—is now squelched. Gen. Robt. Gardner says in the Bulletin of the 3d instant that this survey was not made according to the United States laws regulating surveys. Also that J. R. Glover is of the surveying firm of Benson & Glover, and has already distinguished himself in manipulating Government surveys, cutting off school sections where the law actually fixes them in a township, thereby giving many townships one school section where they were entitled to two.

NEW STRIKE.

It has been dull among the mines for some time since until yesterday, when a very important strike was made in the Standard. It is a new ledge, which the company had no idea existed at all. The engineers were taken by surprise as much by the discovery as in the extreme richness of the ore. From a sight of specimens and on authority I can safely declare it the most important and richest discovery in Bodie. There is too much excitement to-day to furnish a reliable statement of comparative value or size of ledge.

You can score ten for Bodie in consideration of the fact that our mines claim the center of attraction, and we support more square gamblers, gin-mills, prostitutes, bummers, deadbrokes, vampires, generous souls, Captains, Majors and Generals than any other camp on the coast.

INNOCENT.

FOR POSTMASTER.—We learn two petitions have been forwarded to Washington in the interest of a successor to the position of the late John B. Rowley. One is for S. A. Densmore, who is now in charge of the office under appointment by the bondsmen of the deceased, while the other, and the most numerously signed, is in favor of Thomas Brothers, late clerk at the Blaney House.

WHO?—Now who holds all those "county warrants payable," and is going to give the money a chance to pay some other man's taxes, percentage added?

PERSONAL.—Will the talented "Beryl Star" please let us know how to address a letter, that it may reach her?

THE San Francisco Examiner, speaking of the Chinese question, remarks: "The attitude of Senator Blaine on the Chinese question is worthy of all praise. It is not a political issue, nor ought it to be made so, and all who take a proper stand upon it deserve commendation in proportion to the measure of good they do or can accomplish, whether Democrats or Radicals."

THE new State officers of Nevada were inaugurated and inducted into office on the 7th instant. The Legislature met, organized by the election of officers and has proceeded to business.

A TRAIN was attacked by robbers between the city of Mexico and Vera Cruz, who killed the baggage master, wounded the conducior and escaped with $27,000 in silver.

FLOOD, of the bonanza firm, sent Christmas checks for $1,000 each to the San Francisco orphan asylums, and $500 each to the benevolent societies.

SEVEN immense electric lanterns have been ordered at Paterson, New Jersey, by the Russian government, for use on men-of-war.

DURING the past year 313 mining claims have been located and recorded in Bodie District.

ALLMAN'S NEW STAGE LINE.

The Experience and Opinions of a Benton Man.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 8.

MESSRS. EDITORS—I have recently made the trip from Benton to Carson by Allman's new line, supplemented by the V. & T. R. R., and having made a few notes thereon, send them to you for publication, if you think proper.

At Benton I paid my fare through to Carson, $23; and, though starting late, reached Aurora in good time. At this place I was told, with much vehemence of asseveration, by the agent of an opposition line, that the line I was on was imposing on the public. That they, the Allman line, took people's money and "poked" them, the said people, through Mason's Valley and Virginia. That people ought to pay their money to a decent company or line, which would send them right to their destination on time. That, though there was no difference in the price, there was a great difference in the performance, and finally that I should infallibly lose a day in getting to San Francisco, as the Allman line would fail to connect with the train. This last was a clincher, and I had serious thoughts of requesting Allman's agent to transfer me, bag and baggage, to the fast line. However, on consulting some disinterested persons I concluded to make the experiment of the new line, which yielded results as follows:

Left Aurora at 7 P. M. and rolled gaily along over a good road, leaving the old one somewhere near the Nine Mile House, reaching the 18-mile station at 9:45. Changed horses and arrived at Webster's, 30 miles from Aurora, at 11:45. Here occurred a delay of 1½ hours, which should be avoided, but which was made endurable by a good fire and a well-spread table. At this station a number of semi-domesticated quails are kept, which only require sufficient notice to prepare themselves to appear on toast for the regalement of the hungry traveler. As they had all retired to rest, or roost, at the time of our arrival we did not trouble them.

At Greeneville we arrived at 6:45 A. M., finding neither fire nor breakfast ready, the people saying we were ahead of time, which I suppose must also excuse the poverty of the repast (price 75 cents). Greenville consists of about a dozen houses, and is sustained by ranches and copper mines in its vicinity. We left it at 8 and reached Virginia at 5 P. M., having made the trip from Aurora in just 22 hours, including all delays, so that it is clear that it can be done in much shorter time. First, there was the delay at Webster's, 1½ hours, waiting for the other stage to come from Virginia; then at Greenville 40 minutes more thun was necessary, making 2 hours 10 minutes, to which may be added 40 minutes for want of promptitude in changing horses at the various stations, and 10 minutes for want of bridges over the several water-courses, making in all at least 3 hours which can be and doubtless will be saved.

However, we reached Virginia in good time to take the 6 P. M. train for Carson, which was the main point, though there is plenty of room for improvement in the arrangements at Virginia, where passengers for Carson should be set down at the depot with their baggage, and Allman's agent should accompany them and get their tickets for Carson, check their baggage, etc., instead of which we were dumped out on the sidewalk in front of the agency, where we stood for half an hour freezing before we could get any satisfaction as to what was to be done next. It is true one gentleman, who was not the agent, kindly invited me to go in the office and sit by the fire, very properly excusing himself from carrying me in; but, thanking him and essaying to follow his advice, I found that the office was very small and very much encumbered—firstly by a large pair of scales, and, secondly, by an elongated specimen of humanity who occupied the only chair, and approximately surrounded the very diminutive fire which glimmered in the little stove. At last, however, the youth who acts as agent put in an appearance, and having directed us to the depot and made arrangements to transfer our baggage thither—which he at first told us we would have to do, "somehow"—turned out to be very obliging and did all that he could to facilitate matters for us, alleging the newness of the line as a reason for want of preparation and regulation. This was no doubt true to some extent, though I fancy a part of his rather tardy suavity arose from the fact that I had hinted to the driver that I was going to report to the papers regarding the trip, which together with the seediness of my apparel and the occasional jingling of an empty pocket, led to the supposition that I was a regular newspaper man, with whom, as the youth observed, "it won't do to fool."

I did not note all the changes of horses, but I fancy that one more relay would be an improvement. The drivers were remarkably civil, obliging and temperate, two out of the three absolutely declining the liquid refreshment which I proffered and the other partaking very sparingly.

On the whole I prefer the new route, which has its southern ending at your town, and think when it is properly regulated it will be found quite satisfactory. I have mentioned its defects, not with a desire to find fault, but with the belief that they will be remedied, as they can with but little trouble or or expense.

C. H. AARON.

Diphtheria.

The following is from a contributor to the Tulare Times. Though this valley has, so far, escaped the dreadful scourge referred to, we may not always be so fortunate, and, in any event, it is well to take every available, reasonable precaution. We have heretofore given place to several purported cures or preventatives of diphtheria, the best of which we believe to be the timely use powdered sulphur. It is a disease that must be met in time—otherwise, it soon becomes "blood poisoning," and utterly incurable. It is too often the case that the disease has reached that stage before the physician is called in, hence the belief that physicians can do nothing with it, which is an error; if met with suitable remedies at the outset it is not a particularly dangerous disease. It is better to try almost any of these remedies or preventatives than to do nothing, but trust none of them a moment longer than is necessary to obtain the services of a physician. The correspondent says:

Diphtheria, the much dreaded and fatal disease on this coast, is now raging more than ever; and perhaps no disease is easier to cure if attended to in time.

The greatest trouble is with children, for, generally, they do not show much symptoms of its approach until it becomes seated throughout the whole system, and is generally fatal. Great care should be taken at this time of the year, when children are so liable to take cold, to keep them dressed warm, and to keep the system in as healthy a condition as possible.

I have noticed in districts where persons who use quinine occasionally to prevent fever and ague and the like are seldom attacked with diphtheria. An old lady gave me a prescription to prevent and cure diphtheria, if given when first attacked. Most children consider it very palatable. I was cured myself, and saw a number of others who had tried it successfully, and will not do without in the house. Take the following proportions:

One half a teacup of common gunpowder, add half a teaspoon pulverized borax and dissolve together with honey so as to make the mixture quite moist. Dose, 1 teaspoon full every hour or oftener according to the severity of the case. A lump of alum put on a hot stove until it becomes dry enough to admit of being pulverized between the fingers, and an equal quantity of common table salt and dissolve with water sufficient to make quite strong: to be used as a gargle every fifteen minutes where the throat is coated with ulcers or inflamed inside. The above is simple, and if mothers would keep it in the house and give a dose of No. 1 occasionally for cold they would find it a very useful remedy, and costing but a trifle.

THE Rev. Joseph Cook, in one of his recent lectures, having used the following language, "Forbes Winslow once said that he could dip out of the brain of any habitual drunkard a fluid so full of alcohol that, when put in a spoon and a lamp placed beneath it, the liquid would burn with a blue flame," Mr. A. J. Ballou of Boston offers to wager $1,000 that Winslow never said or wrote any such thing. The condition of the proposed wager is that Mr. Cook shall pay $1,000 to any charitable institution which Ballou shall name if he is unable to prove his assertion, while Ballou agrees to do likewise if he is wrong.

THERE is no disgrace in being poor. The thing is to keep it quiet, and not let your neighbors know anything about it.

THE Atlantic cable is being "duplexed," a process which will increase its working capacity seventy per cent.

ALECK STEPHENS, of Georgia, although feeble in body, loses nothing of his vigor of mind. He has just published an aggressive statement in favor of the Texas Pacific Railroad bill, including a severe attack upon the Central Pacific Railroad lobby that is fighting against not only that but all competing lines. He charges that the so-called "Southern Pacific" is a fraud and a delusion, intended to cajole Congress and the South, and that if it can defeat the Texas Pacific it will then be diverted to another purpose than a transcontinental line. He says that all the money for the Southern Pacific line as well as the lobby is furnished by the Central and Union Pacific Companies, whose corrupting lobby can be broken only by the success of the Texas Pacific.

AT Hildesheim Cathedral there is a rose-bush which is believed to be a thousand years old. In recent years it seems to have been getting into decrepitude, and fears have been entertained that it was going to die. The help of the most renowned gardeners has been called to prevent this, if possible, and several foreigners have been on the spot for this purpose. Whether it be due to their endeavors or not, the old thing seems to have taken fresh heart again. Out of the root knobs of the bush a new sprout has appeared, which is growing so vigorously that there is good hope that this venerable rose stock may yet renew its youth.

THE Bayard family, of Delaware, has a remarkable record of politieal service. The present Senator entered the Senate in 1869. His father was his immediate predecessor, and occupied the same seat for eight years. His grandfather occupied it for thirteen years, and an uncle was also for many years a member of the same body. They were all good lawyers.

PROBARLY nine children out of ten who die of croup might be saved by the timely application of roast onions, mashed, laid upon a folded napkin, and goose oil, sweet oil, or even lard, poured on and applied, as warm as can be borne comfortably, to the throat or upper part of the chest, and to feet and hands.

WITH such unfinished works as Charles Dickens' "Edwin Drood," Macaulay's "History of England," Motley's "Life of John of Barneveldt," and Henry Wilson's "History of the Great Contest," must now be added Bayard Taylor's "Life of Goethe."

AN eastern country exchange has been paid by a subscriber a year's subscription in advance, in bog meat. The editor describes the act as "perfectly sublime."

THE elder of Senator Sargent's daughters, both of whom have studied medicine, is practicing at the Freedman's Hospital in Washington, having graduated.

LAND OFFICE BUSINESS.—We will correct "Innocent" (query—who is he?) the Bodie correspondent of THE INYO INDEPENDENT in the following: "No light on the land office business as yet, except that H. Z. Osborne has been duly installed as Receiver. Judge Briggs is now at his old home in Jackson, his health being very much shattered. No business will be transacted until his return." "Innocent" is altogether wrong in stating that "no business will be transacted in the land office until Judge Briggs returns." There is no business in connection with the office but that can be and is done every day, except the hearing of contests, very few of which are on hand. The filing of applications for patents, purchasing of lands, and indeed all kinds of business except such as has been stated, can be conducted at present, the Receiver being qualified by law to administer oaths and attend to all such matters while the Register is away, by permission of the General Land Office. —Bodie Standard, Jan. 9.

Up to the date of our correspondent's letter not much light had been thrown on the land office business, and the routine of that kind of office work being entirely new to Receiver Osborne, "Innocent" naturally concluded that but little business would be transacted until Register Briggs' return. We are glad to note that Mr. Osborne has so far informed himself as to be able to attend to the business.

THE Bakersfield Courier-Californian comes to the front again, after a temporary suspension per force of legal process conceived and executed in pure malice by P. T. Colby, County Judge of Kern, if the Californian does not misrepresent the facts. It would rank as a capital offense, we know, but it would be about the thing to crack some of those Browns, Fawcetts, Colbys, and other judicial vaqueros on that side of the mountains, over the head with a printing-office towel. If a little common intellect can't be knocked into 'em that way, it's a hopeless case; hot shot will do no good.

THE Tullis murderers, Dye and Anderson, have been found guilty of murder in the first degree. Creed Haymond, Dye's attorney, admitted the latter's complicity in the murder, and only aimed to save his neck on the grounds that disease had reduced defendant's mental faculties to such a degree as to leave him hardly a responsible being, especially when in the hands of such a scoundrel as Lawton. Haymond may succeed in this.

THE American Young Folks, published by Hudson & Ewing, Topeka, Kansas, comes to us for January in a bright, new "dress." It is a carefully edited 16-page illustrated paper for boys and girls of from 8 to 16 years of age. It is strongly endorsed by teachers and all who see it and like pure, instructive and decidedly entertaining reading for the young. Price, 50 cents a year.

THE decision of the disputed Florida Congressional district makes the next House stand as follows: Democrats, 149; Republicans, 130; Greenbackers, 10, giving the Democrats a clear majority of 10 over the other two parties combined. California's four, yet to be elected, are not considered in these totals.

IT is now stated that a Dr. D. Unger, of Chicago, has discovered that cinchona rubra (Red Peruvian bark) will cure drunkenness, and give the most confirmed sot a violent and unchanging antipathy to liquor. Try it, some of you old stiffs.

IN that Juror Reed-Chronicle-Call-Bulletin-Fitch-Pickering libel preliminary trial, the last two have been held to answer in the sum of $500 each—and, morally, have acquired no glory for an offsett—nor general sympathy.

"BIAS-EYED barbarians" is an epithet hurled at the moon-eyed lepers by a Cincinnati editor.

CIVILIZING THEM.

But very few people, outside of the Bureau of Indian affairs, appreciate the wonderful, the truly striking, humanity displayed by this christian Government of ours toward its helpless wards, the Agency Indians. When the real nature of this humanity becomes generally understood, the clamor of good men to have God recognized in the Constitution must cease, for, to such, it would appear altogether too hypocritical to assert a governmental claim upon God's mercies upon a government so essentially heathenish in some respects as is this of ours. The truth, stated in its mildest form, is that this government has uniformly ill-treated its Indian wards, and from bad at all times that treatment grows continually worse. They have been lied to, uniformly mistreated, swindled, starved and deliberately murdered often times, from the very first day the government had power to raise its hands for such purposes down to the present hour. The system of Indian management is and ever has been such as would have disgraced the records of the most heathenish nations of history.

The system will never be bettered till one of two things happens, namely, till the bones of the last red man whiten the plain, or, till they cease to be the stock in trade of heartless politicians, who have full control of such matters, as well as of useful scoundrels whose reward is the privilege of robbing starving Indians. The first is the most likely thing to happen. Gen. Phil. Sheridan submitted a statement of facts, the other day, to induce Congress to force the politicians to release their hold upon the strangling aborigine. To this, Secretary Schurz, as the head of the Indian Bureau, returns what the political strikers call a "crushing reply, giving facts and figures." As every Congressman has his own strikers to reward, and as neither army men or Indians have votes to sell, Congress will very likely see force in the Secretary's arguments only, so the Bureau agents and contractors will continue to hold on to poor Lo's throat till he ceases to kick. The telling point in the Secretary's reply was that some millions more dollars are disbursed every year for army transportion than the total allowance for all the agency supplies together. That, no doubt, is true; and it is equally true, though Mr. Schurz does not hint such a thing, first, that the Indian Bureau's mistreatment of its wards was the direct cause of so much army transportation, and, second, that of the considerable amount appropriated for the bare maintenance of Indian prisoners on reservations something like $9 out of every $10 goes to fatten Bureau appointees, while the Indians are left to literally starve and freeze to death, or to be murdered like cayotes at their first effort to escape the slower but more certain fate. Mr. Schurz and his sort insist that our army people are fulfilling their proper and fitting destiny when employed in standing guard over disarmed savages while his agents deliberately torture them to death, and, in case of a break, to shoot them down.

Why do writers, when picturing a synonym of man's diabolical cruelty to man, revert in fact or fancy, to Andersonville, to the Black Hole of Calcutta, or any more ancient horror in point when they need but draw a faithful picture of a Winter scene on almost any Indian Reservation managed by this "truly christian American Government?" Take this latest occurrence out there at Fort Robinson, Nebraska, on the 10th, only the other day, as a base for a real lively, funny picture suitable for any Bureau man's parlor, Schurz's included. To be perfect it ought to be got up panorama style, commencing back last Summer: first scene—hundreds of Cheyennes, all sexes, ages, degrees of emaciation from hunger, disease and reservation treatment, fleeing from their reservation at Carleton, but murdering settlers as they fly; second—pursuit, recapture, and again in the clutches of the agents, this time at Fort Robinson; third—148 savages, on a reservation, with barely food enough to keep soul and body together, literally without clothing of any kind, roll call every day, no arms, no privileges but to sit and gaze all the day at the distant hills—to them, surrounded by bayonets, distant as the moon—and with Arctic winds and weather; fourth—arrival of $500 from Schurz, to buy each Indian a pair of socks and a handkerchief to cover his nakedness, if the agent in charge did not see best to substitute a damaged plug of tobacco, and take the goods for dickers on his own account with settlers; also, with the cash, an order to remove the naked starvelings to the old reservation; closing—saying, "better to die at once by the bullet than by starvation," the whole band make a break for life—the dispatch tells the funny part best, as follows:

The guards followed on in close pursuit, opened fire on them, and at this writing [midnight, January 10], over fifty savages are lying in death's embrace. For several miles around the Post the bodies of the savages can be seen lying on the frozen snow.

It annoyed the agent a good deal to have to quit his warm blankets to witness "the poor devils kick up the snow when a cavalryman got a fair shot at him." The Indian Bureau will copyright the chromo of this lively scene for use at agencies in evangelizing and civilizing their respective wards.

LETTER FROM DARWIN.

DARWIN, Jan. 16.

MESSRS. EDITORS—Eighteen hundred and seventy-eight having fulfilled its mission, performing no doubt the series of changes in all departments of nature as God designed, and to his satisfaction doubtless, we at last find ourselves through his agency being launched out upon the great unexplored sea of 1879. In reviewing the dead year it presents an almost continuous series of calamities to man all over the globe. In our land of plenty, pestilence has marched unconquered in our Southern climes; in others there is famine and starvation; in another, war; in others pestilence and plague, while others present unexampled instances of corruption, until mankind became anxious as it were, that '78 should pass away forever.

One would almost be led to believe that God had really become angry with his myriads of earthly worms, was becoming disgusted with their squirming and prattle and was making a bold stand towards ridding his earthly footstool of their presence, by the way he has switched them off of earth here and there during last year. Were his Divine Worship believed to be a respector of persons, loving one sect or class better than another, one might think he had started in to thoroughly cleanse and purify mankind on earth generally! But on the contrary, in his harvesting not alone has the thistles and tares been gathered in, but his sweeping scythe has cut off and claimed many a shining mark, and some of the best wheat was demanded to satisfy his divine wants.

The sad experiences and calamities, the general hard times and universal poverty of the land, must not be attributed to any personal animosity upon the part of "Him who doeth all things well." The philosophical mind sees in these remarkable phenominal changes in nature, in the last year, evidences which demonstrate there is something going on in the universe for the purpose of developing higher forms and degrees in life, in order that man can take still higher steps in positions in science and general knowledge.

PROGRESSION AND CHANGE

Are fixed laws of nature, and nature, so to speak, gets into violent passion, manlike, in order to evolve and perform her mission, and tiny man is oftimes swept away, when a great principle is born, to advance mankind generally in the scale of being. Let us not criticise too severely, then, old '78, if it did not help us to make our respective piles, which we fully expect '79 will enable us to obtain. There could be no '79 without first a '78. When we look back over the past year can we all say we made the most even of its limited opportunities? Few can do it. How will it be, reader, this year? Have we all turned over new leaves, intending to make the most of this one just commencing? Every part of our richly-endowed State has its peculiarities, both as regards the dress nature has given it and its elements of industry. Poor, black-eyed

INYO COUNTY,

Especially its southern portion, which has nothing but its mines to bring it out, will be almost useless if our mines fail and are abandoned. Its mining interests for the last year or so have apparently been in the same distressed state as mother nature—generally sick. Now, there is no use worrying about the causes that have produced this general indisposition, principal of which is mismanagement.

"Let the dead past bury the dead;
Act, act in the living present,
Heart within and God o'rehead."

Those who gave our county its black eye, whoever they may be, have about as big loads as they can carry in the shape of restless consciences, and from them we can expect no medicine that will help to extract the eye's blackness. That eye's swelled and blackened condition can only be eradicated by finding plenty of ore in Modoc tunnel, Lucky Jim, Emigrant, Custer, Defiance and Cerro Gordo mines, and our legion of undeveloped prospects at all points of the compass. We have got to go to work in the matter upon legitimate,

BUSINESS PRINCIPLES,

Work our mines as we would any branch of staple home industry—work for merit and lawful gain. A great point will have been gained toward better times when good men are selected to manage the mines, who have ability, conscience, mining knowledge of a practical, common sense kind and not pure theory alone. When this is done a different song can be sung to the San Francisco stockholders. Ask a frequenter of Pine street to take stock in an Inyo mine; his hand intuitively falls upon his lunch-basket, and you think he has cholera-morbus or some severe cramp, and is insulted. His only solemn reply is, "Inyo county mines don't pay divys." You put your money in, again you put it in, and keep on at this entertaining "putting in" process until the air is full of cries for "more soap," upon many have yielded up all their available stock of that article, while the sharpers gathered in their harvest. We want to see our mines have an

HONEST AND SQUARE DEAL

Hereafter, and when assessments are raised know that the companies have men to spend them who will cause each dollar to have a noble record; and if this policy is inaugurated before one year rolls away we would at least have the satisfaction of knowing whether God put the silver in them in paying quantities. It is a cheering sign to see that most of our companies are moving rightly in this matter. Our present mine managers are all conscientious workers and practical business men, and I firmly believe that '79 will be the turning point in this county in mining and will chronicle the commencement of a more promising and prosperous future. In weal or woe we are all bound together in one common interest. Then it behooves us all to work together and make a strong, bold pull and collectively try to get clear out of our embarrassments and difficulties. It is a satisfaction to know that some of our most prominent mines are

LOOKING WELL

As the new year opens. By invitation of Mr. R. W. Woolard, made a flying trip to-day to the Custer mine, a new claimant for honors, and the property of Mr. P. Reddy. Here we found two of Inyo county's old stand-bys, who have a deep faith in her being able to redeem herself in the near future, her firm and sticking friends, Mr. J. S. Gorman and Martin Mee—men who, like many others, have made up their minds to stay with the mining interest, and if that interest dies to give it a respectable burial for the good it has already done. These gentlemen are, so far as one can judge from observation and the amount of work done, opening up a fine property, and what bids fair now to soon rank as one of our best if not the best in this district. They have at least 50 tons of good, high-grade smelting ore already on the dump. About 50 feet of tunneling is now being run, which will cut the ore at a greater depth and do away with hoisting, etc., and put the mine in a much better shape for working. The location is all that could be desired in a mine, as the vein is running into a large mountain, having a favorable dip and a good hanging wall. By continuing the present tunnel 200 feet into the hill a depth will obtained of at least 600 feet. The ore body shows strong and in the bottom of one of the inclines is found at least three feet of high grade galena ore. The unquestioned mining knowledge of the gentlemen in charge is known to be of the practical kind, and what they have done, so far, was in my humble judgment OK. Yours, truly,

C. F. O'BRION.

A Mystery Solved.

BISHOP CREEK, Jan. 13.

MESSRS. EDITORS—A worthy citizen of this place, son of a worthy sire, relates that while on a recent trip to Bodie, with butter and sich, when camped in the suburbs of that enterprising town and asleep beside his wagon, that a voracious cayote climbed into said wagon and abstracted therefrom 37 rolls of said butter, which he or they (there might possibly, as the sequel will show, have been two instead of one) immediately devoured and then and there vilely desecrated the pillow of said son of said worthy sire.

The above version was much doubted by many of our quiet citizens, and suggestions were made to the effect that as the tiger and other birds of prey (some of gay plumage) do infest that gay burg, 'twas more than possible they had confiscated said butter in remuneration for certain stacks of red and blue and sundries behind the scenes.

This erroneous idea has been forever effaced by the following dispatch from Truthful Frank Shaw:

ADOBE MEADOWS, Jan. 9.

To—— ——: Just captured a cayote from which we extracted 22 rolls of butter and the cloths of 4 rolls more. Are now on track of the other cayote, which we suppose must contain the remaining 11 rolls intact and 4 rolls without cloths, which will make total of 37 rolls. K-rect!

BENTON MINING MATTERS.

BENTON, Jan. 7.

MESSRS. EDITORS—To-day we in Benton know no more about the affairs of the Comanche M. & M. Co. than we did one month ago, save that the United States Marshal has paid us another visit and further adorned the works of the aforesaid company with several plasters giving notice that judgment has been rendered and execution issued by the U. S. Court authorizing the sale of the property, both real and personal, or enough thereof to satisfy the judgment of $15,000, with accruing costs, etc. The sale takes place on the 25th inst., and our old reliable friend General Opinion says that about that time all the creditors of the defunct company, who may now be in doubt, will see that they are also sold. Without doubt this is the most unfortunate failure that Mono county has ever known. I think without exception every person in the town has lost either in cash or business. But the hardest lot of all is that of the working men, some of whom have dependent families either here or in the States, and all were relying upon their wages to pay bills already contracted. They have now only protested checks with which to pay or send home to their wives and children. Our merchants, who have given almost unlimited credit to all in the employ of the company, find themselves swamped with bills against men who would be glad to pay but cannot, and as their means will not allow the giving of further credit and there being no cash in the camp, men who are perfectly honest must take a walk; for, to use a familiar term, they are again "old stiffs" and must travel.

There are many unpleasant things being said of the company just now, but mostly speculative, as the real facts are known only to the company managers, and it would take a long time to find proof for what one would hear on the streets of Benton in a few minutes. At present everything is being kept in good order by Deputy U. S. Marshal Balch. The pumps at the Tower mine are being run day and night. The mine has also been secured by extra timbers since the company suspended, so that work can be resumed at any time without delay from caves or high water. It is thought work will be commenced soon after the sale, as it will not pay any one or any company which may purchase the property to allow it to remain idle even for a short time, as the mines are in good condition for working and supplies of every kind on hand in abundance for a long run at the mill.

EXPERIMENTS.

During the past year a series of experiments have been going on in the mill, the object being to find a process by which fine bullion can be produced from the base ores of this district without additional expense in their reduction. The result was the production of some very fine bullion from the Tower ore, which is very base and has always been considered the most refractory of the camp. The last two bars were from this ore and were 747 and 765 fine, valued at $2,041 70 and $2,120 63—as against 300 to 350 fine. Mr. Burnham, the mill-man and conductor of the experiments, feels very confident that by his new method of working he can raise the grade of bullion to 980 fine without additional expense, and very likely with less—at the same time working the ore to as high percentage and with less wear of machinery and a saving of time and fuel in retorting and melting, which is no small item. Mr. Burnham came to this place in December, 1877, I think, and took charge of the Comanche mill May 1, 1878. Though laboring under many difficulties and encountering some opposition by many worthy people—for no other reason, perhaps, than that of his being a stranger—he has by close attention to business and a good knowledge of the work upon which he was engaged, placed himself among the best practical ore-workers and metallurgists of the coast. Claiming no particular credit for it, however, it must be a satisfaction for him to know that his success has been fully equal to any work at the Comanche mill in times past by men who have a wide reputation and but few equals in their profession.

BENTON

Is indeed a dull camp at present. The Diana shut down last week, and our friend C. H. Aaron, under whose competent management the mill has been successfully run for the past two years, has left us for San Francisco and other fields.

The Indian Queen mill still continues to make its regular bullion shipments, and but for these our people might soon forget the sight of the beautiful bars.

The smaller mines are working as usual, looking well as ever and produce many tons per month of high grade ore. Considerable prospecting is being done in Indian and Yellow Jacket districts. The place bids fair to produce a lively camp next Summer, as several mines have been bonded to men who have ample means to thoroughly prospect and develop them.

THE NEW SILVER BELT.—We do not know but the prefix "new" in the caption of this item is somewhat out of place, as it transpires that several of the so-called new discoveries now attracting such attention as to amount to quite a local excitement, include among them some of the oldest locations in this part of the county. From the Yellow Grade mines below Cerro Gordo, mentioned elsewhere, there evidently extends northward a silver belt which includes in the same general line the new mines belonging to Meysan, Hanger, Palmer and others running above Swansea. Old ledges of the same character are known to exist on the mountains side below Hahn's and New York Peaks, and still further north above the Eclipse gold mine. This brings us nearly to the south end of a well defined ledge which is traceable for more than a mile in length, upon which locations are owned the Messrs. Shepherds, Lank & Kehoe and the Desaliar party. The latter, consisting of Geo. Desaliar, Dave Thomas and Phil Cartier, are engaged in opening their mine, and so far have done sufficient to show a remarkably good "prospect," at least. A tunnel 22 feet, running with the ledge and attaining a depth of about 30 feet under the surface, shows on top and bottom a solid, 18-inch ledge of gray carbonate ore. A specimen of this weighing some 40 pounds and assaying $400 per ton, may be found at Levy's saloon and examined by the curious. A piece of the same weighing 92 pounds, with stratas running through it assaying from $800 to $1,000 per ton, has been sent to Bodie and for a time will be exhibited at Cullen & McDermott's saloon. The boys have from 15 to 20 tons of such ore on the dump, and their property, for the present anyway, is not for sale. It lies in an unbroken lime formation, stands at the regulation angle into the hill, the walls being judged perfect by old miners. This ledge is situated about half way up the Inyo mountains, across the valley and some ten miles distant from Independence. In the old days of San Carlos, Chrysopolis and Bend City operations this country referred to, above the foot-hill region then worked, was just beginning to be prospected when the Indians made things entirely too hot for continuous and steady work. Since then the valuable mines right before our doors, as it were, have been comparatively unheard of until the present.

DON'T GO.—Under Sheriff J. J. Moore, to whom we are indebted for a Cerro Gordo local or two this week, says that any man who even thinks he (the said J. J.) has been made a millionaire by the recent strike in his San Luis mine up there, is a villainous falsifier. But he states that upon his late visit and examination he found the ledge to be some six feet in width, intermixed with soft and occasionally chunks of hard ore. Work is going on, and he thinks there is a fair show for something good after while. The location is about a half mile from the Union, on the northwest side of San Lucas canon, upon what we used to hold was the northern continuation of the great Cerro Gordo lead belt.

TAXES PAID IN.—For the current fiscal year of 1878-9, up to the 10th the total amount of property tax paid in has been $28,479 19—showing the lightest payment and the largest amount of delinquency for many years past. At a like period last year there was paid in $32,759 73, and in 1877, the year previous, the sum of $40,000 had been collected. The present comparative falling off is due mainly to the delinquency of some of our mining companies, as well as to prevailing scarcity of money. However, the published delinquent list will not be larger than usual, while every indication points almost unerringly to the fact that Inyo's "hard times" are well nigh over.

FINE ART.—The light, airy and artistic structures occasionally visible about town, of varied lengths but invariably three feet wide and about three and a half high, are not expressly intended, as one would suppose, for mere ornamental purposes. They were put up by people who denominate the stuff cord-wood. With such wonderful nicety, however, are the several knots and sticks balanced upon the other that the ricks look like the airy filaments of a dream. But the facility with which a dog can drive hogs through them anywhere suggests about a six-dollar swindle for every twelve-dollar "cord of wood," so called.

TO WORK.—Mr. Mike Welch informs us that work is to be resumed next month by himself and others on the mines of the "Sardine company," on the north side of Kearsarge. He intimates that one of them will show itself a genuine whale, instead of its present small-fry designation—and Mike and Joe McDermott are as good miners as the best of them.

THE UNION CON.—Supt. Porter has now some twenty men employed in the work of prospecting for new ore bodies. Mr. Beaudry was to be met at Mojave on the 15th, and is probably now on the hill. An assessment of 50 cents per share has been levied upon the stock, delinquent February 12.

GOOD ROADS.—Mr. Hamilton, on the Southern stage line, reports that the roads between this point and Mojave were never in a better condition, thus accounting for the earlier arrival of our mails.

REDEMPTION OF WARRANTS.—The annual grab at the County Sinking Fund is announced to take place on the 2d proximo. Consult the notice, hunt up your warrants and "stand in."

TO TEACHERS.—Reports of schools anywheres in the county are always welcome in our columns.

The Independence School.

Yesterday the six months' term of Mr. Daniel Crough's school in this place came to a close. Mr. C's administration has been highly satisfactory to parents and children allke; he is a very superior teacher. The closing exercises consisted principally of reading and declamations, in which the pupils acquitted themselves very well, considering that but very little or no time had been taken from their regular studies for special training for the occasion. Quite a large number of spectators were present, but, much to our regret, we could not be of the number. The examination took place the day previous. A series of eleven questions in each branch were submitted, to be answered in writing; ten correct answers in each gave, respectively, a percentage of 100 on the roll of honor; a less number of correct answers a proportionately less percentage; 85 as an average of correct answers in all studies were necessary to entitle the pupil to a place on the roll, so that those whose average was less than 85, though the percentage may have reached 100 in some one study, do not appear on the roll of honor, which foots up as follows:

REX MONTIS MATTERS.—Mr. J. H. Holt places ns and others under obligations for copies of a well executed lithographic map of all the mines, mills, mill sites, roads, trails, altitudes, etc., between this place and the summit of Kearsarge mountain. The map is from surveys of U. S. Deputy Mineral Surveyor Jos. Seeley, is correct in details, and valuable for reference, because it relates to a series of mines, a number of which are as certain to make a noise in the monied world as that their ores are ever brought into sunshine. The Rex Montis and Independence Tunnel Companies have consolidated their interests, which was the most sensible thing they have done this many a day. We shall take occasion soon to give our views at length of the advantages of this arrangement, together with a list of the mines embraced and other details we are now obliged to forego. No man can be more sanguine than Mr. Holt in a great outcome in the near future for not only Kearsarge mountain but of this section generally; and we know of no man of superior practical knowledge of what our mines are, gained by a wide experience here and elsewhere, therefore none whose opinion we regard more valuable—nor none more likely to successfully carry on the mining operations of the new company on this mountain: a work he will probably enter upon early in the Spring.

THE YELLOW GRADE.—The prospect for an extraordinary big thing in the recent discovery just above the "Yellow Grade," near Cerro Gordo, is most promising. The ledge crops out for hundreds of feet, while at a moderate estimate the ore will average six feet in width, and is found at every point where holes have been sunk along the entire length of the claim; the ore carries no base metal, and, in general terms, is rated as silver milling of high grade and quality. The deepest shaft is not down to exceed twelve feet, but in the bottom of all the indications are of the most encouraging nature. The great width of the croppings in places, together with the uniform distribution and character of the ore gives rise to a fear with some that it is merely a superficial deposit; but this fear is groundless if there is anything to sustain the theory of "gorng down" in a true "contact vein," which this doubtless is, for the country rock on the west wall is slate, while on the east it is granite; the trend is north and south. We have not learned the names of owners or ledge, but we are none the less well assured the latter is a big thing.

COLORADO.—Mr. O. L. Matthews, formerly of this locality, now a resident of Colorado, has recently visited the new city of Leadsville in the "San Juan country." In a private letter to relatives here (Mr. G. H. Hardy and wife), Mr. M. expresses himself as greatly pleased with the business outlook there. Leadsville now has a population of about 10,000, which number will certainly swell to more than twice that by the end of the year. The town is the objective point of no less than three different railroads, each striving to reach it first. Five large furnaces are running constantly, and others are in course of erection; some of the heaviest capitalists in the Union are interested in these and the mines, which are legion. Rents and town lots are enormously high. Pneumonia prevails to an alarming extent, almost as an epidemic, and is quite fatal; it comprises 99 per cent. of the sickness of the camp.

IN TOWN.—John Allman, of the Northern stage line, was in town during the week, and wasted considerable of his valuable time in cussing this institution, before others than the owners, on account of "Buster's" somewhat uncomplimentary letter published some time since, concerning his line. Wonder if he will feel mollified after reading Mr. Aaron's contribution upon the same subject, given on the first page of this issue? Our correspondents on both sides can have their say, and it is a matter of indifference to these scribes whether Mr. John A. likes it or not.

THE PALMA.—Some ten years ago a Mexican was murdered while prospecting on some croppings located about half a mile north of the San Ygnacio, Cerro Gordo. From that time down to quite recently nothing has been done on these croppings, probably more on account of their peculiar and rather unpromising nature than the fact of the murder of the original claimant. For a short time past Jos. Dias and John R. Hughes have had a force at work upon this ledge, now, if not originally, called the "Palma." They are taking out considerable quantities of free gold quartz, including numbers of most brilliant specimens. The ledge has a defined width of about sixty feet, and consists of the remarkable combination of alternate veins of gold quartz and lime rock, the former averaging six inches in width, the latter wider and more variable. It is considered both an interesting and a valuable prospect.

PERSONAL.—We were favored to-day with a call from Mr. J. H. Stoutenborough, of San Francisco, and chief of the Bishop Creek merchandising house. Our readers will be well pleased to learn that he is about locating among us permanently....Supt. J. H. Holt, of the Rex Montis, Independence Tunnel and Shawmut mines, is in town, but intends a short trip to New York soon. ....Mr. J. B. LETTER FROM BENTON.

BENTON, Jan. 22.

MESSRS. EDITORS.—Inasmuch as the very excellent paper published in the upper end of the county is occupied in delineating special news of local import, we find that for local news of importance to all in this end of the county, your journal is the one.

The prognostications of that mythical individual, "I told you so," are about to be verified, for it is bruited quietly by the knowing ones that the thump, thump, of the lower mill will soon break the drear and dismal silence of our forsaken city. Then the lonely cayote that sits like a vigil on yon mountain top watching the death-like stillness below, will give forth his last long parting wail and hie to scenes more congenial to his quiet tastes. Cayotes, like many men, have an antipathy to the bustle of industry. When her majesty, the Sable Goddess, rules supreme, and the Grecians of progress are journeying in the Land of Nod, then the two- and four-legged cayotes come forth from their dens,

"At which the universal host up send
A shout that 'tears' hell,s concave, and beyond
Frightens the reign of chaos and Old Night."

It is quite a commentary upon our civilization that a company, consisting of individuals whose wealth is counted by millions, should be allowed, without even the taint of dishonor, to rob the men, who delved and toiled for them, out of their hard earnings.

No excuse can be offered in extenuation of a robbery that is deliberately planned to increase the gains of a company seeking only to escape paying their just obligations.

Those rich nabobs live in splendor, while the men who toiled for them beg their bread by the wayside.

This legerdemain whereby honest (?) business men can evade their obligations should be "vetoed." It looks very reasonable, don't it, that a mill and mine producing from $800 to $1,000 a day should be attached and sold out for $15,000, but so it is, and a new (?) company will control the works.

The mines around Benton are promising like the dreams of wealth—more promises than pay. The Neal mine is developing nicely. This, with the Sultan Hill mines, will soon attract the attention of monied men. The Indian district contains some very fine prospects. There are several very fine claims, their croppings assaying from $30 to $65. Capital is all this country wants to make it a flourishing section. The Clover mines, eight miles west of here, are extensive and rich according to assays; wood and water being handy, they can be cheaply worked. The Indian Queen is still grinding away, giving satisfaction to all interested therein.

The outlook is hopeful for Benton. A new company will doubtless start up the old Comanche works. The success of the Tower (the Comanche company's best mine) will be the prolocutor for an extensive country. There are many claims that present as good if not better prospects.

The success of Southern Mono is the properity of Northern Inyo.

Socially, this town is a failure; more so than any it has been my lot to live in before. A good lyceum would be a great benefit to both the old and young. No better school can be devised than a town lyceum. Many a sluggish mind has been so awakened from a lethargic into a state of giant activity. Henry Clay is said to have devoted much of his spare time to polemic discussion with his father's cabbage patch. In Benton the coming H. C. can find cabbage heads in abundance, though I believe the principal one has gone below to have the Supreme Court decisions revised to agree with the eminent and learned decisions of our august local tribunals. A correspondent of the Bodie Standard seems to take exceptions to our mode of proceedings in legal matters. We desire to inform him that our excellent Court, like necessity, makes it own laws.

A man was cut severely, the other day; no arrests. A Chinaman fired a cracker last evening—$12 to our new legal interpreter, $12 to his Honor, or, in other words, to our most exalted ruler, King Bacchus, $24.

The prospects are favorable for Benton to have a local paper: just when, I did not learn on my last visit to town. The financial depression is very great at present. There is not money enough to get up a respectable drunk without resorting to gross drinks.

No better evidence of Benton's poverty can be found than the number and quality of dogs that infest the streets. There is an aphorism that says, "a poor man is rich in dogs." I suppose towns are no exception. The extreme fondness of some of our ladies for the canine species is enough to sicken the most lenient of men. A society to decrease the number of pups and to add to the number of babies would be quite a benefit to several towns not a thousand miles from here. BEN TON.

Cramming for the German Mission.

Tutor Uncle Sam.—Now, boys, one thing is certain. No one can go unless he can speak German. Remember, the boy who speaks no German has no chance at all. What do you say, George William Curtis?

George.—Yah.

U. S.—Yah! Is that all? Would you say yah to everything when you got to Berlin?

George.—Yah.

U. S.—Step down. You can't go. Step up, Fenton. Would you say yah to everything in Berlin, Reuben?

Reuben.—Nein.

U. S.—Nein? Nein what?

Reuben.—Nein, sir.

U. S.—And you'd settle all diplomacy by nein, would you?

Reuben.—Nein.

U. S.—Well, what would you do?

Reuben.—Nein.

U. S.—Step down, Rube. You must travel past nein before you go to Berlin. Let's hear your German, Bob.

Ingersoll.—Ich habe nicht Got in Himmel! Ich——

U. S.—There, stop! Is it your mission to preach that in Berlin?

Ingersoll.—Yah.

U. S.—You won't do. You don't represent Church and State well enough for me. What can you say in Berlin, Boker?

Boker.—Geben sie mir ein glass lager; geben sie mir zwei glass lager; geben sie mir drei glass lager; geben sie mir——

U. S.—And is this all your mission to Berlin?

Boker—.Yah!

U. S.—Get out! Let's hear you, Hartranft.

HARRY JOHNSON, the full-grown cherub who sits up aloft on J. C. Hagerman's delivery wagon, was sorely disappointed when his employer withdrew from the gubernatorial fight. Johnson had privately made up his mind that when Mr. Hagerman retired from the store to become Governor, he himself would retire from the wagon and become private secretary. He approached Mr. Hagerman on the subject. That gentleman astonished Johnson by expressing doubts of his abilty.

"I'd make the best old private secretary you ever see," protested Johnson.

"Suppose," argued Mr. Hagerman, "suppose that I should be away, and the Secretary of the Treasury should telegraph from Washington to know what the income of the State was from all sources, what would you do?"

"I'd telegraph him that I didn't know and sign your name to it."

Johnson's fate was sealed, and he is still on the wagon.—Reno Gazette.

IT is continually being shown where the Indians abstain from hostilities between themselves, or warfare with the whites, their numbers are on the increase. It is so in Canada, in Minnesota, in the Indian Territory, in the southern part of this State and in other portions of this country. The facts dispute the theory that the red men necessarily disappear before civilization. Several investigators of the subject are of the opinion that to-day the Indians are numerically as great as when the whites came to this country; their range only is circumscribed. The reason that the Indians have not heretofore increased is that they have been in a constant state of warfare, and their mode of life has subjected them to famine and disease. The transition from savagism to civilization is also detirmental to them. That stage once passed, their numbers augment gradually.—Chronicle.

THE INDIAN QUEEN.—The Indian Queen continues to ship its usual amount of bullion. Many of the smaller mines in the same district are working as usual, looking well as ever and produce many tons per month of high grade ore. Considerable prospecting is being done in Indian and Yellow Jacket districts. The place bids fair to produce a lively camp next Summer, as several mines have been bonded to men who have ample means to thoroughly prospect and develop them. —Esmeralda Herald.

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 1 1879

ASTONISHED.—The people of Bakersfield were indignant and astounded beyond measure, the other day, when the jury brought in a verdict of "not guilty" in the case of Bill Yoakum, the elder of the two cold blooded assassins of that now notorious name. It seems that the twelve imbeciles forgot to look at the Judge's instructions entirely, and some of them thought the man was being tried for shooting Tucker when they were satisfied it was he that murdered Johnson, and that it was the other Thug, Tom, that did the business so neatly for Tucker — putting a bullet right through him without killing the child in his arms—while others of the imbeciles thought a "reasonable doubt" meant that the alibi sworn to by near relatives of the assassins might not be an elaborate perjury after all! But isn't such a jury the world, all in all, for the cutthroats! The mutterings at the verdict of these intellects were the most ominous to law and order and the Yoakum tribe ever heard in Bakersfield; something unpleasant would have followed, pretty surely, only that this same defendant is to answer to indictment No. 2, for murdering Johnson, while Tom, the other one, is to be tried for the double murder, the cases being set for the 10th of this month. These murderers have already cost Kern county about $10,000, and the farce of trying them is hardly begun yet.

A CASE of interest to printers was last week decided in San Francisco. The press, type, imposing-stone and forms of the Pacific Life were attached by the Sheriff. Colonel Snow brought suit of replevin against the Sheriff, on the ground that he was a practical printer, and that the articles levied upon were the instruments necessary for him to earn his livelihood. Judgment was given for the plaintiff, the Court deciding that the intent of the law was that whatever was necessary to a man for the earning of his living must be exempt from attachment, and that the articles levied upon were so exempt.

The United States Supreme Court has just rendered a decision that whatever property is lost or stolen in a hotel through the personal negligence of the guest, the liability of the landlord does not exist; but if the guest has valuables in the safe provided by the landlord he must bear his own loss, unless it occurs by the carelessness of the landlord or his employés. The case has been before the Courts since 1873.

It is thought generally, in Washington, that Burnside's Army bill will be defeated; it is loaded down with features that make it highly objectionable, and which will probably prevent it from obtaining a majority in either House. One of the objections to it is that it provides for closing the Government arsenals, so that the small arms manufacturers of New England shall have the manufacture of the rifles, swords, etc., in their own hands.

THE following United States Senators have been elected: Connecticut—John A. Logan. Nevada—John P. Jones. New York—Roscoe Conkling. Pennsylvania—J. Donald Cameron. Wisconsin—Matt. H. Carpenter. Florida—Wilkinson Call. North Carolina—C. B. Vance. Missouri—General James Shields, for the short term: and George G. Vest, for the long term.

Ninety-six murderers were hanged in the United States during the past year, which is an increase of thirteen compared with the previous year. All were men; thirty were white, fifty-two colored, two Indians and one Chinaman.

THE new rule adopted by the San Francisco Board of Education in regard to applicants for teachers' positions is having the effect of weeding out a num- of incompetents.

THE resolution introduced in the Potter Committee to allow Tilden to be represented by counsel at the meetings of the committee, was tabled instead of adopted as reported.

RUSSIA complains of the action of Germany and Austria regarding the plague, as it threatens to materially affect Russian commerce.

EIGHT companies of troops will take the field in April to overawe the northern Indians, who are now acting sullenly.

TROY DYE and Anderson, the Tullis murderers, are to be hanged on the 13th of March.

THE House has passed a bill declaring certain lands granted to the Pacific R. R. Companies by the Acts of July 1st, 1862, and July 2d, 1864, subject to taxation by the States or Territories in which they may be located.

TWO THAT ARE BAD.

The Convention has adopted a good many very excellent constitutional provisions, and some again that are bad without mitigation—bad enough, as we understand their bearings, to overslaugh all that is good. At the head of the bad we instance two, the first relating to San Francisco.

It is provided that San Francisco shall be an absolutely free city—answerable to the State, or subject to its control, in no manner whatever save, of course, in its liability to bear its share of State taxation. Other than that, it is to have all the independence of the remainder of the State as one State has of another. This might be accepted as a matter of small consequence to the rest of the State if this free city had been magnanimous enough to have given the rest of the State (or, more properly, the State of California in contradistinction to the State of San Francisco), the same right of self-government it demands for itself; but, that is just what it does not do at all. While denying the State any voice whatever in its own legislation, it retains the same controlling power it has always wielded in all affecting the State proper. We might not except to the new State of San Francisco, with its new Constitution, two Houses of Legislation, Governor or Mayor, etc., all as literally provided for, did it allow us an equally independent Legislature and Governor and Congressmen of our own. The claim, as part of its divine rights, might not be so very obnoxious only for the moral certainty that this adventurer, Kearney, or his sort, will hereafter control independent San Francisco with as high a hand as Tweed did New York, and, controlling the city that controls the State as provided for, we all become subject to the will of the same ruler—with neither legislative power to help ourselves or to save San Francisco from financial ruin, as we have done on at least two occasions in times past: instance, the Bulkhead swindle, as one.

Another bad provision is section 7 in the Educational Article, which provides that

The local Boards of Education and the Boards of Supervisors and County Superintendents of the several counties which may not have county Boards of Education, shall adopt a series of text books for the use of the common schools within their respective jurisdictions. The text books so adopted shall continue in use for not less than four years. They shall also have control of the examination of teachers, and the granting of teachers' certificates within their respective jurisdictions.

Were it not for the emphatic declarations of other sections in favor of a free school system, and the general excellence of the rest of the article, we should feel constrained to think some Zack Montgomery or other avowed enemy of free schools had framed section 7 as the best possible plan by which to disgust people with the whole system in the shortest space of time. It is designed to widen the field for the corrupting influences of the book agents; instead of but one Education Board, composed of highly educated teachers and State officials all well qualified for the business in hand, for these book agents to operate upon, this section substitutes fifty-two little county Boards and Supervisors, composed of all sorts of men, many of them, especially of the latter, as perfectly unqualified for their new duties, and far more indifferent as to results, than were those old time "Deestrict Skule Committys" in the performance of precisely similar duties. The idea of exposing fifty-two such Boards of Innocence to the wiles of the book agents, to the cajoleries of candidates for cheap certificates for teaching, to the cross-fire of communities divided and at loggerheads on a book or certificate question, and all such things certain to arise, is preposterous, even grotesque. Fifty-two chances, multiplied by the Board membership, for easy corruption where but one, and that a difficult one, exists now; fifty chances to lower the standard of teachers' qualifications where none, barring downright corruption, exists now; fifty-two chances for community bickerings where none exist now; fifty-two petty provincialties subject to the control of a Kearneyized independent city, instead of fifty-two county organizations and a metropolis combined as a State in fact.

A teaspoonful or more of powdered borax thrown into the bathtub while bathing will communicate a velvety softness to the water, and at the same time invigorate and rest the bather. Persons troubled with nervousness or wakeful nights will find this kind of bath a great benefit.

THE Sacramento Smelting Works were destroyed, Jan. 21st. The works cost $25,000 and were insured for $5,000. The stockholders sunk $200,000 in the enterprise. The stockholders should be thankful for its destruction.

OF twelve ballots cast by a jury in Hollister, the word "guilty" was correctly spelled by three persons only—"gilta," being the favorite.

THE oil wells of Pennsylvania proved unprofitable investments in 1878, and the producers lost about $15,000,000 during that period.

About 12,000 tons of chrome iron have been produced during the last two years in San Luis Obispo county.

THE LEAD MARKET.

As the outcome of our own section, as well as others on the Pacific slope, depends to a material extent upon the market value of lead, some facts set forth in a circular just received from Edward A. Caswell, metal broker, 240 Pearl street, New York, are worth summarizing.

From this circular we find that lead is divided into three classes, namely, corrodible, common and hard, saying nothing of a fourth division, quoted as "soft Missouri." The "corrodible," is the division, we believe, covering the production of the Pacific furnaces. It sells about 20 per cent. higher than the ordinary. Except a slight rally in 1876 the price of lead has steadily decreased from 8 cents per pound in New York in 1874 down to 3 cents in the early part of last Summer, since which it rallied to 4½ cents, but with an unstable market. According to the extremely low prices still prevailing in London, the exportation value of our lead does not, however, now exceed 2⅝ cents board ship at New York. Nevertheless, Eureka, Nevada, lead is now held firmly in New York at 5 cents, to which limit the price is rapidly advancing. It is conceded that the Eureka furnaces can control the market for at least six months to come, or until railroads begin to load the market with the vast products of Leadville, Colorado.

The total of lead produced in the United States in 1878 was 81,304 tons against 73,125 for the preceding year, showing an increase of 11 per cent., or 8,179 tons. The total home consumption, in round numbers, was 70,000 tons, leaving a surplus of over 10,000 tons, of which about 7,000 were exported to foreign countries, mostly (5,321 tons) to China and Japan, still leaving a net surplus of 3,000 in warehouse. The following table shows the production and rate of increase of same during the three years last past:

Utah	17,560	21,602	19,310
Nevada	12,050	17,611	27,735
California	3,020	3,498	3,857
Montana, Colorado, etc.	1,000	2,600	6,580
Total silver-lead	33,630	45,311	57,402
Mo. & Galena	18,425	19,500	14,511
Hard Missouri	5,165	8,314	9,391
Total for U. S.	57,220	73,125	81,304

Of the above for last year the Eureka mines alone produced 15,000 tons, notwithstanding the interruption caused by the destruction of the Richmond furnaces by fire.

Though California shows a slight increase each succeeding year, the principal silver-lead mines of the State, all of which, at least in former years, were operated in this county, have contributed but very little to the totals of the last two years. As it is quite sure two or more of our now silent furnaces will be in full blast most of the coming year, it is reasonable to assume that California will put not less than 6,000 tons of silver-lead in market during 1879. The Leadville district in Colorado is set down as certain to add not less than 15,000 tons to the next year's product of that State. Including probable increase in Nevada and elsewhere, the total increase for 1879 will not fall much short of 20,000 tons, provided low prices did not compel many mines to shut down. As three cents a pound is the very lowest figure for which lead carrying no adequate amount of precious metals can be placed in market, it is possible the silver-lead mines in Colorado and westward may have the field all to themselves, or nearly so, by the end of the year. Even then it is altogether likely the production will be in excess of the domestic demand, while it is equally certain there can be no margin for profits on foreign shipments, unless it should be to Asia. China alone uses about 16,000 tons annually, but obtains the most of it through English channels. The circular from which we obtain these figures thinks that market will sooner or later be supplied wholly from this country. The chances for that are too small to be worth consideration.

While the circular in question seems to take rather a hopeful view of the outlook for lead mining, we must say we can see nothing to give much encouragement in that way; lead can be no inducement to miners in a country like this, only as an incident in silver mining, as always heretofore.

ADOLPH SUTRO says arrangements have been made to immediately commence a continuance of the Sutro Tunnel through the Comstock Lode into the heart of Mount Davidson, in the expectation of developing veins of gold-bearing quartz, whose existence is indicated by surface croppings.

THERE is an oppressive glut of gold in Omaha, and the bankers complain they cannot get rid of it, the people preferring currency, and bringing the gold back as soon as they can when forced to take it.

The special election for the adoption or rejection of the new Constitution will take place on Wednesday, May 7th, 1879. The people have about three months for discussion.

THE enemies of the free American public school system are using the recent scandals in the San Francisco school department as a weapon to serve their cause.

OUR advices by last night's train from the front report brave progress of the road. Since last Friday night (six working days) over ten miles of track have been laid, the construction train standing yesterday evening 48 miles east of Yuma. Ten thousand feet—nearly two miles—of track were laid yesterday and 8,400 feet to-day—7,920 feet being a mile and a half. Grading parties are far ahead of track-layers. Long trains of material arrive here daily, and are pushed forward without delay. Everything runs like clockwork, and without a sign of delay or suspension of work.—Yuma Sentinel, Jan. 18.

THE bill recently passed by the House of Representatives, to enable small depositors to deposit savings with the Government, provides that in exchange they are to get certificates of deposit for $10 each, bearing three per cent. interest. These certificates are to be convertible, at any time, into four per cent. bonds; and all the money thus deposited with the Government is to be applied exclusively to the five-twenties.

Mr. Slatte, of Connecticut, just nominated for Senator, said in his speech, just before his nomination: "My ideas about hard money are, that the time is fast approaching when the center of the world's trade will be in the United States, and we ought to deal in the world's money. I do not know that I can give my financial views in brief in any better form for you to use."

MARRIED.

At the residence of J. A. and I. P. Rittgers near Lone Pine, Inyo county, Cal., January 30, 1879, by the Hon. J. A. Hannah, County Judge, G. W. BETTS to MISS JULIA SAPPINGTON.

With the above came a most substantial remembrance, leaving the obligation on the side of "ye printer folk." But without regard to that, we had set our poetry machine going and had ground out a number of superior stanzas showing that it was not always immoral for young ladies "to take Betts, to wager with bits of gold," and also several fine couplets about the "Merry marriage bells, the jingling bells," or words to that effect, when we remembered that the plural to bells was inappropriate, inasmuch as but one was jingled on this occasion, so we threw the machine out of gear and subsided, with the sincere hope that the brightness of the young couple's honeymoon may never dim through life—rather, that the moon-shine shall become refulgent son-shine.

SUMMONS.

IN THE DISTRICT COURT OF THE SIXTEENTH Judicial District of the State of California, in and for the County of Inyo.

A. Montgomery, Plaintiff, vs. John Simpson, Defendant. — Action brought in the District Court of the Sixteenth Judicial District of the State of California, in and for the County of Inyo, and the complaint filed in said County of Inyo the in office of the Clerk of said District Court.

The People of the State of California send greeting to John Simpson, Defendant: You are hereby required to appear in an action brought against you by the above named plaintiff in the District Court of the Sixteenth Judicial District of the State of California, in and for the County of Inyo, and answer the complaint filed therein, within ten days (exclusive of the day of service), after the service on you of this summons—if served within this county; or, if served out of this county, but in this district, within twenty days; otherwise, within forty days—or judgment by default will be taken against you according to the prayer of said complaint.

The said action is brought to recover the sum of two thousand one hundred and sixty dollars, due from said defendant to plaintiff for work and labor, done and performed, at defendant's special instance and request, as will more fully appear by the complaint on file herein, to which reference is here made, besides costs of suit.

And you are hereby notified that if you fail to appear and answer the said complaint, as above required, the said plaintiff will take judgment against you for the said sum of Two thousand one hundred and sixty dollars and costs of suit. Given under my hand and the seal of the District Court of the Sixteenth Judicial District of the State of California, in and for the County of Inyo, this 31st day of January, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and seventy-nine. INYO INDEPENDENT.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:
SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 1 1879

RE-LOCATIONS. — That irrepressible old timer and prospector, A. Montgomery, favored us with a call this week, and expressed himself as more than pleased at the particularly bright outlook generally for the mines old and new of Cerro Gordo and vicinity. He would feel offended if old acquaintances didn't make a liberal allowance for possible errors when he tells very enthusiastic as to the capabilities of certain mines he knows of, so, after making all reasonable discount he could wish, we believe he is essentially right in his high estimate of Cerro Gordo's future, of which more hereafter. To revert to the text. Among numerous recent relocations recently made by various individuals Mr. Montgomery records the one heretofore known as the "Well" lode, now called the "Pine Tree." The ledge is found in the bottom of Beaudry's old well, just above the lower town of Cerro Gordo, being about 700 feet from the mouth of the Potosi tunnel, and quite close to its line. There is said to be quite a ledge of carbonate ore exposed to view in the bottom of this well, specimens assaying as high as $600 per ton. Another of his re-locations is a ledge on the eastern line of the San Ygnacio, showing pretty much the same kind of silver ore, and quite a good prospect; this was formerly known as "La Primero," now re-christened the "Lucky Jack" for short.

TO COMMENCE.—Mr. Daniel Crough will begin a private school here on Monday next, to continue three months. The terms are $8 per month, but payable in wood, cash, or any other marketable commodity—anything by which the much needed school can be maintained, for, of necessity, the expense must be borne but by comparatively few. The subscription paper will be found at Harris & Rhine's. Let everybody do the best they can to support this school. Its teacher is worthy of it; he only undertakes the work by urgent request. It will, as stated heretofore, be six months or longer before we can have another public school to keep the youngsters out of mischief.

ANOTHER REPORTED EXCITEMENT.—It is said that quite a number of persons from Cerro Gordo and the hills around have rushed off to some re-discovered mines located just to to the eastward of Saline Valley, some twenty-five miles from Cerro Gordo and that a new district is being organized there called Mineral King. It has been known for years that ledges, some each of gold, silver, lead and copper, existed in that locality and we should not be in the least surprised to soon hear of some valuable strikes, but we strongly hope the miners there are not so poverty stricken in nomenclature as to call the district "Mineral King" there being one of that name almost in sight to the westward, already.

MONEY ORDERS.—Greatly to the disappointment of different persons, no postal money orders have been obtainable at this postoffice since the decease of its late Postmaster until the present, there having been some doubt as to the bondsmens reach of authority in such contingencies. We are pleased to inform parties interested that Mr. Rhine, as bondsman, will issue money orders to all applicants until a new P. M. is duly installed. See announcement in another column. Mr. R. has, during the interim, taken the trouble to obtain required money orders from the San Francisco office to accommodate applicants.

ASSAYING.—Though not authorized to do so, we will take occasion to say that Mr. Eibeshutz has fitted up an assaying establishment at his store and has demonstrated the fact that he is just as good an assayer as anybody. And what is a matter of more consequence to prospecters of all classes is that he does and for several months past, has been doing this work free of charge in hopes thereby to encourage prospecting.

IN PRINT.—An unusually large number of very excellent citizens will have the pleasure of seeing their names in print by referring to Sheriff Moore's little ad. in another place. That list was closed and placed in the printer's hands on the 27th. Since that some parties have paid up, but too late for withdrawal of their names.

ANOTHER NEW DISTRICT.—It is understood a new mining district is being organized in the Inyos, directly opposite this place, and for which we suggest the name of "Winnedemah" or "Monument." The lines of the proposed district embrace a number of recent discoveries from which have come some as fair prospect as this country has produced.

WAY UP.—An assay of ore from what is probably an extension of the Palmer ledge in the new Swansea country, belonging to Col. A. G. Boley, produced $2,000.48 per ton in silver, with 40 per cent. lead. The ledge is comparatively small but it don't require much of such ore to amount to considerable, if not more.

GOLD LEDGES.—We are told that some very fine gold quartz discoveries have recently been made down near the foot of the Lake, and that there is some little local excitement in relation to the matter. It is very possible the story is quite true, but we attach no importance to it.

SINKING FUND.—Since publication of the advertisement calling for surrender of County Warrants, there has been added to the fund for the purpose the sum of $19.06. Bidders trying to get in a grab for the whole amount will take notice.

TO MEET.—The Board of Supervisors meet in regular term on Monday next. The bulk of their business will relate to bills.

LETTER FROM ROUND VALLEY.

ROUND VALLEY, Jan. 30.

MESSRS EDITORS—We have had rather a dry Winter until within a few days ago, when the gentle rains descended graciously, which, connected with mild days and nights, have loosened up the frozen ground so that within a couple of weeks the breaking plows will be running, turning up the grass-roots.

ROADS.

Our county roads, in this latitude, need repairs. Being that Inyo is too poor or indisposed, the settlers on the west side of the valley have concluded to turn out and do some road work. The east side will probably follow suit. Wildasinn is already at work making a short-cut to the bluff—thus teams will avoid big mud holes. He is doing some heavy blasting hence scaring crows, ducks, geese, and causing babies to seek daylight. (Mrs. J. H. Black gave birth, on the 18th inst., to a fine boy weighing 8¾ lbs). We may be allowed to hint to the "powers that be" the necessity of fixing the county road between Clawsen's and Shaw's. This is the main traveled road between Bishop and Round Valley.

Mr. Sherwin, with his interesting family, have moved from the hill to this valley so that the children, six fine, healthy boys and girls, may attend school. Mr. S. calculates to do considerable work, as soon as the weather permits, on the road from here to Lake District. Some bridges will have to be built, especially the one which Mr. Connelly left unfinished near Birchim's Canon. The plank are on the ground, hauled by Mr. Evans, but not sufficient stringers yet. A petition is just now circulating for a county road from Furbee's via. Dugan & Blair's flouring mills to Round Valley. The county road running across the valley from Evans' to the school-house, is also in bad condition. Your scribbler thus dwells on the road question, believing that a proper effort on your part (irrespective of county road funds and officials) will surely rebound to our interest, being that the mining prospects are favorable in our vicinity, and along the eastern slope of the Sierras as far as Bodie. Several Frenchmen have been working this Winter in French District, nearly due west from this valley. Favorable reports circulate respecting the Boley, Tuttle and McGee mines, in Minnietta District at the south west end of Long Valley. Another district, Laurel Hill, lies between Minnietta and Lake. Still north of Lake is Prescott District, which they say is rich in ores refractory and otherwise. A wagon road is, or soon will be completed from Bodie to Lake District, hence we will have a continuous wagon road along the base of the Sierras from here to Bodie. The probability is that our surplus products will, the coming season, find a good market in that direction. South of Round Valley, three or four miles, is another mining district where Swartz, Phipps and others are prospecting and have located claims, and built a cabin which is well stored with supplies. Across the river, between this valley and Yellow Jacket, Birchim, Merryman and others have claims, some of the rock showing free gold.

PERSONAL.

Mr. Swan and family, also Mr. Inman, formerly of Lone Pine, Mrs. Horton and daughter, and Mr. Lucius Horton and wife, are now numbered among our permanent residents. Riggs, Love, Dunn and others are rusticating here just now, killing time, ducks and "sich", and waiting for the balmy breath of Spring to permeate and modify the more northern and mountainous clime.

A GRIST MILL.

A grist mill is being built by J. E. Jones. He calculates to have it in running order and turning out A No. 1 flour within three months. Competent judges pronounce the milling apparatus as being first class. Mr. Swan is the architect, which insures good workmanship. A few hundred tons of excellent wheat is yearly raised in Round Valley, and if the aforesaid mining camps expand and flourish, a grist mill here, doing good work, will be a convenience to this community.

JINKS.

MINING MEN.—The big mining bosses of Cerro Gordo, Beaudry and Belshaw, were both expected there some days ago, but at last dates, neither had arrived. Mr. Gray, of the Kearsarge, who went to San Francisco some weeks since, writes that he will be at his post again in about ten days from this time. Mr. Holt, of the Rex Montis, left early this week for the city, whence he will probably take a short run to New York, intending to be back here in ample time in the Spring to inaugurate the proposed extensive works of the new company.

FINANCIAL.—The incidental expenses of the county have been lighter during the past year, than for any other twelve months in the past decade. This is because there has been no murderers demanding legal vindication. Should the same financial luck continue a little while longer, every dollar of Expense Fund liabilities will be paid off by next January, current expenses included.

LOCAL ITEMS.—Come to look at it, these "local items" are rather short this week, but if "you no hab got, how can you?" But there are other columns intensely local; perhaps the dissatisfied can find comfort by perusing them.

D. O. MILLS, the chief owner of the Virginia & Truckee Railroad, has returned from his Eastern trip. It is generally understood that his mission East was to buy railroad iron and rolling stock for the proposed railroad from the Mound House to Bodie. The contract to cut 250,000 ties was awarded to Yerington & Bliss, and they are ready now, we believe. By next year this time the road will be running to the new camp, and in a year or two after that it will be pressed through to Los Angeles, and give another route to California.—Reno Journal.

Useful Hints

A solution of cider vinegar and pure glycerine in equal parts will cure the most stubborn chapped hands on even the thinnest skin.

The common kerosene, now to be found in every household, is a cheap cure for chilblains; a cloth being saturated with it and wrapped about the feet before retiring.

A French chemist asserts that if tea be ground like coffee immediately before hot water is poured upon it, it will yield nearly double the amount of exhilarating qualities.

A small piece of chalk put into a pitcher of water, without imparting any taste whatever to the same, will yet exercise a corrective effect upon the stomach of any one afflicted with acidity, or heartburn, as it is familiarly called.

To cure sore thoat pour a few drops of spirits of camphor on a lump of sugar, and allow it to dissolve in the mouth every hour. The third and fourth enables the patient to swallow with ease. This has cured the last stages of the disease.

A cure for whooping cough—a teaspoonful of castor oil to a teaspoonful of molasses. Give a teaspoonful of the mixture whenever the cough is troublesome. It will afford relief at once, and in a few days it will effect a cure. The same medicine relieves the croup, however violent the attack.

IRELAND has just got to the end of a Jarndyce and Jarndyce case, arising out of the game played by a clever knave whose over-reaching ambition brought him to suicide—John Sadlier, from whom Charles Lever drew his character of Davenport Dunn—with a weak, vicious fool, Lord Kingston, who owned the magnificent demesne and property of Mitchelstown, County Cork. It took thirty years to unravel the web which the wicked legal spider had spun. One counsel spoke for nine consecutive months, and the agent of the estate was examined four years and a half. The Titchborne case was a joke to this. Mitchelstown Castle and estates have now passed into the hands of strangers.

Local Railroad Rates.

The Virginia & Truckee Railroad Company charges $6 per ton from Reno to Carson.

The Union Pacific Railroad hauls a ton of wheat out of Colorado 500 miles to Omaha, for $2 50.

The rate on the Virginia & Truckee is 20 cents per ton per mile.

The rate on the Union Pacific (as above) is five mills per ton per mile.

The Eureka & Palisade Railroad charges $14 per 1,000 feet of lumber from Palisade to Eureka, 90 miles.

The Eureka & Palisade Railroad charges $18 per ton for freight from Palisade to Eureka.

The Union Pacific transports coke from Omaha to Salt Lake, 1,030 miles, for 1½ cents per mile per ton.—Eureka Sentinel.

No secret sin ought to have a night-key to its doors. No wicked practice should have access at its back windows. Many and many a sly temptation will present itself at the door decently clad "in the white robe," and with a smooth word on his tongue. The dangerous sins are those that come "genteelly dressed."

The magnanimous know very well that they who give time or money or shelter to the stranger—so it be done for love and not for ostentation—do, as it were, put God under obligation to them, so perfect are the compensations of the universe.

The great art of conversation consists in not wounding or humiliating any one, in speaking only of things that we know, in conversing with others only on subjects which may be of interest to them.

Dean Swift said that the reason a certain university was a learned place was that most persons took some learning there, and but few brought any away with them, and so it accumulated.

Mind what you run after. Never be content with a bubble that will burst, nor with a firework that will end in smoke and darkness. Get that which is worth keeping and that you can keep.

A Bible and a newspaper in every house, a good school in every district, all studied and appreciated as they merit, are the principal support of virtue, morality and civil liberty.

The mind has a certain vegetative power which cannot be wholy idle. If it is not laid out and cultivated into a garden, it will of itself shoot up weeds or flowers.

Never be discouraged by trifles. If a spider breaks his thread twenty times he will mend it as many. Perseverance and patience will accomplish wonders.

Earth is our work-house, and heaven is, or should be our store-house. Our chief business here is to lay up treasure there.

Politeness is not a sign of wisdom; but the want of it always leaves room for a suspicion of folly.

What we learn in our youth grows up with us and in time becomes a part of the mind itself.

Mean souls, like mean pictures are often found in good looking frames.

In refraining from being mean to others you are good to yourselves.

They are never alone that are accompanied with noble thoughts.

The precious step to blessing to the Lord's children is obedience.

We know not the worth of water till the well is dry.

A GENTLEMAN who kept an exact account of what it cost him to supply his table for the year 1878, in West Chester, Pa., finds that each person consumed 3½ cents worth at each meal.

The Legislature of Missouri has under consideration a bill to punish rape by hanging.

TOAD POISONING.—The following singular account of the action of toad poisoning on the human body, is reported in the last number of the London Chemist: A child of six years old followed a large toad on a hot summer's day, throwing stones at it. Suddenly he felt that the animal had spurted some moisture into his eye. There suddenly set in a slight pain and spasmodic twitching of the slightly injected eye, but two hours after coma, jumping sight, desire to bite, a dread of food and drink, constipation, abundant urine, great agitation manifested themselves, followed on the sixth day by sickness, apathy, and a kind of stupor, but with a regular pulse. Some days later, having become comparatively quiet, the boy left his bed; his eyes are injected, the skin dry, the pulse free from fever. He howls and behaves himself like a madman, sinks into imbecility and speechlessness, from which condition he never rallies.

LEACHING AT THE SILVER PEAK MINE. The shipment of bullion from the Silver Peak mine, Esmeralda county, Nevada, for 1878, was $112,417.63. Of this, $21,106.90 was from the old amalgamating work's mill to April 3d. The remainder, $91,310.73, was from the new chloride leaching mill, six and a half months run. These works are under the superintendence of Mr. D. W. Brunton, who has introduced an improved and simple system of leaching. He is also using an improved form of furnace which has been very successful, and for which he has applied for Letters Patent.—Mining and Scientific Press.

CORRUPTION OF A FAMILIAR QUOTATION.—"He will never set the Thames on fire," is not an English proverb. It should be "He will never set the temse on fire;" the temse being a sort of sieve used in olden times in milling, and which, when very energetically employed, occasionally caught fire from friction. Farther from the original saying is the more recent one "He will never set the river on fire," which is simply absurd, but doubtless arose from supposing that the river Thames was referred to in the olden saying.

FREDERICK—"Why art thou, darling, like Venuth?"

Angelina—"Why, Fred., what a funny question! I don't know."

Frederick—"Becauth, darling,—becauth, you are a sweet myth." [They kith.]

Statistics show that diptheria is much more fatal in cold than in warm weather. During the six years ending December, 1876, 7,579 persons died of diptheria in the city of New York. Of these, 437 died in June months, and 855 in the December months.

PUBLISHED EVERY SATURDAY, BY

CHALFANT & PARKER.

J. E. PARKER. P. A. CHALFANT.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 8 1879

THE Virginia Senate has adopted, by a unanimous vote, the extraordinary series of nullification resolutions which were recently presented to that body. These resolutions assert the broadest possible view of State sovereignty. They deny the right of the General Government to protect a citizen in life, liberty or property, or the exercise of rights where the State claims jurisdiction; declare the legislation which has grown out of Constitutional Amendments to be null and void; deny the right of the Government to enforce the decisions of its own judiciary where the State interposes its veto, etc., etc. It looks like those Virginia statesmen, and our own California Constitution makers are looking ahead to the time when the thirty-eight States and numerous Territories shall each make and execute its own laws independent of all the rest—the State of San Francisco included.

THE Bodie Daily Standaad has passed under the management of a Receiver, H. L. Childs, Esq., formerly of this paper—pending the settlement of an action between the owners, or a suit entitled Harris vs. Elliott. Mr. H. Z. Osborne is the editor. Mr. Harris complains of looseness in Elliott's way of doing business, and probably Mr. Elliott complains of Harris' chronic crabbedness. While wishing success to the paper, we don't know that either of the partners are entitled to much sympathy in the matter. Compromise and "be dacent."

AWHILE ago it was very generally believed the new Constitution would meet sure defeat; now, its chances look somewhat better. But it will be time enough to make up a voting estimate of it when we see what it really proposes "for and against," much of which is left in doubt, what with reported amendments, repeals, and one thing another tending to befog everybody but the reporters.

SCARCITY of employment, declining wages, labor strikes and wide destitution are the unwelcome tidings from England. The people of the United States have ceased to purchase so enormously of foreign countries, and hard times across the water is the inevitable result.

SENATOR MITCHELL is going for the Postmaster of Portland with a sledge hammer. It is charged that that official destroyed by wholesale large numbers of the Senator's speeches directed to his constituents throughout the State.

THE STATE AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY met at Sacramento, Jan. 28th, and chose officers for the coming year. H. M. La Rue of Sacramento was elected President, M. D. Boruck, Vice, G. W. Gilbert Secretary and L. A. Upson, Treasurer.

SITTING BULL proposes to cross over into the United States if he can get permission from the Government. If he knows when he is well off he will stay where he is. Once in the power of our Indian Agents his doom is sealed.

A MEETING was recently held at Charlotte, North Carolina, and resolutions adopted inviting men from every section of the Union and especialy the North, to come there and build up homes, and settle up the old North State.

THE countries of eastern Europe propose an international conference to take measures to prevent the spread of the plague, now so fatal in eastern Russia, and which it is feared, will shortly overrun Europe.

THE investigation into the conduct of General Reno at the Custer massacre is proving highly favorable to that officer. They have got the number of Sioux hostiles up to 8000 now.

THE telegraph announces the arrival of a carload of raisins in New York and and another in Boston, from California. California fruit growers have learned how to make raisins.

NEVADA has 61 orphans in its Home at Carson, 148 convicts in the State Prison at the same place and 115 insane in its asylum in California.

NOTWITHSTANDING the recent decision of the Supreme Court, some thirty polygamous marriages were solemnized in Salt Lake recently.

PRESIDENT MCMAHON, of France, has reigned, and Jules Grevy has been elected his successor. McMahon's Cabinet will also resign.

IT is a sigificant fact that all the Republican Senators recently elected are Grant men.

THERE is little prospect that Edmunds' Electoral bill will become a law.

POLITICAL.

California, as has frequently been remarked here of late, now becomes the "pivotal State in National politics," consequently, her political matters will be looked to with absorbing interest by all politicians throughout the Union. This all comes of the fear that the next House of Representatives may have to choose the next President. Should the Greenbackers or any other third party succeed in carrying one or more States in the Presidential contest, the duty of naming the President will devolve upon the House; otherwise it never can. All the members of that House are already chosen, except the four from this State. Leaving out Indiana and California, the House, voting by States, stands 18 Republican and exactly the same number Democratic. The Indiana delegation in the House stands five Democrats, five Republicans and one Greenbacker; should the next California delegation stand as now, two Democrats and two Republicans, that lone Greenbacker, De la Matyr by name, and a fourth rate preacher by trade, may become a President maker absolute. He stands as the "pivotal man" for the whole political United States; unless California knocks that 'umble servant of the Lord from his towering pedestal, he, for two years at least, will be "a bigger man nor old Grant" ever was.

It is plain now why both parties have so much at stake in our Congressional election. It is of vital importance to the Republicans to get the odd man, or at least three, of the members to be elected. But even then they cannot name the President without De la Matyr's vote; with that they could. On the other hand, the Democrats can get along very well without De la's vote, provided they elect three of our Congressmen, for, though he could still produce a tie, 19 to 19, he could not prevent a Democratic Senate from putting in its Vice President as President, which would be its right in such a case. They could lose California's vote and still name the President, could they secure the Indianian's vote. The Republicans have to secure the two votes —California's and Matyr's—to have any show at all at the baggage, whereas, the Democrats need but one of the two to get away with it easily, should the decision fall to the House at last by default of a popular election. In that contingency the Democrats hold a decided advantage so long as this State and De la Matyr continue unsolved political problems. But, of course, both parties will pat California and Mr. De la M. on the back and all over in fact with such loving vehemence as to make it rather unpleasant than otherwise.

In this State the chances now seem to favor Republican hopes far more than those of the Democrats—a fact but few of the latter are disposed to deny. This is largely if not wholly due to the drafts made upon its rank and file by the so-called Workingman's party, of which Kearney is the undisputed chief. The San Francisco Chronicle, which is that fraud's mouth-piece, and which alone keeps his nose above water, in a long article demonstrates all the foregoing conclusions and many more in kind. It claims the chances are very good for its party, under Kearney's lead, to elect everything in that, and perhaps the Sacramento district, including both Congressmen. Such a disaster is not so very unlikely occur as some may think There is no doubt but these Communists will run a full State and many county tickets, and will, as they threaten, become something of a terror to both the old parties. It seems they propose to support the new Constitution to a man, and in the event of its adoption, will claim such prestige as will help them materially in the election to follow. It is certain the Fall election is going to stir this State to its depths.

BENTON'S PAPER.—The first number of Bro. Barnes' new venture, the Mono Weekly Messenger, came to hand this week, and a very neat, well filled five-column weekly it is. It contains a vast amount of valuable information relating to the mining interests of our neighboring town of Benton in which it is published, and also of this whole sagebrush region. It is just such a number as one would like to send to outsiders wishing to know something of what this country really is and what it will become when people understand its actual inducements. Without any discount in the matter, we hope our new neighbor may flourish to the full extent of its projector's wishes.

CONGRESS has at last done something worthy of the highest commendation as regards the Chinese question. It does not exactly say the "Chinese must go," but it does emphatically say "they must not come" in any greater numbers than ten on any vessel coming to any American port. We have more faith of a practical and satisfactory solution of the ugly problem through this one act of the National Congress than all the futile State Constitutional fulminations Mr. Ayers and Mr. Beerstecher both together have yet or ever will propose for a State alone to try to execute.

LETTER FROM DARWIN.

DARWIN, Feb. 3.

MESSRS. EDITORS—Since my last but little change has taken place in mining or other matters here. One of the most favorable signs of the times, which it gives me pleasure to chronicle, is the fact that ores can now be worked here at much more reasonable figures than heretofore. Mr. Williams, Superintendent of the New Coso, returned about two weeks ago and is continuing developments in the bottom of the mine, but as yet with a limited number of men, opening up the mine for facilitating work in the future. Mr. Williams offers to smelt ores upon the following terms, viz.:

He will pay $1 per oz. for each and every ounce over 25 ounces per ton. All ores to be brought to the company's furnace, weighed and run through the crusher, and afterwards to be sampled by him or an employé of the company and the owner of the ore. Each party taking equal parts of the same samples, Mr. W. assaying his and the owner of the ore if he so desires can have his assayed by whom he may choose to select, and thus satisfy himself as to the correctness of the company's assays, If any great discrepancy is found to exist the assays can then be made over again and errors rectified. Parties desirous of selling the company ore can have assays made of same from time to time free of charge.

THIS GREAT REDUCTION

Of 10 ounces per ton (heretofore the charge was 35 ounces) will have a tendency to stimulate prospectors and the working of many of our mines which have hitherto lain idle on account of the high price for smelting, coupled with the fact of most of the ores being of a comparatively low grade and could not be made to pay. Parties holding claims whose ores run from 35 ounces up can now at least pay the expenses of extraction and thus open their property, find out what they have, and from the many we may find some excellent properties.

Ths latest news from the Emigrant Company's mines is of a very favorable nature. Lately a large cave has been exposed, some 40 feet or more long by 10 to 12 high and probably 20 feet wide, which exposes what appears to be a large body of ore and a better defined ledge, something resembling and by many believed to be a true fissure vein. The cave seems to be pitching down at a very favorable angle, and the prospects for ore very promising. Ten stamps are running night and day. The putting in of the water works has proved to have been done in a scientific manner, as not a moment's delay has been caused for want of water. It has continued coming along daily or whenever required, as though it really enjoyed its nine mile trip in the pipes.

RUMOR

Has it that some of Inyo county's old stand-by miners have struck it rich in Panamint, and that some parties have bought the mill. Who knows but what there may be a future to that once lively camp? It certainly is deserving of it, and I hope the future will smile on all who have the courage to try and hunt up its hidden treasures. It is expected that the

SNOW'S CAÑON MILL

Will soon make a run, and thereby replenish the pockets of the boys who are opening up "from a state of infancy," as it were, the mines in that locality, believing that some of the many ledges will eventually develop into big, rich and fully matured veins. Under existing circumstances we are necessarily compelled to "go slow," work out our own salvation, and can only redeem our character for truth and veracity in a mining standpoint by being able to show to capitalists that we have good mines. When they come and see with their own eyes that we have good ore in the ground to back up our words we will not be long in getting into their good graces, and we can then get plenty of assistance to help us out of our difficulties. Yours, truly,

C. F. O'BRION.

"CIRCUMSTANCES alter cases." A few months ago the San Francisco riff-raff, with the immortal Denis at their head, literally howled themselves hoarse in asserting the broadest right of free assembly and free speech for all classes. That was before they had elected so many Constitution makers, including "Dr." O'Donnell, consequently before they knew their strength, much of which they gained through Judge Bob Ferral. Now, they understand their free speech plank differently. Saturday night of last week they did their best to break up a Democratic meeting held at Union Hall. Even the Chronicle tells them that was hardly proper; that those Democrats, according to "Mr." Kearney's own former teachings, had a right to hire a hall and get together for mutual edification—provided, of course, they didn't make too much noise. Previous to this, Denis' followers had given out that neither of the old parties could hold any meetings in that city, which indicates a commendable impartiality, and does them credit. They are nice people, possibly, still we would feel quite as safe in all respects with Sitting Bull in supreme control as under that of Mr. Kearney or any of his supporters or snivelers for his favor wherever found.

OVERDOING IT. — According to the Standard, Bodie is threated with two more daily papers, which will make no less than three dailies (saying nothing of their weekly issues) and one weekly —enough for two such cities. But some newspaper people are bigger fools than anybody--they like lingering starvation above all things, so there is plenty of deadhead gin; otherwise, there would not be two more Bodie dailies.

ONE-FOURTH of the national debt has been paid off since the war.

OUR BODIE LETTER.

BODIE, Feb. 4.

MESSRS. EDITORS—Your first ejaculation in bouncing out of a comfortable bed in Bodie before 9 o'clock A. M. if you are of the genus femme-sole is a Bo-oh-h-h-ba-r-r-r! accompanied by a great rustling, crackling and throwing aside of starched linnen or cotton. If you are an old sinner in the guise of a man the atmosphere will turn blue with cuss-words, frozen boots will become suddenly animated and in less time than it takes to record it the nearest saloon keeper will be stirring a hot scotch with one hand while he rakes in a short bit with the other. The best thing of the season, in this connection, happened to S. T. Stebbins. Everybody knows "Old Steb" of Darwin, and everywhere else, for that matter. It seems that Steb. goes on duty at McAlpin & Cran's about 5 o'clock A. M., and on this particular morning his coppers were dry and he rushed out of his bachelor's cabin pitcher in hand, en deshabille. Imagine his chagrin on returning to find that the lock catch of the cabin door had most effectually fastened him out. There were but few at that early hour to enjoy the tableaux, but the mercury indicated about 20° below zero and the snow laid four or five inches on a level, which cold fact didn't admit of time to argue the point with an inanimate door. Steb's serenity was a little agitated as he made his way several blocks to a friend and borrowed pants, boots, etc.

COUNTY SEAT BUSINESS.

The Bodie Standard of Feb. 23 prematurely fired the first gun in an editorial in favor of moving the county seat from Bridgeport to Bodie. As a Bodieite I have felt an interest and weighed every argument in favor of this move, but thought it unwise and impolitic to agitate the matter until the proper time. The Standard man must have been short of ideas, for he ought to understand that the matter of moving a county seat in even more favorable locations than this requires a vast amount of hard work. There are many things to be taken into consideration, and parties opposed to any such change have all the advantage in throwing little obstacles in the way. More silly technicalities can be brought to bear and made powerful weapons of defense than in any other business ever undertaken. We all know that to make a success it requires a two-thirds vote of electors voting the last previous election. Bodie would be the smallest precinct in the county. Next, what a predicament we are in when it is not known to a certainty whether the County Commissioners will countenance the project at all. Morris Dick, the Chairman, lives in Antelope Valley, far to the west of Bridgeport, and Judge Goodall has been a permanent fixture in Bridgeport for the last century and is liable to remain there until Gabriel toots his cornet. Frank Shaw, the other member, would act as his own individual conscience dictated, but the two former would undoubtedly oppose even ordering an election. I will not go into argument, for Inyo and Mono people all know of the ridiculous old rookery used as a Court House at Bridgeport, and have experienced the vicissitudes of a trip around the horn to Bridgeport —that delectable old town grown rich and aristocratic on hayseed and butter. The natives of Big Meadows have only one ambition, and that is to keep in out of the wet. Bodie can truthfully lay claim to being the most important town in the mountains south of the Comstock, but the Standard would have exercised a little intelligence in keeping this business very quiet until the proper time, i. e.—when Bodie shall have registered her voters, and then struck a blow at once permanent and lasting.

NOTHING NEW

In the way of mining that would interest you, without going into details. Work, however, is being vigorously prosecuted in all of the principal mines, and the cold weather cannot affect the substantial, well-covered hoisting works over the mines, nor the Standard and Syndicate mills, which are running regular as clock work.

SOCIALLY AND FINANCIALLY

It is exceedingly dull. Money is out of everybody's reach, apparently; silver change is particularly scarce. It would be a good idea if the merchants would ship up an extra invoice of nails, as you used to do in Inyo, and have the silver packed mid-way—the nails on the margin.

Shooting affairs occur more or less frequently, but thus far the county has not been troubled with expensive criminal prosecutions. We have no theater yet, the chief amusement being wrestling, sparring and jig dancing. Will give you something interesting next issue.

INNOCENT.

SOME of our old freighters mourned the advent of the railroad, anticipating detruction of their business. But so far the actual result has been far different. Freights have come into the Territory faster than teams here could move them. Besides the transportation that has drifted into this country from New Mexico and Sonora, a large number of heavy teams have come in from Nevada, Utah and California. They all have found plenty of work; and consignees in the interior have been constantly grumbling because their shipments could not be moved promptly enough. This week came four car-loads of horses and mules, and eight heavy wagons belonging to the Cerro Gordo Freighting Company, of Los Angeles. They are to go to freighting at once. The railroad has brought and will bring many quartz mills. Every mill makes new work for mules, in hauling supplies, as well as ore.—Yuma Sentinel.

JOHN ALLMAN has bought in San Francisco a little steamer which is to be placed on Walker Lake. The boat is fifty-three feet in length. It will be taken to pieces and shipped here as soon as possible. When the boat starts, Mr. Allman will be able to bring passengers from Belleville to this city in 14 hours. He will then bring in the bullion from the New Boston mill, he having made a contract with A. J. Rhodes for so doing. One steamer is already running on Walker Lake.—Virginia Enterprise.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:
SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 8.....1879

BOARD OF SUPERVISORS.

MONDAY, Feb. 3.

Board convened in regular session, there being present J. R. Westerville, Chairman, Chas. Meysan and J. L. Garretson.

WARRANTS REDEEMED.

In accordance with notice inviting proposals for the surrender of county warrants for the amount in the sinking fund, several bids were opened, and that of Harris & Rhine, being the lowest, was accepted. Warrants on the General Fund to the amount of $2,921 32, including interest, were surrendered for the sum of $1,419 37, being at the rate of 73⅞ cents.

TUESDAY, Feb. 4.

Consideration and allowance of bills as hereinafter reported.

WEDNESDAY, Feb. 5.

Reports of Auditor and Treasurer examined and approved, and ordered published one week in THE INYO INDEPENDENT.

In compliance with petition, the road leading from Swansea to a coal camp on the Inyo range of mountains was declared a public highway—conditioned that at no future time shall the same become an expense to the county for repairs.

THURSDAY, Feb. 6.

Filling of the jury box for the ensuing year.

FRIDAY, Feb. 7.

After ordering the publication of advertisements inviting proposals for surrender of bonds, care of indigent sick for the ensuing year, and a supply of wood for the Court House, the Board adjourned for the term.

Notice was placed on record of a special meeting to be held March 24th, for receiving and acting upon the bids referred to.

A WRONG CREDIT.—In consideration of a little controversy that has arisen on the subject, we will state that those gents who bet that remarks relating to Mr. Reddy in the Convention, as copied in this paper two weeks ago, did not originally appear in the paper to which we credited them, win the stakes—and, we hope, will be happy. Instead of to the "Chronicle, January 12," the credit should have been: "S. F. Post, January 12." Slips from these and other papers were cut out and thrown promiscuously together, but some of them unmarked at the time, and in that way it happened the wrong credit was subsequently written across the Post article—an error that was soon after discovered by the party making it, but who did not deem it of sufficient importance to demand correction after it was in type.

NO ARRESTS.—An extensive row and somewhat one-sided fight took place the other night among the patrons of the Pioneer Brewery, in which some heads were damaged and two fine glass doors shattered. Though an officer was quickly called, we are compelled to add the usual story—"no arrests." In fact, the officers carried out the "non-intervention" law according to the true Monroe doctrine.

GOLD.—Along with some very fine silver ore from the same ledge, Mr. Eibeshutz was the other day exhibiting a specimen from the Brown Monster showing plenty of free. native gold. In the long history of the mine—the old Eclipse—this is the first of the kind produced, the gold generally being so fine as to be invisible to the naked eye.

SPECIMENS.—We are in receipt of some beautiful specimens of rich black carbonate ore from the Baxter mine, recently discovered in the foot-hills to the southward of Kearsarge, which will repay an examination upon the part of anyone interested in mines hereabouts.

P. M.—As before mentioned, Mr. Thos. Brothers has received the appointment of Postmaster at this place, and will assume official duties as soon as the preliminary red-tape operations are completed. He will, for a time at least, occupy the Rowley building.

LEASED.—Mr. J. G. Dodge, of Lone Pine, has leased the Hitchcock or Uncle Abe mine and mill, and has the whole concern in operation. There is hardly a doubt of the great value of the property, if systematically and economically worked.

FACT.—A party of Eastern "mining men," capitalists, as it were, propose to "develop the mine" and "find out what there is in it" by means of a hired man, a borrowed poll-pick and a shovel kindly loaned them. Fact.

RACES.—The Bishop Creekers give notice elsewhere of a programme of races for the 21st and 22d instants, further particulars of which will be given next week. See advertisement.

TOO LATE.—Several important advertisements at hand to-day too late for insertion this week. Please mail your favors a little earlier in the week, gentlemen.

Leadville, Colorado.

Following is an extract or two from a letter written from Leadville, Colorado, by Mr. O. L. Matthews, formerly of this place, to the Ouray Times, January 11. Did the stories of such fabulously rich mines come from some unknown writer, we should set them down as decidedly "fishy," but we know that Mr. M. tells for fact only what he believes to be fact. The owner or former owner of the "Begole farm" referred to is a brother of C. D. Begole, of Lone Pine, and was here on a visit a few weeks ago. The letter, speaking of Leadville, says:

The city is located on the west side of the South Park snowy range, on a gentle slope, and fronting Eagle Mountain, Mount of the Holy Cross, and other prominent peaks on the west side of the North Arkansas river. It is also built adjacent to, and on the north side of the famous "California Gulch." Alongside of this famous gulch lie the richest silver deposits found in America. * * * * * *

They are also awaiting the erection of more smelters here. And more are forthcoming. One man tells me he superintends the erection of seven next year. Twenty-five more would probably not reduce all the ore the mines might be made to produce. Sixty tons of ore were taken from the New Discovery lode one day last week. The Adelaide is said to be capable of producing forty tons of thousand dollar ore daily for the next hundred years. The Little Pittsburg mine lately yielded sixty thousand dollars in six days. They clear one hundred dollars a day to the man. The Little Pittsburg would pay the Begole purchase in six days and have five thousand dollars left; hope, on development, the Begole farm will prove as rich. The income of the man Mr. Tabor fitted out as a prospector one year ago is now two thousand dollars per day, and the Tabor property is estimated to be worth thirty-six millions, he being one-fourth owner.

TWO OF 'EM.—Our Piute people, both sexes, got as drunk as lords, as usual, last Sunday night; kicked in one door, waited at another, stone in hand, to smash somebody, tried to kill each other, and had a time too lovely to last. It cost several citizens some time and hard work with a wheelbarrow to convey one of the worst of the biting, kicking and scratching female duskies to the lockup. She was a fighter from the knobs, but didn't inflict any damage on the constable, as it happrned. Sheriff Moore held court on a couple of the bucks, and the address of those two will be at the court-house wood-pile or thereabouts for a short time. We regret to say neither of the parties who furnished these creatures the stuff to get drunk on were killed or even hurt.

REPORT.—As compared with a like statement at the same period of last year, the County Auditor's report of January 31st shows a reduction of the county debt during the year of $764 67—or $67,101 90 last year and $66,337 23 this year remaining unpaid. Considering the decrease of taxable property and some heavy extra legal fees paid, it is a favorable showing for our county managers.

PAYING IN.—A good many tax delinquents, since seeing their names in print and deriving a modicum of comfort therefrom, have gone to the Captain's office and settled their share of the difficulty, and others are preparing to do so; the prospects are that the number of parcels exposed to sale will not be unusually large, after all.

FOOLS are not all dead yet. Representative Oliver of Iowa has introduced a bill in Congress "to refoem the Gregorian calendar." It provides that beginning with the 1st day of January, 1882, each year shall consist as now of 365 days, except every fiftieth year, which shall contain 377 days and be called "a year of jubilee" until the five hundredth year arrives, which shall be called "the great jubilee" and contain 378 days. The thing gets down into details as to the number of days in each month, etc. "The Oliver calender." Holy Moses!

LEON LEWIS, the story-writer, who recently disappeared from Penn Yan, New York, left behind him creditors whose losses amount to $50,000. A short time ago he started a literary paper after the style of the New York Ledger called The Mystery. But one number appeared. The mystery with his creditors now is how to get their money back. A girl sixteen years of age, a niece of his dead wife, accompanied him in his flight.

HOW THE NEW CONSTITUTION IS TO BE PUBLISHED.

The Superintendent of State Printing is now asking proposals from at least one paper in every county for publishing the new Constitution for the benefit of their respective readers. As provided by resolution of the Convention, the document is to be printed in newspaper form at the State Printing Office, but to be issued as a supplement by the several papers, one in each county, willing to undertake the contract. This, no doubt, is the cheapest plan by which the State can spread the instrument before the public, as it is required to do by the law ordering the call of the Convention, and which was to be done in sufficient time for considering it as a whole before voters had to vote upon its adoption or rejection. No doubt, either, but the supplement method will be quite as satisfactory to readers as to have the same matter in the regular newpaper columns. So far, then, it is an economical plan for the State, and will be as satisfactory as any other to the public, were it done time enough before the election to give a chance for a proper understanding of so important a matter. But in this last comes a trouble: the publication is to begin only two weeks prior to the election—that is, the first issue of the supplement containing the new Constitution will be Saturday, April 26, and the second and last, May 3, only three days before the election; in reality, for a majority of newspaper readers everywhere outside the cities, giving but about eight days time altogether to examine the instrument. As that is the busy season for farmers in particular, there will be many who, in that short period, will scarcely have time to even glance over the various Articles, much less study out their real meaning or to interchange opinions with even near neighbors. Now, we submit, this does not give voters anything like a fair show at all; why, the law gives them more time than than that to study up the virtues of a candidate for school trustee, or points of a Sheriff's sale, or any other event to come requiring legal notice; yet none of those are as abstruse or of such lasting importance as this matter for the consideration of which only about one-third as much time is to be given. Perhaps, though, this thing of only giving the public eight days so to review and digest a structure which occupied one hundred and fifty learned gentlemen one hundred and fifty or more days to sling together is intended as a complement to the intelligence of the aforesaid public? Perhaps such a compliment is deserved, but, as we look at it, for people to vote "yes" on such a very important a matter as this, and with no better understanding of it than can be obtained in such a brief period, is precisely like "buying a pig in a poke"—a purchase better not made at all. We consider it a serious mistake to defer the publication to such a late date; but it may be beyond the power of the State Printer to begin it any earlier, since, at last accounts, the Convention was grinding away as vigorously as ever, and may not quit for a month yet.

In view of the certainty that the complete instrument will be not published, as proposed, in time for fair consideration, it is to be hoped the big dailies will make it their business to publish the parts they may deem the most important, if not the whole, and commence at once.

THE prospect of the passage in the U. S. Senate of the anti-Chinese immigration bill does not now look so favorable. On the 7th instant Senator Hamlin, from the Committee on Foreign Relations, reported back the House bill and moved that the committee be discharged from its further consideration. He announced that when it came up he would move its indefinite postponement. Senator Sargent gave notice that he would call the bill up on last Wednesday, and spoke of the importance of the subject to the Pacific Coast.

ACCORDING to State Superintendent Carr's annual report, the whole number of census children in this State at the close of the last fiscal year was 205,475, being an increase of 5,408 over that of the preceding year. Number of school districts in the State, 1,929; number of schools, 2,578; number of male teachers, 1,192; female, 2,101. Average monthly salary paid to male teachers, $83 95; to female teachers, $68 24.

IN the United States Senate, on the 6th, the bill to provide for taking the tenth and subsequent census was taken up, and after one or two important amendments, was passed by yeas 46 to nays 4.

NEED ENLIGHTENMENT.

The Convention is still hammering away on the revenue article of the new Constitution, involving all the methods of taxation and definitions of what constitutes "property." A noticeable point in the proceedings is the fact that Mr. Reddy, our joint delegate for Inyo and Mono, keeps watchful care over the mining interests of this section, taking the floor promptly whenever some blundering idiot proposes in anywise to cripple or embarrass them. This, of course, is nothing more than his duty, since mining is our paramount interest and without which our peculiar agricultural resources would be valueless. But it is an almost impossible task to make an average member from the other side of the Sierras understand the different condition of things, the peculiar nature and special requirements of our silver and sage brush region on this side of the mountains. An instance in point comes to mind concerning the law providing for the purchase by the State of property sold for delinquent taxes, which is perfectly absurd as applied to nine-tenths of the mining, as well as a large proportion of "town lots" and agricultural claims, in these counties. Had its provisions been fully carried out by the proper officers of this county, the State would now own about all the town lots of Panamint, the ground once occupied by stations on desert roads and hundreds of mining locations from San Bernardino to Mono. Latterly, however, the Sheriff, Clerk and Treasurer have been performing the work of issuing, recording and preserving the reams of papers incident to these transfers—for which there is not a cent of fees or salary allowed, and if for no other reason than this we think they ought not to do it. And these so-called "purchases by the State" are in every instance primarily and essentially United States property, no title ever having passed from the Government to those holding possession when the same was assessed or taxed. Hence the State assumes the ridiculous idea of taxing Government land into its own ownership. Besides, having failed to appoint a thousand or so of special agents in each county to keep guard over each lot, acre or mine so transferred, those in possession or somebody else may continue in the fullest enjoyment of it unmolested. Who is going to trouble them, and how can the State again tax its own (?) property? Such is the working of the system as applied to the counties on this side. Yet when it was enacted in '73-4 Mr. Parker, then representing this region, made every effort in committee and on the floor to beat the thing, but unsuccessfully. In the last legislative session Mr. Moffat attempted its repeal as far as these two counties were concerned, but the cow county and San Francisco members, totally ignorant of the condition of affairs on this side of the range, could not conceive why a special exception should be made. Having given an illustration of the point, we conclude by reiterating the fact—a delegate or representative from this side has a tough contract on hand when he attempts to educate an average legislator into a knowledge of our special needs and wants.

TROUBLE IN CAMP.—There is trouble the Kearney camp at the present writing. Denis believes in his heart that Wellock, his Leftenant, hitherto one of the elect among the reformers, is trying to sell out the whole pack. This is because Wellock has been seen fooling around the Convention lobbying against the Railroad Commissioner Article. They do say, too, that in consideration of this service, Stanford give him $3,000 with which to start his Workingman's paper. Now, as we estimate these worthies, Wellock and Kearney, either one would sell out for coin, but in this matter they probably do Mr. W. a wrong—it is more reasonable to suppose Stanford would give him $3,000 to let that Article stand than for the opposite purpose; that's what some people think, anyway. The idea is that Stanford thinks it will be less laborious by far to lead three Commissioners around by the nose than to do the same thing with a 120 equally able bodied Legislators. Nevertheless, if Kearney will see that Wellock is hung on suspicion, or vice versa, we'll see that but few respectable people snivel themselves to death about it.

WE are in receipt of a sample copy of the annual edition of the San Francisco Journal of Commerce. It contains an exhaustive review of finance, commerce, and mining on this coast for the past year, with comparative tables—in the case of gold and silver production, extending back to 1848. It contains more information about the trade, industries, etc., of the coast than has ever before been published in so small a space. There is something there to interest every tradesman. It is a large eight-page paper, one being occupied with lithographs showing many of the various industries of the coast, and also a complete map of the coast line. W. H. Murray, 414 Clay street, is the business manager.

THINGS IN GENERAL.

Stanley is announced for another African expedition.

Richard Henry Dana, poet and essayist, died on the 1st, aged 93. His son was the author of "Two years before the mast," a book of especial interest to Californians.

Sacramento is to have a free letter delivery from and after July 1st.

England and Portugal have agreed to joint operations against the slave trade between Mozambique and Madagascar.

Mrs. Clara S. Foltz has been admitted to practice as an attorney in the Fourth District Court, San Francisco.

Seventeen per cent. of the voters of Louisiana cannot write their names—a pretty good showing, though, if the ex-slaves are included.

According to a Washington correspondent, Gen. Grant writes to a friend in that city: "I see they are hammering away at the army again. There is no peace for the army except in time of war."

A merchant in Dallas, Texas, has his residence on the corporation line and his bed in the middle of the house, so that he sleeps in the city and his wife in the country.

The owners of the ground at Monticello, Virginia, where Thomas Jefferson is buried, have agreed to give the quit claim required by Congress, and the construction of the monument will be begun in the Spring.

President Hayes is, it is said, in doubt whether he will approve or disapprove the arrears of the Pension Bill. It is estimated that it will take from $20,000,000 to $50,000,000 to execute the provisions of the bill, no one seeming to know any nearer than that how much will be needed.

H. F. Hugh has been sentenced in Eureka, Nevada, to sixty days imprisonment for selling whisky to Indians.

The United States Circuit Court at Baltimore has decided that under the statutes ballot-box stuffing is not a penal offense.

It is rumored that Shere Ali, the Ameer of Afghanistan, has been poisoned.

The Dominion Government has prohibited the importation of American cattle into Canada.

Sitting Bull is still on the Canadian side of the boundary, and has never crossed the line.

Revenue officers are doing good work in Tennessee destroying illicit distilleries and arresting their proprietors.

The United States Mint at New Orleans, which has been idle for nineteen years, resumed work on the 1st instant.

Fears are entertained for the safety of the Swedish Arctic Expedition, and England and Russia have dispatched vessels in search.

Two men still keep a steady guard over the grave of Brigham Young in a small building erected near it.

The Reno Journal claims that a judicious use of tar and feathers has made Reno as quiet as an Eastern town.

At the town of Clinton, in Yavapa county, Arizona, there is one of the richest copper mines on the coast. The ore is shipped to Baltimore.

The National Banker says the amount of money annually paid to the newspapers for advertising in this country exceeds $800,000,000.

The origin of the plague in Russia has been traced to a shawl presented by a Cossack, just returned from the war, to his lady love at Wetliauka. She died within two days after she first wore the shawl; the disease began at once to spread through the country.

REWARD OFFERED.—Governor Kinkead has offered a reward of $500 for William Pearce, under indictment for the murder of Samuel Halsey, and who escaped from jail on the 5th of January last. The following description is given: About 5 feet 10 inches high; 160 pounds; 35 years old; slender; light complexion; blue eyes; wild, suspicious look; sharp features; scar on end of nose, caused by one of the nostrils being cut out which, in healing, left a tit; two or three scars in the small of the back, left side of backbone, caused by a knife; a bronco rider; frequents saloons; is quarrelsome when drunk; very profane, and says "ary" and "nary" for any and none.—Esmeralda Herald.

Yet the murderous beast above described had friends to help him escape, even after he perpetrated this most dastardly murder upon as good a man as Sam Halsey!

THE new army bill reduces the staff twenty per cent. and retires one hundred and four officers of that class; abolishes the ranks of General and Lieutenant-General on the death of the present incumbents; makes the highest rank that of Major-General, with only one, he to be the chief of the army; provides for only six Brigadier-Generals; retires incompetent officers and reduces the army to thirty-two regiments, of which twenty shall be infantry, eight cavalry and four artillery. The chances now are, however, that the bill will not become a law.

IT begins to look like the present Nevada legislature really intended doing something for the people as against the outrageous extortions and discrimination of the railroads. The State has suffered more from this cause than any other in the Union, and it is high time that something was done about it, and that pretty effectually.

ON the 1st instant the National Bank circulation of the United States was nearly $323,000,000. There was also $346,000,000 of Government paper outstanding on the same date.

SECRETARY SHERMAN wants to abolish the Carson Mint for the reason that Eastern manufacturers need the silver for manufacturing purposes.

The Separation of Silver from Lead.

The separation of silver from lead has been effected by hand; but is now substituted, says Chambers' Journal, by applying steam "as an agitator in the pot where the crystallization of the pure lead takes place, and in other respects it produces a chemical change, and facilitates the work." Another process separates the silver "by means of zinc, which is found to wash the melted lead entirely free of the silver contained in it, and the mixture of silver and zinc floats to the top of the pot and is skimmed off. When this is completed, the mixture of zinc and silver is placed in plumbago crucibles in a furnace, and the zinc is distilled off and collected in small metal chambers, where it cools in the form of cake zinc, and is fit for use again." By this means about half of the original zinc is saved, and it is thought the other half may be recoverable.—Scientific American.

REX MONTIS MINE.

No. 121.

U. S. LAND OFFICE, Bodie, California, January 29, 1879.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT THE REX Montis Mining Company, whose postoffice address is San Francisco, California, has this day filed its application for a patent for Eighteen Hundred linear feet of the REX MONTIS mine or vein bearing gold, with surface ground one hundred feet in width, situate, lying and being in Kearsarge Mining District, county of Inyo and State of California, and known and designated by the field notes and official plat on file in this office as Lot Number 37 of Mineral Monument Number 2, Kearsarge Mining District. The exterior boundaries of said Lot No. 37 being as follows, to-wit: Variation 15 degs East.

Commencing at a post in mound of original location at westerly end of lode, and running thence north 25 deg west 76 links to a post in stone mound; thence north 65 deg east 27 26 chains to a post in mound; thence south 25 deg east 1.51 chains to a post marked P. 5 R M; thence south 65 deg west 27 26 chains to a post marked P. 7 R M, from which Mineral Monument No. 2, Kearsarge Mining District, on the highest peak of Kearsarge Mountain, bears south 13 deg east 2.18 chains distant; thence north 25 deg west 75 links to place of beginning, containing 4 12-100 acres.

This claim is bounded northerly by the "Boomerang" and "Arctic" mining claims. The location of this mine is duly recorded in the Recorder's office of the Kearsarge Mining District, on page 100 in Book A of Records of Claims, of Kearsarge Mining District, Inyo county, California.

Any and all persons claiming adversely any portion of said Rex Montis mine or said mining ground as hereinbefore described, are required to file their adverse claim with the Register of the United States Land Office at Bodie, in the State of California, during the sixty days period of publication hereof, or they will be barred by virtue of the provisions of the statute.

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 15.....1879

PROSPECTING.—At night the camp-fires of several different prospecting parties may be seen on the side of the Inyo mountains across the valley and opposite town. There is quite a revival in the matter, old locations and once familiar districts being carefully looked over again by men who know more about mines than they did ten or fifteen years ago. The country is being examined by men whose ideas upon the subject have undergone a change; they pass by with a look of contempt the old prospect holes and long tunnels started to reach some of the many little seams abounding in the foot-hills, go higher up and seek for large, "contact" veins in the solid formation. A wider knowledge of geology and metallurgy now-a-days frequently directs the prospecting pick to fall upon a thin black scoria, into the midst of a belt of porphyry or through a white, lime-like covering of chloride ore—leading to the opening of a mine where its existence was hitherto unsuspected. The washes and cañons where they used to find "rich float" are being traced to the summits to find out where that gold came from. By this plan the rich gold ledges of Beveridge district, and more recently equally rich mines adjoining it upon the north, were discovered—or rather "found," for the discovery of their existence was made years ago when some hardy mountaineer, subsisting on jerked beef and pine nuts, "picked up" that "float." It may have been a happy thing that the Indians did stampede the population in those days, because the present prospector and many of the old hands are left to do the work—more intelligently directed and under vastly more favorable circumstances. Mr. Tom May has just returned from a few days' roughing it in his old haunts over there, and reports having stumbled across the "Lost Ledge," a large vein which could not be found again upon the owner's return to the country after the exodus. It is of great width, length and probable value for silver, but the re-discover was pushing ahead for something else and considerately left it there for the next man, because he couldn't bring it away and didn't want to stay with it—just then, at least. The mountains are rough and rugged in the extreme. From the summit down to Saline Valley on the east side, limestone bowlders and granite cliffs and crags render locomotion even dangerous for footmen, and it is almost impossible to cross the mountains without a wide detour to the north or south. The entire range, for a distance of about 140 miles from Montgomery to Cerro Gordo, presents a wondrous mineral country, literally seamed with metalliferous veins and is practically unprospected except at two or three points.

LIVELY.—The town appeared quite lively for a time the other evening, so far as liveliness could be indicated by knots of men standing around, watching alternately the progress of a drunken row at the brewery and a dog fight on the opposite corner. The human contestants subsequently bore their bloody heads about with considerable pride, as if highly honored. The dogs went off with tails curled under—expressing so far as possible the superiority of canine sensibilities in such disgraceful affairs.

BENTON.—The Comanche company at Benton have resumed operations again. Our letter, under date of 12th instant, says: "The mill started on tailings on the 5th, and is working at a good profit; will ship a number of bars next week. The hoisting works of the Kerrick mine have been removed to the Tower, the entire change being accomplished and the machinery set in motion again in five working days, exclusive of two days on the teams. Pretty quick work."

RACES.—Elsewhere will be found the corrected advertisement of the Bishop Creek Jockey Club, giving the programme and purses for their third annual races, on the 21st and 22d instants. There will be no lack of opportunities for backing up your judgment with coin, and our sporting men will do well to attend—that is, if they happen to gamble on the right nag.

SHORT PAPER.—THE INDEPENDENT is just now running with a short typographical force, no force at all, in fact, save the proprietors—much of whose attention is at present necessarily occupied with matters aside from the paper. These things will soon be through with, and with additional help the usual amount of reading matter will be given.

NEW STOCK.—Al. Briggs comes to the front with an announcement of a fresh arrival of choice goods at his Bishop Creek store. The institution is keeping ahead of the times in its efforts to meet all requirements, and the concern is a deservedly popular one with the Bishop Creekers.

SPRING.—We are having real Spring-weather, these days—warm enough to start fruit buds and grass; frequent showers in the valley, with snow to correspond on the mountains. On the latter, the snow-line continues full two-thousand feet higher this Winter than common.

RUNNING.—The Brown Monster mill has been running thirty stamps steadily for some time, and partial clean-ups so far indicate complete success. We shall soon begin the pleasant work of recording the company's monthly shipments of gold.

CHANGE OF BASE.—Wm. F. Matlack, so long identified with this place, has removed, with his family, to the Eclipse or Brown Monster mill, there to carry on blacksmithing for the company.

ON A VISIT.—Wm. O. Harrell and family, of Bishop Creek, passed through town last week, en route for an extended visit to San Francisco.

A GRAND AFFAIR.—Our noble red brethren and "sistern" from all parts of the valley gathered last Sunday at a point in the sage-brush about half a mile west of Camp Independence, and there held their grand annual Constitutional Convention in and for this particular district. The first day's exercises consisted exclusively of howlings and cryings of the most lugubrious type, being a day of general mourning. This was the sad and really laborious duty of the mahalas. On the following day preparations for the real business of the convention were completed in time for the grand opening in the afternoon. On the call to order at about 2 P. M., it was found that a large number of new delegates had put in an appearance since the adjournment of the night before; among these were a few Non-Partisan whites, who came to look on while the workers did the work. The first business was the transaction of one of the most complete and perspiringly executed war dances that has been put on these sands since last hog killin' time. At least a hundred warriors showed how they could "wade through blood knee deep," a la Kearney, if it wasn't for the danger involved. The convention proper, the appropriations being low down, adjourned sine die, so as to get ready for the grand ball in the evening. This proved to be a most recherche affair; the elite of the Piute nation (this sub-division) were right on hands; the toilets, so a young reporter informs us, "were magnanimous; way up." It was a weird exhibition, that wide circle of aborigines of both sexes, shoulder to shoulder, close order, circling solemnly to the left, in six-inch steps cadenced to a song in which any and all took part at pleasure, around and around unceasingly by the light of flickering sagebrush fires and twinkling stars, and—and—the moon didn't get up till too late to do any good; now and then the monotony would be broken by a laugh, and once with: "Oh, pshaw! me heap too drunk to dance," uttered by a reeling Piute, and another time with a growl by one of a number of white delegates who joined in, because the dusky beauties declined to join hands with him in the quadrille. Inside the circle sat five Indians around a large stone, in a hollow of which was a quantity of some kind of liquid; this they each in turn continued to take up on their finger tips and then to their lips till the supply was exhausted. The touch to the lips was much as if throwing a kiss, and always with a laugh from the operator, who alone seemed to see the point of the joke whatever the joke may have been. Outside the circle stood "a heap, heap white folks," as one delighted Piute several times exclaimed, a large number of ladies and gentlemen from town and elsewhere having gathered in to witness the performances. We think, though, they all went without tickets; the reason for that belief is, that we didn't get any "deadhead," consequently were not represented, and of course cannot compliment the managers by name, as we, otherwise, would have been under obligations to have done—also, to have reported proceedings. But everything went along about as nicely as if our reporter had been present, and more soberly, perhaps.

EGGS.—As an exceptional case, this market has been abundantly supplied all Winter with eggs of home production, the price standing uniformly at 50 cents per dozen, which is another unprecedented circumstance. Now that the hens have started in vigorously for the Spring trade, the home market is overstocked, and we should think it would pay somebody to pack up the surplus and haul them off to the mining towns, where they command a dollar a dozen, and no questions asked as to how you came by them.

STRUCK IT.—The old Fish Springs gold ledges, some eighteen miles north of town, have been re-opened and prospected by the lessees, Olmstead & Davis. They have been successful in finding the lost ledge in the old workings, with plenty of ore running from $75 to $150 per ton in gold. Mr. Westerville is setting about to repair the old arrastras, and in due time the old mines will again cut quite a figure in our local mining interests.

STARTING UP.—J. W. Smith will next week set the Black Rock saw mill in motion for the season's run. He has already an abundance of water for power and the flume, and thinks that the coming demand for lumber will make quite a raid on his extensive timber claim.

HERE.—Mr. Edwards, junior of the Lone Pine firm of Macarter & Edwards, favored us with a call last week, it being his first visit to Independence.

WE acknowledge the receipt from our old friend Billy Daugherty, Deputy State Controller of Nevada, of a number of valuable documents pertaining to the Silver State. Muy gracios.

DO IT NOW.—Do not live another hour of your life without doing exactly what is to be done in it, and go straight through from beginning to end. Work, play, study, whatever it is, take hold and finish at once, and finish it up squarely and clearly; then do the next thing without letting any moments pass between. You may have often seen the anecdote of the man who was asked how he had accomplished so much in his life. "My father taught me," was the reply, "when I had anything to do, to do it." There is the secret—the magic now.

NEWS from Deadwood City, Dakota, is to the effect that Sam McMasters, known throughout Nevada as a mining superintendent, and formerly connected with the Modoc mine, in Inyo county has been arrested, as also his brother, at that place for killing a man over some difficulty on the Homestake mine.—Bodie Standard.

AMONG the candidates for Sergeant-at-Arms of the United States Senate is Gen. Corse, who signaled to Gen. Sherman, "I am short a cheek and an ear, but can whip all h—l yet." Upon this message "Hold the Fort!" was founded.

ITS EFFECTS.—Yesterday at the station house when the police were taking the description of a young man, scarcely more than a youth, who was recently held to answer for burglary, even old and experienced officers were shocked to observe, on the removal of his clothing, the emaciated and unhealthy appearance of his body, consequent upon persistent indulgence in the vice of opium-smoking. And yet this same youth was praised by thousands two or three years ago for his fine physical development, endurance and grace of motion, which caused him to be considered the champion roller skater of this section, if not of the State. In one of the cells of the city prison there was also yesterday another example of the insidious effects of the baneful drug—a boy who was arrested in an opium den about a week ago, and yesterday was as sick as a dog; in fact has been entirely used up since he was taken in charge, simply because he had not the opportunity to satisfy the craving that had grown upon him from indulgence in the foul stuff.—Record-Union, Feb. 5.

ARTICLES of incorporation were filed, Feb. 5, by the Hartford Silver Mining Company, to work in Inyo county, with a capital stock of $10,000,000. Directors—F. B. Howard, Geo. S. Burnett, M. F. Dailey, B. W. Mudge, W. R. Carton.

A. H. STEPHENS enjoys the reputation of being the best whist player in Congress. The article in "Johnson's Encyclopædia" is written by him.

IN a test case in Winnemucca, Nev., the Judge decided that a suit was void in which the papers were made out on Sunday.

SUMMONS.

IN THE DISTRICT COURT OF THE SIXTEENTH Judicial District of the State of California, in and for the County of Inyo.

A. Montgomery, Plaintiff, vs. John Simpson, Defendant. — Action brought in the District Court of the Sixteenth Judicial District of the State of California, in and for the County of Inyo, and the complaint filed in said County of Inyo the in office of the Clerk of said District Court.

The People of the State of California send greeting to John Simpson, Defendant: You are hereby required to appear in an action brought against you by the above named plaintiff in the District Court of the Sixteenth Judicial District of the State of California, in and for the County of Inyo, and answer the complaint filed therein, within ten days (exclusive of the day of service), after the service on you of this summons—if served within this county; or, if served out of this county, but in this district, within twenty days; otherwise, within forty days—or judgment by default will be taken against you according to the prayer of said complaint.

The said action is brought to recover the sum of two thousand one hundred and sixty dollars, due from said defendant to plaintiff for work and labor, done and performed, at defendant's special instance and request, as will more fully appear by the complaint on file herein, to which reference is here made, besides costs of suit.

And you are hereby notified that if you fail to appear and answer the said complaint, as above required, the said plaintiff will take judgment against you for the said sum of Two thousand one hundred and sixty dollars and costs of suit. Given under my hand and the seal of the District Court of the Sixteenth Judicial District of the State of California, in and for the County of Inyo, this 31st day of January, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and seventy-nine.

THE UNION CON. MINING COMPANY OF Cerro Gordo. Location of principal place of business, San Francisco, California. Location of works, Cerro Gordo, Inyo County, California. NOTICE is hereby given, that at a meeting of the Board of Directors held on the 8th day of January, 1879, an assessment (No 2) of Fifty Cents per share was levied upon the capital stock of the corporation, payable immediately in U. S. gold coin, to the Secretary, at the office of the company, No. 402 Front street, San Francisco, California.

Any stock upon which this assessment shall remain unpaid on the TWELFTH day of FEBRUARY, 1879, will be delinquent and advertised for sale at public auction, and unless payment is made before, will be sold on Wednesday, the Fifth day of March, 1879, to pay the delinquent assessment, together with costs of advertising and expenses of sale. By order of the Board of Directors.

THOS. M. CONVERSE,
Secretary.

OFFICE—Room No. 2, 402 Front Street, San Francisco, Cal. n448td

NOTICE OF FORFEITURE.

TO HENRY HERON, G. HOOVER, T. M'KNIGHT and Mr. Roth:

You are hereby notified that the undersigned has expended the sum of $106 30 in labor and improvements upon the Cerro Gordo Mining Co., situated in Cerro Gordo (formerly Lone Pine) Mining District, County of Inyo State of California, being the amount of assessment work required to be done for the year 1878 in order to hold said premises, under the provisions of Sections 2324, Revised Statutes of the United States, and if within ninety days after the expiration of this notice by publication you or either of you fail or refuse to contribute your proportion of such expenditure as co-owners, your interest in said claim will become the property of the subscriber, under said Section 2324.

JOHN BRISCO.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

PUBLISHED EVERY SATURDAY, BY

CHALFANT & PARKER.

J. E. PARKER. P. A. CHALFANT.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:

SATURDAY, MARCH 1.....1879

DENIS has issued his pronunciamento to Workingmen commanding them to give their support to the new Constitution, which he finds is "good enough," though not perfect. He is further induced to command this because he sees that all "the lying, thieving, subsidized newspapers and hell-hounds of rich men and corporation scoundrels" are going to vote it down. In about every other sentence he has something to say about "we honest men," which, of itself, adds to quite a common belief that a wholly dishonest man is talking. But to accept Denis' logic, we arrive at a diametrically opposite conclusion, namely: if the new Constitution is satisfactory to such alien Communists as Kearney, Wellock and their kind, it bodes no good to the best interests of the country, and nothing short of double-triggered ballots will be quick enough to vote it down.

THERE is something of a revulsion of sentiment in the East on the Chinese bill. For instance, the New York Tribune, Chicago Inter-Ocean and some other influential papers, are favoring the bill most effectively. So, too, are certain prominent Cincinnati clergymen, and several of the Workingmen's societies. But it is not hard to guess at motives by which political papers in the East are actuated in this matter, when we note how the two mentioned are urging the President to sign the bill, while such as the New York World and Sun are even more vehemently urging him not to sign it. All this is according to eastern dispatches of February 25, our latest.

FROM the Esmeralda Herald, of the 22d, we learn that Andrew Culberson discovered some placer diggings on Bodie creek below its junction with the creek from Aurora, which discovery has caused an immense excitement in Aurora and Bodie. The deposit is in a low range of hills where the creek empties on the plain southwest of the Five-Mile House, and about five miles northwest from Aurora. The situation, with reference to the drainage from the rich gold ledges above, is an excellent one for deposits of float gold; a good "color" is found in about every pan of top dirt; it remains to be seen how much better bedrock will do.

THE NUMBER.—There are now four newspaper offices in Mono county—the Standard being the first one ever published in the county. While it takes four papers to do the lying for Mono, Jim Parker manages to get away with Inyo single-handed.—Bodie Standard.

The first sentence of above contains a fair sample of the Standard's success in the art. The Montgomery Pioneer ante-dated it by fourteen years, saying nothing of the dailies published in Aurora when that was considered a part of Mono. But now Mono may require just four times as much lying as Inyo, to keep up its reputation.

THE Esmeralda Herald is occupied a good part of the time now in explaining to certain wrathy women how blundering compositors sometimes spoil things. These indignant mothers are assured the copy read in these time honored words: "The public school is opened, and the young ideas are learning to shoot," and not that "the young idiots are learning to shout," as the arch type fiend made it appear.

AS MIGHT have been predicted, the Nevada legislators are rapidly "falling down" before the power of railroad lobbies. The Virginia Chronicle, Carson Appeal and the other leading journals which have made such a gallant fight for the people in the matter, ought to just simply make the State too hot to hold the corrupted men.

ON the 5th of October last, in a lengthy article descriptive of Indian District as our representative found it, it was confidently called "The Country for the Next 'Rush.'" It is setting in with a vim, though some mining papers filed their exceptions at the time. Our prophetic soul! However, our prophet failed to profit, as usual.

HOW THEY DO IT.—When a girl wants to get married in Inyo county she don't appeal to cruel parients, but simply asks her adorer.—Bodie Standard.

We fancy the Standard will have to have a new receiver and editor, if the present one comes down this way. He'll receive his quietus.

IN the fourteenth century the "black death" plague left 80,000,000 dead. Some alarmists suggest that the number of its victims in the nineteenth century may not be less.

IT is reported that loanable capital has not been so abundant in Wall street, New York, for many years as at the present time.

THE RESTRICTION BILL.

No pending question of national legislation is viewed with greater interest than this to restrict China immigration. Pacific Coasters await its fate much as if it was a life or death proposition; throughout the East, among all classes, it has become a theme of more general remark than any other. There, public sentiment is as nearly unanimous against it as it is here for it. That it should elicit great attention as a commercial, political and diplomatic question is not to be wondered at; nor is it unreasonable that those interests should, there east of the Misssissippi, take up the cudgel against the bill. We can listen to opposition from such stand points with commendable patience, though believing their every material proposition to be false. But when to these is added a question of religion—when every pulpit resounds with what they term the barbarous enormities of this bill—when every religious newspaper, every little Dorcas and Missionary society lift their voices against it as a direct attack upon the cause of Christ—we feel like calling all such ignorant meddlers a pack of bigoted fools. Yet, from just such comes the influence most dangerous to the final success of this measure, all important as it is, quite as much to our moral as to our material interests.

It was thought for several days the bill could not get a hearing in the House, but accident favored it, and by a good majority, the Senate amendments were concurred in, so its fate rests with the President. Speaker Randall is accorded great praise by friends of the bill, for, but for his excellent management, it is thought its enemies could have fillibustered such delays as would have proved fatal. Since its passage as well as previously Senator Blaine has been doing noble service in combatting the assertions of those hard-headed Eastern people, and is entitled to all the more credit because in supporting the bill he stands so nearly alone among his own people. Our Pacific coast delegation are leaving no stone unturned to induce Hayes to sign the bill. Petitions and counter petitions are pouring in upon that good man till they have nearly badgered the life out of him. Many of those eastern petitioners, we truly believe, could not tell a Chinaman from an Esquimaux, and know less than either about the real points at issue, so, of course, use words all the stronger. In this State the Constitutional Convention has addressed another strongly worded resolution to the President to induce him to sign the bill; the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce petition to the same effect, as also does the Republican State Committee, while Mayor Bryant has called a grand mass meeting at which all San Francisco is expected to express itself to the same purport. Meantime Hayes and his Cabinet seem to be preparing to set out their views at length on the question, but whether to please the Eastern or Western sentiment we cannot even surmise.

OH, it's a world of trouble they do have! Just as Denis had got the Sand-Lotters to contribute enough to buy him a new suit of clothes, and he was nearly ready to begin his grand crusade through the State, and plans were all announced by which to raise expense money, and everything was nice indeed, somebody said Wellock, Denis' blundering Lieutenant, was a scoundrel and must be investigated or "reform" would begin to emit a disagreeable effluvia. Now, it turns out that Denis was not fornenst Wellock at all, as stated heretofore, but on the contrary believed that Lieut. W. was as honest and as well meaning as he was himself—in which he was correct, without doubt—and should be vindicated. To this end he got his Ward Presidents into a room beyond reach of rescue, and ordered them to "hacquit," which they did like little men, because they didn't dare do otherwise. This was directly contrary to the edicts of their right hand supporter, the Chronicle, and now the co-parceners and the organ have locked horns, and Denis' fat is in the fire, and a grief stricken people stand afar off and watch the Titans tilt, "pull Dick, pull devil." But in this conflict we fear for Denis; his wonderful arrogance will do him no good against such a power as the Chronicle, had he nothing else to contend against; but that is not all: Wellock put a wanton insult upon religious belief in general, and touching Irish Catholics especially; to this Kearney adds a senseless defiance and insult on his own account to numerous Irish leaders, thereby losing their all important support and countenance. Altogether, it looks as if Denis will have to eat considerable humble pie, and right away, too, or step down and out.

THE San Francisco Chronicle is preparing to build and fit up for its business one of the most complete and finely furnished printing offices in the United States.

THERE is a strong probability that the Constitutional Convention will hang up, sine die, some time this coming week.

SOME very observing paragrapher remarks: "The year having a figure '9' in it has been a succession of events on this coast. In 1849 California was the attraction; in 1859, Washoe; in 1869, White Pine; in 1879, Leadville, Snake river and Alaska are candidates for the regular decade excitement." To make the coincidence as complete as possible this recorder of unnoticed facts might have added that our most sweeping excitements and notable events did not occur in years having a 9 in them. For instance, there's the Gold Bluff and Fraser river, Gold Lake and Kern river, Florence and Esmeralda, orignal Bodie Bluff and other similar excitements, besides the cholera, Denis Kearney, the Constitutional Convention and some other visitations, saying nothing of such events as the completion of the overland railroad, the great Vigilante Committee, the great flood and great drought, etc., all of which marked the off years, and hardly any of them but have influenced the destinies of as many or more people than any of those decade events mentioned, save the first. Such being the case, let us not get up any excitement about the figure 9.

THOSE striking engineers of Bodie are on another strike—they are all striking out for other localities in search of employment, every one of them having lost their situations.

Bill Yoakum—Guilty of Murder.

The trial of Wm. J. Yoakum for the murder of William Johnson came to an end on Friday night. The case was ably argued by consul on both sides, but the closing argument of Judge Holl for the prosecution was a masterly effort, and was several times applauded by the audience. The applause would have been still greater had it not been checked by the Court with a threat to have the room cleared. The Court instructed the Jury at about 10 o'clock, and at 17 minutes past 10 they retired for deliberation. The matter was thoroughly discussed and the instructions of the Court carefully read by the jury. At about 12 o'clock a ballot was taken when it was found there was an unanimous agreement. A verdict of guilty was thereupon prepared, and a messenger dispatched for Judge Reed, who had gone home.

At a quarter to 2 the Judge opened Court again and the jury was brought in, when the two verdicts following were rendered:

"We, the jury, find for the People on the plea of former acquittal." And, "We, the jury, find the defendant guilty of murder in the first degree."

The jury was thereupon discharged, the defendant ordered to appear Monday morning at 10 o'clock for sentence, and Court adjourned.—Kern County Gazette, Feb. 22.

WHAT BODIE NEEDS.—Bodie in her boasted progress and improvements has evidently forgotten what she needs most—that is a church. A big one, with a spire as high as our expectations of Spring developments. It ought to make the very boulders blush when the fact is made known that Mono county never had even the semblance of a church building. Our neighbor, Inyo county, is not much better off in grace, for they have but one building of the kind—the one erected by a little band of laborers in Bishop Creek. It stands there a noble example, and it used to do our soul good to witness the peculiar manner in which the young pumpkin-raisers done their sparking while the old folks exhorted.—Bodie Standard.

There can be no diversity of opinion as to the great moral necessity of a church in Bodie, but the one in Bishop is not needed so bad since the Standard man left there.

THE estimates of the changes that will be made in the House of Representatives by the census of 1880 shows a gain of 66 members, which will be divided among the States as follows: Eastern and Middle States, 11, the Western States, 40, and the Southern States, 15. Accepting the estimate as correct, the electoral vote of 1884 will be divided sectionally as follows: Eastern and Middle States, 124; Western States, 173; Southern States, 138. This would give a solid North a majority of 153 over a solid South, should such an improbable division occur.

PROSPEROUS.—Inyo county is gradually getting out of debt since they reduced the price of whisky to one bit a glass.—Standard.

Mono has no debt, comparatively. Must be, then, that you don't pay anything for whisky. Too thin.

Last Saturday, at Stockton, a boiler exploded while surrounded by a crowd of about two hundred persons, congregated to witness the trial of a pump for which the boiler and its engine were furnishing the power. The devastation was dreadful—at least sixteen persons were killed outright, and three times as many were more or less injured, a number fatally. The stupid obstinacy of the engineer caused the explosion. He swore he would make the engine do its work or blow it up, and to accomplish one or the other, fastened down the safety-valve and forced his fires. His own life paid the penalty.

The Excitement at Indian District.

The citizens of Benton were thrown into a state of unusual excitement yesterday by the appearance in town of Mr. B. N. Lowe, who brought with him a sack of specimens of gold quartz of almost fabulous richness, and evidently from a ledge of great extent. Some of the pieces were as large as the crown of a man's hat, and literally filled with coarse particles of gold. One old miner who has had years of experience in the gold-quartz mines of this State, roughly estimates that selected specimens of the rock are worth $10 to the ounce in free gold. The specimens were exhibited to us last evening by lamplight in the sitting room of the Exchange Hotel, and the effect was really dazzling. A single ton of such ore would be worth a fortune, and it is not surprising that the miners who saw the exhibit were fired by a '49 enthusiasm. Every available horse was soon got in readiness and light outfits for prospecting parties hastily got together. Before night several companies were on their way in search of the new strike. During a short interview with Mr. Lowe we collected the following items concerning the new mines: The names selected are Chidago North and Chidago South. The north location was made by B. N. Lowe and the south by T. C. Harniss, on the 30th of January last, and kept a profound secret. Since then a half interest in each mine has been sold to Shay & Butterfield. Pay silver ore was found on the north croppings, and within fifty feet south of that point gold croppings were found and since traced 600 feet. The dirt from the decomposed gold croppings pays from fifty cents to three dollars to the pan. Mr. Shay, one of the owners, devoted a day to panning out these loose croppings, carrying the dirt about one-fourth of a mile, and got about two ounces of gold. Mr. Lowe says the vein as far as traced will average about eighteen inches in width, and runs nearly north and south, pitching very abruptly to the east. The country rock is porphyry on the east side, and porphyry and granite on the west. Mr. Lowe went to Bodie this morning, taking about 200 pounds of specimens with him for the purpose of interesting Geo. Storey and Jas. Dawley in the new find.—Benton Messenger, Feb, 22.

"KICKING."—Quite an excitement prevailed at the meeting for the election of Recorder of Indian District. The friends of each candidate seemed determined to elect their man. When the result was announced the dissatisfaction of the defeated party was loudly expressed. Even after their return to town many of the party continued to "vote" and "kick." We will simply call their attention to the 11th commandment: "Thou shalt not kick."—Mono Messenger.

GOOD PROPERTIES.—Mining progress just now in and around Cerro Gordo is by no means so slow as might be supposed, though—even if it is but about forty miles distant—it is almost impossible to get authentic reports from there, unless some officer takes in the region and tells what he knows when he gets back. Among the prominent mines now working is the Ygnacio, still yielding plenty of rich ore. The Diaz brothers are opening the San Lucas, in a four-foot ledge of splendid milling ore, sufficient to constantly supply a ten-stamp mill. The Palma mine, owned by Messrs. Hughes & Diaz, is producing fine ore and free gold. At the dump of the Guymas mine, being developed by Antoine Moreno, there is 60 tons of high grade galena, and the property bids fair to equal the Union in value. The gold ledges of Beveridge District, since having been opened during the Winter to the depth of 100 feet, show stronger and richer ore bodies at the bottom, and we know of no earthly reason why gold hunters should not seek that field as well as some of the recent excitements northward. Our reports of gold shipments from there during the present season will fully bear out the statement that it is equal to the best of them.

UNION CON.—For the past week good miners have been in demand at Cerro Gordo. Since the visit of Messrs. Belshaw & Beaudry some two or three weeks ago, work has been pushed ahead in all matters with increased vigor. New drifts have been started, and all of them look well. According to the best judgment of good, practical men with whom we have conversed, any Union stockholder would be acting out the highth of folly in letting go any interest now. The water works, after lying idle all Winter, during which snow was used instead, were started up on the 23d ultimo. The lower furnace is to be fired up again on Monday next, we hope for a good long run.

DIED FROM DRINK.—At a room in the old Inyo House, about 7 o'clock on Monday evening last, one Michael Stinson died a miserable death from whisky. Testimony elicited before the Coroner's Jury showed that he had been in town about a week, during which time he drank heavily and constantly, at a cost of some two or three hundred dollars of his hard-earned money. The deceased has been for a long time engaged as a miner at the Kearsarge; was a native of County Galway, Ireland, 41 years of age. He left no relatives so far as here known.

OVERBOARD.—By notice under the proper heading elsewhere it will be found that another old citizen of Inyo has gone over to the married majority. Hon. D. B. Curtis and wife, nee Mrs. Mary E. Kemp, accompanied by her accomplished daughter, arrived here on Monday last from Portland, Oregon. The party met with a serenade and held a reception at the Blaney House parlors, during which friend Curtis received many warm congratulations from his host of friends hereabouts. The Butte Ranch will be a point of decided interest and attraction hereafter.

MORE WATER.—Supt. Taylor, of the Emigrant mine at Lee District, has been visiting Cerro Gordo, and reports himself so highly pleased with the mineral outlook as to render it probable that he will take an active hand in its interests. He states that at a comparatively small outlay the Lee District water works could be made to supply Cerro Gordo. If such is the case a big silver mill at that point is a future certainty.

STRIKES.—There is quite a stir over the discovery of some extensive ore bodies in Panamint, in mines independent from those owned by the Surprise Valley Company. The owners, having failed to secure a lease of the big mill, will ship their ore across to Snow's Cañon. Some forty men are at work in the district, and a big Cerro Gordo Freighting team has lately been up to the old camp with supplies.

SPECIAL MEETING.—The Board of Supervisors will meet on the 24th instant according to law for the purpose of redeeming county bonds, up to the amount in the treasury for the purpose at that time. Bids are also invited for the hospital contract, boarding of prisoners and a year's supply of wood for the Court House. See notices under head of "New Advertisements."

THE TAX SUIT.—The following extract of Supreme Court proceedings, February 20, explains an agreeable fact: "Union Consolidated Mining Company of Cerro Gordo vs. Passmore—Argued by Reddy for respondent and Brooks for appellant, and judgment affirmed."

BENTON BULLION.—The Vulcan Mill & Mining Company (which is the new name of the old Comanche of Benton, since that institution took a short cut to swindle its creditors) shipped during the week six bars of bullion, valued at $4,012 48, the proceeds of twelve days' work on tailings.

FOR SALE.—See advertisement of a fine lot of stock cattle for sale by Dick Hessian, at Big Pine. There is probably a good speculation in it for somebody, who may drive the band to some of the new districts to the north for butchering.

AT HIS OLD PLACE.—J. M. Horton, ye well-known old sinner, has resumed proprietorship of the Bishop Creek saloon, as shown by the advertisement. "Jack" is a regular trump, and runs a most popular institution.

DOING WELL.—The Cerro Gordo school is flourishing, having seventeen American pupils in regular attendance, including one English. How's that, Parson?

THAT ROBBERY.—From Sheriff Moore we obtain some of the particulars concerning the Lone Pine burglary case of last week. It seems that Mr. Edwards had some $900 and over stowed away in his trunk at his room in the rear portion of the Peterson building. This fact, as afterwards appears, somehow became known to several Chinamen thereabouts. As Mr. E. went to supper two of them stationed themselves on the outside to watch, while the third effected an entrance, gobbled the coin and loaded himself with blanckets and clothing. After making some sort of a settlement with the others, the enterprising Celestial started out on foot for Darwin, but was overtaken by a Chinese peddler wagon and rode to that point. Immediatety upon discovery of the loss Mr. Macarter started out on horseback and soon got trace of his thief. Mr. Chinaman was lavish with his funds at Darwin; bought a $500 Wells-Fargo check on Bakersfield, paid his stage fare and started for that region. Getting word to Deputy Sheriff Welch, Macarter took the old road and got to Indian Wells ahead of the stage. Mr. Welch came up immediately after the stage, and they at once relieved it of Mr. Chinaman. The pig-tail forthwith pungled the check, some money and all of the remaining property; detailed all the particulars of the robbery, and seemed to consider the matter in the light of a really good joke—but after their hard ride of 80 miles perhaps Messrs. Macarter and Welch couldn't fully appreciate it. However, they took tender and watchful care over him all day until the arrival of the up-stage, which was to bring him to Lone Pine for a judicial investigation of things. He was put upon the way-bill and the way-bill came through, but the Chinaman thought that was no reason why he should. In the business of getting into the stage, in the dark, the murky Mongolian mizzled. And Billy and Mac don't like to be joked about it. Mr. Edwards is still out two or three hundred dollars, and will probably put his money in the store safe hereafter.

AN OLD NOTICE.—Harry Wright and others, during a late prospect in the mountains across the river, found an old tunnel running some 60 feet into the mountain, at the end of which is an incline shaft of unknown depth. The ledge matter is gold ore. A search was made and the location notices finally found. What is evidently a piece of the original one is so defaced as to be undecipherable; a subsequent one is legible only by the aid of a magnifying glass, while the third is an extension notice written in pencil on the back. This is plain, and shows that lead pencil writing is infinitely more lasting for such purposes than pen and ink. The locations were made February 11, 1863, and December 11 of the same year, the claim being called the "Crysopolis." Hiram and Wm. Ayers, Huffner, Bauer, Roth, McDonald, Thurber and others are among the names, all of whom figured in the Indian troubles in those days. Time and opportunity permitting, we shall some day write up a history of those old districts.

ROUND VALLEY MILLS.—The new Round Valley Flouring Mills, being built by Mr. John E. Jones, are nearing completion—in fact, it is expected that they will be ready for starting up by the 15th proximo. They are located about one-half mile above the Olds and Hilton farms, near the Postoffice, store, school-house and blacksmith shop, and the point destined for quite a little town in the near future. From Mr. C. S. Swan, the machinist and millwright in charge, we learn that the works are placed in a 26x32 foot building, to be supplemented with an addition 20x26 for storage purposes. The power is furnished by a 13-inch double Leffel turbine wheel, with unfailing abundance of water, under 26 feet pressure. The machinery consists of 36-inch French burrs, having a capacity of 600 pounds per hour, with a smutter, cracking machine, etc. Mr. E. G. Edson is to be the miller in charge. There is perhaps 100 tons of grain yet held in the valley, awaiting for grinding at the new mill.

FORCING COLLECTIONS.—For novelty of execution, brilliancy of design and characteristic originality, we commend the following new method of balancing accounts: At a point not a thousand miles from Benton, in Mono county, there presides over the destinies of the local court one Corkinson Robscrue, J. P. There also resides there one Ash Danley, a miller—a gin-miller, in fact, upon whose stock the high judicial functionary has in times past drawn so heavily as to leave a preponderating amount on the debit side of ye miller's account. Now, in the course of the hearing of a cause, ye millman partakes somewhat of his own goods, proceeds to the court, annoys the attorneys and otherwise disturbs the peace, dignity and serenity of the temple of justice. He gets fined $25 for contempt, when he goes off and places it on the credit side of that account.

A GOOD ONE.—Now the joke is on friend Nathan Rhine, of H. & R. As surety for the late Postmaster he has been devoting much time attending to the thousand and one of the annoying red-tape details of the business, only to finally find out that he wasn't on the bond at all. There is a fight on hand for anyone mentioning the matter to him now.

HE HAD.—In a literary discussion the other evening a gentleman was discoursing upon his familiarity with the works of the immortal bard of Avon, when he was suddenly confronted with the question as to whether he had ever read "Shakespeare's Life of General Jackson." He was a little reluctant about it, but finally thought that he had—but it was so long ago that he could "scarcely remember."

THERE.—Johnny Irwin, Kit Johnson, Ned Reddy and "Bones" Langer are among those rushing off to the new gold country. The two parties went in buggies, with fine steppers ahead. Kid gloves and carriages for the next prospecting outfit, if you please.

OWENS LAKE LITERATURE.—Following is a verbatim transcript of one portion of a late correspondence which has been going on, though our reporter apologizes for the "anshuntness" of the date of the specimen selected:

OLANCH, INYO CO., KAL.,

DROWNED.—Postmaster C. F. Sharp of Darwin has thoughtfully placed us in possession of a letter received by him announcing the death of Joseph Davis, late of Darwin, and a man quite well and favorably known in the southern of Inyo. Under date of "Justice Court First Township, Yuma Co., A. T., February 23, 1879," G. M. Knight, Justice of the Peace, addresses the Postmaster at Darwin as follows: "DEAR SIR—On the 22d instant I held an inquest upon the body of a man named Joseph Davis, who was found drowned in the Colorado river. I find by papers belonging to deceased that he had been a resident of your town in the year 1878. I can find nothing to show where he belongs or whether he has any relatives or not. Should you know any one in your town acquainted with the relatives of deceased it would be well to inform them of the fact. I find that deceased was engaged in the brewery business in your town, and had business relations with one R. Craytor. Deceased was but little known here, and as far as I can learn at present his effects will barely cover the expense of his burial."

STATE SCHOOL MONEY.—We are indebted to State Superintendent Carr for the following school statistics: Amount apportioned to county, $2,551 52; total number of census children, 431; amount per child, $5 92. The number of children in each district is as follows: Big Pine, 34; Bishop Creek, 73; Cerro Gordo, 17; Darwin, 57; Independence, 47; Irving, 43; Lone Pine, 54; Milton, 42; Round Valley, 43; Union, 20. County Superintendent Symmes has the duty of apportioning the State and county school moneys to the several districts.

American Mining.

The present excitement in the gold and silver regions of the Pacific Coast affords us a good excuse for referring briefly but comprehensively to the history of mining in the precious metals in the United States; and in doing so we may call to mind many interesting facts which may have been forgotten in the course of the rapidly occuring events of the past two years—events which have changed the entire status of gold and silver in their relations to finance and commerce. In fact, American mining is at the present time attracting the attention of the whole civilized world. Its profits are more colossal than we have ever known. The element of chance which makes the business so fascinating is, of course, inseparable from it and it is, perhaps, to this element must be traced much of the development of the business. California, Nevada and Colorado are the three great State bonanzas of American mining. The United States is destined to be the great specie producing country of the world. The immense production of gold and silver in Nevada and California alone astonishes the world, while the entire production of the precious metals west of the Mississippi during the last three years was $275,105,000. The yield in 1876 was larger than that of any previous year, but that of 1877 was larger, while that of the current year promises to be still larger or equalling $100,000,000. More than one-half of this wealth now comes from Nevada, and the greater proportion of this amount from the famous Comstock lode, the mines of which have already paid about $20,000,000 in dividends alone. From two of these mines—the Consolidated Virginia and California—silver to the amount of $120,000,000 has been taken. The bonanza mines give 55 per cent. of silver to 48 per cent. of gold. The production of silver within the territory of the United States corresponds at six per cent. per annum to a capital of $750,000,000; or, allowing for the labor, etc., employed in its extraction, to one-half per cent. of $376,000,000. This is vast interest. The capital stock of these silver mines is $420,000,000. The production of our mines of precious metals is now about $95,000,000 per annum. Compare this with the early mining of the country. Although many of the earlier adventurers keep a vigilant watch for traditional treasures in the soil, it was not until a comparatively recent date that gold and silver existed in the Atlantic States in any appreciable amount. —Boston Com. Bulletin.

HELD TO ANSWER.—The examination of Henry Hief for the killing of George H. Taft closed to-day, Justice Peterson holding the prisoner to answer on the charge of murder, and remanding him to the custody of Deputy Sheriff Massey to be taken to Bridgeport. Too much praise cannot be bestowed upon Judge Peterson and his officers for the fidelity to the law-abiding people, as evidenced during this protracted and tedious inquiry. The signs of the times are that the people will examine and settle such affairs without expense to the county.—Bodie Chronicle.

DIED.—Hon. R. M. Briggs has received a dispatch announcing the death this morning, at his home in Jackson, Cal., of his son Charles, who has been suffering for several months of dropsy of the heart. When Judge Briggs left home a few days ago his son had so far recovered that his death was not anticipated as close at hand. The many friends of the Judge will join us in sympathy in his sad bereavement.—Bodie Standard, March 7.

THE officers of the jail have felt obliged to place W. J. Yoakum in irons. He does not take his precarious position with the humility expected of a man condemned to death.—Bakersfield Courier.

The Chinese Article.

Following is the full text of the Article in the Constitution designed to cure the Chinese evil We have here but one comment to offer upon it, and that is, according to our understanding of the matter, there is not a single section or part of a section in it but would be declared by any Bench of Judges in direct conflict with the Constitution of the United States, saying nothing about treaties yet in force; the Article is worth the place it occupies in the new Constitution simply as an official expression of public sentiment, that and nothing more:

SECTION 1. The Legislature shall prescribe all necessary regulations for the protection of the State, and the counties, cities and towns thereof, from the burdens and evils arising from the presence of aliens who are or may become vagrants, paupers, mendicants, criminals or invalids afflicted with contagious or infectious diseases, and from aliens otherwise dangerous or detrimental to the well-being or peace of the State, and to impose conditions upon which such persons may reside in the State, and to provide the means and mode of their removal from the State upon failure or refusal to comply with such conditions; provided, that nothing contained in this section shall be construed to impair or limit the power of the Legislature to pass such police laws or other regulations as it may deem necessary.

SEC. 2. No corporation now existing or hereafter formed under the laws of this State shall, after the adoption of this Constitution, employ, directly or indirectly, in any capacity, any Chinese or Mongolian. The Legislature shall pass such laws as may be necessary to enforce this provision.

SEC. 3. No Chinese shall be employed on any State, county, municipal or other public work, except in punishment for crime.

SEC. 4. The presence of foreigners ineligible to become citizens of the United States, is declared to be dangerous to the well being of this State, and the Legislature shall discourage their immigration by all the means within its power. Asiatic coolieism is a form of human slavery, and is forever prohibited in this State, and all contracts for coolie labor shall be void. All companies or corporations, whether formed in this country or any foreign country, for the importation of such labor, shall be subject to such penalties as the Legislature shall prescribe. The Legislature shall delegate all necessary power to the incorporated cities and towns of this State, for the removal of Chinese without the limits of such cities and towns, or for their location within prescribed portions of these limits, and it shall also provide the necessary legislation to prohibit the introduction into this State of Chinese after the adoption of this Constitution. This section shall be enforced by appropriate legislation.

A Rower.

"You seem to be a stranger in town?" remarked the court as John Hudson slammed out in a reckless way.

John nodded.

"You probably came here to attend the regatta?"

Another nod.

"And it looks to me as if you attended a free fight somewhere. Am I right?"

A great big nod this time.

"Ah! me, but why can't young men keep out of trouble?" sighed the court. "Shakespeare didn't go around with a bitten ear. Homer didn't walk out with his nose bunged up. George Alfred Townsend was never seen with a black eye. Why can't you scull yourself into the channel of good behavior?"

"Feller sassed me," mournfully replied the young man.

"Yes, I suppose so. I suppose you were swelling around the grand stand claiming to be the head man in the Wug-wug-jing crew, or the best puller in the Ka-ha-da-das, and the other chap was swelling around in the same way. I shall fine you five dollars, sir."

"P-please don't."

"But I must."

"Don't do it, sir. I've only got three dollars, and it costs $2 90 to get home. I want to start right away."

"You are a nice-looking man to go back to your native town! Why, look in this hand glass once and see how badly you are banged up."

He looked. He held the glass to his nose, then out at arm's length, and then laid it down and said:

"Send me up for thirty days!"—Free Press.

FIRE AT SILVER CITY.—A fire broke out on Tuesday morning at Silver City in a Chinese wash-house, and before the flames could be arrested sixteen buildings were destroyed. The Miners' Union lost all its books. The heaviest losers are Mrs. Drysdale (boarding house), Philip Geyer (brewery), and Strouse & Getz (butchers). Total loss about $50,000. The Legislature yesterday promptly passed a relief bill for the sufferers, donating $2,500.—Aurora Herald, March 8.

The Chicago Times quotes a leading Socialist of that city as saying: "Mark my word; the bullet has been moulded that will put an end to the despotism of Bismarck. It will strike him before the end of the year. I tell you this information comes from a source that can't be questioned."

At an expense of $60 to the people besides his own lawyer's fees, a farmer in Iowa has recovered one cent from a man whom he sued for fourteen fence rails.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:

SATURDAY, MARCH 15.....1879

KEARNEY is haranguing the people in the coast counties below San Francisco. He appears to have three objects in view, namely: to canvass for his organ, the San Francisco Chronicle, Denis Kearney and the new Constitution. For the first named service the organ has entirely condoned his recent alleged crime of shielding Wellock, his fellow fraud and officer, whose real offending seems to have been in starting and running a paper on Chronicle principles, therefore likely to become something of a rival for the plaudits of the riff-raff, whose organ it was to be. Kearney is coached by quite an able representative of the Chronicle, and, instead of the senseless, ruffianly blackguard speeches of which alone he is capable, appears to be making addresses in tolerable English, containing here and there a grain of common sense and some decency. We hear nothing now of "blood knee deep," "the Chinese must go—hands up," etc., but instead have tirades relating to "rings" and rich rascals of the localities in which he may happen to be. There is no doubt but that he thus occasionally succeeds in showing up some live scoundrels and abuses, and in that way is gaining supporters. In every instance the Kearney Koran, the new Constitution, is reverently pointed to as the infallible remedy for these abuses and the instrument that will humble every rich scoundrel wherever found; but neither he nor the able representative undertakes to show how the new Koran is to reach these things; how it is to compel people to choose honest officers; how it is to make David Jacks live less like a hog; how it is to make him quit charging those poor washerwoman fifty cents a month for washing clothes at his private frog pond. But there are hundreds of people who accept such stuff, coming from the new Mohammed, as pure gospel.

A MUNICIPAL election took place in Oakland last Monday upon the result of which a great deal of interest has centered, as it was expected to show what progress the Kearney movement was making. The result is by no means a Kearney triumph—quite the reverse when measured by their previous hopes. Their candidate for Mayor, Andrus, the present incumbent, and personally a very popular man, is re-elected by a majority of 210, the precise majority given him last year. Two Aldermen on the same ticket are also elected, but by insignificant majorities. The Citizens' ticket elects all the remaining (5) Aldermen and other city officers. In some wards the Republicans ran an unsuccessful ticket of their own, but for city officers they joined forces with the Democrats. The total vote shows an increase of 96 over that of last year.

A SHORT time since in referring to the atitude of certain Eastern papers on the Chinese bill, we got localities a little mixed, and credited the New York Tribune with being a strong supporter of the bill and opponent of the veto, when it was not that paper but the Chicago journal of the same name which should have been so credited. Speaking of the veto the latter paper remarks that "if the Administration of Mr. Hayes takes no diplomatic step to free the Pacific coast from the evils of continued coolie importations, at the next session of Congress an anti-Chinese bill will be passed by such a majority as will render a veto powerless and impotent."

NOBODY who tries to study out the real scope, intent and effect of that wonderfully constructed Article on Taxation in the new Constitution but must rejoice from his boot soles upward that that tail-piece or address sheds so much needed light on so obscure a subject. But for that explanation it would have been a big thing for some literary paper to have submitted the whole article as a prize puzzle. We don't give it up yet, quite, for in due course we shall try to solve it with our own cipher.

IT seems that the statement that the British-Afghan war was about ended was premature. A dispatch of the 10th states the Afghans had just inflicted two crushing blows upon British detachments, capturing one important fort.

THE Anti-Chinese agitation is not wholly confined to this section of the world. It has increased to such an extent in Australia that the Government has been called upon to restrict immigration.

THE whole revenue of Pennsylvania is derived from taxation on incorporated companies and personal property. No State tax is levied on real estate. Several States are contemplating adopting such a law.

THE "BUNCOMBE" ARTICLE.

We observe that the Sand-Lot speakers are spending time in asserting that the Chinese Article is so framed that it must inevitably prove to be an infallible panacea for the Chinese evil. Mr. Beerstecher, one of the manufacturers of the article, does not doubt for a moment but that it is strictly in harmony with the U. S. Constitution. Admitting this to be true (which we do not, however), we would like Mr. B. or any other man to show us that the article is applicable to Mongolians alone. The entire article will be found elsewhere in this issue. Study it, those who choose, and see if we are wrong in saying that it applies to aliens from any and every other country with just the same precision as it does to those of China? This refers to Section 1 only, which is complete of itself, and made all the more distinct because every one of the following makes a specific application of its subject matter to the Chinese alone, each separately and distinctly, yet without reference to or modification of the first in any manner, which; therefore, brings aliens of all countries under precisely the same police surveillance and regulations that it does Chinamen. It is nonsense to say that power is vested in the Legislature to confine its application to the class intended by the framers, for that would be special legislation, which is expressly prohibited by the instrument throughout. So far as the wording of the four sections shows any connection between Section 1 and the remaining three, which are specific, it might as well have been placed under the head of "miscellaneous" as where it is. Should it ever come in force, it will, we suppose, be necessary for the Legislature to create a new officer who might be called the "Suspector General," and a large number of Deputy Suspectors. Under Section 1 it will be the duty of these officers to arrest and segregate and send out of the country any Chinaman whom they "suspect may become vagrants, paupers, mendicants or invalids afflicted with any contagious or infectious [this last is a blow at the social evil, perhaps] diseases," and aliens "detrimental to the peace of the State." No doubt but the framers intended this section to reach Chinamen alone; but, as it speaks of "aliens" without distinction, it certainly can as easily be construed to apply to Germans, English, Irish, French, or any other foreigner in our midst, whom, it is suspected, might "become vagrants," etc., as to the Chinese. A Constitution, as well as statutes under it, must be taken at just what they say without reference in any manner to what the framers intended them to say but failed wholly to express. By that rule this section must be, and is here interpreted. We will be glad if any one can show that our conclusions as to its want of limit are wrong. We consider the whole article a constitutional nullity, intended for nothing in the world but buncombe and as a text for the most dangerous demagogues this State affords, and worthy of reference only as one among many similar crudities pervading "this best Constitution the world ever saw!" We will refer to some of the others in due time. Meantime, we nominate Dr. O'Donnell as Suspector General, provided he will begin on the vagrant Denis first.

A WASHINGTON special to the New York Tribune, of the 12th, says: "Some extreme Democrats are considering the subject of continuing their attack upon the title of the President during the Forty-Sixth Congress. Two measures are in contemplation, and the indications are that both will receive strong support. One is to order a new Committee, charged with the general subject intrusted to Potter and his associates, with the purpose, as expressed by an active Democrat, to keep digging about that bill. The other contemplates a report from the Judiciary Committee of the House, based on the consideration of evidence already taken in the last Congress, that President Hayes was not legally elected, and that Tilden was. It is not the present purpose of the plan to declare the title, as obtained through the action of the Electoral Commission and ratified by the vote of the joint Convention, is not valid. The main idea appears to be to keep the question of title and the charge of fraud in connection with it, a live question with the Democracy until 1880. One of the curious ideas held in regard to this matter by a certain class of Democrats is that they will be better able to restrain the President in this way than by any other means in their control."

THE Resources of Oregon and Washington gives following as the dimensions of Oregon: It is about 350 miles long, east and west, and 275 wide, north and south, being nearly square and quite regular in its outline. It contains in round numbers about 95,000 square miles, a little over, and consequently about, 60,000,000 acres. It has a greater area than New York and Pennsylvania combined. It is the third State in extent, ranking next to California, the latter being the second, ranking next to Texas, the greatest.

THE EDUCATIONAL ARTICLE.

In the Article in the proposed Constitution relating to our public school system there is at least one section that we deem decidedly bad. It is Section 7, and in these words:

The local Boards of Education and the Boards of Supervisors and County Superintendents of the several counties which may not have County Boards of Education shall adopt a series of text books for the use of the common schools within their respective jurisdictions; the text books so adopted shall continue in use for not less than four years. They shall also have control of the examination of teachers and the granting of teachers' certificates within their several jurisdictions.

Under the present Constitution the matters provided for in the section above quoted are left wholly to the discretion of the Legislature. The statute provides: (1) for a uniform series of text books throughout the State; (2) for a uniform basis or grade of qualifications for teachers for the several grades of public schools respectively; (3) prohibits all sectarian, partisan and denominational instruction or use or distribution of books or papers tending to such ends, in the public schools; (4) for the uniform government in these important particulars of all schools sustained by uniform taxation, by vesting said government in the hands of a State Board of Education composed of the highest, and, presumably, the best educated school and civil officers of the State. Finally, and in short, it compels an absolute system in the public education of the young of the State. It is a system based on the soundest principles of good government. It assumes the indisputable fact that it is a right of a State to have a controlling voice in the expenditure of State money for educational purposes as it has of State money for any other public use whatever; that the State as such has a right to have a voice in the teachings of its future citizens in all cases and in every locality where the cost of such teachings is paid mainly by State money. The State school fund is a common property, to be used for the common benefit, and should ever remain subject to common control.

But the new Constitution denies this accepted principle of good government in toto. It turns State money over to petty county governments to be expended by them almost without restriction. It denies that San Francisco, for instance, which pays half the State educational expenses of the entire State, has any business to know how its money is used from and ever after it passes the collector's hands. It denies the right of Legislatures to ever provide anything bordering on a system of public education.

On the contrary, it does provide for a hotch-potch so-called course of education, with as many different text books, for as many kinds or grades as near as may be of teachers, as there are different counties in the State. It does provide that any retired bull-whacker learned enough to write his own name, may receive a certificate to draw public money as a "school teacher." It does provide a way by which a Board of Supervisors might, through ignorance, caprice or covert enmity to the public school system, adopt such antiquated text books, and low grade of teachers' qualifications, as to seriously impair its usefulness if not to bring it into positive disrepute. It imposes duties on such Boards as foreign to those the present law exacts of them and for which alone they will ever be chosen, as if it were made a part of their duty to sit as Boards of Medical Examiners; for, if not so technical, Education is none the less a special science. It opens a door in every county in the State for the entrance of corrupt influences touching the text book and certificate questions, both. Until prohibited by legislation (not provided for) it permits, if does not directly invite, inculcation of partisan doctrines, as will be seen by reference to Section 8, in which all mention on this point is omitted and unprovided for by legislation. Its tendency is bad in every namable particular. Its worst features are beyond reach of legislative amendment, either for better or worse.

THE young Napoleon, whose "baptism of "fire" on the heights of Saarbruck was the one grim jest of the Franco-German war, goes to renew it in fighting negroes under the British flag. Bravery stands first in the catalogue of Gallic virtues, and there is some Napoleonic shrewdness in this attempt to win French suffrages by plunging into the midst of a fray in South Africa.

AT an election in Sacramento last Monday, 3,540 votes were cast. Johnson, the Republican candidate for Third Trustee, gets a majority of 150; other candidates on the same ticket are all elected by larger majorities.

LARGE numbers of people are actually dying of starvation in the Republic of Bolivia. The present is an era of famine and pestilence. Have the position of the planets anything to do with it?

THE Arrears of Pension bill as amended by the Senate, went through the House in the closing hours with a wild rush. Ayes 253, noes, 61. The original bill appropriates $25,000,000 for arrears of pensions for the next fis. cal year. The amendments are: First, to allow Pension Agents thirty cents for each payment, and appropriating $15,000 for the purpose; second, to strike out the clause excepting pensions granted by special Act; third, that in no case shall arrears be allowed to date from before actual disabilities; fourth limiting the time for application for arrears to July, 1880. The section granting pensions to Mexican veterans which Shields tacked on in the Senate, was finally killed.

WE reproduce this week a portion of a late and admirable report upon this valley and the surrounding mineral country, by Prof. Henry G. Hanks. The remaining portion will be given in our next issue, and will be found of real interest and value, as descriptive of the mines from Cerro Gordo to Benton on the one side of the valley, while dwelling at length upon the Kearsarge and Rex Montis properties on the other. The writer takes high rank among the leading scientists of the Coast, and during his early residence here had abundant opportunity for observing the facts which he is now touching upon.

THE Yuma Expositor is authority for the statement that, on the 31st ultimo, a meeting of the Directors of the Arizona branch of the Southern Pacific Railroad was held, and a contract signed for the construction of 400 miles of road additional to that already under way. This, the Arizona paper concludes, will take the road entirely through Arizona to the New Mexico line, and is a proof that no cessation of work may be expected until an Eastern connection is made. Nearly 75 miles of road east of Yuma are now completed, and work goes steadily on as fast as rails and other material can be forwarded.

TULARE COUNTY MATTERS.—W. J. White, who killed Dr. Mehring, was indicted for murder by the late Grand Jury, and a bill was also found against County Auditor and Superintendant W. P. Kirkland for forgery, and both these parties are now in jail. Henry Stone, who was serving out a sentence for forgery, escaped from the custody of officer Morris, while working with a gang of prisoners on the Court-house grounds last Saturday.

THE Supreme Court, in a recent case brought before it, decided that, when an officer goes to arrest a person (with or without a warrant) suspected of crime he must give due notice of his object and intent, or he puts himself on terms of equality with the person to be arrested and acts at his peril.

THE inquiry into the conduct of Major Reno at the Custer massacre is over. While he holds his place in the army, he can hardly be complimented woth the possession of very brilliant martial characteristics. His leading ambition appears to be to live to a ripe old age.

YESTERDAY was the day originally fixed for the execution of Dye and Anderson, the Tullis murderers, but a stay of execution having been granted, those worthies are likely to remain with the Sacramento people two or three months longer.

OUT-HERODING HEROD.—The usual disgusting sand-lot exhibition took place on Sunday, and, if anything, the exhibitors were more foul-mouthed, more reckless and more infamous of speech than ever. Surely there ought to be some way of checking these disgraceful gatherings, or at least stopping the vile flow of abuse which is their chief characteristic. If our city authorities were to take the matter in hand in earnest it could easily be done. We have a very simple law that would reach the case of Kearney—the common law which punishes libel and slander. Not a Sunday passes that this law is not violated, and it is time something was done to prevent it. If the men who are so basely maligned care nothing for it, the people ought to take the matter in hand. If Governor Irwin does not object to be called "a lying fraud" Sunday after Sunday, or Mayor Bryant cares nothing about Kearney's common designation of him as a thief, the public certainly do object to it, for any such abuse of high officials is an insult to the whole State. We are beginning to think this man Kearney and his newspaper allies are worse enemies of California and her prosperity than are the Chinese. And of the two we should much prefer that the former were suppressed than that the latter should go.—S. F. Stock Report.

INFORMATION WANTED.—D. S. Moulton, of 873 Market Street, San Francisco, desires to know the whereabouts of Geo. F. G. Creighton, who several years ago lived at Camp Independence. He was here in '62 or '63 with his father, who was mining. John B. Winder, attorney at law, at Houma, Louisiana, says: "If James Auchard, a native of County Kilkenny, Ireland (or if dead, his heirs), will write to me he will hear something to his advantage. Was last heard from in California 13 years ago."

THINGS IN GENERAL.

The good people of San Francisco were terribly exercised at the prospect of a presentation of the "Passion Play" at Baldwin's theatre. Notwithstanding their bitter protests and fierce criticisms it came out in due form. It is a drama representing the life and death of the Savior.

The news from Calcutta is to the effect that Shere Ali is dead, and that his son, Yakoob Khan, has made overtures for peace, so that the British-Afghan war may be considered at an end.

It is rumored that the Southern Pacific Railroad, instead of going to Tucson after reaching Maricopa Wells, will deflect to the north, run to Prescott, thence on east on the 35th parallel, in order to get the $400,000 subsidy, and for the purpose of heading off the A. T. and S. F. road, as well as the Southern Utah.

The Potter Committee reported that Tilden was the lawfully elected President. The minority of the same committee reported that Hayes was legally elected. Ben. MESSRS. A. PARKER, AND OTHERS: Gentlemen—Your communication of this date desiring me, as your Delegate to the late Convention, to meet the people and discuss the instrument adopted by that body, is received. Returning my thanks for the kind welcome expressed therein, I would suggest Monday, the 17th instant, at 7:30 P. M., at which time I will meet the people as per request.

I am, gentlemen, very respectfully,
Your obedient servant,
P. REDDY.

ARMED.—There can now hardly be a question of the final solution and settlement of the difficulties down about the Lake concerning the Chinese veto matter, as explained in the Olancha letter of last week's issue. Judging from the extensive preparations made to meet it, the turbulent and secession element has by this time received a salutory lesson and an everlasting quietus. Failing in his appeal to the Sheriff for a prompt response in the matter of help and arms equal to the emergency, Uncle Billy Walker came personally to the county seat on Saturday last. On his return to the scene of excitement he took with him accoutrements and munitions of war, the contribution of our loyal and public spirited citizens, as follows: An ounce phial, loaded with whisky and labelled "Gatling;" a ginger bottle, charged with whisky and marked "mountain howitzer;" a long, slim bottle containing whisky and designated "a siege gun;" a quart bottle of whisky guaranteed to kill at 40 rods, called a "Columbiad," for service on the Lake; and a 2-gallon demijohn filled with—water. This last will fetch 'em.

SILVER STRIKE.—From Rafael Diaz we learn of the late discovery of an important mine by his brother Eluario—that of the "California," situated about one mile northeast of the noted San Lucas mine, which the Diaz brothers have so long owned and worked. At a depth of 10 feet the ledge is 5 feet solid width, of a finer class of silver ore than hitherto found in or around Cerro Gordo (possibly excepting the Ygnacio), resembling more in character some Panamint ores. The assays run up to $900 per ton, and the Messrs. Diaz are, as may well be supposed, highly elated over the new find.

APPORTIONMENT OF SCHOOL MONEYS. State and county school money was apportioned to-day as follows:

District.	Library.	School.

AUBURN HAIRED.—Billy Hutchings, of Bishop, drops a note to our Lokleitems in reference to the "Billyord" notice published in these columns last week, in which he says: "Please make me acquainted with the name of the educated gentleman who took the trouble to advertise my billiard notice, thus attracting attention to the same and possibly making custom for the house; I would like to know the color of his hair." He is an auburn-haired, mild-mannered fellow, Billy, who will promptly take a drink at your expense. But then he never said that the notice was in your house.

PERSONALS.—Among our town's visitors during the past week were Messrs. J. H. Stoutenborough, Charley Parsons and Tom Williams, from Bishop and Round Valley; also, Wm. Horton and Mrs. and Miss E. Horton. J. B. Swearingen and Dr. C. C. Wainright, from the same region, put in an appearance.... Messrs. Tom Bell and L. Wick from Big Pine; and Messrs. Macarter, Diaz and others from Lone Pine.

GOOD WORK.—Mr. S. P. Moffat, as executor of the Blaney estate, has placed a row of beautiful shade trees along the entire front of that property and the Broder building. The Board of Supervisors should order a continuation of the line in front of the Court House, for ornament and as a protection against fire.

All Along the Line.

We have only time and space to-day for a brief reference to the active mining operations now in progress along the wondrous mineral chain known as the Inyo range of mountains. Save at the one point of Cerro Gordo, the whole region has lain comparatively dormant for years; but in these times of improved, more intelligent and in consequence vastly more successful mining, the early opening up and development of the rich region is inevitable. The whole outlook is decidedly encouraging, and in particular instances the developments so far are exciting.

Beginning at the southern end of the line with our mention, the new ledges above Swansea come in first, omitting Cerro Gordo as having been reported for the week elsewhere. Messrs. Boley & Tuttle are sinking upon one of the Hanger locations, having purchased it. A solid, 16-inch vein of splendid gray carbonate metal, paying well for shipment to and reduction in San Francisco.

At depths of 100 feet, the Beveridge District mines (across the summit) of Messrs. Porter, Hughes & Co., show gold ledges of increased strength and richness. During the season the operations of their mill will demonstrate the productiveness of the ore, by shipments of gold bullion.

The 30-stamp Brown Monster mill is running steadily on the low-grade gold and silver ores of the mine.

Messrs. McKnight & Tully, of Virginia City, making their headquarters at the Shepherd place, have been for some time working mines directly opposite George's Creek, with fine bodies of mineral, and important operations in the near future are indicated.

A meeting of the miners of the old Inyo or Crysopolis District, nearly opposite Independence, was held at the Oro Fino mill on Monday last, when the United States and local mining laws were adopted and the old district reorganized as the "Union," having the same boundaries. Henry Hopper was elected Recorder for one year.

We are indebted to Mr. S. D. Woodhull, a metallurgist of wide experience, for the following epitomized points relative to the mines now being opened:

The Manhattan, owned by A. W. Eibeshutz, has been opened so far by a shaft 67 feet in depth. Two sample of the ore show results of assay as follows: 1st—silver, $116 23 per ton, with 64 per cent. of lead; 2d—silver, $197 20, and 55 per cent. lead.

The Golden Star, owned by Cartier & Co., has a shaft 65 feet deep. The vein is an unbroken one of fine, gold-bearing quartz, with well-defined, good walls, and 20 inches wide at the bottom. The ore assays from $50 up to $5,000 per ton. Samples taken from the bottom show lumps of fine gold weighing from 2 to 5 grains each. This is a rich and valuable mine, destined to attract much attention and prove a big thing for the lucky owners.

The Eureka, owned by Henry Hopper, has the same general character as the Golden Star described above. A 30-foot shaft shows a permanent ledge, carrying plenty of fine, free gold. Mrs. Hopper has a small bottleful of gold separated from the ore by a new and novel process, or instrument—her scissors.

Messrs. Woolsey & Phillips have some splendid prospects for valuable silver and lead mines, among which are the Woolsey ledge, the Burlington, Moscow, Chalfant and others. One carefully selected sample from the Burlington gave the extraordinary assay of 1,920 91-100 ounces of silver, valued at $2,488 54. Others assay from $60 to $200 per ton in silver, and average 60 per cent. of lead.

We pass by an intervening section and come to a new district reorganized last Thursday—the Antelope. It is bounded on the north by the county line, on the west by Owens River and on the south by a line east across the mountains from a point on the river at the mouth of Big Pine Creek. The meeting was held at Rickey's place near old Owensville, and H. H. Buckles chosen Recorder for the first year. Mr. C. C. Mills, an old Comstocker, has been quietly prospecting the region for a long time—quite secretly, in fact—the present result being quite a little stir and excitement over the matter in and around Bishop Creek. Some seven large ledges of free-milling, silver and gold ores have been developed to some extent. There is much less lead and base metals in that region than in the districts to the south and east. Much interest has been manifested in the fact, and considerable unnecessary mystification attached thereto, that extensive old mining works have been found there—such as the remains of a ditch from Fish Slough, an old well (containing good water now), ruins of stone houses and a 150-foot tunnel. This work was done in '62-3 by a New York company, a man by the name of Mitchell being the superintendent—and an outline history of the matter is not difficult to obtain. But all that we need care for is that the mines may prove good now.

THE UNION CON.—Since the 1st instant the Union Con. furnace at Cerro Gordo has been running steadily, putting through 20 tons of ore per day, the largest possible proportion of which is silver or San Felipe ore. The new works are yielding about 9 tons per day of lead ore, and as the furnace started up with 300 tons on hand there is no reason why the run should not be continuous, more especially as important developments are daily expected in the drift running under the old Jefferson bonanza.

COSMOPOLITAN.—Mr. T. E. Kelty has entirely refitted the Cosmopolitan Hotel at Benton, and reopened it for the accomodation of the public. Benton is well supplied with hotels, but the Cosmopolitan is the largest and most centrally located, and will undoubtedly command a good share of the increasing patronage. See advertisement.

SHEEP.—In a late note from Bakersfield Hon. V. A. Gregg gives the following item, of interest to our stockmen and farmers: "Only 15-100 inches of rain here this year, and not a spear of grass on the plains. Lookout that the sheepmen don't eat Inyo out this year."

AN INTERESTING DOCUMENT.

Extracts from a Late Report of Henry G. Hanks, on Owens Valley.

In the following extracts from a late scientific report upon this section will be found many points of interest. The writer is a well-known old resident of the valley—Henry G. Hanks, Esq., Commissioner for the State of California at the Paris Exposition of 1878, and superintendent of the mineral section of the United States at the same:

That portion of the State of California known as Owens Valley is a long strip of land lying between the great Sierra Nevada chain of mountains and a parallel range known as the Inyo mountains. The whole may be said to lie within the boundaries of 36° and 38° 10′ north latitude, and 118° 30′ and 119° longitude, west from Greenwich.

The trend of the mountains is about north, 17 west. Owens Valley is about 140 miles long, and has an average width of 10 miles. The mountains on both sides of this remarkable basin attain a great altitude, the Sierra rising abruptly like a wall, with its rugged saw-like summits of granite, presenting a seemingly impassable barrier to the west; it is possible, however, to cross them at certain points or passes, although none are known less than 11,000 feet. At the lower or southern end of the valley, the Sierra Nevada rises to its greatest altitude, some peaks reaching a hight of 15,000 feet. Opposite Owens great lake the descent from the highest peaks to the level of the valley averages fully 1,000 feet to the mile. From this statement may be realized the mural character of these mountains.

Owens River, which is a large never-failing stream of good water, rises in the Sierra Nevada near the head of the San Joaquin river, and enters the valley, describing a wide curve after rushing down the mountain through a deep cañon. Owing to the gradual descent and rapid motion of the water, it meanders in the most remarkable manner on its way south, and it is a question if a more crooked river exists elsewhere. Although offering no other impediment, this peculiarity would render navigation by boats impracticable; although the river can, and no doubt will, be used for rafting timber, fire-wood, charcoal, ores, etc., to any point where they may be required. After flowing for many miles through the valley the waters of the river reach the lowest point and spread out, forming "Owens Great Lake." This body is so called, not on account of its being of extraordinary size, but to distinguish it from "Little Owens Lake," which lies a considerable distance south of it, is kept in equilibrium by evaporation. When the river is high it extends its borders in proportion, and contracts during the hot dry weather in Summer.

Although the river enters the valley almost chemically pure, it takes from the soil, in its long passage, a small quantity of soluble salts, which it deposits in the lake. As the lake has no outlet the water becomes concentrated by evaporation, and after centuries, during which this deposit has continued, the lake has become a saturated solution of alkaline salts, and is a counterpart of the Dead Sea, which has, no doubt, been formed in the same manner.

The soil of Owens Valley is the result, to a great extent, of the decomposition of soda feldspars and rocks rich in soda. What is said of Owens Lake is worthy of special attention, as the day will come when it will yield immense quantities of alkali, which will be used in the arts and possibly for fluxes in prospective mining operations. Very little is known of the geology of Owens Valley. The character of the two boundary chains of mountains is widely different. The Sierra Nevada is generally granitic; some of the granites are somewhat metamorphic. On the other side of the valley, although granites occur, there are vast fields of highly metamorphic sedimentary rocks, slates, porphyries, limestones and shales. These lie resting against the granites, and are much broken and distorted. A single fossil (goniatites laevidorsatus), found in the foothills of the Inyo mountains opposite Independence, is jurassic, but it is probable that some of the rocks will be found to be older when the geology is better known. At Big Pine Creek, on both sides of the valley, there are several volcanic cones, which are evidently quite recent, for the immense streams of black basaltic lava discharged by them have swept across the valley from both sides, covering the older rocks like a pall. Snow lies on the summits of both chains of mountains during a great portion of the year; on the highest points it is never absent; many streams of pure water flow down the cañons, fed by the melting snows. On the east side these streams seldom reach the plains below, but sink under the metamorphic rocks before described, and disappear. On the west side they generally find their way to the river, and empty into it; some of these streams are of considerasize.

On the Inyo mountains timber is scarce; only on the highest portion is any found, the lower foothills being naked and bare. At a greater altitude, and in some of the cañons, a species of stunted pine (pinus fremontiana), or nut pine, occurs in considerable groves. On the Sierra Nevada there is an abundance of fine timber in deep cañons and in the numerous and extensive mountain valleys on both sides of the summit.

While it has been shown that the Sierra Nevada chain of mountains is not only the highest in California, but "the highest and grandest mountain mass in North America," as stated by Prof. Whitney, it is interesting to know that the Inyo range attains its greatest altitude at the north end, culminating at the "White Mountain," which is 14,600 feet high, by leveling from other distant peaks, and which may prove to be much higher when accurately measured; this mountain is remarkable for having a white summit—whence its name—often mistaken for snow, but which is dolomite, nearly as pure in color and texture as Carrara marble.

The soil of Owens Valley at first sight would appear to be worthless and barren, but it possesses all the elements of fertility, except water; this being supplied by irrigation, the lands become productive. Along the river grass grows luxuriantly. On the level portions of the valley experiments in agriculture have met with success. There are agricultural lands in the valley to support a large population. Most of the land has been taken up, and much of it is under cultivation.

The mineral resources of Owens Valley are almost beyond description, and it must be admitted that the country is only superficially known. The whole Inyo range is metaliferous. So universally is this the case that mining districts have been laid out which cover the entire chain.

HISTORY.

In 1845, Col. Fremont sent Mr. E. M. Kern, guided by Walker, the mountaineer, to the head of Owens River, then not named. They went down the valley on the east side to Owens Lake, thence to Walker's Pass, and crossed the mountains to Kern River.

The valley takes its name from Dr. J. R. N. Owen, who was a member of an exploring expedition sent out to examine the region along the boundary of the State. He was compelled by difficulties and want of water to leave the intended route, and pass down the valley on his way to Visalia.

In the Winter of 1859, Hill's party came into the valley on their way to the Potosi Mines, which lie beyond the Armagosa Valley, in the "Mountain Spring Range," in what is now Lincoln County, Nevada. They left some of the party at Lone Pine.

In 1860, Dr. French and party came, looking for the celebrated "gun-sight" lead. They were first in Coso, and located claims in Silver Mountain.

At this time the Indians were very troublesome, stealing cattle and threatening the settlers. The trouble increased until a collision took place, which led to the death of both whites and Indians. Soldiers who were sent in to protect the settlers left the valley, because, it was said, "they had no provisions." It is certain that, for a time, the Indians had the advantage; but they were suppressed eventually and placed on a reservation.

Settlers and miners flocked in, and the hills were soon covered with prospectors. All the available lands were taken up. San Carlos, Bend City, Owensville, Lone Pine and other settlements sprang up mush-room like, and it was thought that the advance would be permanent.

It may be asked why, in a country so rich in mineral, so little was done to develop the mines on an extensive scale? This question may be answered by stating that it was found that the ores, although rich, were not of a nature to amalgamate like those of the Comstock, without roasting. Lead is so omnipresent in the ores that the mercury was contaminated, and lead bullion came out of the pans when gold and silver were expected.

Stock speculation being the aim and object of the majority of those who had made locations, the opening of the mines was neglected, while rich ores were sent to San Francisco to feed the fire of speculation, which has done more to injure legitimate mining than any other cause. Mills were hurried up at great cost, when it was not certain that there was ore enough to employ the stamps. It cannot be wondered that disappointment followed the first excitement.

Enough was done, however, with the mills to prove that it was possible to find free gold ores that would yield to mill treatment. The Union mill, which was the first in the valley, was at first unsuccessful, yielding lead bullion, which contained only a small portion of the precious metals.

When the ores were carefully selected, better results followed, but they were never very satisfactory. The Union mill worked a lot of ore from the Alabama District, which produced gold bars, and the yield per ton was large. The mill at the Josephine mine in Coso had made the same experience with selected ores from that district.

The San Carlos mill, after an unsuccessful attempt to mill ores containing lead, without roasting, made a run on selected ores from the Crysopolis gold mines; thirty tons of the rock yielded $64 per ton. It was found, however, that the gold quartz veins were small, and that only a limited quantity of ore could be obtained.

When it became understood that the ores could not be worked successfully without other treatment, a general disappointment resulted, and the population of the valley greatly decreased. Then followed another Indian war, which, to a great extent, stopped mining operations; but the fact remained undisputed that the country was rich in minerals, and that the valley possessed good agricultural lands. When the Indian troubles were settled a steady but healthy growth commenced, cultivated farms spread over the valley, villages, school houses and churches appeared in what at first seemed a desert. The rich ores at Benton, in Blind Springs District, also difficult to work, began to pay; Cerro Gordo was discovered, and the rich silver lead ores which refused to yield their wealth to the quartz mill, gave to the smelting furnace a vast quantity of lead rich in silver.

The growth has been gradual, and now that the railroad passes near by, and there is a prospect of a narrow gauge up the valley, attention is again drawn to the locality, and the population of miners, prospectors and farmers is again increasing. A country possessing so many natural advantages cannot long remain unknown and unappreciated.

A NEW GOLD FIND.—W. A. Greenley, who was last week upon one of his regular Cerro Gordo trips, reports a recent remarkably rich gold quartz discovery in Beveridge District. The claim belongs to Messrs. Hughes & Jones, and the pieces exhibited, Greenley says, were so brilliant as to fairly take his breath—not very definite, to be sure; but there can no longer be a question as to the vast extent and value of the Beveridge gold fields.

ASSESSMENT.—The Emigrant Company, of Lee District, has levied an assessment of 50 cents per share, delinquent April 7; day of sale, April 28.

SATURDAY, MARCH 15.....1879

IN promoting legitimate mining interests, New York, in the establishment of the Bullion Club and conducting it to its present fashion, has done what San Francisco should have done years ago. The Club's Thursday night "lunches," where gentlemen of position and experience in gold and silver mining are invited to give their views and knowledge, serve the double purpose of instruction and entertainment. And be it known that the inhabitants of San Francisco proper are little better versed in practical mining matters than the average New Yorker. They have never opened their parlors and given the reputable mining superintendent or mill owner a good audience and at the same time a warm reception. This the Bullion Club is doing. It is in effect a school of mines, getting the best and freshest knowledge of the day regarding this occupation. Last night the Club was addressed by one of the principal quartz miners in Plumas county. I am satisfied that more information, with points to it capable of sticking in people's memories, was gathered from that hour's organized talk than could have been realized from a day's reading.—*N. REDEMPTION OF INYO COUNTY BONDS—ISSUE OF 1872.

OFFICE COUNTY TREASURER, Independence, Inyo County, California, March 1, 1879

HOLDERS OF BONDS OF THE COUNTY OF Inyo, State of California, of the issue of 1872, are hereby notified that the Board of Supervisors of said County will receive sealed proposals for the surrender of said Bonds to the amount of Two Thousand Five Hundred ($2,500) Dollars more or less, which sum is in the Treasury for the redemption of said Bonds or portion thereof, at the office of the County Treasurer, at Independence, Inyo County, California, up to Monday, the Twenty-fourth Day of March, 1879.

No proposals above par will be entertained, and the said Supervisors reserve the right to reject any and all bids. Said bids must be indorsed "Proposals for the Surrender of Inyo County Bonds, Issue of 1872."

HENRY M. ISAACS,

n454t4 Treasurer of Inyo County.

PROPOSALS FOR THE CARE OF THE INDIGENT SICK OF INYO COUNTY.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT SEALED Proposals will be received by the Board of Supervisors of said County, at the office of the County Clerk, until 12 o'clock M. of Monday, the Twenty-fourth Day of March, 1879 to contract for the care of said indigent sick for the term of one year, from May 1st, 1879, to May 1st, 1880.

Said bids to designate the amount for which parties contracting will care for said indigent sick, on the basis of an average of four (4) patients each day throughout the year, and to include all medicines, medical attendance, nursing, board and lodging and washing; and said medical attendance to be given by a physician having the qualifications prescribed by law; said bids to include the burial and funeral expenses of any indigent sick person or persons who may die while under such care. Said contractor to care for all the indigent sick of said county properly admitted to the contractor's care; and said bids to designate the price per head at which all excess of patients over the average of four each day throughout the year will be cared for; said excess of patients to be paid for by extra allowance upon presentation of bills duly sworn to, at the regular meetings of said Board. The person or persons to whom such contract may be awarded, shall give a good and sufficient bond in double the amount of such contract price for the faithful performance of said contract.

The care and management of said indigent sick by such contractor shall be at any and all times subject to the inspection of said Board of Supervisors or any member thereof, or by any person appointed by said Board for such purpose.

SHERIFF'S SALE.

BY VIRTUE OF AN EXECUTION ISSUED OUT of Justice Charles Keppler's Justice Court of the Third Township, in and for the County of Inyo, State of California, in the suit of Wm. K. Miller, plaintiff, against the Swansea Mining Company, defendant, upon a judgment rendered in said Court on the Fifteenth day of February, A. D. 1879, for the sum of One Hundred and Sixty-eight 83-100 Dollars in gold coin of the United States, besides costs amounting to the sum of Thirty-five 55-100 dollars, duly attested the Fifteenth day of February, 1879, whereby I am commanded to make the amount of $204 38-100 in gold coin of the United States, besides accruing costs and interest, I have levied upon all the right, title and interest of the said defendant in and to the following described real property, to-wit:

That certain Wagon or Toll Road known as the Swansea Toll Road, situated between Swansea and Cerro Gordo, in the County of Inyo, State of California, together with all the rights of way and appurtenances thereunto belonging.

Notice is hereby given that on Monday, the Seventeenth Day of March, A. D. 1879, between the hours of 9 o'clock A. M. and 4 o'clock P. M., to wit: at the hour of 1 o'clock P. M. of that day, in front of the Court House, in the town of Independence, County of Inyo, State of California, I will sell all the right, title and interest of the said defendant, the Swansea Mining Company, in and to the above described property, or so much thereof as may be sufficient to satisfy said judgment and all costs, at public auction, to the highest bidder or bidders, for cash in hand in gold coin of the United States.

PROBATE NOTICE.

IN THE PROBATE COURT OF THE COUNTY of Inyo, State of California. In the matter of the Estate of John B. Rowley, deceased. Order to show cause why Order of Sale of Real Estate should not be made.—It appearing to the said Court, by the petition this day presented and filed by John A. Lank, the Administrator of the estate of John B. Rowley, deceased, praying for an order of sale of real estate, that it is necessary to sell the whole of the real estate to pay the debts and expenses of administration.

It is therefore ordered by the said Court, that all persons interested in the estate of said deceased, appear before the said Probate Court on Monday, the Seventeenth Day of March, A. D. 1879, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon of said day, at the Court Room of said Probate Court, at the town of Independence, in the County of Inyo, to show cause why an order should not be granted to the said Administrator to sell so much of the real estate of said deceased as shall be necessary. And that a copy of this order be published at least four successive weeks in THE INYO INDEPENDENT, a newspaper printed and published in said county

JOHN A. HANNAH, Probate Judge.

OFFICE OF THE COUNTY CLERK of the County of Inyo.

I, John Crough, County Clerk of the County of Inyo, State of California, and ex-officio Clerk of the Probate Court in and for said County, do hereby certify the foregoing to be a true, full and correct copy of an order duly made and entered upon the minutes of said Probate Court.

In yesterday's Mercury we referred to the statement that the new Constitution if adopted will open up all the land titles which have been settled after a vast deal of litigation. As straws show which way the wind blows, the following may not be uninteresting: A certain attorney of this city, when interrogated as to his opinion of the new Constitution, replied that he should vote for its adoption because he believed it would be to his interest to do so. This more explicitly: "I want the new Constitution to be adopted because for fifteen years thereafter everything will be chaos. Previously adjudicated questions will again become live issues, and land titles will be so mixed up as to create unlimited litigation." In this connection a prominent citizen of San Jose said to the writer that he had taken considerable pains to inquire as to the general opinion of lawyers upon the Constitution, and had found them almost unanimous in its favor and not able to give a satisfactory reason for their opinion. These are merely straws, but it can do no harm for the people to mark by such things the drift of public opinion.—San Jose Mercury.

IT will be a difficult matter to convince the people that a Constitution that turns the State over to the railway monopoly is an improvement upon one that leaves the control of corporations in the hands of the people. * * In placing such power in the hands of these Commissioners, to be manipulated by the railway corporation, ignorantly or wickedly propose to place these people entirely under the control of the grasping monopoly. It should be voted down. It has not a shadow of a show for success except by people staying away from the polls in disgust at the treason of the Convention to the people. —Chico Record.

As my wife at the window one beautiful day stood watching a man with a monkey, a cart came along with a broth of a boy, who was driving a stout little donkey. To my wife then I spoke, by way of a joke, "There's a relation of yours in that carriage." To which she replied, when the donkey she spied "Ah, yes! a relation by marriage."

A MODERN writer declares that American men are gradually decreasing in stature, and that two or three generations hence the women will be the taller. He attributes it to the use of liquor and tobacco stunting the growth of boys. It not only shortens hight but the length of life as well.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:

SATURDAY, MARCH 22.....1879

ARMY circles are somewhat stirred up over a contest between Generals Stanley and Hazen. Hazen aspires to the Quartermaster-master Generalship of the army, and has friends and relatives now in Washington urging his claims. It is said if his nomination comes before the Senate, it will there meet the charges of perjury and cowardice, which, Stanley says, have been made to his face. The principal charge is, that on the second day of the battle of Shiloh, Hazen skulked near the river, alleging that the men had deserted him. The charge of perjury has eleven specifications, based chiefly on Hazen's testimony in the Belknap case. On the other side, Hazen counter-charges Stanley with falsehood and conduct unbecoming a gentleman. It is also stated Gen. Sherman informed Hazen that if he failed to substantiate these charges, his resignation must be placed in his hands. Stanley asserts that Hazen was reported to him for cowardice at the battle of Pickett's Mills and other places. Hazen is now Colonel of the Sixth Infantry at Fort Buchanan, Dakota Territory.

AT a caucus of Democratic Congressmen, held on the 17th, it was shown that Randall was certain to be elected Speaker on the following day, and we may consider that question settled. As between Randall and Blackburn, the selection of the former is far the most agreeable to Pacific coast sentiment, without doubt; he is anti-Chinese and hard money. The selection of Bayard as Chairman of the Senate Finance Committee is no less satisfactory; he is sound on the money question, and a man of too much sense to permit public rights to be jeopardized in the interest of partisanship. Hereford, of West Virginia, is named for the first place on the Committee on Mines and Mining; he may know all about it, nevertheless, we think it was a place that ought to have been given to a man from this side of the Mississippi. But we are not ignored altogether: Grover, of Oregon, is to look after the Committee on Manufactures—of which interest he is, constituently, about as much of a proper representative as Hereford of mining.

THERE will, of course, be a lively scramble for places under the Census bill. The pay is fixed at $4 a day for all that portion of the United States east of the 100th meridian of longitude, which includes the Mississippi Valley, and west to a line which runs through the middle of Dakota Territory and Nebraska, through the western end of Kansas, and divides Texas, leaving about half of its territory on each side Patterson, of Colorado, engineered this distinction in favor of his section. The appropiation made for this work is somewhat over $3,000,000, which will probably not be enough to see it through.

THE army officers who have been detailed to the Wheeler Survey are being ordered back to their regiments. This does not suit Wheeler firstrate, as he is only a Lieutenant. For this reason his friends will attempt, during the present session, to have the army surveys restored. It appears, too, that the Hayden people are not pleased at the probable appointment of Clarence King as the head of their consolidated survey, and are trying to have the law repealed by which the consolidated bureau was created.

AT the recent municipal election held in Salinas City, a Citizens' ticket was put up against the Workingmens'. The former elected the City Marshal, Assessor, two out of three Councilmen and two School Trustees; the latter elected one Councilman and one Trustee in one of the wards. As Kearney had just been there "whoopin' on 'em up," the Workingmen expected to get away with everything, but didn't, quite.

IT may interest expectant office holders to know that all to be elected this Fall, except Judges, will hold their places but one year only, if the new Constitution should be adopted. Such being the fact, it will not justify the usual outlay to secure an election.

THE Republican State Convention is to be held at Sacramento on the 17th of June, the Workingmens' on the 3d, preceding. The Democrats have not set a time for theirs yet.

EX-SENATOR CASSERLY claims that if the new Constitution is adopted the man who deposits his money in a savings bank will be taxed five times each year on such deposit.

THE New York World defines the art of teaching in schools to be "scrubbing the tablets of the minds of urchins to the end that they may obliterate the stain of hereditary stupidity or personal blockheadness."

THE NEW CONSTITUTION.

The more we look into the merits, or lack of merits rather, of the new Constitution the more absolute becomes our conviction that its adoption must prove a very great misfortune to this State. The very ablest men and most reliable citizens of this State who were members of the Convention itself, are, almost to a man, strongly opposed to its adoption. The grounds for such a somewhat anomalous turn of affairs cannot be stated in a paragraph, even by the ablest, and certainly we do not assume any such ability; but we can at least call attention to some of the prominent points, warmly inviting the thoughtful to give them thought. We have heretofore referred to several obvious defects in the new instrument; elsewhere in this issue will be found ex-Delegate Reddy's opinion upon other still more important points. His standing as a lawyer and as an honest and able interpreter of the law, aside from the fact of his membership in the Convention itself, gives great weight to his estimate of the work it sends forth. But there are fallacies in the new instrument that have scarcely yet been touched upon. We shall refer to but one of these at this time.

The new Constitution, its friends assert, will operate to break up land monopoly, which we truly believe to be the most unmitigated curse of all under which this State labors. We have no fault to find with the article designed to accomplish that most desirable end except that it does not go far enough in the matter of subdividing Mexican grants to meet tax requirements as they should be to make taxation equal in fact. Except in this short coming, it is worthy of high commendation, considered on its own separate merits, or as a statute. But where it is and as it is, it is a fallacy and calculated to do harm. It is Kearney's strong card by which to induce good men to swallow the entire noxious Consititutional dose, that he and his sort may rule and ruin. The article in question provides that Spanish grants and other lands held in large bodies shall be assessed by subdivisions not exceeding a Government section each in area, and according to quality whether cultivated or otherwise, all of which is very good. As few or none of these grants have ever been legally sectionized, it furthermore provides that the State shall have these lands surveyed for taxation as stated, and for future Legislatures to vote money for such surveys. The total expense of the necessary survey is variously estimated at from $250,000 to $1,000,000 and even more.

Kearney points to this article, and tells the small land holders every where that it is the thing that is to greatly lessen the poor man's taxes, and at the same time to sicken the rich land thief of the vastness of his landed possessions. That it will do something in that direction is quite probable. But the promised relief is too insignificant and too far in the future to excite men of ordinary sense. The poor man will, under the existing regime, have to pay a raise on his present tax to provide the half million dollars, more or less, needed to survey his rich neighbor's ill-gotten leagues. He will have to exert an influence Kearney tells him is next to impossible, namely, overcome the thieving money power, and elect a Legislature that will make the required appropriation and see that it is not squandered in "put up jobs," and lastly, deprive the rich of their power to select their own tools to assess them, which power, Kearney says, is a prerogative the rich must give up under the new Constitution. All this done, what then? The poor man's acres are assessed by tens, twenties, or quarter sections, precisely as they are now; the rich man's broad acres are, by Constitutional provision, assessed by the mile square, in effect precisely as they are now. Practically, the proposed plan is little else than a humbug, made a permanency, because part of a Constitution. There is not a feature in it beyond the jurisdiction of a Legislature under the present organic law.

THE blackened ruins in the burnt district have been alive since Tuesday with men, women and children hunting for valuables. Henry Goetz's gold watch was found, somewhat the worse for water, but otherwise uninjured, between two mattresses which were too wet to burn. Harry Randall lost a gold watch and one month's wages. His watch was found, but no coin; the watch is of no use. Mrs. Drysdale's gold watch was found in the ruins of her house. A tin bucket, containing quite a sum of money, which had been buried by her in the cellar of her big lodging-house, was also found, she having had the ground sluiced for the purpose.—Silver City (Nev.) Times.

AN agricultural paper tells how to dress a hog. We know how to dress one. Give him a stove-pipe hat, a cane and a pair of eye-glasses. After that he will try to pass for a man. But a hog will be a hog no matter how he may be dressed.

THE incapacity of men to understand each other is one of the principal causes of their ill-temper toward each other.

An Eastern View.

There are two features in the proposed new Constitution of California which strike an impartial reader as peculiar. One is the proscription of the Chinese by the use of extreme measures, and the other is the provision made for excessive and unequal taxation. There are other clauses in this somewhat extraordinary document which invite criticism, but the two that have just been mentioned are conspicuous. The California newspapers hold in so much contempt all persons who comment upon their local affairs, criticism in such a case as this becomes hazardous. Sober men do not choose to be derided as "impertinent youngsters, 3,000 miles away." or to be twitted with the "ignorance and impudence of Eastern advisers," as we are sure to be whenever we express an humble opinion concerning transcontinental matters. Nevertheless, with due deference to the age and experience of California publicists, we may say that this provision for double and unusual taxation seems to be a concession to the elements represented by Denis Kearney. There is a delightful jumble in the 4th and most expressive sections of the Chinese article of the proposed Constitution. In the first place, the presence of foreigners, ineligible to become citizens of the United States is declared to be dangerous to the well-being of the State. Previously it is provided no native Chinese shall be entitled to the right to vote. Next he is included as liable to pay an annual poll tax of $2; and now he is classed as dangerous to the State because he cannot vote, although he pays poll tax. "Asiatic coolieism is a form of human slavery," says this section, "and all contracts for coolie labor shall be void." Furthermore, all incorporations, whether "formed in this country or any foreign country for the importation of such labor, shall be subject to such penalties as the Legislature may prescribe." We do not see where any State gets the right to regulate commerce to the extent of preventing John Chinamen from coming. Nor do we see how, having formally excluded him from the right of suffrage, he can justly be compelled to pay poll tax, and finally, whatever may be the rights, "or lack of rights" of the Chinamen, we do not see how artificial persons, "or corporations," any more than natural persons "can be be deprived of their rights to employ such laborers as they choose on their own property."—New York Times.

A Nevada Miner's Opinion of Inyo

The Eureka Sentinel, of the 13th, remarks: Mr. F. W. Robinson, of the Albion, is in receipt of a letter from J. H. Ely, of the Raymond & Ely mine, written from Lone Pine, Inyo county, California. Mr. Ely is on a prospecting tour in California, and we have been permitted to make the following extracts from the letter:

Am still in the land of the sagebrush, and have been busily engaged in searching for the earth's hidden treasures. I firmly believe that I have found another El Dorado, and I am convinced that the Inyo range, from Cerro Gordo north for one hundred and fifty miles, will, in time, go far ahead of any camp now in existence. I have taken up a small property fifteen miles northeast of Independence, and have every facility for working right on the ground, and have found some very rich gold as well silver ore. The silver ledges have large croppings, something like the Pioche mines. The gold ledges are small but well defined. As yet no work of any consequence has been done, and it is hard to say yet what they will turn out to be. Personally, I am willing to risk it, as it suits me better than anything I have seen for years on this side of the Sierra Nevadas. I predict that this country will spring into prominence in a very short time, and already the tide of immigration is setting in this way from Bodie. Can't you make me a flying visit, at least? Come by way of Mohave Station on the Southern Pacific road.

Steve Houle in Trouble.

In the San Francisco Chronicle, of the 19th, we find the following:

On the 8th instant W. R. Johnson shipped from Cerro Gordo to Valentine Hoff, No. 600 Tayfor street in this city, a box weighing 112 pounds containing 96 pounds silver bullion and 6½ pounds of gold amalgam. The box containing the precious metal was carefully fastened with green hide, and was given in charge of Steve Houle, a teamster plying between Cerro Gordo and Mohave, to be shipped per Wells, Fargo & Co. On the 17th instant the box arrived apparently intact, but weighed only 68 pounds. When opened it was found to contain a lot of stones taken from the mountain cañons, the bullion having mysteriously disappeared. Mr. Hoff at once informed Captain Stone and Detectives Noyes and Jehu of his loss, and they wired several messages to the Chief of Police at Los Angeles, and the answer was returned that the Commercial Bank of that city had purchased from Houle the missing bullion, paying him $600 on account. The metal was shipped to the Pacific Bank of this city, whence it was sent to Price's assay office and metallugical works, where it was afterwards recovered by the officers. The value of the bullion is about $1,600. A later dispatch, received last night, stated that Houle had been arrested in Los Angeles.

Houle is well known all through this section, where he ran a team on his own account for a long time, but finally disposing of it, or his interest in it, to Omie Mairs of this place, but still retaining charge. Mr. Mairs started below this morning to see what has become of his team, which is quite a valuable one.

A SCHOOLMASTER spoke of his pupils as having been so thoroughly disciplined that they were as quite and orderly as the chairs themselves. It was probably because they were cane-bottomed.

THURMAN and Tilden are each sixty-five years of age.

SNOW'S CAÑON, March 17, 1879.

MESSRS. EDITORS.—Upon my arrival at Lookout on Wednesday, the 12th, found the following letter in the office, addressed to the writer:

SNOW'S CANYON, March 8, 1879.

DEAR SIR:—We propose starting up the 5-stamp mill at this place on or about the 17th instant, and would be glad to have you and your friends present. Plenty of provisions for man and beast. Come over, and oblige yours truly,

BIRCHETT & PARKER.
Per BIRCHETT.

Doubtless, many of your readers have not the remotest idea where the above place is located, or what are its peculiarities and local features. It is a large cañon running out into Panamint Valley, and the first one south of the Minneatta Belle cañon, about three miles distant; the mill is probably eight miles from the town of Lookout, and 14 from Darwin by road, and trail part of the way. It is situated in the Lookout mining district, and owes its name to the fact that George Snow was the first man who went up to its head, looking for water and minerals.

This cañon has some fine springs of permanent water, the principal of which is owned by the Minneatta Bell M. Co., and from which they derive water for their 10-stamp mill, bringing some it six miles through iron pipes. The Snow's Cañon mill has ample water of its own for all milling purposes, obtained by connecting several small springs together. There is still another spring above the Minneatta Bell's, owned by J. J. Gunn and others, probably capable of supplying a 5-stamp mill at least, so, you see, this cañon is well supplied with water.

This mill, now running at this place, was erected in 1877, by what was then known as the Sheldon M. Co., of New York, and under that administration some $80,000 were expended in the purchase from Messrs. Gunn, Grant, Snow and Mee, of this mill, water pipe, etc. (originally belonging to the Jones property in Panamint), and these mines. From a series of adverse circumstances brought about, as in too many instances, by "putting the cart before the horse," no returns of any importance went back to the Sheldon Co., and, after a reasonable time had passed, that company became disgusted with their California outlay and sold to Mr. Frank S. Collins, of New York, and who is represented here by Mr. Mason. Mr. Collins has some five or six claims, the principal of which is called the St. George, a gold and silver (principally gold) bearing ledge, varying from 12 to 18 inches in width, with fine walls, but, as yet, only down to a depth of 80 feet.

There seems to be no end to the number of veins in this locality, none of which are base metal—all gold and silver. The surrounding formation is granite and lime, the former predominating.

The record book of Lookout district shows over 200 locations, and Mr. Fitzgerald (who is also the efficient Constable of this township), claims an income of $1 50 per day for recording claims alone. Messrs. Gunn & Mitchell have a promising ledge they call the "Old Virginia:" this, for a new prospect, is looking well, having paid all expenses so far; the ore contains very fine gold, but which is quite visible.

Thomas Johns has a location on the same ledge, and has just had eight tods of the ore worked, which, to judge from the gold amalgam as it came from the the battery, will certainly net him $200 per ton. Messrs. Birchett & Parker, merchants of Lookout, intending to stay with the mining interests of the county just as long as there was any hope, determined to help the prospectors out by leasing this mill, and run through what ore could be had in the vicinity. They commenced this one week ago to-day, and in this experiment thus far are doing quite as well as could be expected. It costs them about $80 per day to run the mill, the principal item of expense being wood, for which they pay $20 per cord. They pay men $5 a day, 12-hour shifts, and give them plenty to eat and of a number one quality; consequently, every thing goes smoothly, the men vieing with each other to see who can do the most work.

It is a most fortunate circumstance that prospectors have right here in their midst a complete little mill, in good running order, under an honest and square management. It will enable them to find out if their respective properties have a permanent value, and in such proof, to properly open up their present mere "surface scratchings," so to speak. The mill has not run long enough yet to enable one to make an estimate as to final results, or verdict upon the mines of the vicinity. But in any event Messrs. B. &. P. are worthy of all praise for their efforts to help the country ahead, and we call all but wish them the highest success.

The mill is under the management of James Grove, and is crushing five tons of ore per day, working it up to a high figure, $79 rock being worked up to $72, which proves that Mr. G. understands his business.

The terms for working ore are $30 per ton, paying 70 per cent. of the assay value. It is hard for many miners, until taught by experience, to understand that the more ore they may have the poorer off they may be; many would do well to bear in mind that, by throwing away half their ore oftentimes the net proceeds may doubled.

The managers are receiving ores from Slate Range, and also expect to get from 70 to 100 tons from Panamint, where some twenty men are chloriding with very favorable results.

Messrs. Beaudry and Belshaw, of Cerro Gordo fame, holding a claim against the Minneatta Bell company, have placed some men at work in that mine, and reports say, are getting some fine ore, which, possibly, they may have Messrs. B. & P. to work.

The owners of all the mines here are comparatively poor, therefore the developments of this region must necessarily be slow. When one looks around and sees so many veins he cannot but conclude some of them certainly have merit; that there must be some fire where there is so much smoke.

Parties interested in mining would do well to give this camp a little of their spare time—where they would certainly be hospitably received by all, Messrs. Birchett & Parker and Mason particularly. C. F. O'BRION.

Making the Convention to consist of 406 members.

County Committees are requested to make provisions in their respective Counties for the election of delegates in accordance with said apportionment, holding primary elections for the choice of such delegates; and the State Central Committee recommends that the Delegates chosen to the State Convention be empowered to act as Delegates to the Congressional Conventions of their respective districts.

The State Central Committee recommends the following test:

"At the election to be held in September next I will vote the Republican Ticket."

By order of the Committee.

M. D. BORUCK, Secretary.

NOTICE.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 5th, 1879.

No bill,—for advertising or otherwise,—unless directly authorized in writing by the President or Secretary, will be paid by the Republican State Central Committee.

By order of the Committee.

ALEX. G. ABELL, Chairman.
M. D. BORUCK, Secretary.

GOVERNOR IRWIN has issued a pardon to Wm. Creamer, who at the December term, 1878, of the County Court of Tulare county was convicted of gaming and sentenced to pay a fine of $200 and costs, and in default of payment to be imprisoned at the rate of $1 for each day. The pardon was asked by numerous citizens of Visalia, including the District Attorney who prosecuted the case, and nearly if not all the other county officers, on the ground that Creamer's health had become so impaired that his removal from the County Jail to the Hospital was necessary; and the County Physician, in a letter to the Governor on the subject, stated that to return Creamer to the jail would be detrimental to his health and probably fatal to his life. The County Judge joined in recommending the pardon.

THE reduction of the tobacco tax was a virtual free gift of ten millions of dollars to the growers of Virginia, and that State ought now to be able to pay her debts. It is not likely that the public will be benefited by the reduction, at least, not for months to come. The growers, however, have already been benefited, as the price advanced four cents per pound in the Richmond market upon the receipt of the news of the passage of the bill.

THE average Democratic patriot around Washington is just now taking an unusual interest in the welfare of the Government. It is said that there are two thousand applicants for the one hundred and twenty places at the disposition of this Democratic Senate.

THE Ventura Free Press wants to know how the new Constitution can be called an abortion, when it was delivered long after its appointed time.

A PLUMBAGO lead, that assays $146 to the ton in silver, has been discovered in the Mineral King district, in Tulare county.

THE important Hungarian city of Szegedin, contains some 80,000 inhabitants, has been completely destroyed by an inundation of the river Theiss. Szegedin occupies a position similar to that of Sacramento, being situated at the confluence of the rivers Theiss and Maros. The whole region roundabout is flat and marshy, however, and the rivers have hitherto been accustomed to spread out over the surrounding country at times of high water. The telegraph has not given any information regarding the origin of the present disastrous flood, but it is quite possible that it will be found to have been caused by the denudation of the mountains in which the Theiss rises. As the principal part of the city of Szegedin was built of sun dried bricks, the houses melted away before the water, and thus the destruction both of life and property has been greatly augmented, many houses having fallen upon and crushed their occupants before they could escape. Apparetly it will be necessary to rebuild the place almost entirely, and it is probable that more substantial materials will be employed next time.—Record Union.

A TOUGH SET OF ANGELS.—Servant girls in this city receive from $20 to $40 per month for their work. It is no injustice to say that, as a class, they are as tough a set of female angels as ever offered their services to forbearing and forgiving people. Though they have been in service from five to twenty-five years, there is not one in ten of them who can decently tan a beef-steak, or make a cup of coffee which does not contain a thousand grounds for complaint. A good many of them drink; a large proportion of them have beaux, and they perambulate later than the cats at night, and there is not one in fifteen of them who does not insist upon reading clear through the stock list before putting on the tea-kettle in the morning. Now that the Chinese are about to go, we cry out for a new race of servant girls.—Virginia Enterprise.

AN immediate and effective remedy for lice on cows and other cattle, also for ticks on pigs, is to wash the affected parts with potato water in which potatoes have been boiled. One application is generally sufficient.

Mining Notes for the Week.

THE MODOCK.—By far the most important mining work now going on in Inyo county is the deep tunnel enterprise of the Modock Consolidated, at Lookout. It will develop our most prominent base metal mine at the greatest depth yet atttained, the level being 1,000 feet below the ledge croppings and 100 feet deeper than the new Union shaft at Cerro Gordo. The face of the tunnel is now in beyond the vertical line of the old bodies of lead ore, but the strong pitch into the hill of the accompanying silver belts—the Confidence ledges—renders it difficult to judge how much further the tunnel must be driven to intersect the ledge. It must, however, be in close proximity to it now, and a strike is almost daily expected. Following is the Superintendent's official letter of Tuesday last:

MARCH 18.

J. W. Pew, Esq., Secretary Modock Con. M. Co.: DEAR SIR—The shaft for air engine arrived this week, and enables us to drive work on 1,000-foot level at usual rate of progress. The tunnel and upraise are both making good headway, and we hope will not be impeded again. There was three days' detention to work on this level last week. In upraise we have carried a small seam of ore all the way up, the same as found in starting from top of connecting drift. Face of tunnel has been in lime for past week, but now has every indication of a change at an early time. Distance made in tunnel for week ending to-day, 33 feet. Total length, 1,274 feet. On account of trouble with air facilities, the work in upraise has been retarded very much since starting. Another pipe being carried into it, and the accident to air engine repaired, raising is going ahead rapidly. It is now up 25 feet, leaving 228 feet between top of raise and bottom of shaft. Ground in bottom of shaft still remains hard. Nine feet was made last week. Total depth, 325 feet. Face of tunnel is now very near ore-ground opened on upper levels, and an important change may be looked for at any time. Yours, respectfully,

C. J. BARBER, Supt.

SNOW'S CAÑON.—The mill is in operation on custom ore, and a new impulse thereby given to working and prospecting the numerous small, rich gold ledges of the district. A descriptive reference to the same will be found in correspondence given this week.

NEW COSO.—There is a much better feeling in and about the old mines of Darwin, since the New Coso furnace, by its great reduction of charges for smelting and liberal and prompt payment for ores on delivery, has practically carried out a plan advocated by this paper—that arrangements be effected whereby all the mines contribute ore to keep one furnace in constant work. The Custer mine is in line on this matter, the old Defiance and others will soon fall in, while the Lucky Jim itself looks extremely promising for a good output of ore and bullion during the season.

LEE DISTRCT.—The Emigrant mill at Lee District is running but half the battery—five stamps. A settlement of some recent financial trouble has been effected, and the concern will soon be paving the way to regular dividends.

UNION CON.—Cerro Gordo letter of 20th says that the furnace is running steadily; mine looking well and continues to improve.

BROWN MONSTER.—The old Eclipse mine shows increased richness of ore as depth is attained on the ledge. Some rich silver ore is being taken from the mine as well as gold. Three assays of samples taken from the mine during the week resulted respectively $156 50, $108 10 and $93 in silver per ton, the ore carrying from $10 to $20 in gold besides. The incline has reached a depth of 450 feet, where the ledge has gradually widened out to 14 feet of milling ore. Experienced miners have no doubt of the permanency and increasing richness of the mine.

ASSAYS.—Among the many of Mr. Woodhull's assays during the week, of sample from the Inyo range, some have shown extraordinary richness for base metal ores, in both silver and gold. One from a new discovery opposite Lone Pine, made by Thos. Moran, gave $540 85 in silver, with 73 per cent. of lead. Another from the Boley & Tuttle mine above Swansea, showed $476 per ton in silver. The latter property is reckoned among the very finest of Inyo's recent developments.

KEARSARGE DISTRCT.—Supt. Gray, of the Kearsarge, is steadily prosecuting work on the tunnels. Work has been resumed by Mike Welch and others on the "Sardine Company" mines.

SPECIMENS.—Some remarkably rich specimens showing fine and crystalized gold, have been brought in from the Golden Star mine across the river, belonging to Cartier and others. A small arrastra is running on the ore.

AT REST.—After many months of dreadful suffering, Mrs. Addie, wife of C. W. Ober, of Big Pine, on Sunday last breathed her last. In accordance with her own frequently expressed desire, Dr. Bicknell made a post mortem examination, to determine beyond question the cause of death, for she herself hoped to the last almost, unwilling to believe her life was giving away to such an incurable malady as cancer of the stomach, hence her request. It was found, precisely as her physician had anticipated, that cancer of the stomach, involving the whole of that organ, had sapped her life. She leaves an interesting family of quite young children, a husband, loving mother and sister, and all who knew her, to most deeply mourn her sad fate. She was a woman loved and respected by all.

RECEPTION OF HON. P. REDDY.

An Enthusiastic Meeting—Tone of Mr. Reddy's Remarks—Proceedings, Etc.

In accordance with the correspondence published in our issue of last Saturday, on that evening our citizens turned out en masse, or in numbers sufficient to fill the large Court room, to receive and welcome home the Hon. P. Reddy, Delegate to the late Constitutional Convention from Inyo and Mono counties. Nathan Rhine, Esq., Chairman of the Joint Republican and Democratic Committee which nominated Mr. Reddy, called the meeting to order. Judge John A. Hannah was nominated and elected President, by acclamation, and after stating the general objects of the meeting, called for nominations for Secretary, to which position Mr. J. E. Parker was elected.

A Committee composed of Messrs. A. N. Bell, S. P. Moffat and Wm. L. Moore, was chosen to wait upon Mr. Reddy and bring him to the hall.

Upon their return with Mr. Reddy, Mr. Moffat, in a feeling and earnest address on behalf of his fellow citizens regardless of party, welcomed Mr. Reddy home, and referred to the high appreciation in which the people held his distinguished services in his late important work and trust.

Mr. Reddy took the floor, and in a speech of an hour or more in duration, reviewed the work of the late Constitution Convention and the instrument as finally promulgat d by it.

He began by stating that he could hardly express his gratitude for and his appreciation of this manifestation of the people's approval of his course. He had gone under no instructions, without party platform or pledges, and as events proved themselves, was heartily glad that he had thus been free. All present knew of his votes and action, and whatever mistakes he had made, if any, were chargeable simply to errors of judgment.

In determining upon the proposed new Constitution, the old one should be examined first, else we look only upon one side of the question. On the 10th of October, 1849, our present Constitution was adopted, and ratified November 13. In 1856 it was amended by the Legislature and the people, and served its purpose until September 3, 1862, when another amendment was added by the simple and cheap method originally provided for. For thirty years it had well served the people of a great State; through peace and war it had afforded every protection to life, liberty and property; labor and capital found security and reward under it; its every provision had been adjudicated upon and all legal rights under it settled and defined. Was it wise for us now to throw all into chaos by abandoning the understood principles of an organic law that has served so long and well? A simple modification of the Judiciary system, which could have been accomplished by an amendment, was, in the speaker's opinion, all the change demanded or desirable. We hear on every hand that "there are some good things in the new Constitution," but what there is of them came from the old; in fact, there is nothing new or original in the proposed instrument; whenever a Workingman delegate found something that he thought sounded well, in the Constitutions of Missouri or Pennsylvania for instance, it had been put in, regardless of different conditions here. Kearney and other of his ilk had begun an agitation, for the ends of personal aggrandizement and with the idea of changing the entire framework of our State government in order to make the Chinese go, when it is now well known that a State is totally incompetent to deal with such an international question.

Should the new instrument be adopted it would require twenty or thirty years more for the Courts to adjudicate and define it; endless litigation would ensue (individually, however, the speaker didn't object to that). It was out of the question to review in one night a half of the objectionable features of the new Constitution. The proposed judicial system is erroneous; the Article theron is enormously bulky, and couched in language which defies understanding. It is intricate; provides for a dangerous one-man power in the Supreme Justice, and practically provides for three trials of a cause before a final decision instead of two as at present; gives a monopoly of the several County Courts to members of the Supreme Bench, necessitating the importation of legal fledglings from San Francisco to outside counties, when any one of our District Court lawyers would make a far better "Superior" Judge to hear and determine our mining and farming cases; its salary system is absurd, placing the Judges at the mercy of each local Board of Supervisors.

The so called homestead provision is pure and unadulterated clap-trap; the idea of protecting only a portion of a homestead! What portion?

In a "mandatory," organic law has been stuck in simple declarations—a plank from a political platform, declaring against individual ownership of large tracts of land. The idea may be right in the abstract, but the section was indefinable, and the subject matter one for legislative action only. As to the merit claimed for the new Constitution on account of its provisions for easy and speedy amendment, therein lies a great fault—a Constitution subject to the caprice and whim of political parties, of no more stability than a law; an ever-changing principle and a source of endless public expense.

Constitutions are not self-executive, nor can mortals perfectly execute them. The main cause of complaint with the old one was upon the question of taxation, which, it provided, should be "equal and uniform." An avowed purpose in calling the Convention was to make taxation equal and uniform, yet it had abrogated the fundamental rule itself by striking out the word "equal." It left the door open for a graduated system of taxation; give the Workingmen power under it and they would equalize all property by practical confiscation. It takes all and provides no redress; it clearly indicates different percentage of taxation for different properties and occupations; a man worth $100,000 would be hopelessly in debt to the State the first year. It would be specially disastrous to the mining interests of Inyo and Mono, upon which the farming interests depend, and a blow at one affects the other. It means that the mines shall be taxed; the ore shall be taxed, the bullion taxed and the stock itself taxed. It would crush out corporations, the only means by which we can mine; no sensible man would undertake to mine on his own capital alone—though he had. One proposition they made was to tax all corporations 10 per cent. of their capital, or $10,000 for each $100,000, besides taxing a franchise; this would expel and repel all foreign capital from the State. Was it safe to endorse anything promulgated by men who advocated such insane and communistic schemes? They found seven shadows and taxed every shadow, besides taxing the substance out of existence. Were these men in a frame of mind to get up anything good? To tax a man for merely introducing capital was sheer madness; the result of its work goes to show that the Convention was called at an inopportune and most unfortunate time, when it was destined to be controlled by a ring of knaves and demagogues, who sought to saddle all the burdens of government upon mining and corporations. The industries employing thousands of workingmen would be destroyed in this mad zeal to "equalize" things.

In that iniquity called the Constitutional Club was concocted and framed every objectionable feature, and no Workingman's delegate dare vote contrary to its edicts; when Barbour voted, the first, you could tell how the rest would go. That concern, abetted by a few week-kneed demagogues, obtained the control; the Non-Partisans were never all there; the Convention was never full, though the members sometimes were.

Th proposed instrument contains twenty-two massive articles to be read and decided upon by every voter in a time far too brief for the purpose. And after it has been read and studied as a whole, no man can tell what it means. Compared to the old, which has but twelve short Articles, the new one has twenty-two, and each one three times as long. The instrument promulgated was not the result of fair and open discussion; there was no chance for argument as against the cut and dried conclusions of that Club. The speaker proceeded to denounce the "address" issued by an unauthorized Committee, and handled it in the severest terms.

The proposed Constitution is communistic in every important particular; it is good for plunderers, for those who loaf in Summer and subsist on the State in Winter. Denis Kearney and the Chronicle, the vile sensationalism of which created him, are denouncing all that is good and applauding all that is bad. Heaven help the State if they finally get it as they want it! It is in conflict with every known principle of political economy. The bare fear of its adoption is demoralizing business and capital; the latter is leaving the State and the consequences will soon be apparent.

As to his course in the Convention, Mr. Reddy explained that he had at no time offered an Article, section or an amendment, as they would have shared the fate of all others not proposed by the so-called Working men. He was continually on the defensive, in order to the better protect the interests of his constituents. He had labored with that object and to the best of his ability, and hoped that his actions might meet the approval of the people of Mono and Inyo counties. Referring to the probable wish of the good people to "on with the dance," Mr. Reddy closed, amid the heartiest applause.

Upon being called upon,

S. P. MOFFAT, ESQ.,

Took the floor. He would not interfere with the tacitly accepted programme of the evening by making a speech. However, he had dutifully studied the new Constitution as it now stands before the people of the State for ratification or rejection; had watched with a keen interest every step taken during the long process of its formation, and could not see how the general tendency and effect of the proposed innovations in law could be misconstrued. The deduction, in his mind, was that the instrument was inevitably fraught with many dangers, and his ballot, on the 7th of May next, would be among those counted as against it.

R. B. SNELLING, ESQ.,

District Attorney, in response to call, said that he fully concurred in Mr. Reddy's statements and his expressed opinions as to the subject under consideration, but regretted that that gentleman had not taken more time and gone further into the legal facts and reasons showing wherein the instrument was manifestly at fault. The question of adopting a new State Constitution was one of the utmost importance to the people and tax-payers; he had not as yet received the complete draft, but was satisfied, from his reading so far, that it ought not to be sustained.

In response to a rattling call from the audience, Mr. J. E. Parker arose and said he had entirely too much consideration for the feelings of the goodly assemblage to attempt an address, but would beg to submit the following

RESOLUTIONS:

Resolved—That we, as citizens of Inyo county here assembled, do hereby express our thanks to the Hon. Patrick Reddy, our delegate and representative in the late Constitutional Convention, for his able and comprehensive defense of the best interests of California on the west of the Sierras; and, further

Resolved—That we are deeply appreciative of his self-sacrificing work and attendance at said Convention, and that we, as of the people of Inyo, congratulate ourselves upon having had so fearless an exponent and champion; and be it further

Resolved—That we indorse the last vote of our sage-brush lawyer—"No," upon the question of the final submission of the new Constitution to the people.

Unanimously adopted.

On motion af Mr. Rhine, the meeting adjourned.

Quite a majority of the ladies and gentlemen present remained, and in honor of Mr. Reddy the floor was quickly cleared and

DANCING BEGUN.

It was kept going till a late—very late, hour; our host of the Blaney House supplied wine for the whole assemblage.

PERSONAL.—Thomas Parker, father and step-father respectively, of the proprietors of this paper, arrived here from Oakland Monday last, and we hope, to make it his place of permanent residence....J. S. Rothschild is here on one of his semi-occasional business visits to his establishment in this place ....H. L. Childs, too well known to need much of an introduction in this region, especially to people who pay U. S. revenue taxes, is down from Bodie on an official pasear; it may suit some of the aforesaid tax payers to know that he is going back in a day or two to look after his responsible charge, the Bodie Standard. He is conducting himself very well here for a newspaper man.... County Surveyor Seeley arrived yesterday from Cerro Gordo, and, we are sorry to say, in very poor health.

EXHIBITION. — Prof. Andress and troupe advertise to-day and are billed to show at the Court House on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday evenings next. The Professor is quite noted all over the Coast, and from what we can learn undoubtedly gives the best entertainment ever offered in the valley. The Professor and lady have received warm encomiums frem the press as being among the best people traveling.

P. M. APPOINTED.—Mr. Jas. N. Caldwell, who, some time ago, purchased the Piper Ranch, just across the Inyos on the Mono line, has just been appointed Postmaster at that place. The office is known as "Oasis," and is not in Inyo county, as gazetted, but in Mono, though almost on the line.

LAID OVER.—The continuation of Prof. Hanks' valuable report on Inyo county mines is necessarily laid over until next week. It contains a most interesting description of early mining and the lately opened Rex Montis series.

A MAN in Maine applied the other day for five gallons of rum for "mechanical purposes." "For what mechanical purpose?" "For raising a barn," was the reply.

"I NEVER complained of my condition but once" said an old man, "when my feet were bare and I had no money to buy shoes; but I met a man without feet, and became contented."

SUMMONS.

IN THE DISTRICT COURT OF THE SIXTEENTH Judicial District of the State of California, in and for the County of Inyo.

A. Montgomery, Plaintiff, vs. John Simpson, Defendant } Action brought in the District Court of the Sixteenth Judicial District of the State of California, in and for the County of Inyo, and the complaint filed in said County of Inyo, in the office of the Clerk of said District Court.

The People of the State of California send greeting to John Simpson, Defendant: You are hereby required to appear in an action brought against you by the above named plaintiff in the District Court of the Sixteenth Judicial District of the State of California, in and for the County of Inyo, and answer the complaint filed therein, within ten days (exclusive of the day of service), after the service on you of this summons—if served within this county; or, if served out of this county, but in this district, within twenty days; otherwise, within forty days—or judgment by default will be taken against you according to the prayer of said complaint.

The said action is brought to recover the sum of two thousand one hundred and sixty dollars, due from said defendant to plaintiff for work and labor, done and performed, at defendant's special instance and request, as will more fully appear by the complaint on file herein, to which reference is here made, besides costs of suit.

And you are hereby notified that if you fail to appear and answer the said complaint, as above required, the said plaintiff will take judgment against you for the said sum of Two thousand one hundred and sixty dollars and costs of suit. Given under my hand and the seal of the District Court of the Sixteenth Judicial District of the State of California, in and for the County of Inyo, this 31st day of January, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and seventy-nine.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT THE Boomerang Gold and Silver Mining Company, whose postoffice address is San Francisco, California, has this day filed its application for a patent for Fifteen Hundred linear feet of the BOOMERANG GOLD AND SILVER mine or vein bearing gold, with surface ground 100 feet in width, situate, lying and being in Kearsarge Mining District, county of Inyo and State of California, and known and designated by the field notes and official plat on file in this office as Lot Number 39, of Mineral Monument No. 2, Kearsarge Mining District. The exterior boundaries of said Lot No. 39 being as follows, to-wit: Variation 15 degs east.

Commencing at a post in stone mound at easterly end of lode, and running thence south 6 deg east 75 links to a post in stone mound on northerly line of the Rex Montis mine; thence south 84 deg west 22 72 chains to a post in granite mound from which Mineral Monument No. 2, Kearsarge Mining District, bears south 16 deg 52 min east 11 17 chains distant; thence north 6 deg west 1 51 chains to post in mound of granite; thence north 84 deg east 22 72 chains to post marked P 9 P, northeast from which the corner to Sections 14, 15, 22 and 23, Township 13 South, Range 34 East, Mount Diablo Meridian, bears (by calculation) north 84 deg 29 min 23 sec east 427.71 chains distant; thence south 6 deg east 76 links to place of beginning, containing 3 45 100 acres.

This claim is bounded on the north by the Arctic Gold and Silver Mine. The location of this mine is duly recorded in the Recorder's office of the Kearsarge Mining District, on page 238, in Book A of Records of Claims, Kearsarge Mining District

Any and all persons claiming adversely any portion of said Boomerang Gold and Silver mine or said mining ground as hereinbefore described, are required to file their adverse claim with the Register of the United States Land Office at Bodie, in the State of California, during the sixty days period of publication hereof, or they will be barred by virtue of the provisions of the statute.

NOTICE OF FORFEITURE.

TO HENRY HERON, G. HOOVER, T. M'KNIGHT and Mr. Roth:

You are hereby notified that the undersigned has expended the sum of $106 30 in labor and improvements upon the Cerro Gordo Mining Co., situated in Cerro Gordo (formerly Lone Pine) Mining District, County of Inyo State of California, being the amount of assessment work required to be done for the year 1878 in order to hold said premises, under the provisions of Section 2324, Revised Statutes of the United States, and if within ninety days after the expiration of this notice by publication you or either of you fail or refuse to contribute your proportion of such expenditure as co-owners, your interest in said claim will become the property of the subscriber, under said Section 2324.

The Constitution.

It is very evident that the new constitution will be rejected. The leading papers in most of the counties—particularly in the mining sections—are strenuously opposing it, as being antagonistic to the great mining interests of the State. One of the main provisions of the new Constitution prohibits the forma ion of Stock Boards, and declares the sale of all stock to be delivered at a future day, void. Every miner, and every one connected with our mining industries, is well aware that nine-tenths of all the meneys expended in prospecting our mines are obtained through the agency of the San Francisco Stock Boards. Through their agency thousands of people become interested in mines and assist with their money in developing them, when they could not be reached in any other manner. Abolish our Stock Boards, and what would be the result? All our prospecting mines would be compelled to be shut down. The poor miner who might discover and locate a promising claim would have a sorry time disposing of it if there were no Stock Boards through which the stock could be placed before the public. If the new Constitution is adopted, there can be no other result than the throwing out of employ thousands of miners. In voting on the new Constitution, voters must swallow the monstrosity whole, no carving being admissable; no objectionable article can be rejected; o the interests of the working man require its rejection, not only on account of the above mentioned article, but for other objectionable points to which we will refer hereafter.—Bodie Chronicle.

HIGHWAY ROBBERY.—At about 10 o'clock on Friday of last week James Cassidy was stopped on the Columbus and Benton road, at a point in the cañon about twelves miles southwest of Columbus, by two highwaymen. The robbers cut Cassidy's whip from its stock and tied his hands with it. They then blindfolded him and drove the team up through a ravine and behind a hill about three quarters of a mile from and out of sight of the road. The robbers then deliberately unhitched the team and camped for about five hours, during which time they cooked dinner, "went through" Cassidy and made themselves at home generally. They stole, in coin, about $60, one pair of horses worth $160, a Mount Diablo check for $14, and a pair of new blankets, but did not find a much larger sum which was stowed away in the wagon box. Before they left the thieves shot the black mule and bay horse which they rode out to the scene of the robbery. At times, while the work was progressing, Cassidy recognized the fellows as two who were in Courtnay's corral at Columbus while he was there, and describes them as follows: One man known by the name of Sullivan; very dark skin and sandy hair; about five feet ten inches high; wore chin whiskers and mustache; had an ugly scar over the left eye, which obstructed the movement of the eye; wore blue overalls and grayish woolen shirt—rough and dirty. The other a short, broad-shouldered, heavy-set man, about 23 or 34 years of age; smooth face and light mustache; about five feet six in hight; dressed about like his companion. Cassidy is well known in this section, and has been engaged for some time in marketing Bishop Creek produce at Belleville and Columbus. He is now aft r the highwaymen hot foot. —Benton Messenger, March 2[illegible].

THERE has been a remarkable case of constancy in England. A man who separated from his wife thirty-five years ago has just returned and offered to "kiss and make up." A few days prior to the offer the wife had inherited a large estate.

SATURDAY, MARCH 29.....1879

DENIS got a first-class mauling the other night down here at Santa Ana, and the little circumstance has set such Workingmen as A. S. Addis, all through the State, into an extasy of indignation. Such a time they are having with passing whereases and resolves about maintaining the "right of free speech!" By this these fellows mean the right of free and unrestrained villification; but for that, Denis would have had no trouble; nor would he have been heard of. His dupes had better put in their time in giving thanks that their beloved villifier did not get the bullet through him that he has been advertising for these many days.

ALL the thirty-six candidates for the diploma of school-mistress have just been rejected at Foix, France, for inability to solve the following problem: Two persons employed in a shop have different salaries, together amounting to 4,400f. per annum. The first spends two-thirds of her salary, and the second three-fourths. Their joint savings amount to 1,310f. a year. What is the salary of each?

WILLIAM J. YOAKUM, was sentenced at Bakersfield, on the 20th, for the murder of William Johnson, to be hanged on Friday, May 9th. Motion was made by the prisoner's attorney for an arrest of judgment and for a new trial, but both were denied. A notice of appeal to the Supreme Court was served at once upon the District Attorney.

THE Register of the Land Office in San Francisco has received an opinion from Commissioner Williamson at Washington to the effect that occupancy of land for five years merely for grazing purposes, does not comply with the homestead law. The occupant must cultivate the land to come within the provisions of the act.

EX-GOVERNOR L. R. BRADLEY, of Nevada, died at Elko on the morning of the 21st, aged 73 years. He was a man whose sterling good sense, honesty and open heartedness, commanded universal respect. Though not long since possessed of considerable wealth, his freedom in helping others is said to have caused him to die a poor man.

THE San Francisco Post says: "The proposed new Constitution is not such a document as the people require. It makes no provision for the benefit of the masses, while it creates a number of new offices that will increase taxation, and several craftily concealed advantages for the railaoad companies and other monopolies."

The State Democratic Convention is called for May 27th, at Sacramento, for the purpose of nominating a straight ticket. Every county in the State is invited to be represented by delegates in person. Inyo is entitled to three delegates.

THE Greenback Convention held at Chicago on the 5th inst., adopted a platform declaring that the Postmasters should be elected; the Labor Bureau should be established, with sundry other labor reforms; also that the Government prohibit the immigration of Chinese.

CONGRESSMAN Whiteaker reached Washington in four days, ninteen hours and fifty-five minutes time from San Francisco. This included a delay of five hours at Harrisburg, Pennsylvania. The fastest rate of speed attained on the trip was fifty-five miles an hour.

THE Republican newspapers insist on running Tilden for the Presidency, and Democratic journals are laboring with equal zeal for the nomination of Grant. Butler nor Kearney haven't yet received the endorsement of the independent press. Strange, yet true.

FIRED OUT.—As was expected, the Democratic Senate has summarily fired out Secretary Geo. C. Gorham and every other of the old Senate officers, and put new men in their places. John C. Burch, of this State, gets Gorham's place.

THE new Constitution it appears will allow any county, township or municipality to enact a local option law to prohibit the sale of liquor. The dealers in the beverage throughout the State will undoubtedly "go for" it with a vengeance.

THE settlers' league of Fresno and Tulare counties are organizing and arming as a last resort for the protection of their homes.

It is rumored that Governor Stanford has resigned his position as President of the Central Pacific, and Lloyd Tevis has been elected in his stead.

FOR AND AGAINST.

The San Francisco Chronicle gives a list of 97 California newspapers that have expressed themselves for or against the new Constitution. Of this number, 44, with itself at the head, are named as in favor of its adoption, while the remaining 57 are opposed. The San Francisco Call is classified in a "gang by itself," a Jack Bunsby of a paper, having no opinions worth speaking about until after the tide of public is finally set—then the Call turns loose an opinion as is an opinion, making no ripples against anybody's tide if it can be prevented at all. But it is dreadfully afraid of the Chronicle, and has a right to get on the fence if it wants to. We do not find in the Chronicle's list the name of a single one of the five papers published in this mining region, although several of them have given decided expression to their views.

The Record-Union quotes from 82 California papers, every one strongly opposing the new instrument. Many, or all of these, oppose it especially on the grounds of its ruinous school, taxation and anti-incorporation provisions, all agreeing that the last two will completely paralyze the mining interests of this State. Such is our own candid conviction on this point. We believe it to be an act for self-preservation for every miner, and every person whose interest is dependent on that of the miner, to use his utmost endeavors to defeat this communistic instrument; on this side of the mountains, every interest without exception is contingent upon the miner's operations, therefore, as we see it, the vote of this mining region ought to be cast unanimously against this threatening instrument.

The Record-Union's list includes THE INDEPENDENT only of the five Inyo and Mono papers. To this should be added the out-spoken Bodie Chronicle. The News of that place, as we learn indirectly, is on the other side. Neither the Standard or the Benton Messenger have, so far, taken sides on this question, vital as it must be to their future prospects. Both, however, may be safely counted as opposed. But without them the newspaper vote here as on the other side of the mountains stands two to one against the new Constitution. In revising its list, the Record-Union can also add the Downey City Outlook as another efficient opponent of the Kearney Koran.

Salt Lake City is agitated upon the question of bringing the river Jordan in for irrigating purposes. The Herald wants the city corporation to build the canal and own the works, which it claims to be necessary in order to prevent monopolies.

THE California Press Association will hold its second annual meeting in San Francisco some time in June.

THERE have been 120,000 persons rendered homeless by the recent floods in Hungary, and 1,900 persons drowned.

COL. E. E. HEWITT publishes a card in this morning's Herald, in which he declares the telegraphic statement that he had hired Lynill to follow up Kearney and denounce him and the new Constitution, untrue. He also says that a dispatch from Lynill denies that he (Lynill) had ever said that he was employed by the Superintendent of the Southern Division of the Southern Pacific Railroad for the purpose of answering Kearney on the stump—Los Angeles Express.

SOME INYO COUNTY MINES, ETC

CERRO GORDO MINING DISTRICT.

It has been shown that the ores produced by the mines of Owens Valley are not generally what are known as "milling ores." The term "rebellious," which is often applied to them, is a misnomer, for they are sufficiently tractable when treated by the proper methods. It is a common mistake to suppose that any process will extract the precious metals from all classes of ore.

Allusion has been made to the Cerro Gordo mines: they have so far been the most successful of any in Owens Valley. The Cerro Gordo Mining District is on the east side of the valley. The town is 7,200 feet above sea level. The mines lie mostly in compact limestone, in some cases as contact veins, between a highly metamorphic sedimentary formation and the limestone.

The mines, of which there are many, have a general northwest by southeast direction. There are two classes: those yielding principally galena, anglesite and cerusite, and those in which the ores are decidedly cupiferous. The first are called "lead leads," and the latter "silver leads," and the ore "lead ores" and "silver ores." The minerals in the silver ores are said to be malachite, azurite, argentite, stroymeyrite and free silver. Gold is only found in traces.*

In the mines producing galena, that mineral is found in nests, pockets and irregular deposits running generally parallel to the walls; the deposits vary from one to fifteen feet in thickness. In some cases they have been worked to a depth of 40 feet and 120 in length. Although considerable depth has been attained in these mines, in no case has water been reached.† The galena has a value ranging from $12 to $300 per ton.

The most prominent mines are the Union, San Ygnacia, San Felipe, Freiberg, San Lucas and Belmont. There are many other mines located, which are more or less prospected. The yield of silver ores of the Union mine averages about $120 per ton. The ores from the San Ygnacia contain from $178 to $280 per ton.

The ores of Cerro Gordo are treated by the old Mexican method; they are selected by hand, and freed as much as possible from gangue. They are then thrown into a reverberatory furnace, called a "galemador."‡ Part of the sulphur is driven off, and the galena is reduced to a matte, which flows from the furnace like thick tar or pitch; when cold it has the appearance of black slag, although it is very rich in lead, and contains all or nearly all the silver in the ore. This matte is mixed with silver and copper ores, and smelted in a blast furnace, by which the lead is reduced to the metallic state, carrying with it most of the silver. The lead is then run into bars or pigs, weighing from 150 to 250 pounds.

I have the following from a reliable source: In round numbers the production of lead bullion from these mines has been 30,000 tons. The silver in this lead is estimated to average 150 ounces to the ton; the value of the silver alone being $5,818,050.

UTILIZATION OF WASTE PRODUCTS.

When Owens Valley becomes, as it surely will, a great center of mining industry, the waste products from the smelting furnaces will be saved. Acid chambers will be erected, and large quantities of sulphuric and other acids produced, which will be used in treating copper and silver ores in the wet way, and the manufacture of blue stone and other chemical preparations. Suphur, arsenic and other waste products will be saved and utilized.

RAILROADS.

Inyo Valley rises gradually from south to north. It seems to be a natural way for a railroad. Scarcely any grading would be required for the whole distance. As the country becomes developed, advantage will, no doubt, be taken of this natural roadway. Already there are good wagon roads from end to end, with lines of stages connecting with the larger towns both north and south. Besides the precious metals, there are useful minerals in abundance, the conveyance of which would contribute largely to the profits of a railroad; and I confidently believe such a road will be built within the next ten years.

MINES OF THE REX MONTIS MINING CO.

I have never seen the mines of the Kearsarge mining district, although familiar with the ores. The locality is also well known to me, having camped in Onion Valley before the mines were discovered.

The first assay of ores from Kearsarge Mountain, I find recorded on my assay book, under date of April 15, 1864. I remember the circumstances well, although so many years have passed. I had an assay office at San Carlos at that time, and most of the ores from the various mining camps came to me.

It was unusual to have ores sent in from the Sierra Nevada, although a few free gold mines were worked in the foothills and mountain spurs on that side. On the day mentioned, a Cornish miner brought in samples of float rock for assay, which gave the following result: gold, $409; silver, $120; total, $530 00; gold, $180 28; silver, $421 10; total, $631 38. The ore proving unusual rich, and showing, as it did, free gold and silver, the circumstance excited considerable attention. The locality given was near where the Kearsarge was afterward discovered.

On April 4th, 1865, nearly a year later, I made the first assay from the Kearsarge mine, then just discovered, which resulted as follows: gold, $391.60; silver, $311 10; total, $703 00.

The information collected from documents submitted to me by the company allows me to state the following facts, and to express the following opinions relating to their mines:

The property of the Rex Montis Mining Co. includes all the rights of the Independence Tunnel and Mining Co., and the Shawmut mine. The mill is first class, built for ten stamps, although only only five are running; it is built on an elevated plateau, 7,000 feet above the level of the sea. It is driven by a never failing stream of water, fed by seven lakes, which lie in the mountains above, at an altitude of 10,500 feet. The mill is supplied with a complete outfit of tools.

The other buildings consist of a blacksmith shop, furnished liberally with tools, a superintendent's house, an office, a well appointed assay office, a commodious boarding house, stable, coal shed, etc.

Notwithstanding the great difficulties under which the work has been conducted, the mines have produced bullion of the coin value of $69,548 91. The Treasurer's report shows the average bullion production to be as follows:

1876, Average yield per ton	$127 50
1877, " " "	105 03
1878, " " "	107 94

Average production on 684 tons, the total ore production for the three years, $107 94.

The disadvantages referred to may be thus stated: The mines lie at a great altitude, the upper tunnel of the Rex Montis being 12,480 feet above the level of the sea. In this latitude, this is the region of perpetual snow. It is a remarkable fact that the ores of the Rex Montis come from the mine in a frozen state. The mountains are extremely rugged and steep, making it difficult to work on their sides.

All the ores worked have been brought down to the mill on the backs of mules, which is both slow and expensive. The mill is small, and some of the ores require roasting before they will yield the precious metals they contain. In Winter the snows lie deep, and only during a short season is the surface free.

The first bullion obtained from these mines was base; but it will be seen by referring to Appendix X, that the fineness has gradually increased, showing that the ores have improved, or that the treatment was better.

It is shown by appendix Y that the ores are of extraordinary richness; and also, the process now employed does not save the proportion of precious metals that was expected.

The result of my assays and examination of the ores, as stated in appendix Z, shows that some of the ores are rich in chloride of silver. Silver in this state is easily reduced in the pans. I question if much has been obtained from the other ores, which contain enough lead to resist the milling process, if not previously roasted. When this is done the bullion will be finer and the yield greater. No ores have been worked of less value than $80.

PROPOSED IMPROVEMENTS.

It is proposed to construct a tramway from the mouth of tunnel No. 5, passing by the mouth of Independence Tunnel to the foot of the steep grade, 1.36-100 miles, at an estimated cost of $21,637. From the end of the tramway to the mill, to build a wagon road, at the estimated cost of $2,863. To build a roasting furnace capable of roasting twelve tons of ore, including a dryer, and to alter the mill for dry crushing, at an additional cost of $5,000; total, $29,500.

I would suggest the putting up of an endless wire rope from the mines to the mill, which could be driven by water power. It is a great advantage to be able to open mines by tunnels and adits. The use of expensive hoisting and pumping works and fuel is dispensed with, and their cost saved. The position of your mines is such that they can be worked for years by the tunnels already projected. Another advantage, to which I would call attention, is the ample water power which can be utilized in so many ways. Not only can it be used for machinery, but for compressing air for the drills used in driving the tunnels, and in sinking the shafts, which will be required for the proper opening of the mines. * * *

As I understand the situation, the Independence Tunnel seems to be the key of the mines, and can only be regarded as a necessity, either now or in the future.

The largest and most productive mines are found at high elevations. Those of Potosi in Bolivia, and of Cerro de Pasco in Peru, are noted examples. The mines of Potosi during the 250 years in which they have been worked, have yielded two thousand millions dollars worth of silver. There are 5,000 openings in the mountains from which these rich ores have been extracted. These mines continue to yield $2,500,000 yearly. They were discovered in the year 1545. The name signifies "an eruption of silver." The mountain in which they lie is 16,000 feet high, and the town is over 14,000 feet above the level of the sea. The ores at the surface were wonderfully rich, and at first were worked by smelting. The average yearly yield from 1545 to 1556 was $11,590,000.

Cerro de Pasco was discovered in 1630 by the accidental building of a fire by an Indian, which melted silver from the surface ores. It has been one of the richest mines in the world. Like Cerro de Potosi, the mountain is honeycombed with mining shafts and tunnels. In 1851 the yield from these mines was $2,000,000.

I mention these two mines because of considerable resemblance between them and those of the Rex Montis company, not only in their great altitude and rich surface ores, but in the character of the ores. The ores now mostly worked in the Cerro de Pasco mines are low grade. They are of a soft friable nature, called, technically, "cascajos." Some of the ores I have examined from the Rex Montis mine are very much like them.

It is a question whether it is better to have a large vein carrying poor ores, or a small one in which the ores are of great richness; the difference must be great to give the advantage to the latter. It is a mistake too often made to judge of a mine from the ores found at the surface; mines do not always increase in richness as depth is attained; the reverse is often the case. It is well known that the rich ore in a mine is not always continuous, but lies in bunches or chimneys of irregular size, called "bonanzas" by the Spanish miners, a term which has become common on the Pacific coast.

From the foregoing facts these deductions may be made:

The ores of your mines are remarkably rich, and have been worked, so far, successfully, notwithstanding the difficulties that have been encountered.

The veins, though comparatively small, seem to be well defined, and promise to be permanent.

From experience in other mining districts, it is not unreasonable to expect these veins to join at a greater depth and form a single one.

The present conditions of the mines will fully warrant the proposed improvements, and such an investment such an investment may be considered a good business venture.

The mountain should be thoroughly and systematically explored.

Whether the property will pay fair dividends on a large capital can only be decided by future developments. That it will pay well on a small one, can scarcely be doubted.

[Following is the average assay of thirteen bars of bullion of the total value of $11,380 35, as shown in Appendix X.—EDS.] Silver, 850 fine; gold, 003½; base metal, 146½. Average value per ounce, $1 14·6

Twenty three lots, aggregating 41 tons and 409 pounds of Shawmut ore was worked, of which the highest of 23 assays was $227 13, lowest, $47 13, average, $117 90. The mean of 10 tons and 976 pounds of Rex Montis ore, 8 assays, was $109 11; highest, $296 61; lowest, $54 67. Eighteen tons and three tons from the Sardine, gave an average, respectively, of $72 38 and $18 65. The average of 4 tons of Arctic gave $86 73. Twenty pulp assays gave an average of $86 75; highest, $250 75; lowest, $29 22. The mean of 29 tailings assays was $41 76; highest, $98 04; lowest, $8 48. The lowest of 30 miscellaneous assays was $5 46, while two of the same went, respectively, $3,300 and $4,939 94, the average for twenty being $534 95.

*The Galmedore system was abandoned in Cerro Gordo and Swansea in 1872 or '73, and has never been in use anywhere in the county since then.—EDS.

†Water has recently been struck on the 900-foot level, if we are not misinformed.—EDS.

‡This is an error. More than $15,000 of free gold have been picked up and otherwise extracted from the Cerro Gordo dumps by different parties within the past few years. Several of these sparkling gold quartz specimens were sent to the Paris Exposition, and under Prof. Hanks' own charge. It seems, however, that this gold pertained wholly to the surface, so his statement, when confined to the ores from the regular workings, is probably quite correct.—EDS.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:

SATURDAY, MARCH 29.....1879

THE EMIGRANT.—Mr. Peter Taylor, Superintendent of the Emigrant mine and mill, is here on a brief visit. He assures us the prospects of the Emigrant are decidedly encouraging. Five stamps are pounding away continuously, and bullion shipments being made regularly. There is enough ore now uncovered to keep one battery running steadily for at least a year to come, by which time, if not before, a new shaft and other prospecting operations will be complete, and in all reasonable probability, one of the most valuable mines in this entire country will be opened up; in fact, something of the sort may be looked for by Fall. The Emigrant is a paying property as it is, and, without doubt, owes much of its success to the really efficient management of Mr. Taylor, who don't believe at all in a kid glove superintendency. A concentrator is to be put to work at once upon the tailings at the old mill site; it is estimated that at least $20,000 can thus be got out of these tailings; the concentration will bring their value up to about $400 per ton, thereby effecting a material saving in hauling and subsequent pan-work.

LONG ARTICLES.—We give place this week to three rather lengthy articles, all relating to our mining interests, and two, at least, that will repay perusal. These are Mr. O'Brion's report on the Modoc, and the continuation of Prof. Hanks' report to the Rex Montis Directors. The latter, by the way, contains references to other mining districts in this region, but the reproduction of which we are obliged to defer till next issue. The third article referred to is the Modoc delinquent list—of interest chiefly to delinquent stockholders and printers, but less so to the latter this time than usual because shorter than usual. On account of the space occupied by these, we are are compelled to forego mention of several matters, some of local importance. At the head of these is a telegraph proposition, to which we shall next week invite particular attention.

BROWN MONSTER.—The Brown Monster mill is about making its second regular crean up, from which is expected more favorable results than at the last. The company, with the laudable view of encouraging prospecting and mining in the districts near it, have thrown the mill open for working custom ore at just about what it cost to do it. Parties bringing ore can put in their own labor in any part of the work if they so desire, the full result and tailings to belong absolutely to the miner. The charges for reduction are $15 for silver and $10 for gold ores, per ton. Mr. John Parham, a mining expert of note, representing George Hearst and Haggin & Tevis, has been examining the mine. He left well pleased with the big mine, but considered the milling facilities incomplete--a fact not at all unknown to the owners.

CONTRACTS AWARDED.—Pursuant to adjournment and notice, the Board of Supervisors, all the members being present, met last Monday to consider proposals and award contracts for the care of indigent sick, boarding of prisoners and supply of fire wood for the Court House. The bid of Mrs. Margaret Lewis, at $1.600 per year upon a basis of four patients per day, and at the rate of $1 40 per day for all over, said bid being the lowest, was accepted, and upon filing of bonds the contract was made and approved. Several proposals were received for the supply of wood, the lowest being that of Jas. N. Rose, at $8 50 per cord, which was accepted and approved. The boarding of county prisoners was awarded to V. G. Thompson, at the rate of 70 cents per day per man.

SPEAKING.—At too late an hour to-day to permit of its publication entire, we have been placed in possession of a letter to Hon. P. Reddy, signed by a large number of the leading citizens of Bishop Creek, asking to hear from him personally his views upon th proposed Constitution, and in case of his compliance with the request to name a day and hour when it would be convenient to do so. Mr. Reddy starts for Bodie on Friday morning next, April 4th, and authorizes us to announce that he will be pleased to meet the citizens of Bishop Creek on that evening, at 7:30 o'clock, and will address them as requested. Also, will speak at Benton on the following (Saturday) evening.

TELEGRAPHIC.—We are glad to chronicle the presence among us, during the week, of A. C. Pratt, Esq., Superintendent of the California & Nevada Telegraph, and Mr. Albert Swart, one of the owners of the line, which connects Bodie with Virginia. The gentlemen have made the most liberal and squarest proposition which has ever been offered to this county, looking to telegraphic communication with the outside world. THE INDEPENDENT proposes to stand in on the matter to the utmost extent of its means and ability, and will next week discuss the question in full and keep on agitating the subject until something is accomplished.

BLANEY ESTATE.—At a meeting of the executors of the Blaney estate, held on Tuesday evening, for the first time in some years past there were present all of the executors—Messrs. John Broder, P. Reddy and S. P. Moffat. All the acts of the last named gentleman, who has been acting alone for some time past, were approved; the lease of the Blaney House to V. G. Thompson was ratified, and some interior improvements and furniture ordered.

CALIFORNIA.—Such is the name of the old "Drummer Boy" mine, located across the river, and now belonging to Messrs. Ball, Palmer & Potts. The ledge is from 5 to 7 feet wide, the ore averaging from $60 to $80 per ton. Some 8 tons is being taken to the Brown Monster mill for reduction.

DEFUNCT.—"Old Rowdy" is dead again—that is, he is dead now. Our home readers will remember the old fellow, a yellow dog who belonged to our respected paterfamilias, and who was brought to this place some three years ago by our junior. Though of bull and mastiff blood, Rowdy was a regular canine comedian, so full of fun and good nature that after the slightest acquaintance he had no enemies among the human or animal kind. In his puppyhood days at Austin, some eleven years ago, must have been instilled into him his superior milk of canine kindness; but in Virginia City he had his dog's day of usefulness, where he was of genuine service and a universal pet. At night his post of honor was on his master's bed, or else at the head of a fire-engne with his master's son. But as old age grew on and he was brought to Inyo, he became dissipated, through the evil companionship of the other junior of this paper—who is now managing the Bodie Standard—he became passionately fond of beer—that is, the dog did. However, we believe he came to his death from accidental poisoning, and the thanks of this institution are to Uncle Abe Parker, who considerately gave the old fellow a becoming interment almost before we had learned of his demise.

MODOCK.—Supt. Barber's official letter of March 25th has the following: "Distance made in tunnel 1,000-foot level for the week ending to-day is 34 feet, the total length of tunnel being 1,308 feet. The ground for greater part of week has not broken very well, but is now very soft in face. The drill this morning broke through into manganese and clayey matter, which taken with indications for the past two or three days, would lead us to believe that we have got through the limestone belt lying next to Confidence ore ground. Hope shortly to have some developments to report at face of tunnel. The shaft has been sunk 10 feet this week, and is now down 335 feet. The upraise made 12 feet; total height of raise, 37 feet. The points mentioned in last letter where chloriders are at work (1,000-foot level) are looking very promising. It has the appearance of opening out into an extensive body of ore."

REGISTER.—All new voters whose names are not on the Great Register should see to it that they are properly registered, in order to appear on the printed copies. County Clerk Crough informs us that he will have the manuscript ready for the printers during the coming week.

TO ARRIVE.—Judge Conklin has gone to Mohave to meet and return here with Mrs. P. Reddy, his sister, who has been on a long visit with relatives in the East. They are expected here Tuesday evening next. Mrs. R. will be heartily welcomed home.

MARRIED.—Mr. A. K. Briggs and wife, nee Miss Nellie Lewis, passed through town on Thursday last, en route from San Francisco to their home at Bishop Creek. The couple have the warmest congratulations of a host of friends in Inyo.

BONDS REDEEMED.—At the current meeting of the Board of Supervisors, Inyo County bonds to the amount of $2,500 were redeemed, at par and accrued interest to date. This leaves outstanding but $28,500, out of the original $40,000.

NEW POSTOFFICE.—A Postoffice has been established at Mammoth City, Lake District, Mono county, with Morris Burke for P. M.

LOOKOUT DISTRICT.

The Modock Consolidated—Its History and Its Mines and Works.

DARWIN, March 27.

MESSRS. EDITORS—The writer, suffering from "compound double-acting condensed rheumatic twitches," a affliction, when it gets a good hold, will make a man call upon God and Satan in the same minute, concluded that a change of climate would afford relief, and consequently directed his footsteps toward the eastern slope of the Argus range, to breathe for a few days the balmy air from off Panamint Valley, that bathes and cheers the citizens of Lookout.

Upon my arrival was met by Mr. C. J. Barber, Superintendent of the Modock Con. Mining Co., and Mr. A. C. Tibbetts, the company's tried and efficient Secretary, and was made at home by them at once. I concluded to remain a few days, see what was going on and, if possible, get rid of my ailing, which left me after the second day. Believing a few facts concerning the early history of this company, what it has done, and is doing to develop its property and further mining interests generally, I have gathered the following information:

THE MINES

Which the company originally purchased were known as the Modock, Lookout and Confidence, and were discovered by Messrs. Childs, Burke, Ball and Boardman, in April and May, 1875. The Lookout District was not then established, consequently they were recorded in the Coso Mining District, and bear the following dates: Modock, April 22d; Lookout and Confidence May 3d, 1875. The locators bonded and finally sold their claims to the Modock Company for $15,000. Shortly after the termination of the sale a consolidation was made with other parties, through which four other claims were added, known as the Wideawake, Cumberland, Hearst and Keys, since which time the name of the Company has been "Modock Consolidated Mining Company." A man by the name of Sargent was the first Superintendent; took charge of the property in October, 1875, and occupied the position for three months. The present manager was called to take his place in January, 1876, in which position he remained until March, 1877, and during this time roads to the mines were constructed, furnaces were built and the mines opened. Mr. Barber was relieved by Mr. Stronach, who occupied the office until June or July, and then was superceded by Mr. A. N. Guptil, who remained until August 1st, 1878, when Mr. Barber was again returned to his old stamping ground, after an absence of some 16 months.

It was during Mr. Barber's first administration that the developments which finally opened up the large ore bodies really commenced, and it was during this period excitement ran high; jumping of claims was common, and shot-gun law had substantial sway, as it was then supposed the whole locality was a bonanza. During this same period the question of a site for locating the furnaces came up. The company sent up Mr. James Stratton for this purpose, who placed them where they now are, contrary to Mr. Barber's wishes. He was anxious to have them located at the foot of the mountain in Panamint Valley, as there nothing would have to be packed up except the mine supplies proper. To a casual observer, even, it is plain to be seen that thousands of dollars would have been saved to the company, in expensive roads and almost continual "up-hill packing" of ore, wood, coal, etc., to the furnaces where they now are, while if they had been located below in the valley all such articles as wood, iron ore and charcoal could have been hauled in wagons to their doors, and nature, so to speak, could have been harnessed and made to carry the ore from the mine down. Fighting nature is an expensive experiment, and nature always comes out ahead. It was erroneously supposed in early days of mining that teams and men could never travel the Panament Valley in midsummer; that neither man or beast could live upon it under a July sun, but it was soon found out they could, and perform good work. From the belief they could not, however, the level road to the foot of the mountain in which the mines are located, and where they now propose to remove and erect their works if ore is found in abundance, was abandoned and a road over the Argus range was built, costing a large sum of money. One can hardly realize the fact, but such it is, that this company have bought and built over 100 miles of road in this county. Much of this is now public, where the County Roadmaster's voice and shovel is never heard nor a stroke of work done; still we are all paying a yearly poll tax, and in some instance toll to travel upon them. And this company, that has

Has had but one single 50 cent dividend and is continually spending money; which has shown more pluck and spirit than any other, owes no man a dollar it cannot pay, is prosecuting a work now of more importance to this county than any other project in it—and still in the face of all these facts, has an enormous assessment yearly placed upon it. The location of the mines is such, possessing no natural advantages, that not a move can be made to develop the property without paying out money liberally. Inyo County mines are not the richest in the world, from what I can see and learn, although the fact must be known that none excepting Cerro Gordo are down over 350 feet, which really makes them all surface affairs; and unless they be fairly handled by our Assessors and not looked upon as resources to make up any deficiency in the amount required, parties owning them will let them go by the board. We are all hoping down here that when friend Dillon makes his annual call he will show by his acts that, since his absence, he has become imbued with the divine spirit—has adopted the beautiful robes that clothe a Christian soul, and only see $1 where he saw $2 last year. He cannot come with too much charity, for we are all genuine objects for a lavish display of that article.

At present but a small force is employed in the mine; only enough men to advantageously prosecute work in the 1,000-foot tunnel, run by the Ingersoll drill, and the sinking of the shaft from the Confidence level in the mine to connect with same, thereby connecting the upper workings with this important work. This shaft will connect with the tunnel 1,000 feet from its mouth, about 200 feet of which remain to be sunk. A "raise" is being run from the tunnel level to connect the shaft sooner than could otherwise be done; the ground is favorable, being of a veiny nature, and occasionally with spots of good ore, while the shaft is in a belt of hard, almost pure lime-stone, but containing some white quartz.

We find, nearer the surface, a lime belt, underlying all the ores thus far found, which seems to be the foot-wall of the vein, as no ore has yet been found in it. This belt has a regular pitch of about 45°; the shaft is now in it, as is also the face of the tunnel, which has passed into it about 100 feet, while the raise has not reached it yet; consequently, it is known that it has two sides, therefore, that it is only a question of time, if it keeps its regular pitch, when the drill will be through it, and when, as is confidently expected, the ledge matter shown in the shaft will be found. The shaft was sunk over 100 feet from its mouth through ledge matter before reaching this lime belt. The tunnel is now in over 1,300 feet, and, though beyond the vertical line of the shaft, is not yet through this lime belt, which is the foot-wall of the ore bodies of the shaft.

It costs $50 each 24 hours to run the Ingersoll drill. The progress is from 44 to 50 feet per week. The drill is run by compressed air, and all the machinery by a No. 4 King engine.

About 400 feet from the mouth of the tunnel a body of ore was struck which yielded about 350 tons, and prospects favorable for finding more. Considerable of the ground passed through before reaching this lime belt is favorable vein material. I think good results will follow its prospecting, but which cannot be advantageously done till the connection with the shaft improves the air.

The wood and coal for the mine and furnace come from Wild Rose, 25 miles distant, where the company have an extensive wood claim and ten patent charcoal kilns.

Following is a statement of the bullion turned out by the Modock since its furnaces were first started up:

Estimating that, to smelt one ton of ore 33 bushels of coal are required, we have, approximately, 389,400 bushels consumed in producing this bullion.

From the foregoing figures, it is hard to believe or even suppose such an immense body of ore was a mere surface deposit, and that it does not go down to a great depth.

If ore is cut in paying quantities in the tunnel now being run, it will greatly strengthen the confidence of mining men and companies in our midst, and become a powerful incentive to all mine owners to sink upon their respective properties, instead of waiting, as they are, to see if the Modock will strike it.

Taking into consideration the immense amount of ore found above, and believing it came from below, there must be a connecting link between it and the fountain head, and which it is hoped and generally believed the drill now running, and making eight feet per day, will soon expose.

C. F. O'BRION.

ELECTION.—At a special meeting held for the purpose the Board of Supervisors made an order directing the Clerk to have printed the necessary blanks for the Constitutional election and 500 copies of the Great Register, to serve at the May and the next general election. The Chairman was authorized to convene the Board in special meeting upon receipt of the Governor's proclamation ordering an election for May 7th, at which meeting the Board will issue its proclamation thereunder, fix polling places, election officers, etc.

A Nice Point.

The case of H. Carwell vs. S. J. Robinson was tried before Judge Rivers, in chambers, yesterday. An exceedingly fine point in law, and one that excited no little interest among the legal fraternity, was involved in this suit. The defendant is a teamster by occupation, and some time since was the possessor of two horses and a wagon, which, under our statutes, are exempt from seizure for debt. One of the horses becoming sick, Robinson sold the entire team for $350, his intention being to purchase another. The plaintiff, hearing of this, attached the money, and the question arose whether the proceeds of the sale of exempt property was also exempt. It was argued for three hours by Judge Davenport, who represented the plaintiff, and Messrs. Laspeyre & Beatty, for the defendant. Judge Rivers decided that the money was not exempt, and ordered it to be turned over to the plaintiff. Ten days were allowed the defendant in which to take the necessary steps to appeal the case. —Eureka Sentinel, 20th inst.

THERE was a clause inserted in the Post-office Appropriation bill which provides for the double postal card and also provides for a letter-sheet envelope, which is to be stamped as envelopes are now stamped, and a double-letter envelope. The double postal card is in size similar to the present one-cent card. It bears at both upper corners a one-cent stamp and lines are drawn from the center, sloping downwards to each lower corner, to be written upon. The writer of the card uses the right-hand side and the receiver uses the left-hand side for his reply.

PROF. V. T. HAYDEN says that on the east side of Wind River Peak, Wyoming Territory, and on the east base of Fremont Peak, the remains of the huge glaciers which once covered the region have been discovered. On the west side of Wind River range, morains and glaciated rocks were found on an immense scale. He thinks on this side a glacier must have formerly existed having a length of 80 miles and a width of 12 miles with arms extended up the gorges of the stream to the very water divide.

HE was found guilty of forgery, and was asked by the Judge if he had anything to say why sentence should not be passed upon him, and in reply made a speech of great feeling and real eloquence. "I have just said that I am guilty. It was a lie. It was rum that did it. It was not my mother's boy." There were few dry eyes in the Court room when he uttered these words, and strong men shed tears like children. He was sentenced to two years' imprisonment.—Salt Lake Tribune.

BULLION.—The Mammoth M. & M. Co., of Lake District, shipped this week one bar of bullion, valued at $1,852 63. The Vulcan M. & M. Co., of this place, shipped during the week three bars of bullion, aggregating $3,102 80.—Benton Messenger, March 22.

Facts of Value to the Housewife.

That salt will curdle new milk; hence in preparing milk porridge, gravies, etc., the salt should not be added till the dish is prepared.

That fresh meat, after beginning to sour, will sweeten if placed out of doors in the cool air over night.

That clear, boiling water will remove tea stains and many fruit stains. Pour the water through the stain, and thus prevent it from spreading over the fabric.

That ripe tomatoes will remove ink and other stains from white cloth, also the hands.

That a tablespoonful of turpentine boiled with your white clothes will greatly aid the whitening process.

That boiled starch is much improved by the addition of a little sperm, or a little salt, or both, or a little gum arabic dissolved.

That beeswax and salt will make your rusty flat-irons as clean and smooth as glass. Tie a lump of wax in a rag, and keep it for the purpose. When the irons are hot, rub them first with the wax rag, then scour with a paper or cloth sprinkled with salt.

That blue ointment and kerosene mixed in equal proportions and applied to bedsteads is an unfailing bedbug remedy, and that a coat of whitewash is ditto for the walls of a log house.

That kerosene will soften boots or shoes which have been hardened by water, and render them as pliable as new.

That kerosene will make your tin kettle as bright as new. Saturate a woolen rag and rub with it. It will also remove stains from and clean varnished furniture.

That cold rain-water and soap will remove machine grease from washable fabrics.

The idea that fruit eaten at night is deleterious is proved by the bad effect it had upon Adam, from eating an apple after Eve.

SUMMONS.

IN THE DISTRICT COURT OF THE SIXTEENTH Judicial District of the State of California, in and for the County of Inyo.

A. Montgomery, Plaintiff, vs. John Simpson, Defendant. — Action brought in the District Court of the Sixteenth Judicial District of the State of California, in and for the County of Inyo, and the complaint filed in said County of Inyo, in the office of the Clerk of said District Court.

The People of the State of California send greeting to John Simpson, Defendant: You are hereby required to appear in an action brought against you by the above named plaintiff, in the District Court of the Sixteenth Judicial District of the State of California, in and for the County of Inyo, and answer the complaint filed therein, within ten days (exclusive of the day of service), after the service on you of this summons—if served within this county; or, if served out of this county, but in this district, within twenty days; otherwise, within forty days—or judgment by default will be taken against you according to the prayer of said complaint.

The said action is brought to recover the sum of two thousand one hundred and sixty dollars, due from said defendant to plaintiff for work and labor, done and performed, at defendant's special instance and request, as will more fully appear by the complaint on file herein, to which reference is here made, besides costs of suit.

And you are hereby notified that if you fail to appear and answer the said complaint, as above required, the said plaintiff will take judgment against you for the said sum of Two thousand one hundred and sixty dollars and costs of suit. Given under my hand and the seal of the District Court of the Sixteenth Judicial District of the State of California, in and for the County of Inyo, this 31st day of January, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and seventy-nine.

No. 123.

U. S. LAND OFFICE, Bodie, California, January 29, 1879.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT THE Boomerang Gold and Silver Mining Company, whose postoffice address is San Francisco, California, has this day filed its application for a patent for Fifteen Hundred linear feet of the BOOMERANG GOLD AND SILVER mine or vein bearing gold, with surface ground 100 feet in width, situate, lying and being in Kearsarge Mining District, county of Inyo and State of California, and known and designated by the field notes and official plat on file in this office as Lot Number 39, of Mineral Monument No. 2, Kearsarge Mining District. The exterior boundaries of said Lot No. 39 being as follows, to-wit: Variation 15 degs east.

Commencing at a post in stone mound at easterly end of lode, and running thence south 6 deg east 75 links to a post in stone mound on northerly line of the Rex Montis mine; thence south 84 deg west 22 72 chains to a post in granite mound from which Mineral Monument No. 2, Kearsarge Mining District, bears south 16 deg 52 min east 11 17 chains distant; thence north 6 deg west 1 51 chains to post in mound of granite; thence north 84 deg east 22 72 chains to post marked P. 9 P, northeast from which the corner to Sections 14, 15, 22 and 23, Township 13 South, Range 34 East, Mount Diablo Meridian, bears (by calculation) north 84 deg 29 min 23 sec east 427 71 chains distant; thence south 6 deg east 76 links to place of beginning, containing 3 43 100 acres.

This claim is bounded on the north by the Arctic Gold and Silver Mine. The location of this mine is duly recorded in the Recorder's office of the Kearsarge Mining District, on page 238, in Book A of Records of Claims, Kearsarge Mining District.

Any and all persons claiming adversely any portion of said Boomerang Gold and Silver mine or said mining ground as hereinbefore described, are required to file their adverse claim with the Register of the United States Land Office at Bodie, in the State of California, during the sixty days period of publication hereof, or they will be barred by virtue of the provisions of the statute.

R. M. BRIGGS, Register.

H. Z. OSBORNE, Receiver.

NOTICE OF FORFEITURE.

TO HENRY HERON, G. HOOVER, T. M'KNIGHT and Mr. Roth:

You are hereby notified that the undersigned has expended the sum of $106 30 in labor and improvements upon the Cerro Gordo Mining Co., situated in Cerro Gordo (formerly Lone Pine) Mining District, County of Inyo State of California, being the amount of assessment work required to be done for the year 1878 in order to hold said premises, under the provisions of Sections 2324, Revised Statutes of the United States, and if within ninety days after the expiration of this notice by publication you or either of you fail or refuse to contribute your proportion of such expenditure as co-owners, your interest in said claim will become the property of the subscriber, under said Section 2324.

ONE of the first bills introduced in the Senate was to remove the political disabilities of Jeff. Davis, so as to prepare for his admission as a Senator to succeed Bruce two years hence. This was concealed under the bill to restore citizenship of all persons now now under political disabilities. There were only about thirty in the list, of whom Davis is one. The bill was referred to the Committee on Judiciary, of which Thurman is Chairman, and it is reported that the Jeff. Davis debate will be resumed, and Thurman's Presidential prospects imperilled.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:

SATURDAY, APRIL 5.....1879

THE New York Assembly has adopted a bill providing that bonds may be issued in denominations of $20, $50, $100, $500 and upwards. Heretofore the smallest denomination of New York State bonds has been $100. The lowest denomination of United States bonds is $50, though a law was passed authorizing the issue on the 1st of April of $10 bonds bearing 4 per cent. interest, convertible into bonds of larger denomination at the same rate of interest. The last California Legislature made some concessions in favor of bonds of small denomination, though we are not aware that any are issued under $100. The desirability of emitting small bonds can hardly be questioned. The objection that it increases the expenses is more than counterbalanced by the good influenced on local government which a large number of small bondholders would have.

A TABLE, compiled by the State Auditor of Illinois, shows that the various railroads in that State are delinquents in the modest sum of $2,099,980. Of this large amount, one railroad is in arrrears $278,627; another $248,618; another $208,850; another $142,872, and so on down in various sums to $52 which is the smallest sum owed by any company. The Lake Shore road, owned by Mr. Vanderbilt, is $13,248 in arrears and the Michigan Central road, controlled by the same party, is behind-hand $10,688. The Western Union Telegraph Company is also a delinquent to the amount of $12,013.

FOUR young lady members of a Methodist Church at Elizabethport, New Jersey, have been summoned before an investigating committee on the charge of dancing. As the ladies positively refused to reform, and as the committee do not wish to expel them, the congregation is in a quandary.

THE Chicago Times asks if it is the fair and generous thing in Jones, of Nevada, to test Hayes with further legislation on the Chinese question, just when the old gentleman had congratulated himself that Evarts had pulled him through a rough bit of road.

ENGLAND being ahead of us in walking matches, it would be a good idea to adopt the suggestion of a Western paper, and send Sitting Bull or Spotted Tail across the water to show them what a native American can do.

THE famine in Upper Egypt causes terrible suffering. In some villages the people, naked like wild beasts, dig roots. In one town women and children fought over scraps of bread. The inland village are said to be starving.

NEW ENGLAND sent up a virtuous howl against the restriction of Chinese immigration, but made no mention of the fact that Maine still imprisons for debt, and Massachusetts still sells her paupers at auction.

THE Cincinnati Enquirer makes the following correction: "For 'it's a poor mule that won't work both ways,' in yesterday's issue, please read, 'it's a poor rule,' etc."

THE Baltimore Gazette is of the opinion that if Randall has any gratitude he will make Mr. Whitaker, who made the famous ride from Oregon, Chairman of the Committee on Pacific Railroads.

AMERICANS may be capable of governing themselves, but frequently do it in an expensive way. Every fifteen voters in New York city support a salaried or feed official.

THE Boston Herald alleges that the great popularity of pedestrianism arises from the fact that it requires no brains in walker or spectator.

THE Cincinnati Enquirer, with an adequate conception of the eternal fitness of things, heads its legislative proceedings "Slush."

ACCORDING to a Maine editor "there is a cushioned seat in Golden Home for the assasinator of Bob Ingersoll."

SENATOR JONES' ambition can go no further. An Eastern paper has nominated him for the Presidency.

PREFERENCES for the Presidency being now in order, the Chicago Times has come out for Bayard.

THE miners and other citizens of Nevada county are moving to defeat the new Constitution.

THE farmers in Sierra Valley think the grasshoppers will ruin their crops this season.

THE New York Bullion Club talk of building an edifice to cost $1,000,000.

THE TELEGRAPH PROPOSITION.

Whether this county is soon to enter upon an era of positive prosperity or is to continue to drag doubtfully along indefinitely as it has been doing for a long time past, is a question for its own people to determine. To a very material extent, the whole determination of that important matter is in our own hands. There was never a time in our history when a little effort on our part to induce a change for the better was more needed than at this moment, nor a chance to accomplish as much in the proper direction at such little cost. Our isolated geographical position is the one great obstacle against which we have to contend. A railroad would effectually remove that obstacle, but that is a remedy too costly for us to hope for just yet. Next to that, and really better in some respects, is a TELEGRAPH—a remedy for dull times that we can command, and, as near as may be, without costing us a cent.

We will try to show how this is: As referred to last week, A. C. Pratt, Superintendent of the Nevada and California Telegraph Company, and Mr. Swart, a Director in the same, were here to see what could be done about extending their line from Bodie to this place. A word here as to what these gentlemen and their company have already done will not be out of place. First, the company is composed wholly of sagebrush citizens whose interests are identified therewith. Secondly, its Superintendent has the indorsement of all who know him for capability, energy and integrity. Thirdly, the company, consisting of Messrs. A. Swart, J. W. Haines and A. C. Pratt, three "rattling," go-ahead, reliable men, owns it own line independent of any and every other. Fourthly, these three undertook and completed a work the great Western Union itself would not then think of undertaking for fear it might not pay, and because of its difficulties; this was the construction of the line into Bodie, the poles of which toward the finish were put in place in six feet of snow. Fifthly, all this was done on a simple hope of a paying outcome of the then undeveloped camp of Bodie, its objective point. Sixthly, there is no doubt whatever but that telegraph was an important factor in the rapid development of Bodie; that scores of incorporated companies at once began, and still continue to operate there, which could never have had an existence but for the advantages of telegraphic communication, which is as essential in the effective management of incorporated mining operations as it is in army operations. Lastly on this point, this independent home company are entitled to our preference and support above every other, even if they offered no more liberal terms; but their offer is far the most liberal that has yet been submitted for our acceptance. It is this: Bishop Creek, Big Pine and Independence jointly, are to agree to pay for telegraphing to the amount of $5,000. Each subscriber to this amount will receive a receipt and certificate, which certificate is transferable in whole or in part, and, unless sooner exhausted, will for two years be accepted the same as cash in payment of telegraphing required by the bearer, whether he be the original subscriber or some neighbor to whom he may see proper to loan or sell it. This subscription is due and payable on demand after the line is completed, but not a cent of it prior to that time, which is certainly all the guarantee that could be asked of any company. The line is to be completed inside of two months after the subscription is made up. The subscription in effect is simply a guarantee on our part that our country has vitality in it equal to $5,000 worth of telegraph business in two whole years to come, in amount about one-half the actual cost of the line, saying nothing of the continuous future expenses of the company for repairs and maintenance of offices.

We could name a number of new mines here, saying nothing of older ones, which, in themselves, offer every inducement for operations by heavy incorporated companies to take hold of at once. But it is becoming more and more a pre-requisite to the formation of such companies that the managers at San Francisco must have means of instant and constant communication with their mine and works. When this cannot be had, speculative capitalists will rarely spend the time to go to even look at such mines, much less to buy them. Capitalists would oftener come among us on such business were it not that they have to put themselves beyond hearing of their regular affairs at home. Prosperous times can come to this section only through the operations in our midst of incorporated companies, by which alone can real mining ever be extensively carried on here or any where else. Such companies must have a chance to list and operate with their stocks, or they will have none of it. It is not possible for them to do this without a telegraph.

A telegraph must cause many such companies to take hold of some of the many promising mines they may choose from here. In so doing they must enhance the value of every business in the county. Those farmers who fear that a railroad will effect their business harmfully, must readily admit the tendency of a telegraph is greatly to the advantage of their calling as well as to that of every other.

But business as it now exists here will amply justify this subscription, if properly divided up. Every farmer interested in the produce market at any point on the new line, every merchant, every mine owner, in short, every citizen in the county can well afford to take some stock, be it little or much, in this most promising enterprise. At all events, steps will soon be taken to settle the matter one way or the other.

ACCORDING to the British Army and Navy Journal, the case of Private Hines' trowsers has found a parallel in the English service. The late Captain John Vivian, when in Parliament, was ridiculing the circumlocution of the War Office, and as an illustration of his arguments related the following: "A commissary in an Irish camp sent in a requisition for a bellows. The requisition went from the camp to Dublin, from Dublin to England, from one bureau of the War Office to another, and finally by a lucky blunder to the Admiralty, where it was entombed beyond all hope of resurection. The last heard of that unfortunate Irish commissary, said Vivian, in conclusion, 'he was still bellowing for his bellows.''

SPEAKING of American industry, a London paper asks "What will be thought of the United States shipping plum pudding to England, potatoes to Ireland, oatmeal to Scotland, toys to Nuremberg and lager beer to Germany? Yet such are the facts, and they are no more astonishing than the thrice-told tale of the regular and profitable sale of American cotton goods in Manchester and American cutlery and hardware in Birmingham." To the above some one suggests that our British kinsmen must not be astonished if we even send coal to Newcastle.

THERE are five mints and four assay offices in the United States, which perform not only coinage but melting, refining, assaying, bar making and make engraved dies, requiring the services of about 700 persons—a good-sized regiment. The cash receipts are nearly $4,000,000, coinage over $9,000,000, and the bullion transactions are more than $100,000,000 per annum. The different coins made since 1793 amount to about $1,300,000,000.

A CURRENT paragraph chronicles the forced termination of a long-continued lawsuit between two neighboring farmers in Indiana, all about the contested ownership of a cow-bell worth twenty-five cents: "Not being able to pay fees any longer, the lawyers refused to serve in the case, and the litigants were compelled to compromise, which they did by each agreeing to pay his own costs, amounting to over $1,500 a side." It is added that "both men are impoverished." Which suggests Proverbs xvii., 14 and xx., 3 and xxv., 8.

LET us remember that intolerance is the twin sister of ignorance. We cannot understand the pleasure which people take in blackening one another. The clever thing to do is to find out people's merits. It is easy to discover foolish habits, modes of talk which are not agreeable, but to discern the sterling merits and kindness which is in so many human beings, does require nice observation and kindly imagination.

THE women in Kansas vote at the school elections. At a recent election at Osage City, one woman went up to vote, but before she got through telling the judges what a time her Willie had with the scarlet fever when he was only two years old, it was time to close the polls, and she had forgotten to deposit her ballot.

Kerosene Oil and Diphtheria.

A correspondent of the Plattsburg (Pa.) Republican writes from West Chazy: Allow me to say a few words of the greatest importance to the public, through your journal, in regard to the terrible disease diphtheria, which is raging, with great destruction of lives, throughout the country, It has raged here to a fearful extent, quite a large number of cases proving fatal. There is a family here by the name of Light, a miller, who moved here from Rochester this season. Mrs. Light said to some of the neighbors that previous to moving here she had an attack of diphtheria, and cured herself by the use of kerosene as a gargle, also swallowed some; but the remedy was so simple that our citizen didn't think anything of it until five of Joseph Jelley's children were taken down with the diphtheria. Their throats became swollen and cankered terribly. Mrs. Jelley sent after her neighbor, Mrs. Milliette, who had lately lost a son by the disease, to ascertain whether it was really diphtheria or not. Mrs. Milliette pronounced it diphtheria in a very dangerous form. Mrs. Jelley said she would use Mrs. Light's remedy—kerosene oil—which she gave her children as a gargle, also had them swallow some. The children recovered rapidly and in a few days were out on the street. Several other cures are mentioned.

TELEGRAPH EXTENSION.— Thirty miles south of Benton our reporter met A. C. Pratt, Superintendent of the Nevada and California Telegraph Company, who was on his way south prospecting in view of extending his line through Mono and into Inyo as far as the country would support it. No subsidy will be entertained and the cost—about $100 per mile—it is expected will be partially met by citizens taking an active hand—subscribing liberally and taking it out in telegraphing. This text would furnish a long sermon for the people of both counties and, unless they encourage it (and we think they will) they may expect a sermon and a lecture too. It is a forerunner of a railroad and a key to prosperity for that secti n. Build your line and through it tell San Francisco what you are doing, and we will guarantee the opening up and developing of one of the richest districts on the coast. Mr. Pratt's company have made complete success of the little Bodie line and all they want is to know if the people mean business. We earnestly invoke the citizens to wake up from the lethargy that has so nearly stagnated the country and take hold of the enterprise which, in less than two years, will bring to notice a mining country they may well be proud of.—Bodie Standard

THE Herald says: The first practical illustration of Edison's electric light, as a system, has just been given for the past two nights. His entire laboratory and machine shop have been lighted up with the new light, and the result has been eminently satisfactory. In the machine shop, 125 feet long by 25 feet wide, 12 of the new lights did the work of 18 gas burners that were previously used. The lamps were regulated so that each gave the light of from 18 to 20 candles' intensity. The generator used was the ordinary Gramme machine. The progress made during the past two months by Edison has been quite marked. The most prominent of the improvements is one relating to the platinum and iridium coil. By this discovery, pronounced by experts who have seen it, as of great scientific importance, Edison has succeeded in practically creating a new alloy, one that possesses properties hitherto unknown. With the new improvements, he claim to be able to furnish light at less than half the expense.

THE new Constitution is opposed to the mining interests, because it would cripple that great industry; it is opposed to the mercantile interests, because what hurts mining hurts general trade on this coast; it is opposed to agricultural interests, because mining creates a market for the products of the soil; it is opposed to the interests of workingmen, because it would decrease the amount of work to be performed; it is opposed, in fact, to the freedom and happiness of the people of the State, and deserves to be, as it will be, buried so deep under the votes of the people that such a measure will never be revived again.—Bodie Standard.

ALTHOUGH Sargent made many political enemies by his chivalrous, partisan and zealous course, his retirement is a loss to California and an injury to the country, and that he is a lovable man. It also says that he always went to the rescue of the under dog in the fight, and that on the night when he left the Senate there were more hands with hearts behind them extended to him than men usually receive. THE Reno Gazette says the people of Reno are becoming thoroughly frightened over the ravages of scarlet fever. The fever is not alone of a very malignant type, but it is, in nearly every instance, accompanied by diphtheria. The physicians pronounce it the most violent and contagious form of the disease known. A number of parents have stopped their children from attending the public schools, fearing the contagion may reach them through that channel. As yet no adult persons are attacked, the disease being confined almost entirely to children under sixteen years of age. Although the first cases that attracted attention were in Reno, the fever has raged with the greatest violence down about Truckee Meadows, but fears are entertained that the disease may become general through the town. Those who are taken down with it soon become very repulsive, owing to the offensive nature of the eruptions. The smell of the sick room is fairly sickening. Those who have caught the disease generally break out in pustules, of running sores, all over their bodies, though they seem worse around the head and neck than anywhere else. The patients are afflicted with a burning thirst, which has to be frequently allayed with acids and ice. This necessitates very careful nursing. Intelligent and careful nursing, plenty of fresh air, clean linen, and good medical attendance are about all that can be done for patients. The disease is a general purging of the system of impurities, cannot be cured until the impurities upon which it is fed are burned out.

EATING WITHOUT AN APPETITE.—Hall says that it is wrong to eat without an appetite, for it shows there is no gastric juice in the stomach and that nature does not need food; and not needing it, there being no juice to receive and act upon it, it remains there to putrify, the very thought of which should be sufficient to deter any man from eating without an appetite for the remainder of his life. If a tonic is taken to whet the appetite, it is a mistaken course, for its only result is to cause one to eat more, when already an amount has been eaten beyond what the gastric is able to prepare. The object to be obtained is a larger supply of gastric juice, and not a larger supply of food; and whatever fails to accomplish that desirable object fails to have any efficiency toward the cure of dyspeptic diseases. The formation of gastric juices is directly proportioned to the wear and tear of the system, which is to be the means of supplying, and this wear and tear can only take place as the result of exercise. The efficient remedy for dyspepsia is work—out of door work—beneficial and succesful in direct proportion as it is agreeable, interesting and profitable.

SENATOR BOOTH introduced a bill in the Senate on the 25th which provides that in all cases where railroad grants have expired, or where such grants may expire by limitation of law, it shall immediately be the duty of the Secretary of the Interior to declare all the lands included in such grants which have not been patented by the United States to the grantee, where the grant has been made to a corporation, or which have not been lawfully disposed of by the State where the grant has been made to a State, be forfeited to the United States, and after such a declaration the lands thus declared forfeited shall be disposed of the same as other public lands within railroad limits which heretofore have been subject to pre-emption at $2 50 per acre, and all bona fide settlers under the homestead laws on said land be allowed to enter 160 acres thereof.

IN a recent letter to a friend in San Francisco, Senator Sargent writes: "Owing to the decision in the hydrauic mining case, I am compelled to return to California at once to look after my claims, which are tied up at the commencement of the season, with all the debts incurred in rigging up. I cannot spare the time to go on the trip on the Saratoga, and to-day, with great reluctahce, notified the officers that I had to withdraw my acceptance. This is a great disappointment, but I am rapidly recovering my health, and so can venture to omit the voyage. I wish to break off from all political connections. I desire no office and am enjoying immensely the sensation of being my own man, whom no one has a right to abuse. I fought for the State, to the best of my ability, up to the last moment of my term, and feel that I rendered a quid pro quo for the honor conferred in electing me. INYO INDEPENDENT.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:
SATURDAY, APRIL 5.....1879

PERSONAL NOTES.—Quite a number of our mining notables of southern Inyo have paid our borough visits, more or less brief, during the week. Supt. C. J. Barber of the Modock is still here, employing the interim in observing contiguous mines; looks well as he did years ago and expresses the most perfect confidence in big developments at Lookout. Mr. A. C. Tibbetts, Secretary of the Company was along, too; has a penchant for collecting ore specimens equal to a novice in the mines, but is an excellent gentleman for all that....Mr. Chas. Mason, in charge of the Snow's Cañon mill and mining property, was in town on legal business pertaining to a suit brought by J. J. Gunn and W. T. Grant, involving a raking up of old water titles, etc.; Mr. M. has objections to being called "a good fellow."....Mr. W. T. Lilian, a surveyor of note and one of the original miners of Lookout District, is in town and gave us a call yesterday; has obtained in the course of his business a thorough knowledge of all the principal mines of Darwin and Lookout, and is able to give solid reasons why he thinks that portion of the county has a bright future....John R. Hughes, an innocent orphan and stranger from Cerro Gordo, who ought to have a separate item introducing him to this locality, was here and has gone to Bishop Creek—having stolen a horse from Dias at Lone Pine, and borrowed a team here. However, Mr. Hughes leaves Dan. Williams in charge of business at Cerro Gordo, and will devote the Summer to building arrastras and working his newly opened gold ledges to the north of Beveridge District.... Hon. P. Reddy left yesterday morning for Bodie and Bridgeport, where he goes upon several important cases at law. Among the rest will be a new trial of Con. Casey, who was under sentence of death for the murder of Lewis, at Benton, and for whom Mr. Reddy obtained a new trial at the present term of the Supreme Court....Mrs. P. Reddy arrived home from the East on Tuesday last, and on the following evening was given a hearty reception at the Court House, there being a full attendence of ball-goers and her many friends generally....Dr. S. A. Middleton and Jas. Peregrine, from Bishop, passed through town en route for Hot Springs, in Kern county, where they, with Jerome Hoover and Johnny Williams, are backing up "Black Harry" in races for considerable sums... Deputy Sheriff Steve Gregg and Harry Burt, from Big Pine, were here sloshing around for a time....L. Wick, the well-known merchant of the same locality, has closed his business there and started to-day for his old home in New York, on a visit for the first time in twenty odd years. ....Isaac Harris, of H. & R., arrived home Thursday, having been through Bodie and all the prominent towns of Western Nevada, but found no place with a much brighter business outlook for the future than this particular county....Robt. Ford, of Bishop, passed through on his way to Fresno county after sheep which he has in that region....W. F. Montague, late of Darwin, who succeeds Mr. Bunker as Cartago agent for the Cerro Gordo Freighting Co., took in the town upon his first collecting trip....Capt. Caspar Titchworth, of the Bessie Brady, is about leaving Inyo, and informs us that the steamer will not be run this season, owing to slackness of business and low water in the lake, which will necessitate extensive additions to the wharves if the boat is run....Agent J. P. Taylor, of the Southern Stage Line, has been in town; he is arranging to keep up stage connections across the river, and wants the new bridge located on a more eligible site farther north....Quite a number of Lone Piners are in town to-day, in the matter of Mr. Dely's case.

A GOOD SUGGESTION.—A correspondent, elsewhere in this issue, suggests that would be good policy for our Supervisors to take the Bend City bridge and use it to replace the one destroyed at the Lone Pine crossing. We think that is the best thing that can be done. The Bend City structure is of no use where it stands; a bridge is an absolute necessity at the Lone Pine crossing. This one can be removed and rebuilt there for just about one half of the cost of an entirely new one, and yet the old one would be about as serviceable as the new. And these are times when every good citizen feels that the county ought to save every dollar it possibly can.

FURNISHED ROOMS.—Parties from a distance wishing to sojourn here for a short time without going to the expense of fitting up a dwelling, can obtain rooms suited to their purpose, and in one of the most pleasant localities in the town, by calling on Mrs. S. A. Densmore, whose advertisement to this effect may be seen in another column.

BUTTE STATION.—In an advertisement elsewhere Mr. D. B. Curtis announces the opening of Butte Ranch Station for the accommodation of the traveling public. It is one of the finest places on the northern road, and we doubt not will prove one of the most popular.

WEATHER.—It has been occasionally raining in the valley and snowing on the mountains all week, to the very great advantage of our agricultural interests. After a slight frost this morning, doing no damage, Summer seems to have sat in again.

ASSESSMENT.—The Rex Montis has levied an assessment of 30 cents per share, delinquent May 5; day of sale, May 26. The amount realized will pay off the old indebtedness of the Rex Montis and Independence Tunnel Companies.

TO LET.—See Mr. Thompson's advertisement of valuable hay ranches to let or for sale.

F. & A. M.—Stated meeting of Inyo Lodge, No. 221, F. & A. M., at the hall to-night.

Inyo's Incendiary—Burning of the Lone Pine Bridge—The Criminal in Custody.

About 7 o'clock Sunday evening last, March 30th, the bridge across Owens River, on the Darwin road between Lone Pine and Cerro Gordo, was discovered enveloped in flame. The structure was built in 1873, on the site of the one destroyed by the earthquake, which original one was built early in 1867. The burned structure was 265 feet in length, and was one of three which cost the county $27,000.

The flames, the light of which was visible as far up the valley as this point, caused the burning mass to drop into the river in a few moments after the arrival upon the scene of Supervisor Meysan and party from Lone Pine. The Johnson brothers and Mr. Miller were already there, but no possible effort with the means at hand could stay its destruction.

THE INCENDIARY.

A man giving his name as John T. Dely was taken into custody at Big Pine on the 2d instant, by Harry Burt and Deputy Sheriff S. G. Gregg, and by them brought down here and lodged in jail on the following day. The chain of evidence against him is so complete as to leave no doubt of his guilt as to firing the bridge, the only matter of doubt as to his punishment therefor being a question as to his sanity. He is a native of Limerick, Ireland, about 30 years of age, and an engineer and machinist by trade. He has been in the county at times for five years, during which—as he stated to our reporter—"the county had combined into a conspiracy against him; he had not in that time averaged four meals a week, and life had become insupportable; if guilty of any crime he had been driven to it," etc. He is the person supposed to have fired the Union Con. hoisting works at Cerro Gordo, immediately after being discharged from work in July last. Witnesses will testify as to his threats of burning the steamers on the lake and the bridge; that he had a bottle of coal oil for the latter purpose, which, it transpires, he stole at Bonds' place and deliberately packed it sixteen miles with the fell intent.

His preliminary examination is going on to-day before Judge Gill.

The immediate replacing of the bridge is a public necessity, but unless skilfully managed the outlay will prove disastrous to county finance. Some plan ought to be devised whereby the cost could be provided for by the Legislature next Winter, out of other than existing funds, so as not to double its cost by imperiling our present county credit. It has been suggested, also, that the timbers of the old Bend City bridge, now standing on dry land, might be advantageously removed and utilized.

MINING NOTES FOR THE WEEK.

MODOCK OFFICIAL LETTER.—April 1st. J. W. Pew, Esq., Secretary Modock Con. M. Co.: DEAR SIR—Work at all points of mine has made unusual progress for the past week. Tunnel, 1,000-foot level, has been run 53 feet, making total length to date 1,361 feet. The ground in face is still very favorable, both for working and ore. We have loose ground generally, with seams of clay and ledge matter. The shaft from 300 foot level was sunk 12 feet last week; total depth, 337 feet. Distance made in upraise from 1,000 level, 20 feet; total distance, 57 feet, leaving 184 feet between bottom of shaft and top of upraise. The appearance of face of tunnel and for 30 feet back would indicate that we are in the vicinity of ore-ground. It is my opinion that we are not far from it. Parties working on ore in old 1,000-foot level are still meeting with good success. Yours, etc.,
C. J. BARBER, Supt.

BROWN MONSTER.—Monday last Supt. Eudey shipped a bar of gold bullion weighing 315 ounces, valued at $3,937, and a 113-ounce bar of silver worth $141 50. This was the proceeds of a partial clean-up from 22 days' run. Though the present run has proved a success in itself, the next one will be much better. A large amount of concentrations is still on hand at the mill, the small bar being only a sample of many more to come. At the mine, the ore stopes are improving in size and quality. The compano is now exclusively a local one, and it is gratifying to note Capt. Eudey's success, as he promised, particularly after the long series of failures on the part of foreign corporations.

YGNACIA.—Ten tons of the rich silver ore is being shipped from the Ygnacio mine, Cerro Gordo, to the New Coso furnace at Darwin, for smelting in conjuction with lead ores obtained there. It is a working experiment, and may result in much more business for all parties interested.

NEW COSO.—The Lucky Jim mine at Darwin is now working a comparatively small force. The work consists of extracting some ore from the upper level, besides running a cross-cut on the 300-level southerly from the shaft, to strike the ledge under the large ore chambers which extended from the surface down to the 250-level, with good prospects of developing something of importance. A connecting drift is being run on the 350-level, following a fine ore streak which bids fair to assume considerable dimensions. There is also some prospecting being done on the Christmas Gift mine. The furnace is being overhauled preparatory to a run, as Supt. Williams intends starting it up about the 25th inst.

CUSTER AND DEFIANCE.—The road from Darwin to the Custer mine having been completed, a few days ago Mr. LeCyr commenced hauling ore to the furnace, to the amount of about 15 tons per day. Martin Mee is making preparations to sink the incline in this mine 100 feet deeper, before crosscutting. At the same time he intends to start up work in the Defiance, running a cross-cut from the bottom of the main shaft. The success or failure of this work will have a great bearing upon further mining operations in and about Darwin.

A Suggestion.

MESSRS. EDITORS.—As the county has just had the misfortune to lose the bridge at Lone Pine, I would call the attention of the Board of Supervisors to the fact that the county has a bridge at the old Bend City crossing which, I think, can be used to replace the one destroyed at a total cost not exceeding $1,500. And, as far as I know, the Bend City bridge is sound and complete, and, except a dozen or so of piles perhaps, there would not be a foot of lumber to buy, by taking this plan, to rebuild it at Lone Pine. Respectfully submitted by A TAX PAYER.

MINERAL KING.—A company to construct a wagon road from a point 35 miles east of Visalia to Mineral King district, has been incorporated, with a capital of $50,000, in $100 shares. The Directors are: C. H. Beale, Thos. Fowler, M. Mooney, S. Z. Curtis and H. Hamilton. The principal place of business will be in Visalia. Work on the road is being actively prosecuted, and every available nook on its line is being located for a station. The prospects for the camp are very flattering indeed. This road and camp, the latter being so near our county lines, can but have a beneficial influence upon the business prospects of our section. Some day, ere long, there will be a move to construct a road from this side to connect.

ORGANIZE.—There should be a local organization of our citizens to see that the laws are enforced protecting game, but more especially the trout which have been planted and are now flourishing in our streams. Let some man be employed to watch persons suspected of turning the streams, and if any one should be caught in the act, prosecute him to the fullest extent of the law. An energetic application of a blacksnake whip for four hours or so would be about the proper thing in the way of punishment.

ESCAPED.—Steve Houle, whose arrest for abstracting bullion from his own team, while it was in transit from Cerro Gordo to Mojave, was recorded a week or two ago, effected his escape from a Constable at Mojave and immediately left for parts unknown. Messrs. V. Hoff & Co., the losers, are still looking for the bullion; and a law suit with that Los Angeles bank is probable.

PANAMINT.—There are now quite a number of miners at work in Panamint—a letter from there to our County Clerk stating that 50 voters will be registered there by the next election. Some 300 tons of high grade ore is on hand, awaiting reduction at the big mill as soon as a lease of it can be obtained.

THE PLANET MARS.—Prof. Lockyer is of the opinion that human life on the planet Mars may be very much like human life on earth. The light cannot be so bright, but the organs of sight may be so much more susceptible as to make the vision quite as good. The heat is probably less, as the polar snows certainly extend further, but by no means less in proportion to the lessened power of the solar rays, The professor agrees with others that several remarkable seas—including inland seas, some of them connected and some not connected by straits with still larger seas—are now definable in the southern hemisphere, in which, as in the case also with the earth, water seems to be much more widely spread than in the northern hemisphere. There is, for example, a southern sea exceedingly like the Baltic in shape; and there is another and still more remarkable sea, now defined by the observation of many astronomers—one near the equator, a long straggling arm, twisting almost in the shape of an S laid on its back, from east to west, at least 1,000 miles in length, and 100 miles in breadth.

E. V. SMALLEY, the newspaper correspondent thinks that, if yellow fever does not break out at New Orleans again next Summer it will be due to an interposition of Providence. He has found the city in a horribly filthy condition, and could scarcely go out at night, because of the intolerable stench that arose from the streets and gutters. A rascally, incompetent Democratic government is in charge of city affairs, he says, whose members steal worse than the radicals before them and make no effort to clean the place. The intelligent residents naturally dread a worse epidemic than that of last year. A correspondent of the New York Staats Zeitung tells the same story of the filth that has accumulated at Memphis.

ST. LOUIS is in a quandery just now over the influx of the colored people from the South. Some one has been perpetrating a cruel hoax on the folks in Louisiana and Mississippi, and they are flocking to St. Louis under the impression that they will be provided with free transportion to the Far West. Many hundreds have already rrrived, and the authorities are at a loss as to what to do with them.

It is unnecessary for a child to die of scarlet fever, says Good Health, as it is that it should be blind from cataract. Let us see: At any time before the body has finished its ineffectual struggle, we are able to help it, not by wonderful medicines, but by the knowledge of anatomy and the application of common sense. We consult the sympathetic nerve and do what it commands us to do. We must give this child salt when it wants it; we must give it acid when it has fever—not vinegar—but lemon juice, because the first coagulates albumen, and the latter does not, on account of the surplus of oxygen which it contains. To imitate the soothing mucus in the intestines, which is now wanting, and to give some respiratory food at the same time, we add some gum arabic. To restore and relieve the injured nerve, we apply moist warmth. In practice we can fulfill all this with the following simple manipulations: Undress the child and bring it to bed at the very first sign of sickness. Give it, if it has fever already, nothing but warm, sourish lemonade, with gum arabic in it. Then cover its abdomen with some dry flannel. Take a well folded bed sheet and put it in boiling hot water; wring it out dry by means of dry towels, and put this over the flannel on the child's abdomen. Then cover the whole and and wait. The hot cloths will perhaps require repeated heat. According to the severity of the case and its stage of progress, perspiration will commence in the child in from ten minutes to two hours. The child then is saved; it soon falls to sleep. Soon after the child awakes, it shows slight symptoms of returning inclination for food; help its bowels, if necessary with injections of oil, soap and water, and its recovery will be as steady as the growth of a green-house plant if well treated. Of course if the child was already dying, nothing could save it, or if it has effusions in the lining of the heart or brain, it is much better it should die. But if the above is applied in due time, under the eyes and and direction of a competent person, I will guarantee that not one in a hundred children will ever die of scarlet fever.

THE dreadful threat made by Hon. J. Peter Smith, that he would come back to the Comstock if he had to pack a shotgun night and day, has created great alarm hereabout. Saturday some of the "boys" sent Smith a shotgun. The barrel was made from a piece of inch gas pipe; and and an old trunk lock was fastened on at one end of a wooden stock whittled out with a jack-knife. The sight was twisted three times around the barrel, and the inscription read: "Presented to Assemblyman Pete Smith by his grateful constituents." The gun was sent down by express, charges paid, and when the exiled statesman gets it he will doubtless fill the air with his rejoicings.—Virginia Chronicle.

DEATH OF FRANK KENYON.—On Tuesday we received a letter from Mrs. Frank Kenyon, at Elkhart, Indiana, confirming the sad rumor of Mr. Kenyon's death. He died at 11 o'clock on on Saturday, March 1st, and the letter written us on Wednesday previous was the last ever penned by him. The confirmation of his death was received by many saddened hearts, for he was a man who had magnetic influence and made warm friends. He was well known in every State and Territory on the coast and in nearly every one of them had at some time owned a newspaper.—Esmeralda Herald, April 5.

SANTA ANA is not on Wellock's list of appointments to speak during his Southern tour. William ought to go there and denounce Rule for licking Dennis.

"If the Chinese must go" asks the St. Louis Post, "can they take the small boy who plies the bean-shooter with them?"

"Vestibule guards" is the latest appellation which young men receive who hang around church doors on Sunday evenings.

Never say to a man running across lots in the immediate lead of a wild bull, "Be not swift to take a fence!"

The Sacramento Workingmen have adopted resolutions indorsing the displacement of Wellock from the second place in the party.

"Always pay as you go," said an old man to his nephew. "But, uncle, suppose I haven't anything to pay with?" "Then don't go."

If a man really wants to know of how little importance he is, let him go with his wife to a dressmaker.

"There is no place like home" unless it is some nice young girl's home, when the old folks are at class-meeting, and the match-box is empty.

The London Times criticises the extraordinary incapacity of parents to discern the kind of instruction best fitted to the mental aptitudes of their children.

The Text-Book Change.

The change in the Readers used in the public schools was effected at the last regular meeting of the Board of Education, as the public are well aware, without any previous notice or invitation for bids. The bond of $20,000 required of A. L. Bancroft & Co. for the faithful performance of the contract was given on the 19th instant. The sureties on the bond are J. B. Painter, M. Lynch and D. Hicks. It was approved on the 20th by the Judiciary Committee of the Board of Education, consisting of J. F. Sullivan, Jos. Clement and W. A. Phillips. The terms of Bancroft's contract provides that they will supply the following books at the following prices: Pacific Coast First Reader, 20 cents; Pacific Coast Second Reader, 35 cents; Pacific Coast Third Reader, 55 cents; Pacific Coast Fourth Reader, 60 cents; Pacific Coast Fifth Reader, $1.

They agree "to allow a reasonable discount to the other members of the trade, so that they can sell at the same prices," and "if the parents of pupils desire to exchange the books now in use, that are in possession of school children, and that are fit to be used again," they further agree to supply said readers as follows:

Pacific Coast First Reader for a McGuffey's and 10 cents.

Pacific Coast Second Reader for McGuffey's second and 17½ cents.

Pacific Coast Third Reader for a McGuffey's third and 27½ cents.

Pacific Coast Fourth Reader for a McGuffey's fourth and 30 cents.

Pacific Coast Fifth Reader for a McGuffey's fifth and 50 cents.

They further "agree to take all the McGuffey's readers now on hand by the city for the use of indigent children, and give an equal number of the Pacific Coast Series of Readers without any charge therefor."—San Francisco Bulletin.

THE United States tourists in Mexico, according to the Chicago Times correspondent, are buying a great number of what they suppose are old Aztec idols. "A good-sized god," he says, "with large ears and a pug nose, can be had very cheap, although some of our party have paid large amounts for deities only six months old, that had been burnt and buried to give them an appearance of antiquity."

REMARK of severe parent to blooming daughter upon discovering the fact that one of the legs of the big chair in the parlor had been broken the Sunday evening previous: "I wish you to understand, Susan, that this chair was constructed with a view to the accommodation of one person at a time, and has not the strength and scarcely the capacity for two."

AN account of what we saw of the mining and agricultural interests of Owens River Valley and adjacent country, merits more time and space than we are able to devote in this issue. We will endeavor to give our readers an account of this very interesting and promising region in our next.—Genoa News.

ON LEAVE.

Wednesday last our senior, for years the sturdy balance wheel of THE INDEPENDENT, flew the machine and has gone to the Bay City. His stay there is indefinite, as his business involves the interests of this paper and is more particularly directed to the manufacture of and placing before the publishing fraternity his recently patented newspaper wrapping and pasting machine. We shall hear more about it anon, and n the meantime all hands wish him a pleasant and most profitable trip.

SECTION 8, of article I., of the new Constitution says: "Offenses heretofore required to be prosecuted by indictment shall be prosecuted by information." This section is incomplete, as it speaks of "offenses heretofore required," etc., without naming them. And there are several other sections in this wonderful constitution that are in the same fix. Besides which, an ignorant or malicious District Attorney can "inform" upon and bring any person before a court for trial for nothing. Now, it requires a majority vote of nineteen men to determine whether a triable offense has been committed.

THEY are now all thinking as THE INDEPENDENT did at the outset—that the proposed new Constitution can not be supported by the mining interests. We refer to the papers of Mono county, which are a unit in opposition to the new-fangled idea, embodied in the provisions for suppressing stock operations, which is heralded as a grand "reform for existing abuses." The Bodie Standard, the Chronicle and the News fail to see it, while the Benton Messenger asserts that its adoption would prove most disastrous to this whole mining region.

A BILL has been introduced in the Senate known as Dr. Wozencraft's bill, proposing to grant to Wozencraft and his associates all the Colorado desert west of Fort Yuma by townships or sections as fast as it shall be certified by Government Commissioners that they have placed upon the lands sufficient improvements to meet the needs of travel and immigration. The work is to be completed in ten years, and the grantees are to pay the Government the present appraised value of the lands.

THE first number of Henry George's new Democratic paper, the State, "a journal of politics and opinion," has been received. It is published weekly at $2 50 per annum. Every article bears the impress of the publisher's vigorous and aggressive style. In the present contest it is strongly "forninst" the new Constitution. As an outspoken political paper it promises to become a high authority among the Democrats of California.

IN Inyo county the tramp nuisance is simply immense; scarcely a mile of the road can be passed without meeting one or more men on foot, most of them making for Bodie.

The foregoing has been running through our State exchanges for some time, started, we think, by a Visalia paper. It is false in fact and sentiment.

GOVERNOR FREMONT is extremely enthusiastic concerning the Territory of Arizona. He talks of its wonderful mineral wealth, its rich soil, its timber, its excellent grazing regions and its delightful climate, with great pride. He thinks that Tucson is to become the great railway station for business between this country and Mexico.

IT is stated that not less than $10,000,000 worth of improvements, that were contemplated to be carried on in San Francisco during the present year, have been suspended until the result of the vote on the new Constitution is made known.

THE feeling of nervousness created by the agitation of the new Constitution business extends to Nevada. The miners realize that the adoption of the new Constitution means the cessation of mining enterprise and the discharge of thousands of miners.

THE long-standing antipathy between the coal oil can and the servant girl culminated in cremation no less than seventeen times last month. There ought to be a moral somewhere in all this.

JOHN BULL has been getting badly licked again by the Zulus in South Africa, and as the war was uncalled for in the first place, the general impression is that it serves him right.

THE latest report gives the number of miles of railroad in New York at 5,752, of which 4,348 are double track.

A PRACTICAL PROPOSITION.

In an article upon the subject last week was set forth some of the salient points which readily occur to any one in considering the matter of connecting this country with the world by telegraph, concluding with a statement that something would soon be done to determine whether it was practicable for this portion of Inyo county to raise the subscription necessary.

We may again state the general proposition: The California and Nevada Telegraph Company, now operating and owning lines between Aurora, Bodie and Genoa, proposes to extend the wire to Independence and maintain it for two years, upon the payment to it, after the completion of the work, of a sum equalling one-half the cost of construction. The distance is very nearly 135 miles, and the managers estimate the cost at $100 per mile—the lowest figure ever placed upon such work in this country. Thus the cost would be $13,500, not including instruments, offices, etc., which the company provides. This would leave the sum of $6,750 to be raised at Benton, Bishop Creek, Big Pine, Independence and contiguous localities. In an amount perhaps a little over in proportion to distance, Inyo county would be called upon to subscribe say $5,000, payable, as stated, after the line is completed and in perfect working order; and as is further known by our readers, telegraphing to the amount of every cent of this sum is to be returned by the company, if demanded within two years.

Upon this plan was the line built to Bodie, and four-fifths of the subscriptions taken have already been used up by the parties making them. It is idle to expect better terms; no company whatever will ever build a line without some guarantee of our own faith in the future value of our mines, farms and business interests. The Western Union corporation, and others of its ilk, have hitherto demanded an absolute subsidy amounting to as much or more than the whole cost of the present proposed line.

Independent of the direct and almost paramount interest which our present mine owners and incorporations have in the matter, every merchant, farmer, workman and producer of every class, can have no excuse for not realizing wherein a through telegraph line would benefit him. The proposition amounts to about this:

The chief interest of Inyo county is mining, and upon the prosperity of that industry depends all others. Not one out of a hundred of mining properties can be opened and worked by mere individuals—incorporated companies, drawing capital from people everywhere, must be organized and induced to take hold. This they will not do in places where there is no telegraphic communication—where a country is practically isolated from all modern methods of rapid business transactions. Hence, if we would enjoy the prosperity justly due to a region so wonderfully favored as to mines and agriculture, the telegraph must be had; a railroad would soon follow. Of course, a telegraph would follow a railroad, but the advent of a railroad is afar off unless something preceding it incites business enough to justify it.

It is discouraging in these days of the enjoyment of all such things elsewhere, to have to write urging our people to act in securing facilities the lack of which has so long held the country back; indeed, nothing is harder than to urge a self-evident proposition. The easiest way is to try it. Though times are hard, it will cost nothing to find out if the great boon is not within reach. Let a selected committee of say three prominent citizens in each Bishop and Independence go to work in earnest and ascertain if the sum can not be raised. If proper and energetic action is taken at once, we have scarce a doubt of its ultimate success.

THE TAXATION OF MORTGAGES.

The Chicago Tribune makes a very interesting contribution to the literature of the mortgage tax question, and it is so germane to the present situation in California that we shall cite the statements of our contemporary. They have in Illinois a law taxing mortgages, and therefore they can speak from experience as to its effects. On this head the Tribune says: "This law has long been in operation in this State in its most rigorous form, but it has been a confessed and notorious failure, as any such law must of necessity always be. It may be asserted as an inevitable and unalterable fact that the borrower must always pay the interest, and all the taxes, and all the charges pertaining to a loan, that are paid. It is immaterial in what form the law attempts to reach the lender, the borrower must in the end pay all that the law exacts, directly or indirectly, from the loan. It is the penalty of debt hat the borrower must assume all the charges incident to it. The State may tax a loan, but the tax must be paid by the borrower in the shape of higher interest. One of the effects of the present law is, that the State imposes a tax upon all mortgages, and this tax, which is rarely paid to the State, is paid by the borrower in the shape of increased interest. For ten years the borrowers and debtors of this State have been paying annually 1 to 2 per cent. additional rates of interest on $300,000,000 of mortgages and other debts, because of the absurd law which provided for taxing these debts, while the State has not been receiving perhaps $10,000 a year for such taxes. The existence of the law has furnished the reason for a high rate of interest, and while the debtors have been fleeced, the State has obtained little or no revenue from that source."

REGULAR TROUBLES COMING.—Thus early the regular Indian troubles for the season are breaking out. To cripple and render powerless the regular army—while providing millions for pensions—and at the same time pursue the present thieving Indian policy, is only to invite a perpetual warfare with our Indian tribes, and it is scarce a wonder that when grass grows the annual season of border horrors begins. A late dispatch says that the country along the Milk, Tongue, Powder and Yellowstone rivers is fairly alive with strange Indians. A guide gives it as his opinion that they are the fugitive Minneconjous belonging to Bad Moon's gang, who were driven by General Miles across the British line. As they are decorated and painted for war, they are evidently on mischief bent. Sitting Bull and his Sioux are on Frenchman's Creek on this side of the line, but he will allow no messengers to enter his camp from the whites. This is regarded as ominous, as the closer the lines are drawn about the encampment the deeper is the deviltry being hatched there. Another very bad sign is reported by these northern couriers; constant communication is kept up by means of runners between Bad Moon's Sioux and the agency Sioux at Pine Ridge. These latter Indians are nightly receiving visitors and holding councils, at which none but the chief men are permitted to be present. Indian Agent Lincoln, at Fort Belknap, states that several hundred Sioux are already on the warpath, claiming to be seeking the Grosventres and Assinaboines, with whom they are at war. But Mr. Lincoln expresses the opinion that a general Sioux war will be made this Spring from the Big Horn country to the mouth of the Yellowstone, and from Pine Ridge to Miles City and Fort Keogh. The settlers in the valleys north and northwest of the Black Hills have been notified to be on the alert, as the Sioux propose to make a big raid that way before long. The grass is growing rapidly, and the redskins are multiplying.

OUR DARWIN LETTER.

DARWIN, April 9.

MESSRS. EDITORS—As the day draws nigh when we shall all be called upon to cast our votes either "for" or "against" the new Constitution, the discussion of that document's merits and demerits is becoming more warm and interesting, and from casual observation am of the opinion that the verdict will be "against."

As yet I have heard of no one in this vicinity being appointed to register voters, and hope you will take the matter in hand at once and help us in securing some one to act in that capacity.

There has been no notable change in our mines for the past week, either for better or worse. Mr. Wm. Ross, of Lookout, is reported to have discovered a very encouraging gold-quartz prospect, which is looking remarkably well, and he is shipping ore to San Francisco. It is located in Snow's Cañon.

Mr. Parker, of the firm of Birchett & Parker, merchants of Lookout, was in town yesterday, and informs me that they will soon start up again the 5-stamp mill at Snow's Cañon for a month's run or more.

The New Coso Mining Company's furnace will start up between the 25th and last of this month for a three or four weeks' run, and besides its own ores will smelt those from the following companies and mines: The Custer mine is still shipping ore, and already has over 100 tons at the furnace. The Modock Mining Company is now engaged in shipping 50 tons; the Minnietta Belle Company, by Beaudry & Belshaw, will send over about 60 tons; the San Ygnacio mine, owned by Rotshchilds & Greenly, has now on the way some seven tons, and it is expected that from 10 to 15 tons will be received from the Hindoo mine, the property of Messrs. Childs, Armstrong & Wallace, a new claimant for honors, situated about eight miles from here, and three miles from Darwin Wash Falls—the "summer resort" or "watering place" for all Darwinites.

If the results are considered favorable after being sampled and assayed, the Modock Company will probably send all their smelting ores over, as also the Custer, and no doubt the balance. The New Coso Company, through their Superintendent, Mr. J. J. Williams, are certainly offering favorable inducements to all parties having ore in limited quantities to have the same worked cheaper than ever before, paying for the same as soon as sampled and assayed and their value known. Here is a chance for all to find out whether their several prospects have merit, which is certainly a satisfaction to know, and those that are meritorious and have a few tons out can now turn it into money.

Yours truly,

C. F. O'BRION.

A NEW telegraph company, called the American Rapid Telegraph Company, has been incorporated in New York, ostensibly to cheapen the cost of telegraphy. Ex-Mayor Edwin Reed, of Bath, Maine, is President; Thomas Wallace, of Connecticut, Vice President; L. S. Hapgood, of Boston, Treasurer. Capital, $3,000,000. They announce the intention to immediately construct a line of double wires west and south. They claim the ownership of American and European patents, machines and wires capable of transmitting a thousand words a minute; that the system has been thoroughly tested during the past four months over circuits of a thousand miles. They profess the ability, with three wires, to perform the whole telegraph business of the country at the maximum rate of 25 cents for 30 words to all stations east of the Rocky mountains; night messages, 15 cents for 50 words; press reports, 10 cents per 100 words. It is proposed, under an arrangement with the Postoffice, to use stamps for messages, and utilize street letter-boxes for stamped messages, collected every fifteen minutes during the day. The company claim that the system is entirely a new invention, and not a revival of the old automatic scheme, discarded as impracticable in 1876.

THE RECENT GREAT STRIKE.

The following account from the Bodie Standard of the 7th instant gives the latest concerning the recent remarkable strike at Lake District. We can personally vouch for the informant spoken of, Mr. C. X. Hobbs, as a man of perfect reliability:

During Saturday evening several people came in from Lake District, bringing in specimens of immensely rich rock from the Mammoth mine, and confirming the former reports in regard to it. Mr. Donahue and his partner brought in letters to several parties, among them Captain I. G. Messec and others, all of which contained the most glowing accounts of the strike. Mr. Donahue said that Mammoth City was in a perfect frenzy of excitement over the unexpectedly rich find. There had been such a dullness in the place all winter that the reaction was tremendous on the people who had remained through.

Sunday morning Mr. C. X. Hobbs, President of the Booker Consolidated Mining Company, and a Director in several of our other leading mines, came in from Lake. Mr. Hobbs is a man who has had vast mining experience, and one whose judgment would not be likely to be warped by a stringer of rich ore, and our reporter sought him out and interviewed him on the subject. Mr. Hobbs stated that he visited the mine a day or two ago, and that as at present developed it is the richest showing that he has ever seen in all his mining experience. The tunnel enters the mountain about 300 feet below the croppings. It is now in a distance of 350 feet, running nearly north on the course of the ledge. It is in vein matter the entire distance. Three crosscuts were run west from the tunnel at different points for a short distance, and nothing of great value was found. At a point 250 feet in the tunnel a crosscut was a short time since started east. The crosscut was in but 15 feet when the ledge was cut, which has been found at this place to be 13 feet wide. The richness of the ore is simply beyond description or belief, Mr. Hobbs says. Our reporter asked the gentleman if the whole 13 feet was of that character, and he said that it was all very rich, but there was at least three feet of it of the kind like the specimens brought in. On a rough guess the specimens looked as if they would go from $10,000 to $50,000 per ton. That it was a ledge and not a pocket or chamber, was evidenced by the fact that after cutting through it another crosscut was started in the face of the tunnel, 100 feet further north, and it was cut again within a few feet, and of the same rich character. Mr. Hobbs stated that when he was in the mine this crosscut had penetrated seven feet in the ledge, and there was no sign of getting through, it being still in the richest description of ore. Canvas sacks have been sent for in order that there may be no waste of the precious rock. Mr. Hobbs says that under the circumstances it is utterly impossible to estimate the value of the Mammoth property. They have a fine 20-stamp mill, plenty of wood and water, and every facility for turning out bullion. He thinks that at the south the rich vein will be found in the Foulks mine.

Bodie was greatly excited over the report, and many have left for Lake today. In a direct line it is 42 miles distant, but by road in the neighborhood of 50 miles.

We, in common with many others, were at first inclined to take the reports of the wonderful strike with many grains of allowance, for the reason, as many put it, "such a rich thing can't be; it is impossible." Coming from so responsible a source as we have quoted, however, it can not be doubted that an extraordinary strike has been made. It all goes to substantiate the theory that Mono county is the greatest and richest mineral region in the world.

Mr. A. M. Phlegar, Deputy Postmaster, received the following letter from Deputy John Pattie, who is well known here as a reliable man: "I have just time to send you a short note. The Mammoth mine has struck it rich—the richest body of ore in gold I ever saw. Nothing has ever been struck on this continent to equal it. This is going to be the great camp. Bodie is a cipher to what this is going to be. Come out as soon as possible."

THE Town Governmen, at Eureka, Nev., according to the Sentinel, is now a fixed fact.

THE new Constitution is not of the kind that can be licked into shape by the aid of a few amendments. It is radically and hopelessly unsound throughout. It does not contain a single satisfactory article, and scarcely a satisfactory section, save where it has been taken bodily from the present Constitution.—Sacramento Record.

IF Gen. Grant accepts the nomination for a third term, he will regret it down to the last day of his life. The true friends of Grant will not care to see him again become a candidate for the Presidency.—Eureka Sentinel.

THE San Francisco Stock Exchange wants to put up $5,000, in sums to suit, that the new Constitution will not go out of that city with two thousand votes majority in its favor.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:

SATURDAY, APRIL 12.....1879

TELEPHONIC.—During the visit here of Messrs. Pratt and Swart, of the telegraph office, this office and chance visitors were afforded an opportunity to "experience" a pair of Edison's telephones. They were attached to the office local line, extending around the southern and western part of town, with a working result perfectly satisfactory. The dulcet tones of our better half—ordering stove wood or a fresh supply of beefsteak—were almost painfully recognizable. The instruments are only to be had through a yearly rental, pending a controversy between Bell and Edison as to the right of discovery and application of the curious principle of nature governing the little jokers. Attached to any regular telegraph line, and without a supporting battery, these instruments are readily used to carry on conversation at a distance of 100 miles or mere.

ALABAMA GOLD.—Several shipments of gold bullion have recently been made from the mill at Lone Pine running on gold ore from the Alabama claims. Mr. Dodge was in town during the week with a large quantity of specimens, showing the finest display of free gold that it has ever been our fortune to look upon—a display which would set Bodie wild. A half ounce weight sold for $10, being nearly solid gold, while many larger ones looked as if at least a fourth of the substance was clear gold. The mine, the Uncle Abe, is widening at the deepest point, the entire vein being pay rock of the richest class of fine gold ore. The selected specimens, as exhibited, baffle description as to their beauty and the heavy chunks of free gold visible.

EXHIBITION.—Another Sunday School Exhibition is announced at Bishop Creek, to be given at an early date during the present month. The programme is replete with music, songs and tableaux, but the main feature will be a rendition of the drama entitled "The Flower of the Family," involving three acts and eight characters. The proceeds of the entertainment are to be devoted to the purchase of a bell for the church. The result of the last exhibition was the placing of a fine $100 organ in the church, and from the reputation and success of the exhibitors then gained, the present affair will doubtless accomplish the very laudable purpose for which it is intended.

REX MONTIS.—Supt. J. H. Holt arrived here early in the week and has already set a small force at work upon the Independence tunnel. He informs us that the company will proceed slowly and systematically, upon a solid and safe basis, and as the season progresses will steadily enlarge the plan of operations. His first business will be to settle upon a system of transportation, involving the construction of tramways, roads, etc. Mr. Holt has made the company property pay well under much less advantages than now, and his return to the superintendency is a matter of general satisfaction hereabouts.

THE WEATHER.—A series of snow storms in the mountains, with an occasional slight fall of rain in the valley and now and then a cold wind, would be about a fair mention of the weather clerk's operations for the past week. Jack Frost has put in but slight appearances, though a deal of smoke has been used in the orchards warding off his threatened visitations. This morning a heavy fog enveloped the valley until dispelled by the warm sun. The late snow storms have made up a peculiar Spring, and on the whole a very promising one to our farmers.

SPECIAL MEETING.—At the special meeting of the Board of Supervisors, to be held on Saturday next, besides attending to all matters pertaining to the coming election the Board will, by an agreement and notice already served and made, consider the question of replacing the burned Lone Pine bridge. There is an urgent necessity for immediate action, as the time for high water is near at hand, when work will be impeded and travel over the road entirely cut off.

COURT.—The County Court met on the 9th instant, pursuant to adjournment from March 3d. The cases of Thomas May vs. J. D. Mairs, on appeal from Justice's Court of Second Township, and J. R. Smith et al. vs. T. K. Hutchison, on appeal from Justice Court of Fourth Township, were continued for the term, by consent. C. S. Swan was declared an insolvent, whereupon the Court adjourned until Thursday, May 1st.

OFFICIAL MATTERS.—A Grand Jury has been drawn for the ensuing May term of the County Court. The regular term of the District Court begins on Monday, May 5th, but it is generally thought that the heavy calendar at Bridgeport will occupy the Judge until June, necessitating adjournments here until then.

HELD TO ANSWER.—Upon preliminary examination held last Saturday before Justice Gill, J.T. Dely, the bridge-burner—the practical Kearneyite—was held to answer before the next Grand Jury. Until the meeting of that body he will remain closely quartered in an iron cell, and will in all probability continue to do so for some time thereafter.

DARWIN MINES.—For several notes concerning progress of mining affairs about Darwin, see letter from there this week, of unusual interest.

A CHANGE.—Messrs. Bennett & Hetzel, of Bodie, have dissolved partnership, Paul now managing his legal business alone.

DRIVERS on the northern line report severe weather—alternating between raining, snowing and freezing.

THE MODOCK.

The sale of stock in the Modock Consolidated, on account of assessment No. 8, takes place at the office of the company in San Francisco next Monday. The officers of the company are W. C. Parker, President; Robert Gardner, Secretary; Daniel Meyer, Treasurer. Trustees—W. C. Parker, H. H. Flagg, Robert Gardner, W. H. Wallace.

On account of the heavy expense entailed by the expensive prospecting operations which have been going on so long, the stock has been necessarily assessed very often. Besides, in July last, when the present managers assumed charge, the company had an indebtedness of upwards of $110,000, which has been reduced to about $44,000. This would have been paid off, too, had the stockholders paid all the assessments levied, but owing to the fact that many did not pay, considerable stock has been retired to the corporation. The property is now being managed with the utmost economy consistent with systematic and rapid developments, and the Trustees are paying the strictest attention to their duties. We look upon it as almost a certainty that the Modock stock will soon figure prominently on the stock boards. Following is a copy of Superintendent Barber's

WEEKLY LETTER, APRIL 8:

To J. W. Pew, Secretary—The tunnel, 1000-level, has been driven 43 feet for the past week, making a length to date 1,404 feet. Ground has been soft lime, with occasional seams of ledge matter, some of which have good indications for carrying ore. The upraise and shaft continue in good working ground, and both are making good progress. The former was raised 16 feet and shaft sunk 10 feet, leaving 158 feet between points; total hight of upraise, 43 feet; depth of shaft, 347 feet. On account of having to utilize all the air obtainable from the blower to supply the face of the tunnel and upraise, no work of prospecting is being done on veins of ledge matter passed through. We have a small boiler nearly in readiness to put up to run the air engine. This will not only relieve the boiler now furnishing steam to the compressor, but will enable us to tap the air pipe at points where prospect work may be started without reducing the current of air in the face of the tunnel and upraise too much.

BENTON ITEMS.

We extract the following items of interest from the Mono Messenger of Saturday last:

On the 1st instant the Mammoth Company, of Lake District, struck ore in the No. 5 tunnel of unexpected richness. A party of gentlemen, among whom we may mention C. X. Hobbs, A. J. McFee, Charles Singletary and William Blackburn, were at Lake at the time of the strike, having gone over from this point with Creaser & Millner's express wagon. They tell glowing stories of the richness of the ledge at point last cut. The width is about twelve feet, and at least three feet of it, next the wall, will assay well up in the hundreds. Mr. Morris Burke, Postmaster of Mammoth Cith showed us some specimens of the ore on Thursday evening last which were almost filled with particles of gold, and Mr. Burnham reports an assay from there $23,000. Superintendent Cross has gone to San Francisco to report in detail at the company's office.

The new Minnietta district, seventeen miles south of Lake District, was discovered last June by Mr. Hart. During Mr. McBride's visit to Lake Mr. Hart brought in a number of specimens of ore, which were assayed by Curt. Ober, giving results reaching $1,200. The samples taken from the Minneetta mine gave an average of $60. The shaft which has been sunk on the line between the Minneetta and Sunrise claims has reached a depth of sixty feet. At this depth a drift has been run twenty feet into the Minneetta ledge; and Mr. Hart estimates that he will have to run the drift twelve feet further to reach the foot wall. The owners of the Sunrise have let a contract for sinking a shaft on their mine.

The Indian Queen M. & M. Co. shipped during the week one bar of bullion valued at $689 06. Superintendent Adams informs us that the material for the contemplated improvements is all on the ground and the mill will be ready to start up in a few days.

A letter received at this office from our old Gold Hill friend C. C. Mills, who writes under date of April 1st, contains the following item of interest: "I have at last found that which we all want—a good mine—one that will speak for itself in a short time. It is named Antelope, and is situated in Antelope Distr ct, in the White mountains, eight miles from Bishop Creek. I have located a town-site and broken ground on the mine. Have a first-class boarding-house in full blast, and material on the road to set men to work."

High Sheriff Clem Ogg, of Esmeralda has retured to Aurora, having in charge Bill Pierce, the murderer of Sam. Halsey. Bill says he did not believe Ogg would follow him so far "after all the work he did for him in the last election." Clem, how could you show such base ingratitude when votes are so scarce and hard to find?

The Vulcan M. & M. Co. shipped during the week eight bars of bullion aggregating $9,715 47.

ASSESSMENT.—The Hidalgo Mining Company, the property of which is situated at Darwin, has levied an assessment of one cent per share, upon its capital stock of 100,000 shares. We presume the sum realized is for office expenses, recording, etc.

TABOOSE STATION.—Harry Wright and lady are again in the field as caterers to the wants of the traveling public, at the popular old Taboose Station. Parties traveling other than by stage can hardly get through without making a stop at Harry's.

PAINTING.—The fine store building of Harris & Rhine is receiving an exterior coat of paint.

OUR NORTHERN MINES—LAKE DISTRICT, ETC.

ROUND VALLEY, April 7.

MESSRS. EDITOR.—The entire eastern slope of the Sierras, from Bodie on the north to Pine Creek, in Inyo county, on the south, is divided into mining districts. Although the most of them are but very little developed as yet, they show in all this distance remarkable deposits of rich lodes of gold and silver. Commencing at French District on the south, its boundaries are as follows: Beginning at a point on the Sierras west of the source of Rock Creek, running east to said creek; thence down said creek to its junction with Pine Creek; thence up said creek and its most southern tributary to the summit of the Sierras; thence in a northerly direction along the summit to the place of beginning. The principal mines located in this district are situated on Mount Sierra Potosi, and are named and owned as follows: The Found at Last, by Auguste Dusserre; the IXL, by Eugene Kurz; Leonia, by Jules Godwell, and many others needless to mention here. Next in order comes the Minnetta District, which extends from French District on the south to Laurel Hill on the north and west. There is a large fissure vein extending through the entire district, which shows in many places rich ore. The only claims under development are owned by Messrs. Hart, Boly & McGee. Next comes Laurel Hill District, running from Minnietta to Lake District, which is believed to be one of the richest districts in the Sierras, but as yet it is undeveloped. Then comes Lake, which is the only district except Bodie in which there has been any capital invested as yet, and is the center of the series. The Mammoth Company less than a year ago bought what is known as the Mammoth lode and other locations. They at once commenced work by building a 20-stamp mill and starting two tunnels to tap their lode, respectively at 400 and 800 feet below the rich croppings on the top of the mountain on which their mill is situated and been running since last Fall. Like all pioneer enterprises they have had many drawbacks and made many mistakes, but under the able superintendence of James Cross, the present Superintendent, their efforts have been crowned with success beyond the expectations of the most sanguine. They have recently struck the lode in their upper tunnel, 400 feet below the surface, and developed a body of ore, the wealth of which is almost incredible. I was shown specimens of free gold ore that will assay at the rate of $40,000 per ton, and I have been credibly informed that there is a streak four feet thick that the average is up in the thousands. There are many other lodes in the district which prospect, I am told, even better on the surface than this famous lode did. The next district in the series that has attracted much attention is Prescott, which lies south and west of Mono Lake. This district in my judgment, is destined to be one of the very best of the series. The Queen of the West, owned by T. Jackson and others, shows remarkably large bodies of excellent ore; also many others. Bodie, the most northern of the series, requires no comments; suffice it to say it speaks for itself; but, notwithstanding her great wealth as it has been developed, it did not compare even favorably before development with any of the districts mentioned. It is natural for all to inquire, "How do you get to this vast region of wealth?" There are four routes by which it is reached, the east through Benton by the Benton and Lake District toll-road, owned by Messrs. Webster & Baker; from the north through Bodie over the trail, where there is now a toll-road being constructed by Mesars. Thompson & Campbell; or by the trail from the west from the Fresno mills, in Fresno county, which is only practicable during the Summer months. The best route at present is from the south. Leaving the railroad at Mojave, coming to Independence, thence up the Owen's river valley to Bishop Creek; thence to Round Valley; thence by the Round Valley and Lake District toll-road. This route is decidedly the best, being available all the year round, and traversing from Independence a well-watered and fertile country.

J. L. C. SHERWIN.

Hon. P. Reddy's Reception at Bishop.

BISHOP CREEK, April 8.

MESSRS. EDITORS—It is a pleasant duty to report to you the advent at the stated time of our friend the Hon. P. Reddy. He was heartily welcomed by the citizens of this place. Owing to the inclemency of the weather he spoke in the church, to an over-crowded house, and his exposition of the new Constitution was frequently applauded. His argument was good and bore the weight of truth on its face. It is impossible to give it in detail, which is unnecessary, for your readers are intelligent and have learned the many dangerous features of that new Constitution.

Respectfully,

J. W. P. LAIRD.

DESERTED.—Camp Independence, in Inyo county, when occupied by the soldiers, was a perfect little paradise. To-day it resembles more the old ruins of Athens than the beautiful retreat of two years since. We visited the spot a few days ago and found all silent and deserted. But one house was occupied and the occupants were all out trying to discover some animate object, save a young lady visitor. It was a strong temptation to storm the whole business. It is the old story. The Government, in its infinite red-tape wisdom, had rather let the rats set fire to the the elegant cottages [rats (?) so reported], the alfalfa wither and die, and the buildings decay, than to allow some enterprising citizen to preserve its beauty, build a seminary, establish a beer garden, or start a first-class hog ranch. The night before we visited the place the elements turned loose on the hydraulic works and knocked the huge water tank into a shapeless mass.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:

SATURDAY, APRIL 12.....1879

THE text-book war by the article in the new Constitution, is simply transferred from the State board of education to the boards of supervisors of the different counties. Each county may have a different text-book, and should any religious denomination happen to predominate in a board of supervisors, what is to hinder them from introducing their own denominational books? In a large city like San Francisco, what religious sect generally holds the balance of power?

EX-SECRETARY Gorham intends to return to California about the 1st of May, and devote the Summer to campaign work for the Republicans.

A member of the South Carolina Legislature failed to have a certain bill passed, and, upon his return home, was beat nearly to death by one of his constituents.

In the opinion of the Burlington Hawkeye, no true Republican will attempt to throw cold water on a project that has for its purpose the nomination of Tilden as the Democratic candidate for the Presidency.

In swimming down the river, Paul Boyton should be attended by directors who will see that he makes no runs on the banks.—New Orleans Picayune.

Young lady to scientific Teuton: "But I thought you were also a physician, Dr. Klibelschneitzer?" Scientific Teuton: "Ah! yaw! I am a medicine, but I do not operate."

There is not probably a woman in all this broad, sunny land of ours who doesn't think that the carving-fork was made for the express purpose of pulling corks out of bottles.

No first-class reporter will ever forget to add at the end of an unsuccessful burglary item that the fellows overlooked a box containing $1,000 in cash. This always makes the burglars mad enough to shoot themselves.

When Grimes seized the horses hair as he performed a parabola over the animal's head, he said he was simply looking out for the main chance.

The class in German grammar is on the subject of genders. "Miss Flora, why is 'moon' masculine in German?" "So that she can go out alone nights, I suppose."

First swell: "Look here, Fred, you shouldn't wear so many big diamonds. It's awfully bad form." Second swell: "Bless your soul, dear boy, they ain't real."

Confederate Decoration Day will be celebrated with great ceremony at Winchester on June 6th, when a $10,000 monument over 815 unknown soldiers' graves will be dedicated.

APPLICATION FOR A PATENT

REX MONTIS MINE.

No. 121.

U. S. LAND OFFICE, Bodie, California, January 29, 1879.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT THE REX Montis Mining Company, whose postoffice address is San Francisco, California, has this day filed its application for a patent for Eighteen Hundred linear feet of the REX MONTIS mine or vein bearing gold, with surface ground one hundred feet in width, situate, lying and being in Kearsarge Mining District, county of Inyo and State of California, and known and designated by the field notes and official plat on file in this office as Lot Number 37, of Mineral Monument Number 2, Kearsarge Mining District. The exterior boundaries of said Lot No. 37 being as follows, to-wit: Variation 15 degs 30 min East.

Commencing at a post in mound of original location at westerly end of lode, and running thence north 25 deg west 76 links to a post in stone mound; thence north 65 deg east 27 26 chains to a post in mound; thence south 25 deg east 1.51 chains to a post marked P. 5 R M; thence south 65 deg west 27 26 chains to a post marked P. 7 R M from which Mineral Monument No. 2, Kearsarge Mining District, on the highest peak of Kearsarge Mountain, bears south 13 deg east 2.18 chains distant; thence north 25 deg west 75 links to place of beginning, containing 4 12-100 acres.

This claim is bounded northerly by the "Boomerang" and "Arctic" mining claims. The location of this mine is duly recorded in the Recorder's office of the Kearsarge Mining District, on page 100 in Book A of Records of Claims, of Kearsarge Mining District, Inyo county, California.

Any and all persons claiming adversely any portion of said Rex Montis mine or said mining ground as hereinbefore described, are required to file their adverse claim with the Register of the United States Land Office at Bodie, in the State of California, during the sixty days period of publication hereof, or they will be barred by virtue of the provisions

SOUTHWARD.

It is useless to dwell upon what intervenes between here and Bodie. Our readers are already familiar with that section and its resources. Beyond that lies a country known to be rich in mineral, to which we all look with more or less interest, and conjecture when and where the next great development will be made. Mining territory is becoming more circumscribed and people realize that sooner or later this great mineral belt, extending for over 200 miles south, which has been superficially prospected and neglected for years like Bodie, will attract the attention of men of sufficient enterprise and means to develop its merits. Our readers care little about detailed descriptions of mines, but "What do you think of the country?" We think it is a country of the greatest possibilities of any on this coast. The White and Inyo range of mountains, bounding Owens Valley on the east, are known to be be both rich in gold and silver from one extreme to the other, a distance of over 150 miles. Benton, Bodie and Aurora, on the north, have exemplified their richness in a very conclusive manner. Indian district on the west has exceedingly bright prospects, and one or two paying mines—the Tower, at least, which is in the same range of hills. Further west is the Mammoth, which is reported to have recently developed an immense gold ledge, eight feet in width, at a depth of 300 feet, and of marvelous richness. Down opposite and west of Independence, are some valuable mines of free gold and exceedingly rich. Cerro Gordo has, and is still shipping her lead and silver bullion in a quiet sort of a way, and almost innumerable rich ledges of gold and silver bearing rock have been discovered by men of small means who have never been able to work them, and which are never heard from except as the traveler picks up a piece of rock from some dusty mantle-piece, sparkling with gold, and inquires where it came from, and is told that it came from a mine belonging to Mr. Jones or Smith. He asks what they are doing with it, and the answer is, "Nothing; they have not means or facilities for working it. If there is ever anything done with the mines in this section they hope to sell." In this condition everything rests. People seem to be discouraged, and Micawber-like, are waiting for something to turn up. They know that they have rich mines around them, but they have never yet succeeded (with exception of Cerro Gordo, perhaps,) in bringing them to the notice of the mining world. Bodie developments have placed them 100 miles nearer the notice of mining capitalists, and it is not improbable that they may soon attract attention. If Mammoth is as good as reported, it will be another gain of 50 miles in that direction. The next step may be the Bishop Creek mines and the Independence country. Bishop Creek is one of the most fertile valleys on the coast, and capable of supplying an indefinite number of mining camps on either side. The climate is quite warm, but favorable for mining and agriculture. Owens river supplies an abundance of water, and the Sierras, there as here, have almost inexhaustible forests of timber. We think Owens Valley has a great future.—Carson Valley News.

WHEN a Parliament House in France was building, a countryman, standing by, observed with great attention how they went on. Up came a lawyer, with his bags or sacks, to the countryman, and says: "Friend, I am persuaded you know not what place these people are building." "True, sir; I wanted to ask you," said the countryman. The lawyer answered a mill. "I thought so," said the countryman, "on seeing an ass carrying sacks to it."

THE MINING INTEREST.

The new Constitution of California places a burden upon mining which, if carried into effect will, so far as California is concerned, stop all deep mining in that State. It hedges the business about with restrictions, dangers and inidignities, which cause every man of capital to retire from the occupation. The San Francisco Chronicle, by falsehoods most atrocious, has sought for two years to create such a prejudice against quartz mining as shall destroy it, and one of the fruits of its labor is this new Constitution. One can not read its sections which refer directly or indirectly to mining without receiving the impression that the framers were determined to fatally cripple mining enterprises on all mines requiring combined capital to carry them on. In this connection it may not be out of place to consider the relation which mining sustains to the other industries of the coast. It is more to California certainly than any other industries combined. Of California's wheat crop—the only one upon which the majority of her farmers depend for profits—the real profits are in the best of years very small. When the hands are paid and the merchants are paid the farmer, as a rule, finds that he has cleared less money then as though he had worked for $3 per day. Of course, there are large farms to which this does no apply, but the rule, as a general rule, is correct. The product of the garden finds its chief market from miners and from the people who live directly or indirectly from the returns of mining. It is so of manufacturers to a great extent, especially of iron. We find, then, that the real profits of the coast come from mining, and so true is this that the condition of the Comstock and the state of the stock market are an undeviating barometer by which to measure real estate values in San Francisco. Because of the mines of Nevada one-third of the whole population of California find it possible to live in a single city of that State. And the business is extending faster than all other occupations of the coast. It is stretching east to Arizona, Utah and Colorado, and swelling in volume every year. It remains for the voters of California to decide whether to reap that havest, or whether to turn the stream to some city, because it is going on, and if San Francisco refuses the tribute St. Louis or Chicago or New York city will not.—Virginia Enterprise.

THE HOME OF THE METEORS.

In a recent lecture at Harvard College Prof. Benjamin Pierce put forth, according to newspaper report, a novel hypothesis with regard to the origin of comets and meteors. In the absence of any complete statement of the hypothesis, it is impossible to judge of its scope and pertinence, or indeed whether there is any new hypothesis at all. Apparently Prof. Pierce has simply added to the well known hypothesis of the meteoric origin of the solar system so cleverly elaborated by Proctor, the suggestion that beyond the outermost planets there remains a vast shell of fragmentary matter, an envelope of bolides, out of which comets and meteors come. In other words, the home of the meteors is simply that portion of the original nebulous mass lying beyond the region of aggregation which has resulted in the sun and planets, and thinned out, so to speak, the planetary spaces. Why this outer shell should be characterized as the special home of meteors is, however, far from clear, unless it be assumed that the interplanetary spaces have long since been entirely gleaned of their original supply of matter, so that the existing bolides, with which these spaces seem to be thickly sown, must have come from the outermost parts of the solar system.

An incidental point brought out in the lecture is novel, namely that the heat which the earth is known to receive from space is attributed to the impact of meteors upon our atmosphere. That this meteoric heat is not an insignificant quantity Prof. Pierce shows by computation, by which he reaches "what he calls the unexpected and startling result, that the heat which the earth receives directly from the meteors is the same in amount as that which it receives from the sun by radiation."—Scientific American.

CONDITIONS OF IDIOCY.—In the annual report of the Pennsylvania Training School for feeble-minded children for 1878, two interesting facts are noted. The statistics of that institution show that a larger proportion of males than females are admitted, the ratio being greater than can be explained except upon the presumption that idiocy, like other infirmities, strikes the most severity the male; also that in the order of birth nearly half the idiots are first-born children, a fact strongly suggestive of a special line of ills to which the first-born are peculiarly liable, and to which they so often succumb either in death or in chronic disease. These advantages, the superintendent remarks, are often a sad recountal of the young mother's unfitness either for the genesis, nourishment, or intelligent care of her offspring. It is also noted that of the whole number (288) present in the institution at this date. 150 are half-orphans and 74 whole orphans. This startling fact would seem to prove the assumption of some writers, that idiocy is one of the results of a degeneracy of race, by which, after a long exposure to debilitating influences and excesses, it ends in premature death, in scrofula, idiocy, or stirility.—Scientific American.

CHALFANT & PARKER.

J. E. PARKER. P. A. CHALFANT.

SATURDAY, APRIL 19 1879

IN its desperate struggle for the new Constitution, the San Francisco Chronicle is becoming like the boy in pursuit of the woodchuck—it must have it. With that journal it is a case of "duck or no dinner." All business support, save its circulation, is being so rapidly withdrawn that the situation becomes alarming to its owners, and in very truth the Chronicle is a gone in concern, as there is no chance for the ratification of the new instrument, by which means alone can it sustain a prestige. But even for the matter of existence itself, it is astonishing how a newspaper can stoop to such glaring fabrications as the following, a very lie on the face of it:

THE CORRUPTION FUND IN INYO.

BISHOP CREEK (Inyo county), April 10. The people of this part of California are strongly in favor of the adoption of the new Constitution. It is currently reported that $3,000 has been sent here, to be used in defeating the new Constitution, and that no means will be spared to influence voters.

The foregoing was published in the Chronicle of the 11th instant, the day after the date of the supposed dispatch. In the date the figure "10" admits of no explaining away as a typographical error. Bishop Creek is about 90 miles from the nearest telegraph office, and on the 10th no stage left the point at all. The "$3,000 corruption fund" at Bishop is an idea too ridiculous to be seriously referred to, but it is just such stuff that the Chronicle is idiotical enough to dish up to its readers daily.

THE question of cutting the Isthmus of Panama in two by a canal that will connect the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans has lately come up again for discussion, and has been more earnestly considered than for many years. The French people to whom the Suez canal is largely due, seem to be most interested in the Panama canal, and hold a congress in Paris early in May, at which M. de Lesseps will preside, to decide on the definite form of this canal. There are two other schemes mentioned—both French—one for a canal through Nicaragua by the utilization of the lake and its outlet, the San Juan river, in which nature can be made to do nearly all the work. The second is the cutting of the narrow neck of land at Darien. The latter scheme, however, would necessitate locks and tunnels, and the lowest estimate places the cost at $200,000,000, while the Nicaraguan canal would not cost more than $20,000,000, and would be shorter by 700 miles between ports of the United States and those of the East. In view of this fact the American Consul at Paris suggests the advisability of the United States being represented at this Paris Congress, so as to protect and benefit the interests of this country.

THE Texas Pacific railroad scheme is to be held in abeyance during this session of Congress which probably means that the subsidy will never again be asked for. And it begins to look as if the transcontinental line would be abandoned also, the Vice President having remarked recently in Washington that the road from San Diego would not be built at present. However, the company will continue to build the road in Texas on the main line towards the Rio Grande, and on the triangle from Sherman to Fort Worth. Meantime the Southern Pacific is shooting across Arizona at the rate of a mile a day, and is now some 140 miles east of Yuma.

THE British Government is now engaged in the construction of nine ironclads, eight corvettes, one dispatch boat, six composite sloops, three composite gunboats, two steel gunboats and four other craft. Thus our cousins across the water have on the stocks a larger and more powerful navy than the United States has altogether in active service. Besides these new vessels of war, the British fleet now in commission numbers 255, of which 131 are serving in various parts of the world. These vessels are officered and manned by nearly 60,000 men. The sum asked for this year by the admiralty for the support of the navy is $53,000,000.

THERE are but three active candidates so far on the Republican side for Governor. John F. Swift, of San Francisco; George S. Evans, of San Joaquin, and George C. Perkins, of San Francisco. Gen. Evans would swing a heavy majority in Inyo over almost any Democratic nominee.

BOB INGERSOLL presented Joe Jefferson a book a short time since. On the fly-leaf was the following: "To Joseph Jefferson, king of that enchanted realm where comedy and pathos dwell, where laughter touches tears, and sadness blossoms into mirth."

THE MINING COUNTIES SOLID.

Doubtless all of our readers are fully decided as to how they will vote at the Constitutional election on the 7th proximo, and perhaps many are tired of the subject. Nevertheless, no question of graver importance was ever submitted to a popular vote, and it is as well to hammer away at it until its bearing is fully understood.

Mainly through the influence of this paper and the work of this office, Inyo and Mono counties voted almost solid for the calling of a convention to formulate a new Constitution. In Inyo the vote stood 701 for to 72 against. The leading idea of the voters was that an advantageous change might be made reducing public expense by lessening the number of elections, and by equalizing levys on our mines and small farms so that our proportion of State taxes might be reduced to something like those paid by the richer counties on the other side. But then it was not dreamed of that Kearneyism would obtain control and the very reverse of these things be practically brought about. Wherein our interests are injured we have only to state the effect of the new organic law upon the taxation of mines, the leading industry upon which hinges the value of every dollar of property in the two counties—furnishing reason enough for a solid vote. Upon the employment of aggregated capital in the development of our mineral resources entirely depends our prosperity. New corporations will not be formed, because capitalists will not assume the galling responsibilities imposed upon them. Notwithstanding the fast growing interest in our rich mines, it is hard enough now to get men to take hold and develop them, without additional restrictions. The proposed Consgitution provides that the mines and mills and reduction works shall be taxed, and then the certificates of stock, representing absolutely the same property, shall be taxed again. Mining property in the hands of an unfortunate individual who may undertake its development, may be taxed but once, but if it belongs to a corporation it will certainly be doubly taxed, and should a mine begin to pay the income tax is to be counted on—making the third levy; and corporations frequently borrow money and mortgage in order to continue operations. In that case a company struggling to develop our county must be taxed four times, as the lender would compel them to pay the tax on the mortgage by increasing the rate of interest. There are many more grave objections in the instrument providing for such radical and wide-sweeping changes, but the state of facts upon this one point is enough to insure a solid vote "against" on this side of the Sierras.

THE United States Mining Act of 1872 provides that any partner in a mining claim may work out the annual assessment of $100 per 1,500 feet, and if the remaining co-owners do not contribute their proportion of the expense the whole property reverts to the party performing the labor, upon publication for 60 days of a regular "Notice of Forfeiture." So far the thing is complete and just, but the law is evidently incomplete in this: that no provision is made for placing upon legal record the title thus gained. In case of contest, of course, the publishers' proof of publication would establish a title under the law, but should the matter run along for years and such a document, from any accident of loss or otherwise, could not be produced, then, we think, trouble might arise. Of course, the County Recorder may place upon record somewhere such notice of forfeiture and affidavit of publication, but unless such recording is specifically authorized by law, it might be held that such record was not a legal one. Congress should complete the act by providing for the permanent record of such acquired titles in the books of each mining district, or such local mining laws might be adopted amounting to about the same thing, as in case of certificates of assessment work performed, etc. Or the Legislature might provide for the making and entering up of a decree of court upon the completion of the process by work and due publication, upon motion of the parties interested, and thus provide for the final vesting of title by record.

THE Bakersfield Courier-Californian is speculating upon the important matter as to who shall be elected District Judge for the next term, in the very probable event of the defeat of the new Constitution. The names of Hon P. Reddy, of Inyo, and J. W. Freeman, of Kern, are mentioned as the only acceptable candidates. Neither Mr. Reddy nor his law partner, Judge Conklin, would accept of the position. We presume Judge Reed will again become a candidate to succeed himself—a formidable competitor, though not popular in Kern county. The name of Hon. S. P. Moffat, of this place, has been mentioned in this connection, but we do not know that he would accept it.

THE London Truth would have us believe that the English are eager for the immigration of Chinese, and thus implores the Mongolian lepers to turn their attention to the white cliffs of Albion, instead of the inhospitable sandhills of San Francisco. "Let the Celestials come to us; they make excellent cooks and housemaids. We would welcome their advent. By the robberies, the impudence, and the carelessness of our servants, our lives are made a burden to us. The only chance that we have of escaping from our bondage is that the Chinese will take pity on us and teach our masters that we can do without them." There is no likelihood of the Celestials accepting this earnest invitation, for many of them in California earn as much as the bloated aristocrats of England who maintain one servant just above the verge of starvation, and then talk about "impudence and carelessness of the lower horders," and if the Celestials here can not honestly earn as much as these would-be employers, they can at least steal it with comparative ease.

MR. WHITELAW REID showed a steady hand and a clear head in declining the offer of the Berlin Mission. In no respect does it compare with the great place which he now fills. Comparing the two, his duties of Minister would be confined to the questions between the two countries, while his duties as editor of the Tribune bring him in contact with the whole world of thought and action. As Minister his power would have been limited, both in range of subject and importance of result, while that of the editor is co-extensive with the activities of life which daily challenge the scrutiny of the sanctum.

ARIZONA is looming up in the distance and claiming a deal of attention. With the railroad penetrating to its center, with plenty of water, the wealth of its mountains and valleys will be surprisingly developed this season. In fact, we are justified from present indications in making the prediction that Arizona will be the next addition to the sisterhood of States. Next will follow New Mexico, Utah and Washington Territory, which added to California, Nevada, Oregon and Colorado, will form no insignificant portion of Uncle Sam's great farm.

THE fact that yellow fever has broken out on board the United States steamship Plymouth, after that vessel had been thoroughly fumigated, and anchored as far north as Boston during the winter, shows how difficult it is to kill the germs of this dreaded disease, and how much a return of the plague in the South is to be feared. Notwithstanding this, however, it is stated that little or no precautions have been taken in the districts so grievously afflicted last Summer.

INYO FRUIT.—Cherries promise a fair yield in Inyo county this year. Fortunate country it must be, for cherry red lips are in order at all seasons, and unlike other California fruits, they are not tasteless.—Bodie Standard.

In the foregoing intimation that he knows the taste thereof, a young lady friend of ours here says that the Standard man is like a certain musical instrument—a lyre.

THE recent gold discovery about six miles from Pickets Post, is claimed to be one of the wonders of Southern Arizona. The ledge is said to be over fifty feet in width, and a seam six feet wide shows free gold in every piece taken from it. The ledge projects above the surface for a distance of over 1,000 feet.

THE War Department is now prepared to place durable headstones at the unmarked graves of all soldiers of the Union army, no matter where they may be. Persons knowing the locations of an such graves, and the names of the deceased, should notify the Secretary of War.

THERE are now 320 telephone stations in operation in the city of Hartford, Connecticut. The central office is kept open day and night, so that the wires may be used for domestic or commercial purposes at any hour.

THE Czar of Russia was the subject of an unsuccessful attempt at assassination on the 14th instant. Some 1,100 Revolutionists have been arrested in Russia within the past fortnight.

THE municipality of Paris propose to change the names of the Rue Saint-Arnaud and the Rue Abbatucci to the Rue Lincoln and the Rue Washington, respectively.

DIPHTHERIA has begun to rage in some of the railroad towns of this State. In Colfax there has been fifteen cases of it and ten deaths.

HENRY WATTERSON, of the Louisville Courier-Journal, has declared for Tilden and Hendricks for the Democratic Presidential contest of 1880.

THE Enterprise appeals to the Miners Unions to use their influence in defeating the new Constitution.

COMMISSIONER WILLIAMSON'S report on his recent visit to this State will be much briefer than was at first expected. It will not deal with much other than a few personal investigations worked up by the Commissioner while here. This is done because of the provision in the Sundry Civil Appropriation bill creating a Commission to codify the existing laws relating to the survey and disposition of the public domain. The Commissioner is unable to say when the report will be finished, and he devotes very little time to it, and it will not, he thinks, be finished before Congress adjourns. In the sad event of his making no report at all we don't know what would become of us.

PROCLAMATION.

EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT.

WHEREAS, THE CONVENTION, WHICH assembled, at the City of Sacramento, on the 28th day of September, A. D. 1878, to revise and change the entire Constitution of this state, agreed upon and submitted to the people for their ratification or rejection a

New Constitution for the State of California;

AND WHEREAS, the law has fixed the First Wednesday of May, A. D. 1879, as the day upon which the people shall adopt or reject such new Constitution:

NOW THEREFORE, I, William Irwin, Governor of the State of California, do declare that on

Wednesday, May 7th, 1879,

There will be held an election, at which the people of the State shall vote to adopt or reject such Constitution.

All persons, entitled by law to vote for members of the Assembly, shall be entitled to vote at such election in their respective election districts and not elsewhere.

Such election shall be by ballot, and such voter shall express his opinion by depositing in the ballot box a ticket whereon shall be written or printed the words, "FOR THE CONSTITUTION" or "AGAINST THE CONSTITUTION."

And I do hereby offer a reward of one hundred dollars for the arrest and conviction of any and every person violating any of the provisions of Title IV, Part I, of the Penal Code; such rewards to be paid until the total amount hereafter expended for the purpose reaches the sum of ten thousand dollars.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand, and caused the Great Seal of the State to be affixed, at the City of Sacramento, [SEAL] this second day of April, A. D. one thousand, eight hundred and seventy-nine.

WILLIAM IRWIN,
Governor.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:

SATURDAY, APRIL 19.....1879

MINING NOTES FOR THE WEEK.

FISH SPRINGS.—The gold mines of Fish Springs, which we have frequently referred to as having yielded in the aggregate an immense sum of gold in the years which they were worked preceding '70, are again reviving. The contractors on the old Westerville property, formerly called the Golden Wreath, but now known as the Ivan, have out some 25 or 30 tons awaiting the refitting of the arrastras. Assays run up to $300 per ton, but probably the average will not be less than $60. On the hill are a number of ledges once profitably mined, and doubtless work on several of them will be soon resumed. The Ivan is a so-called "blanket" ledge, "pockety," but continuous. The incline running on the vein is to be pushed ahead 80 feet further. On the hill to the east of the road extending out across the valley is situated a series of small gold veins, one of which known as the Long Tom some years ago yielded considerable rich ore. Bonds, McGovern and others are about to resume work upon it, beginning in the old works at a depth of 60 feet. The ground, and almost the entire hill, it is thought, would pay well for hydraulic mining. There is a powerful stream passing which could be readily diverted for the purpose, but its use would involve the purchase of the valuable farms of Messrs. Shedd, Goodale, Westerville and others situated below.

MODOCK OFFICIAL LETTER.—The official letter of the week is as follows:

APRIL 15, 1879.

J. W. Pew, Esq., Secretary Modock Con. M. Co.:—DEAR SIR: Work on 1000-foot level has been impeded somewhat the past week on account of delay in getting small boiler for air engine set up. Two shifts in tunnel and upraise were lost, which accounts for the rate of progress made for the week. The new boiler is working well and the ground in both places breaking well. We passed through a fine stratum of ledge matter on the 12th inst., in the tunnel, and now have easy working ground. Distance made in tunnel for the week ending to-day, 38 feet. Total length, 1,442 feet. Shaft sunk 10 feet; total depth, 357 feet. Upraise made 9 feet. Is now up 80 feet in all. Distance between bottom of shaft and top of raise, 139 feet. We have much better air in 1000-foot level than at any time heretofore, which will increase progress at that portion of the work materially. Yours, respectfully,

C. J. BARBER, Sup't.

RICH ORE.—Through Sheriff Moore we have been favored with a number of rich gold specimens from the mine owned by Messrs. Hopper & Laskey, situated in the new Crysopolis District, and known as the Eureka. The ledge carries an average width of 20 inches of ore, the samples on hand showing an abundance of fine, free gold. A certificate of assay from Superintendent Taylor, of the Emigrant Company at Lee District, shows $2,674 87 in gold, 8 per cent. of copper and $58 11 per ton in silver; in all, $2,732 98 per ton. We believe the mine is a relocation of one worked in early days, and it looks as though the owners have a good thing. Mr. Taylor wants a thousand or more tons of the ore immediately, and it is likely that a quantity of it will be shipped to Lee for reduction.

KEARSARGE.—From reports gathered here and there it would appear that the long-loooked-for strike in the Kearsarge has been made, though the full facts have not as yet been made known to the public. The work is going on in ledge matter containing low-grade ore, progress being at the rate of five feet per twenty-four hours. Superintendent Gray is highly gratified over developments so far, and proposes to show something big as soon as the tunnel shall have reached the main objective point—the rich ore body extending downward from the winze in the lowest tunnel of the old works—which may require twenty or more days yet. So far no crosscutting has been done to determine the width or value of the ledge.

YGNACIO.—The Ygnacio Company's shipment of ore to the New Coso furnace amounted to 10 tons, which by regular samples assayed as follows: Four tons, $329 88 silver per ton; six tons, $188 50 in silver and $12 55 in gold. The samples were taken and assay made by Mr. Woodhull on the part of the shippers and Superintendent Williams for the furnace, both experienced and thorough-going men in the business, and proved perfectly satisfactory all around. Other shipments are soon to follow—constituting a revival of business in this line very gratifying to note.

GOLD ASSAYS.—Mr. S. D. Woodhull has placed us in possession of the following memoranda of assays of gold ores made during the week, from mines near Independence, which are of a class of almost daily occurrence. Samples of pulp from 25 pounds of rock yielded respectively: No. 1, $326 41: No. 2, $284 58; No. 3, $209 62, and No. 4, $150 60 per ton in gold. The deduction forces itself that if our people wish to go into profitable gold mining there is no necessity for rushing off to Lake, Bodie or anywhere else so far from home.

PANAMINT.—From Mr. Geo. Stevens, who passed through town en route from Darwin to Lake District, we learn that the entire property of the Surprise Valley M. & M. Co., at Panamint, has been purchased by an entirely new company, and that the mill is shortly to be started up on ores already out and in sight. The revival of business at Panamint, and almost all old and abandoned camps, is entirely due to the workings of the mining laws giving unpatented claims to any one having a mind to take hold of them.

A FRAUD.—Some time since a man traveling through here, passing under the name of Chas. Hall, representing himself as having been a volunteer nurse in the yellow fever districts of the South during the scourge, asked for and obtained considerable sums in relief from the Masonic fraternity. He proves to be a bilk of the worst description. Late letters from San Rafael and Salinas show that he is playing the same game at those places, representing himself to be our well-known citizen of Bishop Creek, Robert Love. He is a man of medium height and weight, full whiskers and mustache. Our brethren of the press should pass him around, and especially call the attention of Masonic Lodges to the necessity of repudiating any man of such description who may seek aid on account of that yellow fever business. We would like to see Bob Love get hold of him for a few moments.

LAKE DISTRICT.—Mr. V. G. Thompson, of the Blaney House, returned on Thursday from a short visit to Mammoth. A detailed report of his observations upon the place is necessarily laid over this week. Suffice it that he thinks the country is destined to become a most important one; the new strike, of which he exhibits samples of ore filled with free gold, is fully as rich and extensive as has been reported. Town lots are worth $1,500 per 25 feet front. Many old Inyoites have obtained properties of great present and prospective value. An influx of capitalists and speculators is taking place. There is still two feet of snow upon the ground. Mr. Thompson thinks the ultimate principal town will be up above the narrow cañon in which Mammoth is situated, and that a second Virginia and Gold Hill is among the probabilities of the future.

DIED.—At Bishop Creek, on Tuesday last, were consigned to the grave the remains of E. C. Kelty, one of the pioneers of our neighboring town of Benton, and a man very generally known throughout this region. The deceased had reached a ripe old age, and leaves a family of sons. At his own request he was buried at Bishop by the side of his wife, who died last Fall. Every citizen of Benton who could obtain conveyance joined in the cortege to Bishop. We learn that the burial was conducted by the Masonic fraternity, quite a large number of the order being present to join in the last sad rites of a departed brother. Peace to the ashes of "Pap" Kelty.

A CELESTIAL EPISODE.—Some three of our prominent citizens, it is so reported, one day during the week repaired to Lone Pine and by moral suasion and a gentle intimation by an acting Deputy Sheriff, induced a fair frail one of the female China persuasion to accompany them back to Independence. Shortly after the China lord and owner of the property came and the next morning returned with it, or her, to the place from whence she came. And that is about all we have been able to ascertain concerning the transaction. The Tarantula ought to be resurrected, to tell all about it.

SAD NEWS.—We are pained to announce the death, after an illness of only two days, of Wm. H. Wood, which event occurred last week at Leadville, Colorado. The deceased will be remembered by a host of warm friends as an old resident of Darwin, and a popular and rising young lawyer of this county. He leaves a wife and interesting young family, to whom he was devotedly attached. We hope to obtain further particulars for publication next week.

TOWER ORE.—We are indebted to Sup't. Burnham for a piece of the rich ores now being extracted from the Tower mine, Indian District. It is literally covered with native silver and as handsome a specimen as is often seen.

CAUTION.—Business men should read carefully and preserve the list and description of stolen checks, advertised this week.

STAGE LINE.—John Allman is stocking a line of stages between Benton or Black Lake to Mammoth city.

POSTPONED.—The Modock delinquent sale has been postponed until May 15th.

JOSIAH BACON, Treasurer of the Goodyear Rubber Company, was mysteriously shot in his room at the Baldwin Hotel last Sunday night. He was found with a bullet hole in the abdomen. There were no powder marks on his clothes, and no weapon was found. Robbery evidently was not the object of the murder, if murder it were, as a valuable gold watch and several hundred dollars were untouched in the pockets of the deceased. He had been a resident of the city but three weeks, was a native of Massachusetts, aged 45 years, and leaves a widow residing at Bridgewater, in that State. The detectives have fastened a strong suspicion upon one Dr. Chalfant, a dentist of the city, as the murderer, who is mysteriously missing from the city. The peculiarity of the name induces us to add that the said Doctor comes from a Pennsylvania family, entirely distinct from that of our senior's.

"I TRUST you will be true to me," he said, in accents mellow. "Of course I will, my dear," said she "till I get another fellow."

THE Rev. Wm. H. Horse Murray expresses the belief that horses go to heaven. This is a nag-ravating assertion.

At Pesth a card on each hotel room door requests "gentlemen not to flatter the female servants on the stairs, as many dishes have been broken."

BENTON ITEMS.

The following items are from the Benton Messenger of the 12th instant:

Mr. M. Cronin, who is well known in mining circles here, upon his return from Indian District this week, furnished the following items: The shaft of the Chidago South, was, at the time of his visit, 35 feet deep. At the bottom of the shaft the ledge is 18 inches wide, carrying fine gold, which I should judge by past experience would mill $25 to $30 per ton. The Pine Nut mine, belonging to Lowe & Co., has a shaft 30 feet deep, with a well defined ledge 20 inches in width. The poorest quality of the bottom of the shaft averages about $25 per ton. Mr. Cronin speaks encouragingly of the Chidago mines, and says that Mr. Lowe and his company contemplate erecting a small mill as soon as the necessary arrangements can be completed.

Sheriff Taylor was in town this week, serving subpenas on witnesses to appear at Bridgeport on Monday, the 21st instant, in the new trial of Con. Casey for the murder of Lewis. Much difficulty is apprehended in obtaining a jury, as the case is so familiar to the citizens of Mono that the necessary qualification of ignorance is scarce. It is quite probable that a change of venue will be resorted to.

The Comanche M. & M. Company have levied an assessment of one dollar per share, payable on the 15th of May.

On last Saturday evening Mr. P. Reddy, a member of the late Constitutional Convention, spoke for about 20 minutes on the all-absorbing Constitutional issues. The speaker is openly and bitterly opposed to the adoption of the measure, but he did not succeed to get up to concert pitch on this occasion, and his many friends were disappointed in their expectation of hearing one of his best efforts.

There are on exhibition at Kelty & Hutchins' Cosmopolitan saloon a number of remarkable specimens of silver ore from the Tower mine. Some parts of the ore seem be almost pure metal—the native silver showing in places as large as a five-cent piece.

DEEPEST MINE.

There has been some discussion of late among the papers as to which is the deepest mine on the Comstock. This distinction has been awarded to the Yellow Jacket, but unadvisedly, as the following facts will show:

The Belcher hoisting works at the surface of the shaft are 413 feet below the line of the Gould & Curry croppings. This incline shaft of the mine last Wednesday reached a depth of 2660 feet below the surface, making a total depth below these croppings of 3,073 feet.

The Yellow Jacket has not yet reached a depth of 2,500 feet below the old shaft, the surface of which is 433 feet below the Gould & Curry croppings.

The Savage has also been mentioned as the deepest mine. It has not reached the 2350-level by its winzes below the 2200. The surface of the savage shaft is 213 feet below the Gould & Curry croppings.

The Consolidated Imperial has reached and is working the 2600-level. The surface of the shaft is 233 feet below the Gould & Curry croppings.

Of perpendicular shafts the following are worthy of mention: Chollar-Norcross-Savage shaft, 2,321 feet. No sinking has been done in this shaft since the first of the month. In the meantime the C & C shaft has lapped it, being yesterday 2,326 feet deep. The Yellow Jacket new shaft is 2,334 feet down and is the deepest perpendicular shaft on the Comstock lode.

In this connection it may not be uninteresting to compare the foregoing Comstock depths with others in other places. The deepest mine in the world now worked is said to be the Adelbert lead and silver mine in Austria, which is 3,280 feet deep. The next is the Viviere coal mine in Belgium, 2,847 feet. It was sunk to the depth of 3,586 feet, but no coal having been found, the working is at the former level. The deepest coal mines in England are the Dunkirk colliery in Lancashire, 2,824 feet, and the Rosebridge, in the same locality, 2,458 feet.—Gold Hill News.

THROUGH the gloom which has enshrouded the Comstock since the smash in stocks four months ago, light breaks at last. The long-pending compromise with the Sutro Company has been effected, and the great adit must be made ready within ninety days for use by the mines for purposes of drainage. This will necessitate the employment of from 500 to 700 men, about half of whom will work from the Sutro end, and the other half from the Virginia end. The employment of that additional number of men means an increase of $500,000 to $1,000,000 per month to the money in general circulation in Storey and Lyon counties, an increased demand for all manner of goods, and a corresponding revival of all local business. By the time the drain is completed the Sierra Nevada incline will be down to the 2,400-level. Crosscuts can be begun in that and in many other leading mines, with fair prospects of at least three good-sized bonanzas being shown up; the drifts from the various mines to connect with the Sutro tunnel will be pushed with renewed energy, and there will doubtless be employment, at a liberal rate of pay, for another thousand or two men. Since the resumption of specie payments business has been slowly but surely reviving in the Eastern trade centers; the Comstock is evidently about to "fall into line" by entering upon a season of great prosperity.—Lyon County Times.

ADVICES from every point at the East indicate a marked renewal in business and a flattering increase of prosperity. The only section of the Republic today where prostration of industry and uncertainty of the future hangs like a pall over the people's energies is California. And that is because we are cursed with Kearneyism and threatened with a Constitution born on the sand lots and nursed into a dangerous vigor by a mob of penniless vagabonds.—S. F. Stock Report.

INYO TELEGRAPH.—THE INDEPENDENT has struck the right chord in earnestly and faithfully working up the feasibility of extending the California and Nevada Telegraph Company's line through to Inyo. Its importance can not be over estimated and never will be appreciated till the line is established, then the people will marvel and wonder why the devil they had remained in their snail-shells dormant so long. It is estimated that $6,700 is the sum required to be raised by the towns of Benton, Bishop Creek, Big Pine, Independence and contiguous localities. The amount seems insignificant among so many, and if ye ancient Taboose eaters had the energy of a church mouse they would raise it immediately. We will illustrate one example of how it operated in Bodie at the start. Silas B. Smith subscribed what he considered at that time a fabulous sum, considering his means, and really did not expect to telegraph it out, for eighteen months. After the line was completed Mr. Smith was notified that he had exhausted his subscription credit, and in six months he had paid for messages more than double the sum of the original appropriation. Merchants, miners and farmers alike patronize the telegraph and would not think of existing without it. Bodie Standard, April 15.

JUDGE THERON REED, of the Sixteenth District, one of the oldest and most highly respected Judges in the State, himself leaning rather in favor of the new Constitution, said recently that the sentiment in his district which embraces Kern, Inyo, Mono and Alpine counties, decidedly against the new instrument. He gives it as his opinion that if the majority of votes in San Francisco shall reach 2,000 or even 500 against the Constitution, the thing will be beaten by 5,000 majority. He says in San Francisco he finds we are afraid of the country; in the country it is just the other way—the people are afraid of our sand-lot vote in the city.—S. F. Stock Report.

HANK BLANCHARD has returned from an inspection of the route from Bodie to Mammoth City, by the west shore of Mono Lake, and is so well satisfied with it that he will start a stage out for Lake to-morrow (Wednesday) morning. A toll-road is being constructed around the west side of the lake, and the trip will be a very easy one when it is completed. The worst parts of the road have already been put in order. Blanchard has hosts of friends, is an energetic worker, and will run a good stage line.—Bodie Standard, April 15.

Alexander H. Stephens only weighs ten carats now. He has bought a three-carat diamond, and there'll be a struggle for equilibrium.

You can spell or prounounce it Led or Lead or Leed-ville, but most of the men who go there would make more money digging potatoes at home.

Bob Hart of "minstrel fame," and Ben Hogan, of the "ring, "are "stars" at the "People's Church" in New York.

The oldest negro has just died again. He was a native of "Virginyaw, sah," and 105 years old, but, strange enough, never waited on Wash.—Virginia Enterprise

John Swine is running for Constable in Porkopolis. He fairly bristles with contrariness and is bound to root in.

Major Walsh, of the Canadian troops, admits that Sitting Bull is insubordinate. So there must be something war-like in the old couchant bovine.

Whom did the pastry cook marry? Why his sweet-tart, of course.

St. Louis is under a dark cloud—1,800 more negroes having arrived there during the last few days. The laboring men threaten to go black-burying if it isn't stopped. Annexation to Illinois is the only chance left.

A man has been found in Iowa who has never heard "My Grandfather's Clock" or "Baby Mine." Barnum ought to secure him for a side show.

The people of Texas strain a gnat and swallow a camel. Men are fined for swearing in public places, but the murderer escapes—if he is a genuine Texan.

I think 'twas in September, if I rightly remember, that I heard a knocking, knocking at my door; yes, I know 'twas in September, for quite well I now remember, he had been there about fifty times before; had been there knocking at my door. But I opened it not, nor wondered, as upon my door he thundered, for he yelled, "Say, now, will you settle this 'ere bill I bring you?" as he battered on the door; and I answered, calmly answered, "Nevermore."—Oil City Derrick.

"Of what is the Old Man Thinking?" is a new ballad. He is thinking that he will have a tough time to feed the family and pay off that mortgage on the homestead if the new Constitution is adopted.—Bodie Standard.

"Going to leave, Mary?" "Yes, mum; I find I am very discontented." "If there is anything I can do to make you comfortable, let me know." "No, mum, it's impossible. You can't alter your figger to my figger, no mor'n I can. Your dresses won't fit me, and I can't appear on Sundays as I used to at my last place, where missus's clothes fitted 'xactly."

"Stranger, where mought you be from?" "Madam, I reside in Shelby county, Kentucky." "Waal, stranger, hope no offense, but what mought you be doin' up here?" "Madam, I am searching for the lost sheep of the house of Israel." "John, John!" shouted the old lady, "come right here this minit; here's a stranger all the way from Shelby county, Kentucky, a huntin' stock, and I'll jest bet my life that that tangled-haired old black ram that's been in our lot last week is one of his'n!"

PHOTOGRAPHY IN BANKING.—The London News reports that the Bank of France has for some time past employed a photograhic detective to examine suspicious documents; and more recently has placed an invisible studio in a gallery behind the cashiers. Hidden behind some heavy curtain the camera stands ready for work; and at a signal from any of the cashiers the photographer secures the likeness of any suspected customer. It is also reported that in the principal banking establishlishment in Paris several frauds have lately been detected by the camera, which under some circumstances exercises a sharper vision than the human eye. When an erasure has been made, for instance, the camera detects it at once, let the spot be ever so smoothly rubbed over, while a word or figure, that to the eye has been perfectly scratched out, is clearly reproduced in a photograph of the document.

ALLIGATORS TAUGHT BY EXPERIENCE. The alligator season begins to open, and these ugly monsters may be seen stretched out on the wharves dead and alive. Every man that is fortunate enough to kill a good-sized alligator puts it down among his memoranda and feels as proud as a Bengalee who makes conquest over a royal tiger. But these saurians have become more wary and watchful, and the sound of the steam whistle, the noise of the paddle-wheel, or the dip of the oar is to them a signal of danger, so that the first approach of an enemy causes them to disappear. To secure a large alligator now requires an expert who knows their habits. There is a great waste of powder and ball by inexperienced parties who go hunting and find nothing.—Pilatka (Fla.) Herald.

A RECENT visit to Fort Independence aroused somewhat of a feeling of envy toward our old friend Hurbert Gelatt. Quartered in one of the Government buildings in a modern Garden of Eden of 160 acres, a semi-tropic climate, profusion of flowers, abundance of fruit, lawns of clover, beautiful shade trees and tastily laid out walks, sparkling water tracing out every aisle—all that from 100 to 200 idle soldiers and officers could conceive and accomplish in ten years! For a Genoese to be handsomely paid to stay there and enjoy such a situation is altogether too much. Carson Valley News.

THERE is said to be an oak tree near Raleigh, N. C., which, at the sun's meridian, covers with a shade a space of nine thousand feet. It would afford shelter for four thousand five hundred men.

The new comet Leto is only 132,000,000 miles from here, but there is no need of worrying about a collision.

THE BELFRY OF TOURNAY.

At Tournay, in Belgium, there is a famous old belfry. It dates from the twelfth century, and is said to be built on a Roman base. It now possesses forty bells. It commands the town and country round, and from its summit is obtained a clear view of the largest and finest cathedral in Belgium, with its five magnificent towers. Four brothers guard the summit of the belfry at Tournay, and relieve each other each day and night, at intervals of ten hours. All through the night a light is seen burning in the topmost gallery, and when a fire breaks out the tocsin, or big bell, is tolled up aloft by the watchman. He is never allowed to sleep—indeed, judging from the scanty accommodation afforded, it would be difficult to sleep up there.

On stormy nights a whirlwind seems to select that watchman and his tower for its most violent attacks; the darkness is so great that nothing of the town below can be seen. The tower rocks to and fro, and startled birds dash themselves upon the shaking light, like sea-birds upon a lighthouse lantern.

Such seasons are not without real danger—more than once the lightning has melted and twisted the iron hasps about the tower, and within the memory of man the masonry itself has been struck. During the long peals of thunder that come rolling down with the black clouds over the level plain of Belgium, the belfry begins to vibrate like a huge musical instrument, as it is; the bells peal out, and seem to claim affinity with the deep bass of the thunder, while the shrill wind shrieks a demoniac treble to the wild and stormy music.

All through the still Summer night the belfry lamp burns like a star. It is the only point of yellow light that can be seen up so high; and when the moon is bright, it looks almost red in the silvery atmosphere. Then t is that the music of the bells floats farthest over the plains, and the postilion hears the sound as he hurries along the high road from Brussels or Lille, and smacking his whip loudly, he shouts to his weary steed as he sees the light of the old tower of Tournay come in sight.

A reporter in Cincinnati was sent to interview General Sherman. The reporter sent up his card, and a young lady, attended by a footman, who was also in the reception room, sent up her card at the same time. The messenger soon returned with two cards from General Sherman, and the clerk handed one to the reporter, the other to the footman. The reporter read the card that had been handed to him, while his hair stood on end, as follows:

"Regret exceedingly that I can't come. Give my love to your mother, and assure her I have not forgotten old times. Hope the soiree will be a success, as I'm sure it will be. Pardon the witticism when I say that yours truly is very soiree he can't be present.

The reporter had just finished reading, and realized the mistake that had been made, when, looking up, he saw whirl away the carriage which contained the young lady. Just then a card bearing the rude inscription dropped from the lady's nerveless hand and fluttered to the ground: "Go to h—l! What do I care about the army, the Chinese bill, the coolie trade, the Presidential question or any other d—d question! Again I say, go there yourself! W. T. S."

—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Two Irishmen were discussing the relative merits of different orators—Emmet, O'Connell, Jim Blaine and the silver-tongued Fitch. "Och," said one, "ye should hear Dinnis Kearney." "An' who the divil is Dinnis Kearney? What does he do?" asked his companion. "Why, bless ye, he don't do anything. He's a workingman."—Bodie Standard.

DEATH TO MINING.

We have said that the new Constitution of California was aimed to destroy all mining requiring company or corporate capital. Article XV., Section 26, reads as follows:

"The Legislature shall pass laws to regulate or prohibit the buying or selling of shares of the capital stock of corporations in any stock board, stock exchange or stock market under the control of any association. All contracts for the sale of shares of the capital stock of any corporation or association on margin, or to be delivered at a future day, shall be void, and any money paid on such contracts may be recovered by the party paying it, by any court of competent jurisdiction."

This section gives the Legislature the power to smash not only the stock boards, but to prevent individuals from purchasing stock in any mining company. Again, it puts its hand directly upon the freedom of the citizen by declaring that he can not manage a legitimate business as he pleases. It places mining under the same ban that gambling and houses of ill-fame are placed under. But it goes further. Article XII., Section 2, says:

"Dues from corporations shall be secured by such individual liability of the corporators and other means as may be prescribed by law."

And Section 3 of the same article is as follows:

"Each stockholder of a corporation or joint stock association shall be individually and personally liable for such proportion of all its debts and liabilities contracted or incurred during the time he was a stockholder as the amount of stock or shares owned by him bears to the whole of the subscribed capital stock or shares of the corporation or association. The directors of corporations shall be jointly and severally liable to the creditors and stockholders for all moneys embezzled or misappropriated by the officers of such corporation during the term of office of such directors."

Under this section say a man had owned for a few days 1,000 shares of stock three years ago, and it was to transpire now that at the time a debt of $1,000,000 was contracted by the Trustees. He would now owe his pro rata of that $1,000,000. And suppose, with that Constitution ratified, a Kearney Legislature were to obtain power in California, in what condition would the business of mining be placed in? Of course, capital would take no chance under such a state of affairs. The ratification of the Constitution simply means death to mining in Nevada until combinations can be made with the people of more hospitable States than California. We sincerely believe the intention of the framers of that instrument was, if possible, to make people so miserable that they would seek through a bloody revolution for peace. This is in part confirmed when we note those who are most earnestly favoring it. Men who defy the laws, like Kearney and his followers, all favor it; old rebels, like Volney E. Howard and Dave Terry, are warm in its support, and its chief organ is the most unscrupulous and incendiary sheet on the continent.—Virginia Enterprise.

ALL SORTS.

A Chicago tramp wants to starve with some man for $1,000 a side.

Eastern tramps now carry a pedometer, to convince people of their long journey.

Gen. Hancock is the richest General in the army. He is said to be worth $2,000,000.

They ask $6,000 for a lot in Leadville. In about six months the owners will be glad to get $6.

There is a heavy pressure on the political barometer of Ohio, and indications of severe oratorical gales.

The last man worked off at the end of a rope in Indiana died game. He took a car conveyed by angels, as usual.

"Sitting Bull quiet" is the alarming telegram. A bovine is the most docile immediately before he paws up the earth.

Some hope for Kentucky. A hundred immigrants skilled in the raising of hemp have landed on the barbarian soil.

TRAMPS AND BEATS AT SUTRO.—Quite a large number of tramps and deadbeats have made their headquarters at Sutro since operations were resumed in the tunnel. In order to stand off the boarding-house keepers these beats pretend to be very anxious to labor, but when they are offered employment they claim to be incapable of arduous labor and ask for light work. Last Wednesday evening, when some 250 men were required, about 400 applied for work, but over half of them refused to go into the tunnel, while many who were willing to go in wanted to drive a mule or work on track, and it was necessary to send to Virginia for a full complement. The boading and lodging-house keepers are beginning to weary of this sort of business, and if it continues they will doubtless organize to clean out the objectionable parties.—Lyon County Times.

DEATH OF A PIONEER OF THE WEST. Dr. Joseph Neely died March 31st last, at Owensville, Indiana, aged seventy-four years and five months. Dr. Neely was born in Kentucky, and was the youngest child of Major Joseph Neely, a soldier and a Major in the Revolutionary war. Deceased was the uncle of J. Neely Johnson, formerly Governor of California, and at one time a resident of Carson City. There are also many other relatives in this city and in this part of Nevada.—Virginia Enterprise.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:

SATURDAY, APRIL 26 1879

It is Iowa that takes the lead in educating young women to be useful and capable wives. It has a college in which every girl is trained in the duties and accomplishments of the skilled housewife. It is said of each girl of the junior class of this institution that she has learned to make good bread, weighing and measuring her ingredients, mixing, kneading and baking and regulating her fire. Each has also been taught to make yeast and bake biscuit, puddings, pies and cake of various kinds; how to cook a roast, broil a steak and make a fragrant cup of coffee; how to stuff and roast a turkey, make oyster soup, prepare stock for other soups, steam and mash potatoes so that they will melt in the mouth; and, in short, to prepare a first-class meal.

After something of a lull in the tide, colored immigration from the South has set in again, and some three or four hundred people have arrived in St. Louis within a few days, taxing the Refugee Relief Committee to the utmost to provide for them. In fact, they are overtaxed, and not only out of money, but several hundred dollars in debt. This committee reports that over 6,000 emigrants have arrived so far. Of these, about 2,000 are able to pay their way to Kansas. The remainder were sheltered, fed and partially clothed while here, and there passage paid to Wyandotte, Kansas. The committee urgently appeal for aid from benevolent and humane people.

In addition to the Afghans and Zulus, England is likely to be perplexed by the conduct of the Khedive, who has dismissed his English and French Ministers, and appointed a Cabinet composed exclusively of his own subjects. He has also prepared a financial scheme on his own account, and set aside that of the English financier. The revolutionary conduct will awaken anxiety in both England and France, for the future of Egypt and for the safety of European capital invested in that country.

The Esmeralda Herald, published at Aurora, Nev., has entered upon its fourth volume under favorable auspices. The marks of industry and ability are observed in its columns, and is a credit to the section where it is published. Mr. Dormer is a practical printer and thorough newspaper man, and, of course, guides the paper accordingly. The Independent extends congratulations, and hopes that the Herald and its editor "may live long and prosper."

Judging from the confident opinion of the French Minister of the Interior, the Senate will join in the call for a joint assembly of the two Houses to revise the Constitution, so that the Legislature may hereafter sit in Paris. This may be better than an open rupture with the Deputies, but if the Senate continues to submit to them simply for the sake of peace, it will give a dangerous impulse to radical schemes.

May 1st is the beginning of the fiscal year, when special taxes are due in the United States Revenue Department. These taxes will be collected in the month of April as far as practicable. Dealers in tobacco or liquors will do well to bear this in mind, and see that the money is forwarded on receipt of circular and blank application from the Collector.

The Emperor of Germany is taking great care of himself at present that he may be able to enjoy the festivities which are to celebrate the golden anniversary of his wedding. Only one other member of the House of Hohenzollern has attained to this anniversary—this one was Frederick the Great.

The Excelsior Water and Gravel Mining Company have just put into successful operation, in their Deer Creek mine, the Brush patent electric light, the first ever introduced in a hydraulic claim. The light will enable them to work nights as well as days.

A careful canvass in Minnesota by both political parties has been made, and the result is that Grant is the almost unanimous first choice of the Republicans, while the Democrats are as united for Tilden as their standard-bearer.

Allen G. Thurman, of Ohio, was chosen President pro tem of the United States Senate on the 15th instant, by a vote of 28 to 18.

B. S. Kellogg, Secretary of the Blackhawk, Bodie District, died in San Francisco on the 17th instant.

HOW WILL IT WORK?

Among the many contradictions to be found in the new Constitution may be named the twenty-ninth subdivision of Sec. 25, Article four, and Sec. 5, Article eleven.

Sec. 25 of article four says; "The Legislature shall not pass local or special laws in any of the following enumerated cases, that is to say:" Affecting the fees or salary of any officer as set forth in the twenty-ninth subdivision of said section. Sec. 5, of Article eleventh, is as follows.

Sec. 5.—The Legislature, by general laws, shall provide for the election or appointment, in the several counties, of Boards of Supervisors, Sheriffs, County Clerks, District Attorneys, and such other county, township and municipal officers as public convenience may require, and shall prescribe their duties and fix their terms of office. It shall regulate the compensation of all such officers, in proportion to duties, and for this purpose may classify the counties by population; and it shall provide for the strict accountability of county and township officers for all fees which may be collected by them, and for all public and municipal moneys which may be paid to them, or officially come into their possession.

The first is prohibitory. The Legislature can pass no laws affecting the fees or salary of officers, except such as are general in their nature, and operation; that is, fees and salaries must be the same in all the counties of the State for the same class of officers.

Sec. 5. Article eleven, after enumerating the various county, township and municipal officers, says:

"It [the Legislature] shall regulate the compensation of all such officers, in proportion to their duties, and for this purpose may classify the counties by population."

Now, is it any the less local and special legislation because several counties may be joined together for the purposes, set forth above, than it would be if it affected a single county, or even a single office in any one of the counties?

It is difficult to reconcile the two sections. If the Constitution be regarded in the one, it seems inevitable that it must be violated in the other.

The different provision of a fundamental law should be explicit and harmonious, leading up to one general result, and in regular order, instead of seeking to arrive at the same gaol by pursuing devious, uncertain and concontrary courses. The above is but one of the many absurdities, not to say contradictions, to be found in the new Constitution upon the merits of which we are soon to be called on to pass. Is it not better "to endure the ills we have, than fly to those we know not?"

The Commissioner of Pensions has made his first requisitions upon the Treasury for money appropriated to pay arrears of pensions, and has had $2,000,000 of the amount appropriated for the current fiscal year placed to his credit. He will commence shortly to fill out blank checks, and they will be sent to pensioners in the order in which their applications were filed. Only $3,500,000 can be paid out before the first of July, which will cover all accounts that the present clerical force will have time to examine.

The State Fish Commissioners are now distributing trout to the public waters of this State. They have on hand about 50,000 McCloud river trout in the hatchery at San Leandro. People can obtain them in limited quantities to put in public waters only, by sending a person for them to the hatching-house, or corresponding with one of the Commissioners, who will send them to any place on the line of any of the railroads.

M. Grevy, the new President of France, has an acknowledged talent as author of epigrams. He is a very good chess player; and being asked recently to write something, however trifling, in an album, wrote as follows: "Life is like a game of chess; each one holds his rank according to his quality, but when the game is over, kings, queens, knights and all the rest, are all thrown into one common box."

The steamer Kangaroo, with part of the cable to be laid between Natal and Aden, will leave shortly for Natal via the Suez canal. The Natal and Zanzibar section will be open for business in July. This will place Africa within a week's communication of London.

Oham, brother of the Zulu King Cetewayo, with his eldest son and 300 warriors, surrenderad unconditionally, and are now in Col. Woods camp. Oham is supposed to be an aspirant for Cetewayo's throne. He and is followers surrendered in Switzerland.

St. Louis yelled when the Pacific Coast wanted to restrict the immigration of Chinese, but they are now begging for a law that shall restrict the migration of the negroes—to fifteen on a steamer. It makes all the difference whose ox is gored.

By direction of the President of the Mexican Republic, the State Department has resolved upon holding an International Exhibition of the products of agriculture, industry and art, in the city of Mexico, in 1880.

We have, even at this late day, endeavored in some measure to provide other reading matter than that which relates to the almost overpowering question of the vote on the proposed Constitution, with the idea that many readers are tired of the voluminous subject, but mainly because we believe there is hardly a doubt of its almost unanimous rejection by the intelligent voters of this county. The other day a very well-to-do farmer stated it as a fact that if the new instrument is ratified his property, consisting of well-cultivated and improved farms, would be for sale at almost any price. Merchants and property holders generally talk in the same strain. And as for The Independent, we have only to say that in our candid belief, the effect upon the outside mining interests of California, such as those of these two counties, will be to ruin mining properties, and in direct consequence, general business will receive such a set-back that further publication of a paper here will not be justifiable.

Fred Douglas said, the other night, in a lecture, that the reasons for the exodus of the colored people from the South was a system of overcharging, through which laborers on plantations were kept always in debt to their employers. If this be so, we may soon expect a grand rush of planters also from the South, for the overcharge-and-debt system is the favorite one with the merchants and brokers of St. Louis, Cincinnati, Memphis, New Orleans and the other cities where the Southerner has to sell his cotton and buy his supplies. The South belongs to the Yankee and the Israelite to-day. They grind the planters and the planters grind the negroes.

The Proposed Lick Observatory. The trustees of the generous legacy of Mr. Lick, the California millionaire, for the establishment of a first-class astronomical observatory, have secured the services of W. S. Burnham, of Chicago, to assist them in determining a suitable location for the observatory. Burnham will come to California some time during the season to experiment on the atmosphere, wind, etc., of various localities, and will make his headquarters for a couple of months on Mount Hamilton, where a temporary establishment is to be fitted up for his accommodation.

Recently a ball was given in the New York mine, on the Comstock. The dancing took place at the 1040-foot station. About one hundred people were present. The station is thirty-four feet in length by fourteen feet in width. The floor was covered with canvas. Though the dancing was warm work, it was kept up until 12 or 1 o'clock at night. The ladies visited different portions of the mine, where the miners were employed.

Parole, the New York horse that defeated Ten Broeck, the Kentucky horse, in a four-mile race, and was taken to England as a four-year-old, has distinguished himself in his new field. His last great achievement was at Epsom Downs Tuesday, where he came in first in a field of eighteen, winning the city and suburban handicap cup and stakes. This is his second great winning in England.

When Troy Dye was told that the appeal to the Supreme Court had failed he quietly remarked, "No more than I expected." It has been ordered by Judge Denson that as soon as Dye is sufficiently composed he and Anderson be brought up for sentence.

Lead.—The Mining Journal of the 12th says "There have been sales of between 1,500 and 2,000 tons of pig lead since our last, mostly at $3 @ $3 05. The market closes at $3 05 @ $304, with no indications of a rising tendency."

The Bodie Standard and Esmeralda Herald have made kindly comments upon The Independent and its senior's present trip to tide water. Please consider us bowing in acknowledgment, brethren of the quill.

With our next and last issue before the contest is finally decided, will be given a full discussion upon the new Constitution, and to our home readers some valuable supplements bearing upon the issue.

The Missouri House of Representatives has passed a bill imposing heavy penalties on physicians who dodge the Prohibition law by prescribing whisky for alleged patients.

A Rough Trip.—Jim S. Peel, of Belleville and Columbus and late of Inyo county, has arrived from Fresno over the Sonora road. He and his party were obliged to abandon their wagon at Mill creek on the mountain and pack the animals. At Dead Man's crossing the animals were sent back to the valley and a portion of the party proceeded on foot for Bodie. Jimmy reports the weather very severe—the snow being ten feet deep in places and the road badly cut up on the mountain.—Bodie Standard.

In the suit at San Francisco of A. Hayward vs. Geo. E. Rogers, to recover $250,000, a verdict was rendered for plaintiff.

The finest agricultural exhibit from the United States at the Paris Exposition was that sent from Oregon.

Before the the eucalyptus was ever heard of in Asia Minor, the bark of the willow had been used as a febrifuge. It has been remarked that the easy and inexpensive reproduction of this tree, its quick growth in damp places, its excellent qualities for fuel and for agricultural implements, and its great advantage for strengthening the banks of capricious streams, made it quite useful. After the winter floods it was customary to stick willow cuttings along the banks of streams and other damp places; also to scatter the plane-tree seeds in marshy spots. The result has been that whereas 20 years ago the full grown trees in certain neighborhoods might have been counted, a luxurious growth of willows and plane-trees marks the places; fuel is abundant, fever is steadily decreasing, and the meandering propensities of the streams are checked.—London Times.

A Magnificent Cave.—Pima county, Arizona, is in possession of a wonderful subterranean vault, which bids fair to eclipse the celebrated Mammoth Cave of Kentucky or the grand cavern near Fort Stanton, New Mexeco, in which are found lakes, rivulets and large rooms containing many curious things. Explorers of the New Mexico cave have found, one mile from the entrance, a lake to which they found no bottom, and to pass over which a small boat was constructed and put thereon. The rooms, many of them, are described as beautiful beyond description. From the ceilings thousands of stalactites are suspended, the rays from the burning torches giving to them the appearance of mansions lined with diamonds and precious stones.—Arizona Miner.

The San Francisco Chronicle advises the miners of Bodie to vote for the new Constitution, in which event, it sagaciously observes, there will be no further danger of Chinamen working in the mines. We can assure the Chronicle that there is no danger at all of Chinamen working in these mines. The miners of Bodie will see to that part of the business. Bodie, in fact, would be an unhealthly climate for Chinese miners. The altitude is too great. All that troubles the underground workers of Bodie is the knowledge that if the Chronicle's Constitution is adopted there will be but little use for miners of any kind—Chinese or otherwise.—Bodie Standard.

An Old Timer on the Stump.—We note by some of our exchanges that Frank Almon is stumping in favor of the Constitution down in Mono county. The last we heard of Frank before this, he and R. D. Ferguson were running a Dolly Varden party in White Pine. That was about five years ago. When the returns were canvassed, the Dolly Varden candidates were found to have but one vote each. Ferg. swears to this day that it was Frank who could not control his own vote.—Eureka Sentinel.

Personal.—We are informed, through Charles E. Baxter that our old friend J. N. Ely, of Raymond & Ely fame, has left Lone Pine for San Francisco. John has secured some of the finest property in Inyo County, which will be disposed of to New York parties now in San Francisco. He will also make a sale of the Baxter mine, of this District, in which he is interested, to the same company, and will then turn his attention to Bodie and Lake District.—Bodie Chronicle.

As the press of the State has studiously avoided reference to the new Constitution, we make mention of it in this issue.—Colton Semi-Tropic.

A printer named S. A. Lowry committed suicide at Deadwood, in the Black Hills, by taking an overdose of laudanum.

GREAT FIRE AT EUREKA, NEVADA.

From the Eureka Sentinel of the 19th instant we gather the following items relating to the recent disastrous conflagration which visited that place. The paper appears at its usal size, having been fortunate in saving the greater portion of its material:

About midnight, while the Sentinel's force were busily engaged in their various avocations, the terrible sounds of the fire bell rang out above the howling of the wind, and with one accord every man rushed from the office. For a moment it was the general impression that it was a false alarm, but a moment later, a bright, lurid flame shot up, and in less time than it requires to record the fact, the building attacked first was a mass of seething flames, which the wind soon drove to the east and north and communicated to the surrounding buildings.

When the fire first broke out the material of the Sentinel was hastily moved into the stone building in the rear of the office, which withstood the heat of the flames.

As far as learned, no serious results occurred to human life, save the burning of Mr. Moch. His injuries are considered fatal.

The origin of the fire is supposed to have been caused by the explosion of a kerosene lamp.

The Sentinel has passed through two fires and three floods, and still lives! We do not deplore our own loss, but only those who have lost home and all by the terrible fire.

It is estimated that the total loss will reach a half a million dollars.

Last Sunday evening the congregation, worshiping in the church at Glenville, were startled by the cry of fire, and on opening the door, flames were seen leaping above the roof of the fine Granger Hall. Nothing could be done to stay the progress of the flames, and the building was soon in ashes. As it was detached from any other, and unoccupied, it is pretty certain that the fire was set by an incendiary. It was a handsome two story building that cost about $2,500, and was built by subscription. The loss is a serious one to the Grangers, as well as to the citizens of Glenville, as it was the only public hall in the place.

The social event of the week was the marriage of Judge R. E. Arick to Mrs. Eva C. Atherton. The marriage took place Tuesday morning, at 3 o'clock, at the residence of Judge Colby, and the happy couple took the morning train for Los Angeles, whither Judge Arick went to attend the session of the Supreme Court. The bride and groom have hosts of friends here who join heartily in good wishes to them. We acknowledge the receipt of favors which were duly appreciated.—Bakersfield Gazette, April 19.

Artificial Silver.—A correspondent tells a sensational story of an alleged discovery of the artificial manufacture of silver, by Dr. T. Farriss, Jr., of the Iowa Wesleyan University, which carries one back to the days of the old alchemists. Dr. Farriss, it seems, when taking his class through a course of instruction in the primary chemical compounds, was in the habit of setting aside the refuse waters, and one day was startled by the usual silvery reaction which had taken place in these solutions. This led him to investigate. Result—the artificial manufacture of silver, a business on which the Doctor is said to have entered now on a large scale. Of course, details of the new process are kept rigidly secret from the scientific world, though credulous capitalists may be attracted by the glittering prospect just as they have been in the past by Keeley motors, Paraff's gold process and other impossibilities.—Hawkeye.

For the First Time.—All the mills in the camp are now running to their full capacity. This is the first time that they have all been in motion at once. The Standard mill, 20 stamps, is running on Standard ore; the Bodie (formerly Bechtel), 10 stamps, is doing satisfactory work on Bulwer rock, and the Syndicate, 20 stamps, and Miners' mill, 5 stamps, are both engaged in crushing for the Noonday mine. This makes a total of 55 stamps. Senator Stewart contemplates erecting a new 20-stamp mill for the Noonday in a short time, either at the mine or in Cottonwood canyon, a little over two miles distant.—Bodie Standard.

Six months ago the surface indications showed divisions among Democrats on the Presidential question of an apparently irreconcilable nature, at the same time that they pointed to the tolerably harmonizing nomination of Gen. Grant by the Republicans. To-day the situation is somewhat changed. The nomination of Gen. Grant is by no means a certainty, whilst a final union of Democrats upon Tilden and Hendricks is regarded as a probable contingency, even by those who are opposed to it.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

"Vell," said a new-comer in a Western town, "vot shance I vould have in starting up mit saddle-dree peesnis?" "That business is overdone, and competition has almost ruined the trade," was the answer. "Vell, cood I make somedings mit a new pakery?" "Think not," said the native, "the town's full of bakeries now." The man looked puzzled and half mad, and suddenly came to the conclusion: "Vell, den, py shiminy, I vill run for office!"

Kerosene or coal oil mixed with water, in the proportion of a tablespoonful, or a little more, to a gallon of water, and applied to the foliage of plants infested with insects, has proved to be a valuable insecticide. For washing the bark or bodies of trees the proportion of oil to water could be considerably increased—probably doubled. Probably the liquid can be best applied with a syringe.—Vick's Illustrated Monthly.

The Vanderbilts are at peace, all cause for dispute having been removed. It is stated that Cornelius J. Vanderbilt receives $1,000,000 from William H. Vanderbilt.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:
SATURDAY, APRIL 26.....1879

FROM LAKE.—D. P. Macarter, our Lone Pine merchant and INDEPENDENT agent, returned from a short visit to Lake and surrounding districts during the week. Mac is considerably enthused over the general prospects and actual developments of that region. While he was there the Mammoth mine and mill were closed down, closely locked and under strict watch. A blinding snow storm prevailed for two or three days, rendering out of door work, and a general examination of the mines and country out of the question. But he submits many facts concerning the strike and its extent, much of which has already been published. The story of the big gold find, which took a course so different from modern mining operations in like cases, sums up about as follows: The work was progressing in a lateral tunnel known as No. 3, or the middle one, running into the mountain and nearly parallel with the ledge, for a distance of 200 feet. A crosscut had been started, but the mine managers had no expectation whatever of finding at any time more than the usual low-grade ledge matter as opened above. The foreman was absent at Prescott District, and Supt. Cross knew nothing of the strike until shown a piece of the ore down in the town. The miner breaking down the rock even had not noticed the specimens glittering with gold. The attention of the carman, however, was attracted to the brilliant shining particles upon his load, and after an examination became so excited that he dumped car and all off the track. He called over and posted an outsider; in a few hours there was a horseback race to the telegraph office at Aurora, by parties anxious to get in on the stock. Supt. Cross was beaten in the contest, but has managed to come out many thousands ahead so far. He promptly gave the men tickets of leave, those who preferred to report the strike to outsiders rather than the company managers.

GRAND JURY.—The following are the names of Grand Jurors summoned for the ensuing term of Court: John Willett, Fred Albers, J. L. Wood, H. Levy, A. W. Eibeshutz, O. M. Paris, Joseph Le Cyr, John Baxter, N. H. Tibbetts, A. B. Davis, Wm. Pierce, W. B. Hutchings, Seth Currier, M. H. White, D. E. Hunter, C. S. Swan, Thos. Williams, F. W. Hilton, David Olds, John Dugan, Moses Smith, B. S. Glover, W. R. Edson, Andrew Dell, S. M. Custer, J. G. Dodge, J. H. Dodge, C. A. Walters. The venire is returnable upon the first day of Court, May 5th, which is a hardship upon those drawn in this: that if the business before them is thoroughly gone through with, 22 out of the 28 will lose their votes upon the Wednesday following. If practicable or possible, they should immediately get through with the necessary work and return to their voting precincts. And one good reason for suggesting this is that but four or five out of the 28 will vote favorable to the new Constitution.

CENTRAL COMMITTEES. — The approach of general election times again renders it necessary to overhaul the files and call the roll of the members of the respective County Central Committees. Republican—Nathan Rhine, Chairman; T. A. Gardner, Secretary; A. B. Elder, Lone Pine; J. C. Mills, Bishop Creek; W. R. Johnson, Cerro Gordo; Thomas Boland, Darwin; P. A. Chaltant, Independence. Democratic—Joseph Schalten, Chairman; Henry M. Isaacs, Secretary; David Olds, Round Valley; J. B. Swearingen, Bishop Creek; D. B. Curtis, Big Pine and Fish Springs; P. Reddy, John A. Lank, A. N. Bell and S. P. Moffat, Independence; John Shepherd, Georges Creek; J. G. Dodge, Lone Pine; John R. Hughes, Cerro Gordo; H. W. Wood, Darwin; J. J. Gunn, Lookout; J. G. Messic, Panamint.

THE PRESENT CROSSING.—The bridge belonging to John Knapple, across the river below Lone Pine, is to be widened and strengthened for use during the present season, or until arrangements can be perfected for the erection of a new one by the county. We presume he will be granted a franchise to collect tolls, or that the expense incurred will be borne by the county. The arrangement is only temporary, but probably the best that can be done under the circumstances.

BOARD OF SUPERVISORS.—The Board of Supervisors, all the members being present, met on Saturday last and arranged for the coming election as set forth in the proclamation published elsewhere. The Board then visited the scene of the late bridge burning near Lone Pine, and examined the country as to the location of a new structure. Without taking any official action upon the matter the meeting was adjourned.

REGULAR SESSION.—The Board of Supervisors will meet in regular session on the 5th proximo, or week from Monday next. An adjournment to Thursday, the day following the election, will then be had, after which the Board will probably continue in session until all the business is disposed of, including canvassing returns, etc.

PICTURES.—Jas. Hildreth, whose regular location is at Bishop Creek, has fitted up a photograph establishment between the Postoffice and May's building. His work, so far as we have examined it, compares favorably with the best of those who have visited Independence.

BONES.—John Langer, our "Bones," formerly of the Blaney House, has got himself fixed in Tom May's saloon, the Aldine—and proposes to run it after his own general and most agreeable style. See his advertisement.

MODOCK OFFICIAL LETTER.—The official letter of the week is as follows:

APRIL 22, 1879.

J. W. Pew, Esq., Secretary Modock Con. M. Co.:—DEAR SIR: Work at all points is going ahead well and continues favorable. Tunnel 1000-foot level was run 39 feet last week, making a total length to date 1,481 feet. Shaft from 300-foot level was sunk 11 feet and is now down 368 feet. Distance made in upraise for the week, 14 feet, giving present height of raise 96 feet. The ground beyond the cave is soft limestone, which breaks well, and the tunnel is making good progress. We are crowding work ahead as fast as possible in shaft and upraise to make connection for air. The length of tunnel makes it necessary, while stoping upraise, to utilize all the air that can be forced in at the breast. The addition of small boiler gives much better air than we hove heretofore had, but not in such quantity that we can dispense with any considerable portion of it for other purposes. General appearance of ground at points where work is being carried on is very favorable.

Yours, respectfully,
C. J. BARBER, Supt.

SNOW'S CAÑON.—Monday last the Snow's Cañon mill, under lease to Birchett & Parker, and under foremanship of J. H. Grove, started up for a continuous run. The first lot of ore to be worked is some nine tons from the Virginia mine, belonging to Groves & Mitchell. A lot of 44 tons now out at the dump of the Imperial, belonging to Ross & Smith, will be reduced, together with the amounts to be extracted by a force of six miners as the run progresses. The St. Elmo mine, the property of Freeman & Logue, has out some 10 tons, while many other prospecting parties have lots on hand from one to ten tons each. The ore is of high grade common to the Snow's Cañon mines, containing gold and silver. Prospecting has taken a material advance in the district, and in all probabilities the mill will not have occasion to shut down for some two or three months to come.

PICNIC.—A regular May-day picnic affair is being arranged to come off on the 1st at a point on Oak Creek, about two miles westward of Camp Independence. The whole country, everybody and all their relations are cordially invited and requested to gather up baskets of eatables and repair to the grounds, as early in the morning as may be. The spot selected for the annual excursion this year is a delightful one, and has furnished a retreat upon like occasions heretofore. It will be placed in the best of order, and possesses additional attractions this year, inasmuch as fishing may be made a part of the programme of parties so inclined. A social dance in the evening will appropriately wind up the affair.

COMPLETED.—The Great Register for the present and ensuing elections of the year has just been completed and delivered to the County Clerk. The work comprises 600 copies of the usual size and form, and sets forth the name, age, occupation and several other minor matters of fact pertaining to each great American sovereign of Inyo—there being 1,443 of them in all. Since the work has been in press about 30 additional names have been placed on the Great Register not appearing in the printed copy, while about 150 have taken transfers to Mono and elsewhere.

THE EXTENSIONS.—The north and south extensions of the Brown Monster mine across the river are called the Zluvia and the Hirsh, and belong respectively to Isaac Harris and Nathan Rhine of this place. Sufficient work has lately been done upon both to show strong ledges, ranging from seven to ten feet in width, the ore carrying fine gold and an abundance of pure, native copper. Some 30 tons of ore lies on the dump at the Hirsh, and the amount in sight in the mine is said to be astonishing. The question arises, what is to be done with the copper?

SCHOOL CLOSED.—The private school of Mr. Daniel Crough closed yesterday, the report of scholarship, standing, etc., being given elsewhere. Mr. Crough has given the highest satisfaction to all interested. He will take charge of the school in our neighboring district of Milton, at the Fort, in July.

NEW WORKS.—It is now very safe to predict the erection during the season of two quartz mills at the Lake and Cerro Gordo, by the John Ely interest and by a new company which has the Ygnacio bonded—the only contingency being that everlasting "adoption" or "rejection" question.

COUNTY COURT.—The County Court meets on Monday next, when the appealed cases of May vs. Mairs and Smith et al. vs. Hutchison will come up for trial. The matter of John Broder vs. His Creditors will also be heard.

FOR THE BAY.—Charley Stoutenborough, with his estimable family, passed through from Bishop Creek, being en route to San Francisco, where he proposes remaining for a time at least. We wish him good luck generally.

HEAVY.—A new incorporation which has taken hold of the mines, mill, water works and general property of the Surprise Valley Company at Panamint, has a capital stock of 200,000 shares; par value, $20,000,000.

ASSAYING. — Our old friend Curt. Ober is at Lake, running an assay office. We bespeak for him favorable consideration at the hands of Inyo and Nevada men, as an up and up man in his work.

MAMMOTH.—The Mammoth Mill at Lake is to start up on a run of 45 tons per day on ore assaying $5,000 per ton, and continue doing so during the summer.

A BIG FIND.—From Sheriff W. L. Moore we obtain some "dead points" relative to a recent extensive mineral discovery near Bishop Creek. A prospector, whom we shall designate as Schneider, for short, had discovered an immense ledge in the Sierras. Keeping the matter desperately quiet, he came into town and secured the kind services of an M. D., who tested the samples for gold by mortar and spoon process; the result was prodigious. A secret trip to the scene for location purposes was next in order. Somehow a hotel keeper and a bar-creature got in. Then by strong persuasion and other inducements, a heavy farmer joined the expectant crowd. The claims of a photographer, as a man who had good "staying qualities" in the possible event of mining troubles, etc., were favorably considered, and he was at last admitted into the select and favored circle. How to get out of town without attracting attention became a serious question, which was finally solved something after the following manner: Shortly after midnight a light wagon, with wheels bound with sacks and horses' feet muffled, stole silently forth. Then the solid rancher, the learned doctor, the accommodating host, the accomplished bar-keep and the brave photographer, with boots made noiseless by encasing of rags, made their several ways out through the still, quiet back streets. They overtook the wagon and all was jubilant. The "mine" was reached. It was one of the vast mountain belts of quartzite with which the Sierras west of Bishop Creek abounds. But it contained not a color, and but the slightest indications of gold. The quantity was there. Tom Hutch swears that if it will yield 3¼ cents per ton there is untold "millions in it," the only trouble being about getting it out.

THE INDIANA.—Such is the name of the principal mine, so far as opened, of the newly discovered series above and about three miles from Swansea, belonging to Messrs. Boley & Tuttle. They are now extracting ore of astonishing richness, from a perfect vein ranging from 15 to 18 inches thick. Ten tons of ore are now on lying on the dump, assaying from $800 to $2,000 per ton, which will be shipped to market as soon as sacks can be obtained. The ore is covered with patches of a light pink-colored horn silver. Jas. Hanger has located another claim in that vicinity, showing the same class of rich ore, which is now being prospected. Considerable attention is being attracted to that region.

OLD TIMERS.—A long letter from ex-Sheriff Cy Mulkey, giving a descriptive reference to the portion of Montana in which he is now located, Beaver Head county, is at hand. He speaks in the highest terms of the whole region and it would appear, he is rapidly growing wealthy. Ex-Sheriff A. B. Elder also writes from Salt Lake, from which point he was en route to Leadville. He reports Matt. Gisborn there, much broken in health and completely so in purse.

HERE.—Frank Fitzgerald an old employé of the Modock Company at Lookout, spent a few days in town during the week among old friends.

TO MEET.—A meeting of the Democratic County Central Committee is is called for Saturday, the 10th day of May.

POSTMASTER.—John H. Stoutenborough has received the appointment of Postmaster at Bishop Creek.

TO MEET.—The Republican County Central Committee is called to meet at this place on the 10th proximo.

A QUAKER woman moralizes thusly: "There are three things I very much wonder at. The first is, that children should be so foolish as to throw up stones, clubs and brickbats into fruit trees, to knock down fruit; if they would let it alone, it would fall itself. The second is, that men should be so foolish, and even so wicked, as to go to war, and kill each other; if let alone, they would die themselves. And the third and last thing which I wonder at is, that young men should be so unwise as to go after the young women; if they would stay at home, the young women would come after them."

GRANT is feeble, Tilden is feeble, and Thurman is feeble—so some of the newspaper correspondents say.

WEARY MOMENTS.

FOR THE INYO, BY BERYL STAR.

I am tired of being a mother;
I am tired of being a wife;
I am tired of everything living—
Am heart-sick and tired of life!

For what is the use of living,
And flinging one's soul's wealth away?
What wonder we women grow weary,
When our tasks grow more thankless each day?

For there's no one on earth so lonely—
None that care so little for life—
As the weary, worn out mother,
As the sickly, unloved wife.

And as I (a woman of fifty)
Look back o'er the desolate plain,
I know, with a few exceptions,
That my life has been lived in vain!

For there's nothing on earth to live for
When love is taken away;
And the sooner we're dead and buried,
The sooner we're out of the way.

And though my form is feeble and old
With the sorrows of fifty years,
My heart has been ever kept tender and young
By continual washing of tears.

For 'tis heard that a man will never
Give us the love we long for and crave
Until our hearts are forever hushed,
And our bodies lie cold in the grave.

Then, when we no longer care for
Nor ask them their love to give,
They will kneel by the cold dead clay,
And implore us again to live.

They will tell all the world how they loved us!
Their angel! their idolized dead!
They will put on a face sanctimonious,
And raise marble slabs at our head.

And this is their pitiful story,
And 'twill do to tell to the blind;
But I call it nothing but mock'ry—
Mock'ry and murder combined.

BISHOP CREEK, April 20.

RESOLUTION.

If you've any task to do,
Let me whisper, friend, to you,
Do it.

If you've anything to say,
True and needed—yea or nay—
Say it.

If you've anything to love,
As a blessing from above,
Love it.

If you've anything to give,
That another's joy may live,
Give it.

If some hollow creed you doubt,
Though the whole world hoot and shout,
Doubt it.

If you know what torch to light,
Guiding others through the night,
Light it.

If you've any debt to pay,
Rest you neither night nor day—
Pay it.

If you've any joy to hold,
Next your heart, lest it grow cold,
Hold it.

If you've any grief to meet,
At the loving Father's feet,
Meet it.

If you're given light to see
What a child of God should be,
See it.

Whether life be bright or dear,
There's a message sweet and clear
Whispered down to every ear—
Hear it.

PROCLAMATION.

EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT.

WHEREAS, THE CONVENTION, WHICH assembled, at the City of Sacramento, on the 28th day of September, A. D. 1878, to revise and change the entire Constitution of this state, agreed upon and submitted to the people for their ratification or rejection a

New Constitution for the State of California;

AND WHEREAS, the law has fixed the First Wednesday of May, A. D. 1879, as the day upon which the people shall adopt or reject such new Constitution:

NOW THEREFORE, I, William Irwin, Governor of the State of California, do declare that on

Wednesday, May 7th, 1879,

There will be held an election, at which the people of the State shall vote to adopt or reject such Constitution.

All persons, entitled by law to vote for members of the Assembly, shall be entitled to vote at such election in their respective election districts and not elsewhere.

Such election shall be by ballot, and such voter shall express his opinion by depositing in the ballot box a ticket whereon shall be written or printed the words, "FOR THE CONSTITUTION" or "AGAINST THE CONSTITUTION."

And I do hereby offer a reward of one hundred dollars for the arrest and conviction of any and every person violating any of the provisions of Title IV, Part I, of the Penal Code; such rewards to be paid until the total amount hereafter expended for the purpose reaches the sum of ten thousand dollars.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand, and caused the Great Seal of the State to be affixed, at the City of Sacramento, [SEAL] this Second day of April, A. D. one thousand, eight hundred and seventy-nine.

WILLIAM IRWIN,
Governor.

SUPPLEMENT.

Speeches of Hon. Thomas H. Laine and Hon. Creed Haymond on the New Constitution.

Also, Extracts from Leading Eastern and California Newspapers.

SPEECHES OF EX-SENATORS LAINE AND HAYMOND.

No man in California stands higher as a statesman and jurist than the Hon. Thomas H. Laine of Santa Clara. He was the leading anti-monopoly Senator in the Legislature of '73-4, and again in '75-6. He received the votes of the Independents for United States Senator to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Mr. Casserly. He was one of the foremost members of the late Constitutional Convention, and, on account of his high character and ability, was selected to place in nomination the President of the Convention, Col. Joseph P. Hoge.

The following off-hand speech was delivered in Stockton, to an immense audience, on the evening of April 22d:

ADDRESS OF HON. THOMAS H. LAINE.

Fellow citizens:—It is a high privilege to freely and fearlessly discuss all questions concerning the general welfare in the public assemblies of the people. By availing myself of that privilege I do not assume to know more of public affairs, or to be a better judge of what measures are wiser and prudent, than my fellows: but as a citizen and a lover of our young State, bound to her by every tie that can enchain the heart of the civilized man. I have felt that I could not remain silent during this contest.

A CONTEST OF NO ORDINARY MAGNITUDE.

For the question to be settled is not now, as it has been heretofore in this State, merely which of the two or more political parties in this State is to fill the various offices of the State for a season, and run the Government according to the principles and landmarks of the fathers. It is a question of much more serious concern—a question as to whether or not we shall move from the political habitation in which we, as a people, have lived in health and prosperity, for nearly thirty years, into a new one, built and fashioned after no known or improved models of political architecture, to a mere wigwam, rudely fashioned according to the crude and wild fancies of political madmen, having, it may be, here and there, splendid pieces of material broke from more noble structures and rudely piled into the unsightly political dwelling. The question is presented, whether or no we shall renounce the political religion of our patriot sires or set up new altars and strange gods; whether we shall abandon the teachings of the wise and brave who planted our institutions in the New World, and who watered them with their blood at Concord, Lexington, Bunker Hill and Yorktown, and adopt the vagaries of the bellowing, ignorant, vulgar braggarts of the sand lots. As for me, my mind is made up.

I PREFER THE OLD POLITICAL DWELLING

Furnished with the pictures of Washington, Adams, Jefferson and Franklin, to this new wigwam furnished with pictures of Kearney, Wellock and men of that ilk. Why, sir, according to the wild harangues of speakers who are advocating the adoption of this new Constitution, you would be led to believe that the old one was an instrument of oppression, full of wickedness and danger; a moral and social curse that we should flee from, as the Israelites of old fled from the Land of Bondage, braving the dangers of a political Red Sea, and the sand and wastes of a political wilderness; and that, too, without a political Moses, with no pillar of cloud for shelter and no pillar of fire to guide our footsteps.

A RETROSPECT.

Let us pause a moment and see what we have done under the old instrument in thirty years. We came to this land about thirty years ago, and we found it the home of the bear, the wolf and the naked savage, without habitations, roads, schools, arts, manufactures, commerce, alms houses, churches, asylums, the appointments of civilized life, or the inspiring or soul-nerving influences of woman—cut off from the world as it were. We pioneers—I say we, for I was one of them—without waiting for timid and idle men, or even the slow motion of Federal Congress, set to work at once and erected a Government; and under this shelter for thirty years we have performed wonders.

Mr. Laine here recounted with great effect the several instances of improvement and progress made in the State, referring to our vast plains; delving into the bosom of the earth for the gold and silver that have stimulated the commerce of the world; clamboring the rugged mountain heights and spanning the plains with wagon-roads and railroads; building a magnificent State Capitol; establishing colleges and schools, and such other matters, under which California has become one of the wonders of the world. Who, I pray you, are

THE MEN THAT ARE SO CLAMOROUS FOR CHANGE,

And for pulling down the grand old fabric and erecting some strange habitation on its ruins? Are they the men who reared the old or who have thus built up the country? No! No! And I say to those men now, firmly but not in anger, lay not the weight of your finger upon the old fabric to mar its strength and beauty. It has sheltered me in youth. To its benign and fostering strength I owe all of the intellectual power or culture I have. It has sheltered my children in infancy, and I will defend it, as the Father of us all gives me strength, against every foe. But these clamorers are the men of yesterday, the men of the sand lot. Shall we, the men of olden time, who braved the terrors and privations of the wilderness, the storms of Cape Horn, and the pestilential vapors of the Isthmus, now stand idly by and see these new-comers, aided by office-seeking demagogues, pull down our political house and destroy the grand heritage of our children? No! No! Take courage! The men who had the nerve, wisdom and industry to erect so grand a monument of human wisdom and power will have the courage to protect it from every assault, be it of wickedness or folly. This new Constitution, if not conceived in sin and brought forth in iniquity, is conceived

IN THE MOST DANGEROUS SPIRIT,

That of jealousy and vindictiveness, and in contempt and disregard of the great truths that underlie civilized society. The people of a State or nation form but one great family whose interests are so bound together and intermingled that if one class or interest among them be injured the whole body politic must suffer. He who spoke as never man spake gave utterance to a great political truth when He said: "Every kingdom divided against itself is brought to desolation, and every house divided against itself shall not stand." Or, as said by the great Apostle to the Gentiles, a laboring man, the tent-maker, speaking to Christians of Rome. "we, being many, are members of one body in Christ, and every one member one of another;" or, as said by him in another place, "When one member suffers, all members suffer with it; or one member rejoice, all members rejoice with it." These holy, grand and sublime truths are as applicable to us as a people as they are to the followers of the Nazarene; for socially, morally, economically, we are one. Permit me, therefore, to say in all kindness that these men—I care not what their pretensions may be—

WHO ARE TRYING TO SET INTEREST AGAINST INTEREST,

Class against class, and urge the adoption of this instrument, because in the chaste language of some, "It will clinch some class of interests," are not friends of people, but are not mistaken and blind, or mere demogogues seeking to pander to your passions and prejudices to elevate themselves into notoriety or positions of power and place. It is claimed by those who advocated the adoption of this instrument that it has many good features that are new. This is true. There are many to which I give hearty approval; many that I would gladly vote for were they separated from the bad ones. But it cannot be done, and the whole taken together will work our ruin. [Applause.] The fig is a health giving and inviting fruit, but if it contains one grain of poison mingled with its delicious juices, it tempts but to destroy. The poison is none the less virulent and deadly because thus encased. If considerations of personal vanity moved me, I would be for the adoption of the new Constitution. I was a member of the Convention, and I was by it treated with marked kindness, and there is perhaps in it more of my suggestions than any other man's in this State, as a comparison of the document with one I suggested and published, at my own expense, before the Convention met, will show. But such things move me not. I must sink or swim with my people. It would be of little gratification to me,

WITH ANARCHY IN MY COUNTRY,

Poverty in my household and rags upon my children, to be able to point out to my fellow-men and the loved ones dependent upon me certain good portions of the work of my hands in an instrument that had wrought such ruin. [Cheers.]

But [taking up the instrument] let us see how the standard of human rights is embodied in the Bill of Rights. We are met at the very threshhold with an insult, and are disappointed. The first work of any consequence is Section 8 of the Bill of Rights, in which the grandest institution of our English speaking human family is dishonored and impaired.

ABOLITION OF THE GRAND JURY.

Laine having read the section relating to the practical abolition of the grand jury, proceeded: The eulogy of the grand jury system is found in its great antiquity, and its adoption by the wise and prudent. It has existed for more than a thousand years, and comes down to us from Anglo-Saxon times. It has survived conquest, revolutions, the crumbling of thrones and the overthrow of dynasties. It has been the shield of the weak against unjust accusations for ages, and still stands as a rock of shelter. The speaker then detailed certain well known historical cases when Grand Juries had stood between defendants and the oppression of Government. Blackstone called it the "soul of English liberty." Nay, we can trace it beyond the time of the Saxons. Pericles, the great Athenian, instituted it in Greece some 400 years before Christ. But this grand old institution must fall before the learning and experience of the sand lots. It is urged that the Grand Juries have come short of their duties. True. It is but a human institution, but it partakes of the nature of the people from whom it comes—it is their exact image and likeness. It is charged, also that it is a secret tribunal. This is an advantage in many ways. It secures independence and fairness without danger, as it is a mere accusing body, and has no power of conviction. But if the District Attorney is to take its place, then wealth and power will more often win. I have great regard for it, for our forefathers more than two hundred years ago brought it across the Atlantic, and planted it as one of the institutions of the New World. From those feeble colonists of the Atlantic seaboard it has spread over almost the whole continent. [Loud cheering.] It is said it is costly. But will the new system be less so? Who can tell? But economy has not been the pole-star of the Convention. It has given us a more costly government than the old Constitution, and yet it has applied the pruning-knife to the institutions we most cherish.

BILL OF RIGHTS DISSECTED.

After reviewing the Grand Jury clause, Mr. Laine proceeded to discuss section 14 of the Bill of Rights. Therein it is declared that private property shall not be taken or damaged except by payment of compensation. That reads pretty, said Mr. Laine, don't it? But what does it mean? Does it mean that the property shall be five or fifty feet, or forty miles away? [Laughter.] No one can tell. Not all the lawyers in the State can tell. Well, this clause goes on to say that no right of way shall be appropriated for public use without just compensation, to the use of any corporation except municipal. Now, the word "municipal" includes city or township governments; so remember, you farmers, that roads may be cut through your lands without payment; and you men of cities may have streets made through your property without compensation. Then there is the seventeenth section of the Bill of Rights, wherein an endeavor was made to hit the Chinaman, but it missed him and struck the European. A Frenchman may acquire property here and hold it while he is a bona fide resident, but the moment that he goes away he loses his property. The Convention hit at the Chinaman, but struck the white man. [Laughter] Section 21 says that no special privilege shall ever be granted which may not be revoked, and then declares that

SPECIAL PRIVILEGES SHALL APPLY TO ALL CITIZENS.

Was there ever such nonsense? The clause specially allows the granting of special privileges—something that was not inserted in the old Constitution. The new Constitution, it is pretended, is greatly against railroads. I can't see it. All old citizens would remember how the Supreme Court fastened the debt of the railroad upon the State. Then came an amendment to the Constitution, ratified by the people in 1871, denying the right of the Legislature to make appropriations for a longer period than two years. This prevented anything like the old railroad debt in the future. But this provision is carefully kept out of the Constitution, although it was contained in my draft which I submitted to the Convention. Is this an anti-railroad Constitution? [Laughter and cheers.]

I now come to the right of voting. It is provided in the article on this subject that no native of China shall ever exercise the privileges of an elector. Now

WHAT ARE THE PRIVILEGES OF AN ELECTOR?

These are defined in a subsequent section as freedom from arrest upon going to the polls, etc., so that this Constitution simply provided that no Chinaman should ever exercise the privileges which are enumerated, leaving the main question of voting open to the Chinaman. Was there ever such stuff and nonsense!

I now come to the Legislative article, said to be the best in the whole concern, and I must confess it is. But it contains such an amount of absurd nonsense as to render it valueless. It says, in the sixth section, that only foreigners capable of naturalization shall be counted in making an apportionment for Senators and Assemblymen. It is true the courts may guess at the meaning, but what a document it is that requires us to throw away all our dictionaries and grammars in order to make it intelligible.

The twenty-fourth section of the Legislative article says that every act shall embrace but one subject, which shall be expressed in its title. I heard Beerstecher last night tell you this is not in the old Constitution; but here it is, said Laine, as he read from a well-thumbed copy of that instrument, word for word as in the new Constitution. "But if any subject shall be embraced in the Act which shall not be expressed in its title, such Act shall be void only as to so much thereof as shall not be expressed." Now what will this do? If some business men are sent to the Legislature, some scoundrel will prevail upon them to vote for a bill containing good sections, the purport of which may not be included in the title. Then, according to this Constitution,

THE GOOD SECTIONS WILL GO TO THE WALL,

While the bad will remain. This is simply a trick to benefit some lobbying rascal. Under the old Constitution all the Act would be wholly unconstitutional in such case. Section 25 prohibits special legislation. This was well enough in some cases, but it goes too far. Thus, in subdivision seven the Legislature is prohibited from passing any Act allowing the laying out of roads. Now, it is common sense that you cannot make a road law applicable alike to the mountain heights and canons of El Dorado and the plains of San Joaquin. I heard Beerstecher tell you last night that if you wanted to lay out a road you had to go to the Legislature for it. You all know better. [Cheers] Your Board of Supervisors and City Trustees can do it, although what he was saying might be true of San Francisco. Another subdivision prevents the Legislature from passing

A LOCAL LAW RELATING TO SCHOOLS.

Why; common sense tells you that you cannot have a practicable law which will work well alike in the sparsely-settled county of Inyo and the populous county of San Joaquin. Then came subdivision 33, which says that no special law shall be passed where a general one can be made applicable. In that one line, "there's millions in it," to lawyers. Who can tell whether a general law can be made applicable until the question has been litigated in the Courts?

The speaker next read the section relating to stock gambling, and said that if a man had the lust of gambling no Constitution legislation would regenerate him.

He next reviewed the Judiciary Article, declaring it the greatest monstrosity ever conceived in the English tongue. The people asked for a cheaper judicial system—the Convention gave them a more expensive one, by increasing the number of Supreme Judges from five to seven; and yet they call it a "poor man's Constitution." [Laughter.] There is no occasion for this increase. All the questions of Spanish titles connected with the civil law had been settled. But, said Beerstecher, we have given you two Courts. Yes, they have; but with

A CHIEF JUSTICE WITH MORE POWER THAN A KING.

But, says some one, surely you don't believe a Judge would be corrupt in that matter? I follow them, as Jefferson did, not to put supreme power in any man. But with these two Courts: After you had got a decision you would never know whether it would not be heard again in bank; or whether, if you came down from Siskiyou, expecting to have your case heard, that you would not find the court sitting in bank, and thus be kept waiting two or three months without having your case decided.

Mr. Laine here read some dispatches received from Sacramento, that Creed Haymond was addressing the largest mass meeting ever held in that city, on the iniquities of the new Constitution. [This announcement was greeted with repeated and prolonged cheering.]

The article on education provides that the revenue from the State fund shall be applied only to primary and grammar schools. I heard Mr. Beerstecher tell you last night that the effect of this might be got over by changing the name of the schools. What a subterfuge to defeat the organic law, when he (Beerstecher) knew that when Shafter made an effort to insert the word "common" instead, it was voted down. The fact is, the poor man's school—the evening school—is shut out forever from the State fund. Is this, then, a poor man's Constitution? With regard to the University, it was well known that the farmers had been making an effort for years to make it answer the purpose for which it was originally designed by Congress; but here by this Constitution it was bound with iron bands to the organic act. Not a college could be added, and all you have been trying for years to do with the University will be undone if this Constitution is adopted.

I come now to the section relating to the State Prison. Under it, you taxpayers will be ground to powder that convicted felons shall do nothing, in order to pacify the vanity of the sand lots. [Prolonged applause.]

COUNTY GOVERNMENTS.

The fourth article, on cities and towns, requires that a uniform system of government shall be adopted for every county in the State. That is, that there shall be the same number of officers in Siskiyou and Modoc as there are in Santa Clara, San Joaquin or San Francisco. You know such a thing is impracticable and impossible. Any such system would either ruin the small counties, or the people in the larger ones could not live. The next section provides that all the county and other municipal officers may either be elected or appointed. But, say the advocates of the new Constitution, it don't mean that they may be appointed. Don't it? What does it mean, then? It is as plain as the English language can make it. I am a Democrat, and think the Republicans to have the best chance at the next election, so that if the Constitution is adopted I don't expect to ever get a chance of being elected to any county or municipal office.

The section allowing counties, cities or townships to make local, police, sanitary and other regulations is local option. What else does it mean? While in the Legislature I voted for the Local Option Law, but I saw that local option bred hatred and strife among neighbors. But this is worse than local option. You allow justices of the peace and constables—the only township officers known to our system—to control in these matters. You would have a lawyer running into court with a county, city or township law book, causing no end of confusion. In the 14th section the Legislature is prohibited from appointing an Inspector in San Francisco to protect the people in the interior from unjust dealings with merchandise. Is it desirable for all the agricultural interests of the interior thus to abrogate their rights?

CORPORATIONS.

The next article dilated upon was that relative to corporations. It was said that the new Constitution made directors responsible to depositors, but the old Constitution made the whole body of stockholders responsible. All that the new Constitution did is that stockholders may shift the burden on to the ten or twenty directors they elect for the purpose. The section was a glittering piece of generalities not amounting to anything. Then, the crowning infamy of the whole thing is the Railroad Commission. If railroad gold can buy 120 Legislators, would there not be more gold to buy three Commissioners. [Applause.] If I am to be governed let me have all the glory of a crowned head, not a triumvirate. It has been said that the Railroad Company is opposing this Constitution. If they are it is not because of this Commission clause, but because if this Constitution is adopted, they may as well go out of business, for there will be nothing for them to carry. [Cheers.] Why, the mere speculation of it had paralyzed trade and every industry of the State. You try to sell your homestead or your ranch, or even try to borrow money on them, and you will find you can't do it. This is the reason the railroad is against it, and the first time we find it fighting for the people from sheer necessity.

REVENUE AND TAXATION.

I now come to the revenue and taxation article, and if anybody is going to be cinched, this is what will cinch the farmers. I believe in taxing solvent debts, but this is not going to do anything of the kind. It just allows old Money-bags to escape—he can easily offset his credits by his debts, and thus escape all taxation. But here again comes in the hardship to the farmer. The merchant cannot set off his debts to foreign creditors residing in Philadelphia, London, New York, or elsewhere, so he must increase the price of his goods to the farmer in order to meet the extra taxation thrust upon him.

Mr. Laine maintained that the farmer would, under the new Constitution, still have to pay taxes upon the amount of a mortgage.

CHINESE ARTICLE.

Mr. Lane next referred to the Chinese article, contending that it was a fraud, as opposing the powers of the Federal Government. The South tried its hand at this business and was defeated. The Federal Government was not likely to be scared by the sand lots. [Laughter.]

The address, which had lasted for more than two hours, was concluded by an expression of belief that the people of California were too intelligent to be duped into the adoption of such trash as was contained in the new Constitution.

SPEECH OF HON. CREED HAYMOND.

Ex-Senator Haymond's speech in opposition to the New Constitution is of unusual significance. He was one of the Code Commissioners appointed by Governor Haight, was afterwards elected to the State Senate, and is distinguished for his hostility to all forms of monopoly. As Mr. Haymond is an intimate personal and political friend of Newton Booth, his opinions will have none the less weight on that account.

Before a Sacramento audience of 5,000 people Ex-Senator Haymond spoke for over two hours. The following is a brief synopsis of his speech:

He began by a brilliant tribute to Sacramento, which has the best government of any city in the Union; of Sacramento County, which is the best governed and most economically managed county in the State. Sacramento is the home of the mechanic, the laborer, the men of moderate means, and the men who have won wealth. He besought the people to stand by the old Constitution, under which Sacramento has grown and reached her present position. [Loud applause]. He had lived 43 years and seen much of the world, but he had never heard of a poker player with four aces, or a whist player with thirteen trumps, asking for a new deal. [Laughter and applause]. Why should we give up all we have for a so-called charter of new liberties, and launch on a new sea where there are no beacon-lights to warn of which we have no chart? Heaven itself was auspicious, and smiled upon the vast assemblage in approval of this protest against the new Constitution, for the storm king had stayed his hands and the winds were hushed that the people might counsel together beneath the starlit sky. [Applause]. He reviewed briefly the formation of the first Constitutional Convention, and paid a glowing tribute to the old Constitution. When the new Convention met the people had a right to expect it would take hold of and master the great questions of irrigation, land monopoly and other grave evils; but nothing of the kind was done. The instrument it put forth is the crudest ever sent from a deliberative body, and if adopted the Supreme Court will have to make a new one, for neither a prophet, a son of a prophet or of the seventh son of a prophet can explain it. [Applause.]

He called God to witness to his sincerity in his opposition. The man who says this new Constitution is a workingman's Constitution knows that he deceives his hearers. [Applause.] Proofs of what he said are abundant in the document—so abundant, days would not suffice to name them. [Applause]. The Convention said the Legislature was

NOT TO BE TRUSTED,

And its power must be limited. Was it done? No. The next Legislature can create a debt of millions and mortgage the State for ages. The old Constitution limited at first the State debt to $300,000. Yet the State thereafter, by the Legislature, bound itself to pay $1,500,000 on the bonds of the Central Pacific Railroad Company. The Supreme Court rendered its decision sustaining the Act, and then in 1871 you people amended the Constitution, prohibiting the Legislature appropriating money for longer than two years. Where is that provision in the new Constitution? why was it dropped out? [Applause.] Is this the poor man's Constitution? The land grabbers ran the Convention. (I will use plain Saxon in this matter.) What poor man can send his child to the University erected by the United States for the children of all the people? This Constitution has written that no poor man's child shall enter the State University. The regency once established is an aristocracy. There were men in the Convention who believed the people are not capable of self-government, and they are paving the way to imperialism. In the University (reading) the rich men's sons are to have a military education, and yet this is the people's Constitution. They mean to train their children to arms to resist the people if they seek to regain the liberties they are now asked to cast away. Mr. Haymond read from the educational article as to common schools, and declared it to be full of poison and a stab in the back, and declared it the most infamous proposition in this most

INFAMOUS DOCUMENT.

In the State Senate he had fought to have the State print her own school books, but was defeated, though the measure was in the interest of all the people and of many home industries. This Constitution puts it beyond the power of the Legislature forever to print its own books; and this is the feast to which the poor men are invited.

At this point Mr. Haymond received and read this dispatch, and the audience gave three cheers for Thomas H. Laine:

STOCKTON, April 22, 1879.

[Received at Sacramento, April 22, 1879, at 8 P. M.]

To Hon. Creed Haymond: San Joaquin is neither dead nor sleeping, but will awake and vote against the new departure. THOS. H. LAINE.

Mr. Haymond said Mr. Lane was speaking at the time to the people of Stockton. He paid a warm tribute to Mr. Laine and to Newton Booth, whose names were received with applause. He said he could not present Mr. Booth in person to the people, but he had here by him his old partner, Cy. Wheeler. (Applause.]

Mr. Haymond then read from the new Constitution the cold, ineffective declaration as to the holding of large tracts of land, and declared that the land monopolists held the whip over the Convention. He analyzed the section as to assessing lands and improvements separately, and declared it a snare and a trap, and that the Constitution itself prevents any reform of the land monopoly evil. If adopted there will be more rich land holders and more poor men than ever before. The lands are to be assessed by legal subdivisions, yet no grant in the State has legal subdivisions. Who fill the orphan asylums? The children of the unfortunate citizen who leaves them without means. For years the State has been aiding our orphan asylums. At first the new Constitution absolutely prohibited this aid, but on the last day, as it were, yielded a little, but at last stabbed the orphan; and this is the boasted poor man's Constitution. The aid is to be distributed among counties, and so dwindled away as to close up the asylums.

CORPORATIONS.

But they say it is going to break up corporations. What is the greatest one? The Central Pacific Railroad, and that won't be hurt, for it can be run just as well as a partnership, and Flood and Mackey can go on and cinch the people if they wish. Then by the Director clause, this Constitution closes the door of offices against the sons of poor men. It takes away the right of the people to regulate rail road corporations and gives it away to two men of a Commission. That clause emanated from the railroad company itself, and that fact he could prove. The Commission combines all the powers of government, which all over the nation we keep separate and independent; and this in free America. He said no lawyer would dare deny that so soon as the Commission seeks to regulate, the Federal Courts would enjoin it.

Under this Constitution a man must be ninety days in a county to vote; and yet they say it is a poor man's Constitution. Certainly it won't inconvenience the rich.

The clause relative to apportionment, he asserted would exclude the counting of native born citizens in the basis formation of representation. The Chief Justice of the Supreme Court has given it as his opinion that such will be the effect of the new Constitution.

MORE FAULTS.

The Central Pacific Railroad is mortgaged for $44,000 per mile, yet by this Constitution the mortgage escapes taxation, for the Constitution makes mortgages interest in the property for the purposes of taxation except in the case of railroad corporations. It gets the mortgage tax out of the citizen's home, but lets slip the railroads, and says the mortgage is not an interest in the property. Why, the railroad company has got all in this Constitution it wants. The money lender ought to pay taxes, and be hung if he does not do it. You go to a bank after the Constitution is adopted to get money, and while it cannot contract against the mortgage tax, yet it can raise the interest. Why did not the Conventien say they should not raise the interest? This Constitution makes every man a list of his property as of a given day and hour. What will the banks and money men do just before that? Why turn their millions into United States bonds and tell the Assessor to go his way. It is the prettiest scheme ever fixed up by the lenders to escape taxation, and yet this is the poor man's Constitution. [Laughter.] Why, on the first Sunday in March they can cart their money in a car over the State line, and snap their fingers at the Assessor on the first Monday in March.

FURTHER OBJECTIONS.

Why does this Constitution prevent a railroad Commissioner being turned out of office except by a two-thirds vote of all the members of both houses of the Legislature? The Commission is placed above the law; its acts are made conclusive. It can declare crimes and can punish people at will. It declares that poll taxes shall not be less than $2, and then with contemptible meanness declares that the citzen soldier shall no longer be exempt, though they work for the State without fee or reward. It says Indians not taxed need not pay poll taxes. The Supreme Court has declared that such a declaration includes Chinese, and therefore the Chinamen will no longer pay poll taxes. Mr. Haymond here read the decision of the Supreme Court sustaining this point, where it held that the word Indian includes the whole Mongolian race.

He warned the temperance men that in supporting the local option clause they were opening the door for the loss of their dearest liberties.

But it abolishes the lobby, they say. Why, it gives new scope to the lobby. It declares income taxes may be wrung from one or any class; and there comes the lobby in. Here's one wants income taxes levied on bankers, another on miners, and so on. This Constitution makes every absentee in the Legislature vote against every bill. Oh, what a nice thing for the lobby! It needs only to get a man to absent himself and thus vote as it wishes.

It gives the Legislature the power to name the county officers. They say the Legislature won't do it. Oh, but it will! "To the victors belong the spoils" is the doctrine, and the time will come when parties will perpetuate themselves by his means.

CAPITAL AND LABOR.

They ask why is capital opposed to the new Constitution? It might also be asked why the land-grabbers are for it. Neither cry is argument. Capital and labor must stand and fall together. Why does the railroad company oppose the new Constitution? I say the Central Pacific Railroad Company stood in the Convention and sapped one of its corners; but it found other sappers at work, and that if the Constitution is adopted the whole fabric of the State will go together. They say there is bulldozing. That's an old, old political cry. The election law guards every man, and none need to fear. [Applause.] He denounced all efforts to influence men against or for the Constitution by force, threats or intimidation. [Applause.] He said it would be impossible for him in one address to take up all the points of objection and analyze the faults of the proposed new charter. He must leave behind him the great subject of State revenue and other important topics. He referred to the words of Macaulay, uttered in warning against such attempts as the new Constitution makes to undermine the liberties of the people. He had faith in the people of California that they would put their seal of condemnation upon this dangerous instrument. He appealed to his hearers to stand firm for their liberties, which, before heaven, he believed were now in danger. He appealed to an overshadowing Providence to preserve forever the land of Washington and Lincoln, free and pure, the home of the oppressed for mankind. With a brilliant peroration Mr. Haymond concluded, amidst loud applause.

What the Great Newspapers of the Atlantic States Think of our New Constitution.

The Nation of New York is admitted to be the best informed political and literary journal in the United States. The ripest scholars and the clearest and most independent thinkers in the country are numbered among its editors and contributors. In a late number the Nation devotes two columns of criticisms on the New Constitution proposed for California. The following is the concluding portion of the article:

Such a farrago as this is a novelty in American constitutional law. Of course it is not difficult to see that much of it will never have any lasting effect upon the social and legal machinery in California, because much of it cannot be carried into effect in any civilized country. Some of it will be explained away by the courts, some of it will be rendered null by the corruption of the officials who are elected to execute it. But as it stands it is not the Constitution of a civilized State, but of a civilized State the management of whose affairs has partly fallen into the hands of barbarians. Instead of confining itself, with regard to the ordinary rights of person and property, to a simple declaration of those permanent and settled principles to which, as we have shown, the earlier Constitutions always confined themselves, it has embodied in the fundamental law of the State a mass of heterogeneous and confused edicts, representing nothing more substantial than those gusts of popular passion which hitherto have spent themselves in primaries or in the election of party candidates, or at most in laws passed subject to overruling by the judicial interpretation of a Constitution based on fixed principles. That they should now have reached and so largely controlled the action of a Constitutional Convention is a bad sign. So far as such a Constitution as that proposed in California fails of the evident objects of its authors, it tends to bring all laws and constitutions into contempt. So far as it succeeds, it marks the first incorporation into American constitutional law of pure communism.

And again, a week later, the Nation remarked as follows:

The extraordinary Constitution drafted by the late Convention in California, on which we commented last week, is naturally exciting great alarm in that State, and, according to the San Francisco Commercial Herald, "hangs like a pall over the whole business community; and has created such a feeling of uneasiness that he banks will not lend except on the best security. The situation will not improve, if it ever improves at all, until the vote is taken on the 7th of May. The truth is that the Constitution puts the banking, insurance, telegraphing and railroad business—or, in other words, all business carried on by corporations—at the mercy of "sand-lot" statesmen and blackmailers; and the business men of the community must either defeat it, or wind up their affairs, or try to nullify it by corrupting the Legislature and the Courts.

The following is the concluding paragraph from an elaborate editorial in the New York Herald:

On the other hand, there are provisions of this Constitution not bearing directly upon the Chinese question, but the outgrowth of the same feeling, which sustain this ostracism, which, if it is adopted, will seriously interfere with the material prosperity of California. There are clauses which expose bank corporations and stockholders to perpetual harassing, and make it practically a criminal offense for any one to own more than a certain modicum of land. Railroad, telegraph, insurance, manufacturing and other corporate property has limitations and restrictions placed upon it which will kill expansion, in order to prevent what the sand-lot statesmen call "monopoly." The rate of wages, the hours of labor, and, in short, every subject which the laws of business demand shall be left to the regulation of demand and supply, are arbitrarily legislated upon in this Constitution, very much after the style of a greenback labor political platform. Under such a Constitution capital will shun California, enterprise will cease from very terror, prosperity will depart, and the "hoodlum" statesmanship will reign supreme.

There is abundant evidence that the better class of people in California recognize the fatal defects of this Constitution, and will vote against it in May next. But the result of that election is still doubtful; and for a reason which is clearly indicated in the letter of our correspondent. The popular antipathy to the Chinese in California is so wide-spread as to be intent upon getting rid of the "almond-eyed heathen" at any expense. The danger is that just the class of people described in this letter --"the farmers and honest laboring men"—will permit this prejudice to govern their votes. We have no disposition to question the sincerity of the infatuation. We only insist that those who are stricken with it will live to rue the day when they permitted it to fasten upon a sovereign State of the Union this product of communism and ignorance--the proposed Constitution of California.

THE PROPOSED CALIFORNIA CONSTITUTION — A CURIOUS CODE.

Probably no body convened for the important work of preparing a State Constitution was ever so curiously constituted at the Convention which has lately completed that work in California. Its members were chosen when the Workingmen's party was in the full flush of power and Kearneyism was most rampant. A large proportion of its members represented that element in the population, and some of them were actually unable to read or write until they had been put through a party course of training in those rudimentary branches of knowledge, in order to satisfy the legal requirements of their position. The movement for a new Constitution was, first of all, an anti-Chinese movement, and the controlling purpose of its projectors was to secure such Constitutional provisions as would make life a burden to the hapless Chinamen. From a Convention so curiously constituted, and chosen for such a purpose, it might be expected that a rather astonishing document would emanate—and this expectation is fully realized, on examination of the provisions which the instrument contains. The wise, the whimsical and the atrocious are inextricably tangled. If it was possible for the voters of the State to decide upon the articles separately, there might be a chance of picking out from it enough sensible provisions to make a tolerable Constitution; but the instrument stands or falls together, and it is easy to understand the uneasiness which the business men of California are beginning to manifest concerning the possibility of having to live under such a nondescript code.—Boston Journal.

A CURIOUS CONSTITUTION.

Surprise is expressed in many quarters that such a "Constitution" was at all possible in a civilized community where the rights of property— equal rights as between man and man—are supposed to obtain recognition. That surprise, it seems to us, is unreasonable. The surprise would be, a Constitution of a different stamp. The merchants, capitalists and business men, unfortunately, could not be got to take any particular interest in the elections which constituted this Convention. They practically let them go by default. The whole thing was left pretty much to the "hoodlums;" and the "hoodlums," in making a Constitution that is expressly designed, to use one of their own select phrases, to "muzzle capital," have simply followed their communistic and agrarian instincts. Nothing better was to be expected. The stream cannot rise higher than its source. If we want a coat, we get a tailor, not a tinker to make it; if we want a watch, we do not go to the blacksmith; but when we are in pursuit of a new Constitution for the Government of the State we do not make it a point to see to it that the task is committed to the wisdom and intelligence of the community, but, with amazing fatuity, leave the whole thing in the hands of the most ignorant and vicious. And now that they are confronted with the mischievous work which the Jack Cades and Anacharsis Klootzes of the Pacific slope have put upon them, the business classes are thrown into a panic, and asking what is to be done? If they can stir up public opinion to a consciousness of the impending danger between now and the 7th of May, they may be able to save themselves; but it is a melancholy reflection that so much has thus to depend on an "if" or a "may." The moral of it all is that, under a system of government like ours, if intelligence will not take the trouble to mould the laws and to govern, ignorance will; and the moral, it is scarcely necessary to add, is quite as applicable to communities in the older States on the Atlantic as to the half-formed civilizations on the shores of the Pacific.—New York Commercial Bulletin.

The Most Outrageous Clause.

The most outrageous clause in this new Constitution, to our mind, is the Railroad Commission. The State is divided into three districts, and a Commissioner from each district is elected by the people. This throws Stanford right into our elections, for he is bound to elect two out of three, and as they are elected at our State elections, it will sometimes happen that the election of the whole State ticket will hinge on the election of these three Commissioners. These men once elected, are kings, for it takes a two-thirds vote of the Legislature to oust them for dereliction of duty. They are to be Judges, their Court a Court of Record, and decide cases brought against the railroad. In fact their power seems to be limitless, and to us they appear the most dangerous gentlemen in the whole ring.—Lake Democrat, March 29.

Liens upon Property.

I have a dairy ranch rented to Jones; Jones employs a man to work for him and refuses to pay him. Can the hired man take a lien on my property if Section 15, Article 20, of the new Constitution is passed? C. Q.

[The Article referred to says: "Mechanics, material men, artisans and laborers of every class shall have a lien upon the property upon which they have bestowed labor." The property in this case is a dairy ranch. The plain inference of the new Constitution is, that the men who work on it, or the men who supply it with anything which it requires, will have a lien on the property. If the tenant does not pay, the owner must. Our answer to the query propounded is, therefore, in the affirmative.—S. F. Call.

Dairymen, farmers and property owners generally will find it more profitable to sell their possessions than to lease or rent, if this is to be the law. The prospect of having property confiscated through the possible dishonesty of a tenant in covering it with liens, should cause every man interested to halt and to ask himself this question: Can I afford to run the risk of losing property that it has taken me years of toil to acquire?—Gilroy Advocate.

The friends of the new Constitution are trying to pervert the plain meaning of the section above referred to and to convince the farmers that in the event of a swindling tenant selling the crops, pocketing the money, and cheating his employes out of their wage, the labor of the workmen would be a lien on the crops only and not on the land. The laborers certainly bestowed labor on the land, and it will surely not be deneid that land is property. The new Constitution does not say that the product of labor shall be held for that labor, but distinctly declares that laborers of every class shall have a lien upon the property upon which they have bestowed labor," etc. A workingman who prepares the soil and plants seed certainly does not perform labor upon a crop that is not then in existence, or may never be in existence. The property upon which he bestows the labor is the land. Should a man rent his dwelling, what is to prevent the tenant from making such alterations as might suit his fancy, without the knowledge of the owner, and hereby cover the property with liens without consulting the owner in reagrd to the matter? Under the section above mentioned, a tenant would have it in his power to confiscate the property of the lessor, and in the face of a provision so plain and so outrageous, it is astonishing that farmers fail to comprehend the danger of such a section in the organic law.—Stockton Independent.

TO THE TEACHERS OF CALIFORNIA.

At a meeting of the teachers of San Francisco, held April 11th, to discuss the Article on Education in the new constitution, the following resolutions were unanimously adopted:

WHEREAS, The Article on Education in the new Constitution makes County Boards of Supervisors ex-officio County Boards of Examination, and gives them unlimited control over the granting of teachers' certificates, thereby sweeping out of existence any uniform standard of professional qualifications preventing any State recognition of teaching as a profession, and practically nullifying all existing diplomas and certificates; therefore,

Resolved, That we, the Teachers of San Francisco, are opposed to the Article on Education, as a whole, and to the new Constitution as a whole, and that we call upon all teachers in the State to unite with us in this opposition;

Resolved, That by providing that the Legislature or local Boards may establish high schools, but restricting the State Fund for primary and grammar schools, high schools are practically abolished, and an impassable barrier is erected between the children of the poor and the State University.

Resolved, That by giving County Boards of Supervisors paramount control of Education in their respective Counties, a uniform course of study is no longer possible; and we have established within the borders of the same State as many separate and different systems of common schools as there are counties.

It was also unanimously voted to appoint a committee of three to issue an address to the teachers of the State calling upon them to use their utmost endeavors to defeat the new Constitution. It would be a reflection upon the intelligence of the teachers of the State to enter upon a lengthy argument against an instrument so evidently harmfull as a whole, and so likely to be especially harmfull in its effects upon the public schools system of the State. Your attention, and the attention of all persons interested in the public schools is therefore simply called to an earnest consideration of the following points:

The growth of public opinion in regard to education is shown in no respect more strikingly than in the increasing conviction that persons to whom it is intrusted should be selected for their special fitness, and not for their party affiliations. In the oldest communities, too, where the public schools have attained their highest excellence, continuance in office substantially during good behavior has come to be thought so necessary to the success of a system that it is a common thing for members of Boards of Education, even, to be continued in office, ten, fifteen, twenty and twenty-five years. The new Constitution is directly antagonistic to these well-settled sentiments and practices. Even the heads of the State and County department of education are made political offices, limited in their terms as other political offices with which they are classed are limited, and subject to the same frequent change. In the light of all experience it is idle and trifling to say, that under such a system, candidates may, and are therefore likely to be selected for those important positions independent of party considerations, or that their terms of office are likely to be long enough to enable them to mature, carry into effect, and thoroughly test any educational system.

If the new Constitution is adopted, there will be, in this State, the strange anomaly of free elementary and university education, with not only no State provision by which pupils may pass from the elementary schools to the University, but an express prohibition against the application of any portion of the State School Fund to the purposes of these intermediate or high schools. It cannot be that the undoubted intent of this article to cut off the boy without means from the best and almost the only way of competing fairly with the boy of wealth, has escaped the attention of teachers, parents and others interested in keeping wide open this great and only highway to success, common alike to rich and poor.

In refusing State recognition of teaching as a profession, an irreparable injury will be done, not so much to the schools and teachers of today, as to the cause of education in the future, by making the career of the educator an undesirable one to young persons of talent, and the occupation of teaching the refuge of persons incompetent to fill other places of trust and responsibility. The utter impropriety, as a rule, of putting into the hands of men, selected for their superior business ability and judgment to manage the business of cities and towns, the decision of the technical fitness of teachers for their work, is certainly not less apparent to the clear-headed men who make up our Boards of Supervisors, than to the interested teacher. We do not deserve to be recognized as belonging to a profession, if we do not with great spirit claim for it the same respect as that paid to other professions. The fitness of lawyers, doctors, engineers or other professional men for their special work is passed upon by men skilled in those professions. We should not respect ourselves and do not desire the respect of others if we tamely submit to having our professional qualifications determined by non-professional boards.

Other important points may be briefly summed up as follows: It cannot be too distinctly kept in mind that Constitutional blunders are blunders that can be rendered only by Constitutional revision or Constitutional amendment, while the blunders of any Legislature may be rectified by its successor.

The defects in our present school system are legislative and not Constitutional and their ample remedy is therefore legislative. The new Constitution is not therefore needed to remedy defects.

Nearly all the excellencies that are claimed as even likely to be secured by the new Constitution can be secured by Legislature under the old. The new Constitution, is not, therefore, needed for the purpose of bettering our system.

The new Constitution would fix upon our system defects from which it would probably never fully recover. It should therefore be defeated, because of the lasting harm that it would do.

A Constitution is presumed to be a formulation of principles so well established as to be all but universally recognized. The intelligent and wide spread opposition to the new Constitution indicates with a clearness that cannot be mistaken that it was not framed with regard to universally recognized principles, but that it has rather the character of partisan legislation. The feeling of distrust so wide-spread and so distructive of progress in education and of credit in commercial life is therefore well founded and gives just cause for the fear that the adoption of the new Constitution would be harmful even beyond anything that is now suspected.

We therefore call upon you as teachers, having a high standard of education at heart, not only to vote against the new Constitution, but to interest yourselves in bringing to the attention not only of parents who wish for their children opportunities for education equal to those enjoyed by the wealthiest, but of all who feel a pride in securing to our great State an average of intelligence second to none in the union, the danger threatened to the public school system by the adoption of the new Constitution.

Taxation of Mortgages.

New Jersey and Pennsylvania have tried taxation of mortgages, and found it to be a delusion and a snare. It prevents the investment of money in land securities, and effectually puts a check upon improvements by land owners and farmers. The capitalist was not cinched a dollar's worth, as all the political lunatics, all the communistic tramps and a great mob of poor deluded fools fondly hope he will be in California, by such a law. The law had not been in operation long before its effects became apparent, and from the small landholders and working classes came a demand for the exemption of mortgages from taxation. The capitalist made no fuss about it, for his money had found its way into other channels, and was invested in securities that paid him the legal rate of interest. New Jersey and Pennsylvania then exempted mortgages from taxation over a large portion of their territory, and the result has proved most beneficial to all classes. But these lessons of experience were lost upon our sapient Convention, as were the lessons of government in the history of the world for the last thousand years. The work of that body is full of experiments that have been exploded any time during ten centuries past, but, bless its poor, weak ignorant head, it never heard of them.—San Jose Herald-Argus.

Falsifications of the Chronicle.

Nobody expects the Chronicle to confine itself to the truth in anything or to discuss the new Constitution on a basis of facts. The best that can be done is to call the ex-live paper a liar—and prove it, which is rarely a difficult matter, for instance, it has asserted positively that the plan for taxing credits, adopted by the late lamented Convention is the same as that in force in other States, and cites New York as an instance. A writer in the Bulletin shows that the New York law is by no means similar, inasmuch as it exempts loans on real estate, made by savings banks and insurance companies, from taxation. The Commissioners appointed to revise the tax laws of New York condemn the whole scheme of taxing mortgages, and say:

"The result which has taken place in New York is exactly what might have been legitimately expected. Capital which formerly found its way into real estate mortgages is now directed into other channels; and to such an extent that, were it not for the provisions of law which exempts the mortgage investments of Savings Banks and Life Insurance Companies from taxation, and compel these institutions to invest a part of their capital in such securities, money could now hardly be obtained in New York for the improvement of real estate on pledge of the property."

How Working Men are Cared for.

There are $65,000,000 in the Savings Banks of this State. This money is the property of between sixty and seventy thousand depositors. These depositors are for the most part workingmen and women. At present they receive seven and a half per cent. interest upon it. The old Constitution permits them to earn that amount. The new Constitution, which they are being assured is far more favorable to them, so taxes this money of theirs that they cannot obtain more than three and a half per cent. for it. That change would be bad enough, but it is not the worst of the situation. For if the new Constitution is adopted they can only escape this oppressive new taxation by withdrawing their money from the Savings Banks and putting it into Government bonds. As, however, they would all want to withdraw it at once, and as the Savings Banks have loaned it out in order that it may earn interest, they would find that it could not be had at once. To obtain it the Banks would have to call in all their loans. This would cripple all the debtors of the Banks, and ruin most of them. Those who could not redeem mortgages would have to let their property go under foreclosure. But so general an attempt to sell real estate would break down the market, and ruin would be more widespread. A panic would ensue which would destroy values of every kind, and in the end the Banks would be unable to repay more than a fraction of the deposits. Thus the working men and women of the State would be brought to ruin by the new Constitution which they are told is so full of benefits for them.—Exchange.

Protecting the Shirkers.

The whole aim of the new Constitution is to benefit the shiftless and worthless classes of the community at the expense of the thrifty and industrious. It offers a premium for dishonesty and extravagance, and provides the means to pay it out of the hardly earned savings of honesty and economy. This is the direct result of Section 15, Article XI, which provides that "private property shall not be taken or sold for the payment of the corporate debt of any political or municipal corporations."

There are in every community certain individuals who always evade the payment of taxes as far as possible. They will perjure themselves a dozen times to save a dollar, and when the amount is fixed, they will invent the most ingenious excuse to put off the collector. Nothing will really bring them to book but the the threat of selling their property, and the new Constitution carefully provides that this shall not be done.

Of course the great majority of citizens are willing to pay their just share of the expenses of government, but how will it be when they find that some pay nothing at all, and that there is no power to compel payment? Will any man long continue to pay taxes with any degree of complacency, while his neighbor, with property equal to his own, never pays a cent? And even if honest men would continue to pay their taxes under such circumstances, where would be the sense of permitting such an injustice? It is one of the highest functions of law to compel all men to contribute equally to the support of government, but this rascally abortion actually throws the whole burden on one class alone, and that the noblest of all, or makes all government impossible.

If it be said that this is an exaggerated view of the case, we have only to point again to the words of the Constitution which, for once, are very plain and decided. There can be no misunderstanding — the language is absolute. People may pay their taxes, if they choose, but there is no power to compel them. Even if the attempt were made, who would purchase property at a tax-sale with such a provision as this invalidating the title? Doubtless the delegates meant well enough, but the result is a monstrous absurdity, which would stop the wheels of government, and destroy the credit of every city and county in the State, and even of the State itself.—San Jose Mercury.

How the Lien Clause will Work.

A poor man builds himself a little dwelling with the savings of his toil. A lumber dealer sells him a bundle of shingles to mend a hole in the roof. The lumber dealer puts a lien on the house, and sells the roof from over his head to recover the price of his "material furnished," and the Constitution says the Legislature shall pass laws to secure the "speedy and efficient enforcement of such a lien."

Or, perhaps, this poor laborer has been able to pay for his lumber, and by working "after hours" to put a fence around his home. But he has to buy the paint on credit. The Constitution says that the dealer who sold him that paint may put a lien on the fence, and have it sold to recover the price of the paint.—Vallejo Chronicle.

Why Some Delegates Support It.

We have been asked several times recently why it is, if the new Constitution is so objectionable, that such men as Volney E. Howard of Los Angeles, Judge Terry of Stockton, Judge Johnson, Moreland, Charles of Sonoma, and other prominent delegates to the Convention, support it. Our answer is that no one ever saw a child so cross-eyed, cross-dispositioned, bandy-legged or otherwise deformed or defective that its own mother would not praise and defend it. These delegates are in about the same disturbed condition of mind as an old hen which has just hatched out a mixed lot of ducks and chickens. The ducks, by their unchickenlike propensities, give her a vast deal of trouble and claim most of her attention; nevertheless, she gives this part of her unnatural brood more care and clucking on that very account.—Petaluma Courier, March 27th,

Notwithstanding the strong reason above given why certain delegates support the new Constitution, it is a fact, however, that the most able and learned members of the Convention ARE OPPOSED TO ITS ADOPTION.

The following are a few of the delegates of State reputation, who do not endorse the new Constitution:

APPEAL TO VOTERS.

If every friend of the old Constitution would try and win even only one vote from the ranks of the misguided supporters of the new instrument, between now and the 7th of May, its defeat would be assured. Of course there are many who have ability to convert a large number, but there is scarcely any one so destitute of influence as not to be able to convert one erring brother into the right way of thinking. When so much is at stake, patriotism and love of country should make every conservative man a missionary from now till the battle is over. We appeal to the intelligent voters of California everywhere to drop all other business and devote a few days to saving the State from the terrible disgrace and ruin the adoption of the Sand-lot Constitution would bring upon us. And on the day of election vote early. See that your friends vote. Try and persuade those that are wavering that to vote "No" is altogether the right thing to do. A score of earnest, determined men at every polling place working all day for the good cause, will make in the aggregate a difference of many thousand votes. If one grand effort is made all along the line, victory is certain.

SUPPLEMENT.

OPINIONS OF NEARLY ONE HUNDRED NEWSPAPERS ON THE NEW CONSTITUTION

Should The Poor Favor It Because The Rich Oppose It.

In support of the new Constitution a favorite argument with some people is, that it ought to be adopted because the capitalists oppose it. But there are many things in this world that are detrimental and destructive to the rich and poor alike. If we had yellow-fever, or the small-pox or the cholera, or any other pestilence raging in California, would not the capitalist and the poor man together suffer from it? But according to the logic of some of the new Constitution advocates, the yellow-fever plague, the cholera, conflagrations, and other calamities, ought to be invited here and favored by the poor man because the rich might suffer by them. If a bond-holder should say that two and two made four, we suppose the working-man should say that two and two made five, or some other number differing from the idea of the capitalist. This illustrates the absurdity of the argument that the poor man, or the man in moderate circumstances, should favor the new Constitution because it imposes hardships on the business and enterprise of the rich. The history of the past two thousand years shows that when capital is fettered and obstructed by legislative and constitutional enactment, it is the mechanic, the small farmer and the laboring man, that suffer most. To spite ourselves in order to injure some body else, is a part of that unwisdom which characterized the late Constitutional Convention.—City Argus.

Growing Crops.

The farmers are appealed to and urged to support the New Constitution because it exempts growing crops from taxation. This clause, like the Chinese section, was put in for buncomb; growing crops are never taxed in this State, and no Legislature would ever dare to authorize their assessment. The Agricultured interest is too strong for any party to incur its hostility. And yet the farmers are asked to overthrow the old Constitution with all the good there is in it, in order to secure something in the new which they have got already.—Golden Era.

The Chronicle's Reasons.

The Chronicle gives what it calls fifty reasons for adopting the new Constitution. Let us take a few of them and see what they are stuffed with:

"It allows prosecution upon information, thus doing away with frequent grand juries."

The true inwardness of that is simply placing the liberties of the citizen at the mercy of the District Attorney.

"It prohibits the Chinese from enjoying the elective franchise in the State."

It doesn't do anything of the sort. If the Federal Government admits them to citizenship, that clause of the new Constitution isn't worth the powder to blow it to Milpitas.

"It places numerous necessary restrictions upon legislation."

Some of them are good, but others will cause great inconvenience to the State.

"It prevents bad bills from being rushed through the Legislature."

Not unless it provides the Legislators with honesty and sense.

"It increases the efficiency of the Courts by simplifying proceedings and distributing business in such a way that it can be more promptly attended, thus lessening the evils of the 'law's delay.'"

"It simplifies the judicial system by providing for only two kind of Courts of general jurisdiction."

It does just the reverse, by complicating the business of the Courts. The Superior Court must attend to all the business now distributed among District, County and Probate Courts. It is folly to assert that one Judge can attend to more cases than three Judges.

"It secures more careful decisions by dividing the Supreme Court into departments, thereby doubling its working capacity and giving the Judge more time for the study of cases."

Refer to article on Judiciary and find that statement incorrect. Instead of doubling the working capacity of the Supreme Court, nearly every case will be heard twice, and no man can say when the judgment would be final. The California Supreme Court would be fearfully and wonderfully made.

"It prohibits the pardon of a criminal twice convicted of felony."

No, it does not. The Governor can pardon such a criminal upon recommendation of the Supreme Court.

"It takes the text book question out of the Legislature."

Very true, but it places that question before every local Board and opens the door to more ring corruption in school affairs than is possible under the old system.

"It prohibits the expenditure of school moneys for other than public schools."

So does the old Constitution.

"It removes the University as far as possible from political influence."

And at the same time removes it as far as possible from all connection with the common school system of the State.

"It stops the contract system in prisons."

And brings convict labor in direct competition with free labor.

"It places proper restrictions on the moving of county seats."

By giving the minority the power to defeat the will of the majority.

"It directs the Legislature to establish a uniform system of county government."

It gives the Legislature power to appoint county officers and utterly destroy local self-government.

"It provides for the taxation of mortgages."

Which tax the borrower will pay in increased interest.

"It commands the taxation of unimproved land at the same valuation as improved land."

Which will prevent poor men from attempting to take up land and will establish a system of landlord and tenantry, disastrous to the small farmer.—San Jose Herald-Argus.

A Tule Farmer Speaks.

The new Constitution is not receiving much support from the farmers on the islands of the Sacramento river. On Saturday, at Walnut Grove, Reuben Kercheval, one of the oldest settlers on Grand Island, addressed a meeting in opposition to it. Mr. Kercheval has represented Sacramento County in several sessions of the State Legislature. He voted for Booth for the United States Senate, and has always been noted as a most persistent foe to monopoly in every form. Mr. Kercheval states that the Tule farmers do not want the new Constitution. No man is in a better position to judge of its effect upon this class of agriculturists than Mr. Kercheval. He is not a land monopolist. He lives upon his land and obtains his livelihood by fruit growing. There is no man in Sacramento County who has a higher reputation than Mr. Kercheval, as is seen in the fact that whenever he runs for office he is elected, though his ticket generally may suffer defeat. The Bulletin has shown that under the new Constitution there can practically be no reclamation as at present carried out by Reclamation districts. Hence it is not surprising that Mr. Kercheval, who has had as much practical experience in reclamation as any man in California, is a most strenuous opponent of the new Constitution.—Bulletin.

How it will Work with the Farmers.

The clause in the new Constitution relative to the assessment of land will work peculiar hardship in the foothills. Section 2 of Article 13 says:

"Cultivated and uncultivated land, of the same quality and similarly situated, shall be assessed at the same value."

Now let us see how that will work among the small farmers of the foot-hill section. When the Assessor comes around the conversation will be about like this:

Assessor—How much land have you, Mr. Granger?

Granger—Three hundred and twenty acres.

Assessor—It is all about of the same quality, isn't it?

Granger—Yes; there is no essential difference in the quality of the land, that I am aware of.

Assessor—All under cultivation?

Granger—No, sir; there are but fifty acres cultivated at present.

Assessor—What do you value your cultivated land at, Mr. Granger?

Granger—Well, I hardly know. I don't wish to sell, and have never given the subject much consideration.

Assessor—I am assessing cultivated land in this vicinity at $25 an acre; do you consider that an excessive valuation?

Granger—No. I think my cultivated land is worth $25. I wouldn't take that for it.

Assessor (figuring)—Very well, then, Mr. Granger, I value your land at $8,000; the buildings and other improvements I shall assess separately.

Granger—What! eight thousand dollars! Are you crazy? Why, sir, I only paid $1 25 an acre for this land, and 270 acres of it has not been improved or cultivated in any way, and isn't worth a picayune more to-day than it was when I pre-empted. What do you mean? Fifty acres, at $25, would be $1,250. I am willing you should put down the remaining 270 acres of my claim at $2 per acre — certainly not above that; 270 acres at $2 would be $540, which, added to the value of my cultivated land makes a total of $1,790 for the whole ranch — every dollar it is worth. Why, sir, every dollar I can produce and earn in a year over and above a bare living for my family, would not suffice to pay the tax on $8,000.

Assessor—I can't help that. The New Constitution says that cultivated and uncultivated land, of the same quality, shall be assessed at the same value; and I am consequently compelled to assess you $25 an acre for all your land. You can apply to the Board of Equalization, Mr. Granger, but as the clause in the Constution I have referred to is mandatory, I don't think you stand any chance of getting a reduction. Good morning.—Calaveras Chronicle.

Appointment of County Officers.

Section 5 of Article XI. of the New Constitution declares that the Legislature, by general and uniform laws, shall provide for the election or appointment in the several counties of the Boards of Supervisors, Sheriffs, County Clerks, District Attorneys, and such other county, township and municipal officers as public convenience may require. It is more than probable that the Convention, in adopting this section, intended something different from the meaning that the section bears. It cannot be conceived that it was intended to give to the Governor, or to the Courts, or to any other power, the right to appoint in the first instance officers to fill the positions enumerated; but this right is certainly given to the Legislature, and there might arise an occasion when it would exercise the right and remove the choice of local officers entirely beyond the reach of the people in the various counties. If it was meant that the Legislature should provide for the election of officers, and also provide for the appointment in case a vacancy should exist, for any cause, the section should so read, and not as at present give the power of appointment to any person or body that would thus take the place of the people in choosing its officers.—Petaluma Argus.

Why the Old Should be Preferred.

The advocates of the new Constitution are now busily employed endeavoring to prove that it is no worse than the old one. Then what is to be gained by a change? The old has the merit of having been thoroughly interpreted by the Courts, whereas the new one will keep the lawyers and Courts busy for years to come rendering its provisions and construing its meaning. Let us retain the old and avoid this endless litigation.—Times (Redwood City.)

Sarcastic.

Marysville Appeal: Some economical fellows say the Constitution must be adopted to save the $200,000 it has cost. We suppose if these chaps had purchased a basket of eggs and subsequently found them rotten, they would eat them as a matter of economy.

Who Should Oppose It.

Many arguments have been made in opposition to the adoption of the new Constitution, all of which have as yet remained unanswered, while the statements made by those favoring its adoption have been exploded and are fast falling to pieces. It has been claimed by the new Constitution organs that the capitalists and corporations are opposed to the new document, and many of them offer this assertion as an inducement to catch votes. But because the rich oppose its adoption is this any reason why the poor should favor it? Good grounds can be found upon which any class of society may object to the instrument.

The farmer should oppose it, as under it his taxes will be raised instead of lowered, and he will be subjected to double taxation.

The mechanic should vote against it, as it will provide for not only the taxation of his capital but also the income derived from his labor.

The merchant will be compelled to transact strictly a cash business to counteract the taxes that will be put upon any and all book accounts, be they doubtful or otherwise.

The banker must oppose it, as his business will be crippled through double, treble, and even quadrupal taxation.

The laborer must oppose it, as therein can be found nothing which will in any way benefit him. But the whole industry of the State will be crippled and the welfare of the workingman seriously threatened.

The poor man should oppose it, as therein are found no provisions by which he may be at all benefited. It cannot give him labor, but will have a contrary effect. Capital driven out of the State, or bound up by restrictions, will not help the poor man in any way.

The rich man should oppose it, as his capital is very generally assailed. The spirit of communism embodied throughout the whole Constitution is enough to ensure its defeat.

The business man should oppose it, or otherwise he will find his occupation curtailed, and nothing for him to do. Trade will be crippled, money scarce, credit flown, and all that tends toward keeping up the prosperity of the State will be found wanting,

The friends of our public schools should oppose it, as it strikes a heavy blow at the very foundation of our school system.

The freemen of America should oppose it, for the principles of a free government are wanting in the whole document. The Constitution provides that county officers may be elected or appointed, as the Legislature shall choose.—Rio Vista Enterprise.

How it Strikes at the Farmers.

Farmers and real estate owners should look before they leap, should study well the provisions of the new Constitution before they vote for it. In our judgment if it is adopted, it will injure the farmers and real estate owners more than the capitalists, or any other class of citizens; they desire to have mortgages taxed; they even seek a reason why the banker who gets 10 per cent. interest for the use of his money, should not contribute his proportion to the support of the Government. So far so good, but the Convention in its haste get this matter into the organic law, has presented the people with a two-edged sword. The matter is that the bank edge is the sharpest and will cut the surest. The banks, which have come to be about the only money loaners, lend the money of their depositors; now by the provisions of the new Constitution, if they lend on any security except mortgages and deeds of trust, their book accounts, commercial papers, notes, etc., secured by collaterals, are taxable as credits under section 1, Article 13; but as long as they are secured in any other way except by mortgage or deed of trust, they can effect all they owe against them, provided they owe it to residents of the State, so that any bank that can lend all its money upon any other securities, can offset everything it owes depositors and stockholders, and escape taxation unless they happen to have a surplus, in which the surplus only can be taxed. But the moment they take a mortgage or deed of trust, by section 2, they must be assessed and pay tax on that mortgage or deed of trust, and can offset nothing. Consequently banks will not lend on real estate when they can find any other security. Farmers, by supporting this will cut their own throats, for as every other class of securities will be preferred to mortgages, and that is the only thing they have to offer, they can never borrow money, unless they are prepared to pay several per cent more for it than others will give and put up other kinds of security.—San Jose Herald, April 11th.

Will some newspaper or any other supporter of the proposed Constitution answer why the following clause in the old Constitution is left out of the new one? "Taxation shall be uniform throughout the State."—Stockton Independent.

The reason given by those who voted against having it there, was, that they did not want to have taxation equal and uniform. They probably fixed it so that two dollars on the hundred could be levied on land and ten cents on personal property!—Colusa Sun.

Too Many Novelties to Insure Success.

The Convention has, instead of modifying and amending the old Constitution in accordance with the demands of the people, framed an entirely new instrument, containing many provisions of such a novel character that its adoption will very materially change our form of government. While it was generally admitted that amendments were necessary to the old Constitution in order to meet the requirements of the present age, none of the advocates of a Constitutional Convention ever dreamed that when assembled it would deem it necessary to so completely change our form of government, and it is certainly a question worthy of careful consideration by every intelligent voter whether the document now presented them for approval is any better adapted to the wants of the people of California than the Constitution under which we have lived for nearly thirty years, and under which our State has made as rapid progress as any other in the Union.—Stockton Independent (Rep.) March 3d.

Disfranchising Poor Men.

The laboring men of this State—especially the thousands who are compelled to travel from county to county to find employment on farms, and during the harvest season—will find a severe blow aimed at their rights as American citizens in section 1 of Article II of the new Constitution, which provides that no one shall be entitled to vote at any eleetion unless he shall have been a resident of the county at least ninety days next preceding the election. As our general elections are held during the harvest season, when thousands of farm laborers are moving about from county to county in order to earn bread for themselves and little ones, this numerous class will virtually be disfranchised by this provision should the new Constitution be ratified. Under the present Constitution every citizen is entitled to vote who has been a resident of the State six months and of the county thirty days; under the new Constitution every citizen must be a resident of the State one year, of the county three months and of the precinct thirty days before he can vote. Such provision would practically disfranchise thousands of honest mechanics and laborers every year, and leave the control of our elections to the well-to-do and wealthy classes.—Oakland Radiator.

Taxation Under the Proposed Constitution.

This is the brief, plain, strong way the Sacramento Bee puts the case, in the matter of taxation, as the proposed Constitution has it: "Jones has sold a horse to a neighbor Smith, to be paid for after harvest. Smith is taxed for the horse, because he has him, and Jones for the debt that is due, so that there is double taxation on the value of the horse. So with agricultural implements. These are generally purchased on credit, and the farmer has to pay taxes on them and the dealer has to pay taxes on the farmer's note, A ditch Company has issued stock, raised money and constructed a water ditch. The stock is assessed to its holders at its market value and the ditch is assessed to the Company at such value as the Assessor and the Board of Equilization may place upon it—and thus again the same property is assessed twice. And if the farmer has money in a savings bank he will be assessed for every dollar of it, while the bank will be assessed for the value of the note on which the same money is loaned, and the party who has the money is assessed—so that the same dollar will be assessed three times."—Examiner.

Nothing to Check Land Monopoly.

The following section of the new Constitution appears to us to be as meaningless as some others. Section 2, Article 17, declares that "the holding of large tracts of land, uncultivated and unimproved, by individuals and corporations, is against the public interests, and should be discouraged." The whole people of the State know already that large holdings of land are against the public interest. The delegates have simply repeated the language of the people, and done nothing more. They might, with equal propriety, have drafted a few sections as follows: Smoking and drinking are detrimental to the health of the people, and should be discouraged. Celibacy is against the public interest, and all single men should be encouraged to marry. And so they might have made up a chapter or two of moral suggestions and platitudes bearing upon private and public rights and wrongs. Such expressions at least would have answered as suggestive topics for stump speakers. There is absolutely nothing in this new instrument to check land monopoly that does not already exist in the present Constitution.—Gilroy Advocate, April 12th.

Oppression to the Debtor Class.

The more the proposed new Constitution is thoughtfully discussed, the more serious seem the objections to substituting it for our present well-defined organic law, which a few simple amendments would adapt to our present needs, conditions and reasonable demands, without disturbing and confusing all the relations of credit, capital, production, trade and industrial enterprise, as surely would, for an indefinite time at least, the adoption of the new Organic Code. All the new and desirable provisions of the new instrument can be submitted separately, voted upon and adopted as amendments to the present Constitution much sooner than the State can recover from the disturbing effects of applying the new constitutional provisions, if even they should be found less damaging in reality than is apprehended by objectors. However much capital, which is constitutionaly timid, may be alarmed by the proposed taxation of money, credits, stocks, dues, etc., there is no doubt that it will generally be able to protect itself, and, just in proportion to the demand for it, exact all the tax, as well as its other dues, from borrowers and the debtor class of tax payers, who will thus not only have to suffer the heaviest consequences of such withdrawals of capital from industrial enterprises and accustomed investments as may result from operation of the new tax, and corporations regulation system, but bear the burden of additional interest on such credit as they can command, and, in case of far the largest number, without any rebuke of tax on account of their indebtedness.

Lacking as it does this essential element of equity and justice, requiring rebate for all indebtedness where all credits and property of every kind is taxed, it is hardly possible to conceive of a more unwise and practically oppressive system of taxation than that provided by the proposed new Constitution, especially in its bearings upon by far the larger proportion of the debtor class of tax-payers.—Contra Costa Gazette, April 12th.

The friends of the new constitution are elaborate in their statements about the saving effected by restricting the sessions of the Legislature to sixty days, but they never say a word about the additional $100,000 that will have to be paid to the judiciary if the constitution is adopted.—San Francisco Post.

Building and Loan Associations and the New Constitution.

How will the new Constitution affect Building and Loan Associations, cooperative societies and Grangers' institutions generally? It declares that:

The Directors or Trustess of corporations and joint stock associations shall be jointly and severally liable to the creditors and stockholders, for all moneys embezzled or misappropriated by the officers of such incorporation or joint stock association during the term of office of such Director or Trustee.

Take, for instance, the case of the building and loan societies, now so popular, and by means of which so much is being done toward saving the earnings of mechanics, laborers and small dealers, and securing to them homes. These Directors serve without pay, the Secretary being the only officer that draws a salary. Can they afford to serve for nothing and run the risk of losing all their property besides? Can farmers, under this clause, afford to be directors of a co-operative society, of grangers' banks, or manufacturing establishments? And what effect on the Building and Loan Associations will that other clause in the Constitution have which makes the holders of mortgages pay the tax thereon? Now mortgages are not taxed. Neither the borrower nor the lender pays a mortgage tax. This new tax, levied not upon property, but upon a piece of paper, must be paid by the party who loans the the money. In this case building and loan associations must raise their premium or increase the rate of interest, and the extra tax will have to be paid by the borrower or by the stockholders in these institutions. We fear that this new rule may work great injury to these and kindred associations, which are now doing so much good for the masses.—Sac. Bee, Feb. 25.

No Improvement on the Old Constitution.

The address, published by order of the Convention, in favor of the adoption of the new Constitution, appears in the papers below. It is an attempt to show that the proposed Constitution is a decided improvement on our present fundamental law. It will be a difficult matter to convince the people that a Constitution that turns the State over to the railway monopoly is an improvement upon one that leaves the control of corporations in the hands of the people. The instrument would have been complete without the creation of a railway commission, and the majority of the Convention, in placing such power in the hands of these Commissioners, to be manipulated by the railway corporation, ignorantly or wickedly propose to place these people of the State entirely under the control of the grasping monopoly. It should be voted down. It has not the shadow of a show for success, except by the people staying away from the polls in disgust at the treason of the Convention to the people. The Convention was not chosen to do the bidding of corporations; and their work will not receive the sanction of the people.—Chico Record, (Dem.) March 6th.

Chaos for Fifteen Years.

In yesterday's Mercury we referred to the statement that the new Constitution, if adopted, will open up all the land titles which have been settled after a vast deal of litigation. As straws show which way the wind blows, the following may not be uninteresting: A certain attorney of this city, when interrogated as to his opinion of the new Constitution, replied that he should vote for its adoption, because he believed it would be to his interest to do so. This same attorney, to another gentleman, said more explicitly: "I want the new Constitution to be adopted because for fifteen years thereafter everything will be chaos. Previously adjudicated questions will again become live issues, and land titles will be so mixed as to create unlimited litigation." In this connection a prominent citizen of San Jose said to the writer that he had taken considerable pains to inquire as to the general opinion of attorneys upon the Constitution, and had found them almost unanimous in its favor and not able to give a satisfactory reason for their opinion. These are merely straws, but it can do no harm for the people to mark by such things the drift of public opinion.—San Jose Mercury (Rep.) March 7th.

The great power of the Chief Justices' under the New Constitution.

He determines the members of the department courts, and when they shall convene. He has it in his power to withdraw cases from the department courts, even after hearing and before judgment, and with the co-operation of two Justices after a unanimous judgment of the department courts. He convenes the court in bank at his pleasure. and determines the business of all the courts. He can insert himself in any of the courts at his will, and preside over the same, or withdraw himself from the labors of all the courts ad libitum. To a great extent he holds in his power the fate of the property involved in liberties of the community. He has in fact, the power which in any free and constitutional government should repose only in the Legislature. It smacks of monarchy. It is the power of the king before the reign of Edward the Third, when he was supposed to be the source and dispenser of justice. Any plea that the Chief Justice will be a wise and good man, and will exercise his duties faithfully, is a plea for tyrants only.—Pacific Coast Law Journal.

A Revolutionary Document.

The document is revolutionary. 'Tis the outcome of a communistic sentiment, and strikes at the very root of individual right as defined in natural and constitutional law. True, it has in its embodiment certain clauses that have been molded in accordance with justice; but these are no more than sops thrown out to the people to secure the triumph of the Sand Lot Constitution in its entirety. In a careful analysis of this instrument no one endowed with a grain of common sense can help to discover the one important fact that its adoption will prove subversive of established rights. As an organic law it will bring disaster to California. To vote this monstrous legal document down in May is a religious duty, binding upon every citizen who has the welfare and prosperity of California at heart. That it will be, there is no doubt.—*S. F. READ AND HAND TO YOUR NEIGHBOR

Is It A Poor Man's Constitution ?

The San Francisco Monitor, the organ of the Catholic Church on this Coast, and an able paper, by the way, discusses the New Constitution in a late issue. The Monitor comes as near speaking for the working classes as any paper published in California, and its views upon any question that affects the public interest are worthy of careful consideration. The Monitor is strongly opposed to the proposed Constitution on the ground that it is not calculated to better the condition of the working classes. A late number of that paper had an article under the heading of "Is It a Poor Man's Constitution!" and we take pleasure in republishing it. The Monitor says :

The popular cry raised by the advocates of the New Constitution that it is the "Poor Man's Constitution," will be found deceptive and fallacious upon a close examination. The strongest argument used in favor of this theory is the strong opposition it is meeting from bankers, brokers, mining and insurance companies, large land holders, corporations, and capital of every kind. From this they negatively argue, that what is bad for them must necessarily be good for the poor man. Nothing can be more foolish than such an argument. Granted that capital is opposed to its adoption, is that the reason why the new Constitution would prove of benefit to the working classes ?

On the contrary, we believe it would work injury—serious injury to their interests.

Capital and labor are mutually dependent, one upon the other. All injury done to the one naturally reacts upon the other. Now, capital is very sensitive, and the money classes would not so determinedly oppose the new Constitution unless its provisions seriously menaced their interests. Drive capital from the State and what would become of the poor man? Where would our mechanics and laborers find employment when capitalists would cease to invest money in the creation of houses, in manufactures, in mining operations, in industrial works of every kind?

This is no chimerical argument, no illusory prediction. See how capital hid itself away, when, a short time ago, threats of violence were heard, and hundreds of men were glad to work even for the beggarly pittance of a dollar a day. All our sympathies are with the poor ; with them we are identified ; and it is in their interests we speak and advise them not to be led astray by specious arguments, but to study carefully their own welfare and that of their families before they vote for the new Constitution. We know and admit there are several excellent provisions in it. but on the other hand there are many bad ones. The Constitution of a State is an instrument which should be of so perfect a character that few could cavil at it ; and certainly it should be one that would not array against itself the almost united voice of the business community.

Uprising of the Fossils.

The new Constitution has brought about a curious sort of fossil resurrection quite marvelous to behold. The ghosts of the buried past uproar, as Ritchter would put it, and walk forth in broad daylight. This class is as distinct and as well defined as any could be. It is composed of men who, from one cause or another, have been retired to private life. Some of them have been obscured for nearly a quarter of a century. Chief among them is Vol. E. Howard. His career culminated in the position of Major-General of the law and order forces in 1856. He disappeared from view shortly after his seizure by the Vigilance Committee in the plaza in front of the old City Hall. If a search were made for a colleague for this frisky megatherium, Judge Terry would at once be selected. He was one of the Supreme d ges of this State at a period to which the longest memory scarcely reaches. Since the duel in which poor Broderick fell, he has not been before the public.

These personages, too ancient to be taken up by any party, are fitly reinforced by the venerable Sam Soule. The new Constitution is just crotchety enough to receive the enthusiastic support of the last-named gentleman. O. C. Pratt comes naturally and easily into the group. In the dim past he was a Judge of a District Court in this city. M. M. Estee, though a young man, is not altogether out of place. The Ctacombs would have no terror for him if he thought a good office could be picked up among the piles of decaying bones there stored. He has been running for every political office in sight since he became of legal age, at the hand of all parties, and between times for any vacant Judgeship that could be reached.

And the squad is fitly marshaled by Alexanander Campbell, the Chronicle's attorney. If anybody should have sat down a month ago for the purpose of foretelling what men in California above the average run would espouse the cause of the new Constitution he would infallibly have pointed out these gentlemen. They have all passed so far down the ringing grooves of time thet no political trump could call them back to life. But, inordinate ambition surviving, it was as certain as anything could be, that any new party, no matter how destructive its aims or wild its programme, would secure their support. Anything for a taste of public life once more.—S. F. Bulletin.

Democrats and the Constitution.

It is gratifying to observe that a large proportion of the Democratic Press of the State oppose the Constitution. It is not a Democratic measure, it is not a question on which party lines can be fairly drawn. Whether Democrats support it or oppose it, is not of party concern, but solely of individual choice, and cannot in any proper manner affect the standing of the voter in his Democracy. And this position should be maintained in every county and precinct, in every Committee or meeting, in relation to party matters, from this time until the day of voting. That it will be wisdom for Democrats to labor to defeat it, and defeat it by an overwhelming vote, is the unshaken conviction of the "Examiner." That it will overthrow the detestable spirit of Kearneyism, which is aimed mainly at the Democratic cause, is certain. And that there are thousands of the honest and earnest workingmen who will help to do this, is beyond question. The class who will follow after Kearney are the Radicals of his organization, and it is idle and absurd for the Democracy to expect to bring this class to support the Democratic ticket at any time. Accordingly, to break down this vile Radicalism of the sand-lot ruffian agitator and craven blusterer, the Democrats all over the State will pursue the best line of policy, zealously working to defeat the ratification of the proposed Constitution by the most tremendous majority that can be brought to bear against it.—S. F. Examiner.

Subsidies.

If there is one question more than another upon which the people of this State have made up their minds it is the question of Subsidies. Under the administration of Governor Haight a law was passed allowing the people of any county to vote 5 per cent. of the assessed valuation of their property towards building railroads. But the measure became so obnoxious that the repeal of the "five per cent. law" was universally demanded, and the Legislature at the next session lost no time in tearing it from the statute book by an overwhelming vote. But in the proposed Constitution there is no limitation whatever to the amount of debt two-thirds of the voters of a county may incur for any purpose. The Legislature will be utterly powerless to prevent a county from bankrupting itself in favor of some railroad company that has the money to buy and colonize votes enough to secure a county subsidy. And thus one of the principal safeguards against wholesale confiscation of property in the old Constitution is swept away in the new.—Cor. Fresno Expositor.

Objections to the Constitution.

How will the new Constitution affect the farmers—the producers of our bread and the bottom of all industries? Capitalists and bankers can pack their trunks and go, but the farmer is anchored, and will be ruined. If the new Constitution is adopted by the popular vote, the Chiuese, so hateful and superior to Kearney, will populate this State as sure as time lasts—and the Kearney crowd, professing to drive away John, are in fact laboring to give them permaneut possession. The new Constitution destroys our Common Schools. By dividing up the thing among the counties, and making fifty-two differeut standard text books, a perfect Babel will follow in our school system. Section 3, Article 18, requires the survey of all lands before the Assessor can list the same. This will levy a tax of millions, as it is thought most of the lands will have to be re-surveyed. Questions in litigation will arise, which will cause every section of the Constitution to be interpreted by the Courts, at a cost of millions of hard earned money. The new Constitution contains so many new provisions that even the Courts will be befogged over the many new provisions. Look at the proposition to tax all debts and credits. This provision will raise the rates of interest, make the renewal of loans difficult, and add a percent to every article the consumer purchases. The importer, who owes for his goods, can get no deduction of his debts, as his creditors live out of the State, while he is taxed on the full amount of the credit he gives. as well as on the interest money he borrows. The merchant must therefore raise the price of his goods proportionably, and the consumer must foot the bills. All foreign insurance companies will be driven out of the State if the new Constitution is adopted, and the home companies so crippled as to be compelled to raise their rates. The most oppressive and hateful provision in the Constitution is that providing for an Income Tax. Who wants an official poking his nose into his business, ascertaining and publishing to the world his exact financial condition ?—Marysville Appeal.

Demoralizing the School System.

With our school system abridged, the University cut off, politics made a qualification for teaching, and each county a battle ground for book rings, our schools will be so demoralized that sectarian education will flourish rapidly. We believe the educational article was framed to break the school system, and in time divide the school moneys between the different denominations. Read sections 6 and 7 carefully, and we feel certain that if you have a spark of pride for our common schools you will vote against that amplified fiction wrongly termed a Constitution.—Watsonville Pajaronian, April 12th.

Stanford and Co.

That the railroad newspaper organs are loudly opposing the new Constitution is the best evidence that Stanford & Co. are secretly for it. They hope by this means to capture the anti-railroad vote of the State for the instrument, by making people believe that they themselves are against it. It is a part of that strategy of which they are masters.—Exchange.

The advocates of the new Constitution chiefly belong to the discontented class of society—people who, for some reason or another, have failed in the business of life. These, naturally enough, desire a new deal, since, if they cannot better themselves, they cannot well be worse off than they are. Everyone who, by his own carelessness, or crime, has been reduced to his last bit, is sure to vote for the new Constitution in the hope of obtaining a share in the property of others.—San Jose Mercury.

Its Most Extraordinary Bull.

We do not think that it is hypercriticism to say that under section 4 of Article IV. of the new Constitution natives are excluded from the basis of representation. We have read the section again and again for the purpose of discovering whether any other reading is possible, but we have not been successful. The section lays down the rules which are to govern the Legislature in fixing and adjusting the Legislative districts, and then adds: "But in making such adjustment no persons who are not eligible to become citizens of the United States under the naturalization laws shall be counted as forming part of the population of any district,"

The object of this restriction is well understood. The calculation was to exclude the Chinese from the representative basis. There was a sort of heroic self-denial in declaring that the race which all desired should be excluded from the State should not be used as a political lever. Allied to this idea, and co-operating with it, was the more selfish purpose on the part of some interior delegates or reducing the political power of San Francisco. But the weapon hurled at us was in the nature of a boomerang which seems to exclusively compose the arsenal of the Constitution. If there be 30,000 Chinamen in this city there are rising 70,000 or 80,000 in the interior; so the latter would lose politically relatively more than San Francisco. But, however this may be, the restriction aimed at the Chinese was so sweeping in its character that it clearly takes in natives also. They are not "eligible to become citizens of the United States under the naturalization laws." Of course natives would not lose their right to vote or hold office. But as a class they would be deprived of representation in the Legislature. The courts could not construe the section in any other way. There is no rule of constitutional interpretation which allows the addition of new sections. If the section were properly constructed it would read as follows: "But in making such adjustment no persons but native citizens of the United States and those who are eligible to become citizens under the naturalization laws thereof, shall be counted as forming a part of the population of any district."

If the Courts in the future were to interpret the new Constitution on the principle of what it did not say, but meant, an entirely new document would in course of time be evolved. Vol. E. Howard, who has assumed the position of expounder-general, finds great difficulty in the reverse process—trying to prove that it does not mean what it plainly says. He has got himself so involved that it is not seen how he can possibly retrace his steps into the domain of plain and logical reasoning.—Bulletin.

Carrying It Too Far.

It was surely carrying the insolence of egotism a little too far when the Convention undertook to eulogize its own work at the expense of the taxpayers. It may be, however, that the address which has been sent to every voter is rather an intimation that the Convention is aware of the many defects of the new Constitution, and defends them in advance. Perhaps the Convention thought that much of the new matter introduced was so obscure and involved that it was necessary to state just what it meant, as children label their drawings: This is a horse; this is a house; to prevent the one from being mistaken for the other. In that case the address to the people is not so very unreasonable, after all, for certainly very few persons, after reading the Constitution for themselves, would be likely to adopt the interpretation offered by its framers.

But while a good-natured public might be inclined to accept this as an excuse for the impertinent dictation of the address, its style and manner is wholly indefensible. There is scarcely a line which does not betray the vanity of the writers. "We" did this; "We" have made that; "We" have reduced salaries; "We" have prevented abuses. Surely never was an official document published so interlarded with personal pronouns. Then, again, the pompous assumption that every article will have just the effect intended. Why, already the lawyers have placed a dozen different const uctions on many of them, and three months of practical working would probably make us wonder whether they had any meaning at all.—San Jose Mercury.

A Constitution for the Money-lenders.

The money-lender may deduct from his interest-bearing note the amount which he says he owes to residents of this State. The owner of an unmortgaged farm, or mining claim, or house and lot, or stock of merchandise, or of horses, or cattle, or of any other kind of tangible property, is allowed no such offset, no matter how heavily he may be involved in unsecured indebtedness. A owns a farm on which he labors early and late to earn a precarious living, and owes the merchant, the butcher and doctor, more that it is worth, but is taxed for its full value, with not a cent of deduction on account of his indebtedness. B owns a note from which he derives a handsome income; it is five times more valuable and ten times more productive than A's farm, but all of his alleged indebtedness to merchant, butcher and doctor is deducted from the value at which it is assessed for purposes of taxation. This inequality the new Constitution establishes as a fixed rule. No such inequality is authorized under the existing instrument, This is not the kind of amendments demanded by those who believed in the justice of taxing evidences of indebtedness, the source of the largest incomes, and the safest property in the State.—El Dorado Democrat, March 15th.

Fatal to the Mining Interests.

Miners cannot vote for the new Constitution. Whatever might be its effect upon other classes and concerns, its adoption would certainly be fatal to the mining interest and all dependant upon it. Mining is no longer a mere matter of he expenditure of Muscle. It takes capital, and a good deal of it; more, in fact, than usually falls to the lot of individuals. The principal mining operations in every county in this State —gravel and quartz—are conducted by corporations. Generally speaking, the cost of opening and developing a mining claim is greater than an individual is able or cares to incur, while the risk is in most instances hazardous. For these reasons mining enterprises of any importance are commonly prosecuted by incorporated capital. If the work now being prosecuted by corporations in the mineral section should for any cause be stopped, what would there be left of mining ? Nothing at all worthy of the name. Anything then that hampers, restricts or offensively meddles with corporations touches the mining interests directly. And the new Constitution does all of that. It practically confiscates water rights; it assumes to dictate what class of labor corporations shall employ; and imposes various restrictions that are idle, useless, unjust and tyrannical. If the new Constitution should carry, many co npanies would disincorporate and hundreds of enterprises throughout the mining sections would be stopped. There is no use in denying the proposition that mining is risky enough when men have the privilege of investing and spending their money to suit themselves, and that men who are furnishing means to conduct mining operations should be permitted to manage their own affairs. For these reasons we say that the adoption of the new Constitution would strike a deadly blow to the mining interests, and it should and will be strongly opposed throughout the mineral region.—Calaveras Democrat, April 5.

Heavy Poll Tax.

The new Constitution imposes a State poll tax of two dollars per annum upon every adult male, in addition to such poll tax as may be levied by the county; so that if that instrument is adopted, every workingman and laborer in this State will pay a poll tax of four dollars each year in addition to such otner taxes as the Legislature, Board of Supervisors and Board of Town Trustees may choose to impose upon him. At the going rate of wages it will take nearly three days' work for an ordinary laborer to pay his poll tax.—Alameda Argus.

Lumbermen and Ship-owners.

Injurious Effect of the New Constitution Upon this Interest.

We the undersigned lumber merchants and shipowners, doing business in this State, Oregon and Washington Terrttory, believing the passage of the new Constitution would seriously affect the above business interests, and in so doing endanger the prospects of ourselves and those in our employ, numbering some five thousand, we do earnestly appeal to all such to use their influence in defeating it.

Miscellaneous Opinions.

The following are some of the papers of the coast which have spoken out adversely to the new Constitution. We give but one or two reasons advanced by each, taken at random, out of scores of objections raised and sound reasons given, and in many cases indicate only the fact of opposition where quotation cannot be concisely made. Nearly all the papers named below have made the subject a text for elaborate editorials, and no mere "line" characterization can give any adequate idea of the vigor, detail, force, and fairness with which the new Constitution is being debated by the press of the State and coast.

1. The San Francisco Evening Bulletin : Because it is unnecessary; the Old Constitution is sufficient with fifty lines of amendment. It will unsettle business, and is dangerous to the State.

2. San Francisco Evening Post: Because of very many cogent reasons, most of which point to great damage to the State.

3. The San Francisco Daily Alta : The old is better than the new.

4. The Colusa Sun : Because the Railroad Commission, which is autocratic; because it is oppressive.

5. San Francisco Daily Examiner : Its virtues are veneering, paint and putty, and its faults are ill covered by these.

6. Butte County Register : Because of its impracticable revenue system, and the overthrow of the school system.

7. Rio Vista Enterprise : The greater part is full of fatal objections,

8. San Jose Herald-Argus : It is full of tricks and subterfuges, meaningless clap-trap and reckless communism.

9. Amador Ledger: It throttles the mineral development of California and enforces double taxation.

10. Trinity Journal : It will do irreparable injury to tax payers, confiscates all water rights, and confers no powers on the Legislature it has not now, and will upset the school system.

11. Vallejo Daily Chronicle: It accomplishes none of the demanded reforms, and opens the door for endless litigation and judicial redetermination.

12. Napa Daily Register : It will cause endless litigation and put millions in the pockets of lawyers, and otherwise do great harm to the State.

13. Watsonville Pajaronian: Because the Railroad Commission is bad, the whole thing is an attempt to create a Code, and the revenue plan is radically wrong.

14. Placer "Argus:" Better bear the ills we have than fly to those we know not of. It does not check water or land monopoly.

15. Willows "Journal": Under it corruption and fraud unlimited can flourish: It is an everlasting disgrace to the State.

16. Petaluma "Argus": The public school system will receive great damage. On examination, in every instance we must decide in favor of the old Constitution.

17. Tehama "Tocsin": It is a bundle of crudities. It provides for imprisonment for civil actions, fixes a property qualification, forces convict labor on us, and disrupts the judicial system.

18. Napa "Reporter": It is revolutionary, injures the poor more than the rich, keeps the railroad in politics, fixes property qualification, and favors mob rule.

19. San Francisco Exchange: Now the borrower knows where he stands; under the new Constitution everybody will be at sea.

20. Folsom Telegraph : Its provisions are directly antagonistic to the best interests of the State, and will bring to end all enterprise and cripple the energies of the laboring classes.

21. Sacramento Daily Bee: It fails to check land monopoly; provides for double taxation, and creates a dangerous Railroad Commission.

22. Chico Enterprise : Under it, in eight and a quarter years, the tax on circulating capital will equal the original sum invested.

23. Petaluma Courier : The Convention botched the whole matter.

24. San Jose Daily Mercury : For some fifty specific reasons, specially elaborated, among others imprisonment on civil process, taking of private property for municipal purposes without prepayment, etc.

25. El Dorado Republican : Property may be taxed four times under it.

26. Oakland Daily Times : It makes taxation unequal; it attacks the school system; it is full of doubt and uncertainity; it is altogether wrong.

27. Santa Rosa Times : Though its adoption would benefit us personally, we are conscientiously opposed to it, as its provisions are detrimental to the best interests of the State.

28. Alameda Argus: There are so many provisions which operate directly contrary to the purpose for which they are intended.

29. Stockton Daily Independent : The liberty of the citizen is attacked; property qualification to hold office created: it erects an alarmingly dangerous triumvirate; attacks the school system and provides for double taxation.

27. San Jose "Daily Herald" : It is communistic in its tendencies and would work incalculable injury to every interest in the State, if adopted,

41. Solano "Daily Times": It is partisan. is a body of irrepealable legislation and has destructive and inexpedient judicial school and revenue systems and Railroad Commissions.

32. Marin County "Journal": Its adoption would be a calamity as to taxation, railroad management, labor interests, business enterprise, etc.

33. Anaheim "Gazette": Among many objections is that it destroys the educational system, and replaces it with one full of dangers and errors.

34. Oroville "Mercury": The welfare of the State depends on our educational system, and the new Constitution doubles the errors and evils of the present school laws.

35. Sutter "Banner": It abolishes Sutter county by its iniquitous judicial changes.

36. Nevada "Daily Transcript": It strikes a direct and fatal blow to mining interests, crushes out our leading mining corporations, and will impoverish mining communities. It is losing its quondam admirers in this section.

37. Los Angeles "Herald": Because of its bad revenue, railroad, judicial and school provisions. Its article on municipal corporations is a betrayal of the people.

38. San Francisco "Argonaut :" It contains nothing worthy not already in the present Constitution or the prevailing laws of the State.

39. Fresno "Expositor": Its revenue system will entail a heavy burden on the borrowing classes, and forces triple and quadruple taxation. It will work a great injury to the best interests of the State.

40. San Francisco "Commercial Advocate": It shows an absence of just perception of equity, absence of protection to individual rights, absence of recognition of pure freedom which, while it allows unrestrained action so far as no wrong is consummated, yet holds in check the intention to perpetrate evil. It stands a record of shame for California.

41. Inyo "Independent": It tears up the school system and gives nothing in return, and denies the accepted principle of good government in toto, i. e., that the school fund is common property, and should ever remain subject to common control.

42. Territorial "Enterprise," (Virginia City) : By this instrument not only California, but the whole United States has been wronged. It is a city-made instrument, gives power totally un-American, and is generally bad and bigoted.

43. Grass Valley "Union :" It is a senseless crusade against incorporations, and will affect mining interests disastrously.

44. San Francisco News Letter : It failed to be an abortion because it was delivered after and not before its time.

45. Colton Semi-Tropic: This one article of taxation is enough. By it lawyers will grow rich and taxpayers poor.

46. The Pacific : The financial section is bad and will not work well, and will result in confusion and litigation never equalled

47. Modoc Independent : It is composed in the main of useless and superfluous ideas.

48. San Francisco Commercial Herald: It is rife with pernicious features that could scarcely fail to invade vested rights and disintegrate consolidated interests. It imposes double taxation, separates San Francisco from legislative control, is revolutionary and communistic.

49. Mendocino Democrat : At this time our feelings is against it most decidedly.

50. Tulare Times: Kearney proposes to adopt the new Constitution, drive out the officers, get the Legislature, upset the judicial system, force a prohibition law, etc.

51. Sacramento Sunday Times : Let well enough alone. We believed there were defects in the old Constitution, but these could have been remedied without revolutionizing the whole form of State government.

52. Lower Lake Bulletin : It throws the burden of taxation on the borrower.

53. Santa Barbara Advertiser : There are serious omissions in the new Constitution, matters of grave interest to hundreds of thousands.

54. Mountain Democrat : It is no improvement on the old. The taxation clause provides for inequality.

55. San Francisco Spirit of the Times : For many reasons set forth in detail concerning the chief articles of the instrument.

56. Santa Rosa Daily Democrat: It is too much like a leap in the dark.

57. Ferndale Enterprise : The old Constitution, as a whole, is better.

58. "Democratic Dispatch": It is not the people's fault that it took so much time to do so little'

59. "Daily People's Cause": (Red Bluff): The suffrage article is simply preposterous.

60. Castroville "Argus": The Railroad Commission provision is not a wise one. The text-book provision is open to just opposition.

61. Marysville "Daily Appeal": It establishes double taxation: its Railroad Commission is bad ; the present organic law is the best.

62. Lassen "Advocate": It is encumbered with useless and visionary provisions.

63. San Mateo "Times-Gazette": If adopled, it is probable San Mateo County will lose her taxes now collected of the Spring Valley Water Company, under the exemption provided if the works are taken for municipal purposes.

64. Mariposa "Gazette": It is safer to hold to that we have tried.

95. Merced "Express": The old Constitution, with half a dozen amendments, was all that was required.

66. Antioch "Ledger": The Railroad Commissioner clause, the personal responsibility clause for Directors, that concerning water franchises, and others, are so entirely at variance with present laws, that people will hesitate. It has untried clauses, reading like a Code, which had been better left to the Legislature.

67. Santa Clara "Echo;" There will be few intelligent voters who, on giving it their careful consideration, will not find some objectionable features.

68. Calaveras "Chronicle:" In return for all this expense the people are granted the boon of holding a special election at great additional expense.

* * * A good share of their time the delegates sat squandering the people's money, drivelling about economy and reform, and indulging in demagogic blather.

69. Yolo "Mail:" Land monopoly is not checked; women are put on a level with Chinamen; the judicial system is changed, possibly not for the better, etc.

70. Amador "Times:" It seems to be intended as a political, civil and criminal Code; a treatise on banking, agriculture, taxation, jurisprudence and education. The old fogies who got up the United States Constitution did not understand the art of amplification, but strange enough their work stands, and antiquated thinkers believe its brevity and simplicity are two of its crowning glories.

71. Amador "Dispatch:" Opposed, because it is too radical a change of the organic law.

72. The Reno "Gazette" says that the State of Nevada is willing to receive the capital that will be driven from California by the adoption of the new Constitution.

73. Visalia "Delta:" There are so many things to offset the good that we must look with disfavor upon its adoption as a whole.

74. Sonora "Democrat:" It is too wordy and seeks too much to take the place of a code of laws.

75. Contra Costa "Gazette:" As the discussion proceeds the ambiguity and doubtful meaning of the terms employed in many of its important provisions are made so apparent as to convince any one giving them any attention that no positive opinion of their effect can be warranted until they have had a final judicial interpretation.

76. Alameda "Encinal:" It would be hazarding the welfare of the whole people of the State to adopt it as the organic law.

77. Ventura "Free Press:" The educational clause concerning text books is a grave blunder. It will result in wrangling and demoralization.

78. San Francisco "Merchant," If the new Constitution is adopted, we will be worse off than Bonaparte's army after the burning of Moscow. We will lose one-half the population of California, and ruin the other during the retreat.

79. Tuolumne "Independent:" Every day develops some new defect in the new Constitution, which was recently jumbled together by the political place-hunters' Convention at Sacramento. A few amendments to the old instrument was all the people expected and desired.

80. Stockton "Herald:" In many things the old is superior to the new Constitution. The 'Herald' opposes the adoption of the Constitution.

81. Berkely "Advocate:" The delegates failed to redeem their pledges as to the checking of land monopoly.

82. Reno "Journal:" The voters of California will probably reject the new Constitution, and have reason to thank heaven that the Convention is forever adjourned.

83. Chico "Evening Record:" It is a mass of gibberish. If anything can be more absurd than its schedule, it must be the Constitution itself.

APPEAL TO VOTERS.

☞ If every friend of the old Constitution would try and win even only one vote from the ranks of the misguided supporters of the new instrument, between now and the 7th of May, its defeat would be assured. Of course there are many who have ability to convert a large number, but there is scarcely any one so destitute of influence as not to be able to convert ONE erring brother into the right way of thinking. When so much is at stake patriotism and love of country should make every conservative man a Missionary from now till the battle is over. We appeal to the intelligent voters of California everywhere to drop all other business and devote a few days to saving the State from the terrible disgrace and ruin the adoption of the Sand-lot Constitution would bring upon us. And on the day of election vote early. See that your friends vote. Try and persuade those that are wavering that to vote "NO" is altogether the right thing to do. A score of earnest determined men at every polling place working all day for the good cause will make in the aggregate a differen ceof many thousand votes. If one grand effort is made all along the line, victory is certain.

THE CONSTITUTION.

Full Text of Our Present Organic Law.

Let Every Voter Compare the Old Instrument with that Proposed to Supersede It.

Constitution of the State of California.

WE, the people of California, grateful to Almighty God for our freedom, in order to secure its blessings, do establish this Constitution.

ARTICLE I.

DECLARATION OF RIGHTS.

SECTION 1. All men are by nature free and independent, and have certain inalienable rights, among which are those of enjoying and defending life and liberty; acquiring, possessing, and protecting property, and pursuing and obtaining safety and happiness.

SEC. 2. All political power is inherent in the people. Government is instituted for the protection, security, and benefit of the people, and they have the right to alter or reform the same whenever the public good may require it.

SEC. 3. The right of trial by jury shall be secured to all, and remain inviolate forever; but a jury trial may be waived by the parties, in all civil cases, in the manner to be prescribed by law.

SEC. 4. The free exercise and enjoyment of religious professions and worship, without discrimination or preference, shall forever be allowed in this State; and no person shall be rendered incompetent to be a witness on account of his opinions or matters of religious belief; but the liberty of conscience hereby secured shall not be so construed as to excuse acts of licentiousness, or justify practices inconsistent with the peace or safety of the State.

SEC. 5. The privilege of the writ of habeas corpus shall not be suspended, unless when, in cases of rebellion or invasion, the public safety may require its suspension.

SEC. 6. Excessive bail shall not be required, nor excessive fines imposed; nor shall cruel or unusual punishment be inflicted; nor shall witnesses be unreasonably detained.

SEC. 7. All persons shall be bailable by sufficient sureties, unless for capital offences when the proof is evident or the presumption great.

SEC. 8. No person shall be held to answer for a capital or otherwise infamous crime (except in cases of impeachment, and in cases of military when in actual service, and the land and naval forces in time of war, or when this State may keep, with the consent of Congress, in time of peace, and in cases of petty larceny, under the regulation of the Legislature), unless on presentment or indictment of a grand jury; and, in any trial in any court whatever, the party accused shall be allowed to appear and defend, in person and with counsel, as in civil actions. No person shall be subject to be twice put in jeopardy for the same offence; nor shall he be compelled, in any criminal case, to be a witness against himself, nor be deprived of life, liberty, or property without due process of law; nor shall private property be taken for public use without just compensation.

SEC. 9. Every citizen may freely speak, write and publish his sentiments on all subjects, being responsible for the abuse of that right; and no law shall be passed to restrain or abridge the liberty of speech or of the press. In all criminal prosecutions on indictments for libels, the truth may be given in evidence to the jury; and if it shall appear to the jury that the matter charged as libellous is true, and was published with good motives and for justifiable ends, the party shall be acquitted; and the jury shall have the right to determine the law and the fact.

SEC. 10. The people shall have the right freely to assemble together to consult for the common good, to instruct their representatives, and to petition the Legislature for redress of grievances.

SEC. 11. All laws of a general nature shall have a uniform operation.

SEC. 12. The military shall be subordinate to the civil power. No standing army shall be kept up by this State in time of peace; and, in time of war, no appropriation for a standing army shall be for a longer time than two years.

SEC. 13. No soldier shall, in time of peace, be quartered in any house without the consent of the owner; nor in time of war, except in the manner to be prescribed by law.

SEC. 14. Representation shall be apportioned according to population.

SEC. 15. No person shall be imprisoned for debt in any civil action, on mesne or final process, unless in cases of fraud, and no person shall be imprisoned for a militia fine in time of peace.

SEC. 16. No bill of attainder, ex post facto law, or law impairing the obligation of contracts, shall ever be passed.

SEC. 17. Foreigners who are or who may hereafter become bona fide residents of this State, shall enjoy the same rights in respect to the possession, enjoyment and inheritance of property, as native-born citizens.

SEC. 18. Neither slavery nor involuntary servitude, unless for the punishment of crime, shall ever be tolerated in this State.

SEC. 19. The right of the people to be secure in their persons, houses, papers and effects, against unreasonable seizures and searches, shall not be violated; and no warrant shall issue, but on probable cause, supported by oath or affirmation, particularly describing the place to be searched and persons and things to be seized.

SEC. 20. Treason against the State shall consist only in levying war against it, adhering to its enemies, or giving them aid and comfort. No person shall be convicted

ARTICLE II.

RIGHT OF SUFFRAGE.

SECTION 1. Every white male citizen of the United States, and every white male citizen of Mexico who shall have elected to become a citizen of the United States, under the treaty of peace exchanged and ratified at Queretaro, on the thirteenth day of May, eighteen hundred and forty-eight, of the age of twenty-one years, who shall have been a resident of the State six months next preceding the election, and the county or district in which he claims his vote thirty days, shall be entitled to vote at all elections which are now or hereafter may be authorized by law; provided, that nothing herein contained shall be construed to prevent the Legislature, by a two-thirds concurrent vote, from admitting to the right of suffrage Indians, or the descendants of Indians, in such special cases as such a proportion of the legislative body may deem just and proper.

SEC. 2. Electors shall, in all cases, except treason, felony, or breach of the peace, be privileged from arrest on the days of election, during their attendance at such election, going to and returning therefrom.

SEC. 3. No elector shall be obliged to perform militia duty on the day of election, except in time of war or public danger.

SEC. 4. For the purpose of voting, no person shall be deemed to have gained or lost a residence by reason of his presence or absence while employed in the service of the United States; nor while engaged in the navigation of the waters of this State; or of the United States, or of the high seas; nor while a student of any seminary of learning; nor while kept at any almshouse, or other asylum, at public expense; nor while confined in any public prison.

SEC. 5. No idiot or insane person, or person convicted of any infamous crime, shall be entitled to the privileges of an elector.

SEC. 6. All elections by the people shall be by ballot.

ARTICLE III.

DISTRIBUTION OF POWERS.

SECTION 1. The powers of the Government of the State of California shall be divided into three separate departments: the Legislative, the Executive, and Judicial; and no person charged with the exercise of powers properly belonging to one of these departments, shall exercise any function appertaining to either of the others, except in the cases hereinafter expressly directed or permitted.

ARTICLE IV.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

SECTION 1. The legislative power of this State shall be vested in a Senate and Assembly, which shall be designated the Legislature of the State of California; and the enacting clause of every law shall be as follows: "The people of the State of California, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows."

SEC. 2. The sessions of the Legislature shall be biennial, and shall commence on the first Monday of December next ensuing the election of its members, unless the Governor of the State shall, in the interim, convene the Legislature by proclamation. No session shall continue longer than one hundred and twenty days.

SEC. 3. The members of the Assembly shall be chosen biennially, by the qualified electors of their respective districts; on the first Wednesday in September, unless otherwise ordered by the Legislature, and their term of office shall be two years.

SEC. 4. Senators and members of Assembly shall be duly qualified electors in the respective counties and districts which they represent.

SEC. 5. Senators shall be chosen for the term of four years, at the same time and places as members of the Assembly; and no person shall be a member of the Senate, or Assembly, who has not been a citizen and inhabitant of the State, and of the county, or district, for which he shall be chosen, one year next before his election.

SEC. 6. The number of Senators shall not be less than one third, nor more than one half, of that of the members of Assembly; and at the first session of the Legislature after this section takes effect, the Senators shall be divided by lot, as equally as may be, into two classes. The seats of the Senators of the first class shall be vacated at the expiration of the second year, so that one half shall be chosen biennially.

SEC. 7. When the number of Senators is increased, they shall be appointed by lot, so as to keep the two classes as nearly equal in number as possible.

SEC. 8. Each house shall chose its own officers, and judge of the qualifications, elections, elections and returns of its own members.

SEC. 9. A majority of each House shall constitute a quorum to do business; but a smaller number may adjourn from day to day, and may compel the attendance of absent members, in such manner, and under such penalties, as each House may provide.

SEC. 10. Each House shall determine the rules of its own proceedings, and may, with the concurrence of two-thirds of all the members elected, expel a member.

SEC. 11. Each House shall keep a journal of its own proceedings, and publish the same; and the yeas and nays of the members of either house, on any question, shall, at the desire of any three members present, be entered on the journal.

SEC. 12. Members of the Legislature shall, in all cases except treason, felony, and breach of the peace, be privileged from arrest, and they shall not be subject to any civil process during the session of the Legislature, nor for fifteen days next before the commencement and after the termination of each session.

SEC. 13. When vacancies occur in either House, the Governor, or the person exercising the functions of the Governor, shall issue writs of elections to fill such vacancies.

SEC. 14. The doors of each House shall

SEC. 17. Every bill which may have passed the Legislature, shall, before it becomes a law, be presented to the Governor. If he approve it, he shall sign it: but if not, he shall return it, with his objections, to the House in which it originated, which shall enter the same upon the journal, and proceed to reconsider it. If after such reconsideration, it again pass both Houses, by yeas and nays, by a majority of two-thirds of the members of each House present, it shall become a law, notwithstanding the Governor's objections. If any bill shall not be returned within ten days after it shall have been presented to him (Sundays excepted), the same shall be a law, in like manner as if he had signed it, unless the Legislature, by adjournment, prevent such return.

SEC. 18. The Assembly shall have the sole power of impeachment; and all impeachments shall be tried by the Senate. When sitting for that purpose, the Senators shall be upon oath or affirmation; and no person shall be convicted, without the concurrence of two-thirds of the members present.

SEC. 19. The Governor, Lieutenant-Governor, Secretary of State, Controller, Treasurer, Attorney-General, Surveyor General, Justice of the Supreme Court and Judges of the District Courts, shall be liable to impeachment for any misdemeanor in office; but judgment in such cases shall extend only to removal from office, and disqualification to hold any office of honor, trust, or profit, under the State; but the party convicted or acquitted shall nevertheless be liable to indictment, trial, and punishment, according to law. All other civil officers shall be tried, for misdemeanors in office, in such a manner as the Legislature may provide.

SEC. 20. No Senator, or member of Assembly, shall, during the term for which he shall have been elected, be appointed to any civil office of profit, under this State, which shall have been created, or the emoluments of which shall have been increased, during such term, except such offices as may be filled by election by the people.

SEC. 21. No person holding any lucrative office under the United States, or any other power, shall be eligible to any civil office of profit under this State; provided, that officers in the militia, to which there is attached no annual salary, or local officers and postmasters whose compensation does not exceed five hundred dollars per annum, shall not be deemed lucrative.

SEC. 22. No person who shall be convicted of the embezzlement, or defalcation, of the public funds of this State, shall ever be eligible to any office of honor, trust or profit under this State; and the Legislature shall, as soon as practicable, pass a law providing for the punishment of such embezzlement, or defalcation, as a felony.

SEC. 23. No money shall be drawn from the treasury but in consequence of appropriations made by law. An accurate statement of the receipts and expenditures of the public moneys shall be attached to and published with the laws at every regular session of the Legislature.

SEC. 24. The members of the Legislature shall receive for their services a compensation to be fixed by law, and paid out of the public treasury; but no increase of the compensation shall take effect during the term for which the members of either House shall have been elected.

SEC. 25. Every law enacted by the Legislature shall embrace but one object, and that shall be expressed in the title; and no law shall be revised, or amended, by reference to its title; but in such case, the act revised, or section amended, shall be re-enacted and published at length.

SEC. 26. No divorce shall be granted by the Legislature.

SEC. 27. No lottery shall be authorized by this State, nor shall the sale of lottery tickets be allowed.

SEC. 28. The enumeration of the inhabitants of this State shall be taken, under the direction of the Legislature, in the year one thousand eight hundred and fifty-two and one thousand eight hundred and fifty-five, and at the end of every ten years thereafter; and these enumerations, together with the census that may be taken, under the direction of the Congress of the United States in the year one thousand eight hundred and fifty; and every subsequent ten years, shall serve as the basis of representation in both houses of the Legislature.

SEC. 29. The number of Senators and members of Assembly shall, at the first session of the Legislature holden after the enumerations herein provided for are made, be fixed by the Legislature, and apportioned among the several counties districts to be established by law, according to the number of white inhabitants. The number of members of Assembly shall not be less than twenty-four, nor more than thirty-six, until the number of inhabitants within this State shall amount to one hundred thousand; and after that period, in such ratio that the whole number of members of Assembly shall never be less than thirty nor more than eighty.

SEC. 30. When a Congressional, Senatorial, or Assembly district shall be composed of two or more counties, it shall not be separated by any county belonging to another district. No county shall be divided in forming a Congressional, Senatorial, or Assembly district, so as to attach one portion of a county to another county; but the Legislature may divide each county into as many Congressional, Senatorial, or Assembly districts, as such county may by apportionment be entitled to.

SEC. 31. Corporations may be formed under general laws, but shall not be created by special act, except for municipal purposes. All general laws and special acts passed pursuant to this section may be altered from time to time, or repealed.

SEC. 32. Dues from corporations shall be secured by such individual liability of the corporators, and other means, as may power to pass any act granting any charter for banking purposes; but associations may be formed, under general laws, for the deposit of gold and silver; but no such association shall make, issue, or put in circulation any bill, check, ticket, certificate, promissory note, or other paper, or the paper of any bank, to circulate as money.

SEC. 35. The Legislature of this State shalt prohibit, by law, any person or persons, association, company, or corporation, from exercising the privileges of banking, or creating paper to circulate as money.

SEC. 36. Each stockholder of a corporation, or joint-stock association, shall be individually and personally liable for his proportion of all its debts and liabilities.

SEC. 37. It shall be the duty of the Legislature to provide for the organization of cities and incorporated villages, and to restrict their power of taxation, assessment, borrowing money, contracting debts, and loaning their credit, so as to prevent abuses in assessments and in contracting debts by such municipal corporations.

SEC. 38. In all elections by the Legislature, the members thereof shall vote viva voce, and the votes shall be entered on the journal.

SEC. 39. In order that no inconvenience may result to the public service from the taking effect of the amendments proposed to Article Four by the Legislature of eighteen huadred and sixty-one, no officer shall be suspended or superseded thereby untill the election and qualification of the several officers provided for in said amendments.

ARTICLE V.

EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT.

SECTION 1. The supreme executive power of this State shall be vested in a chief magistrate, who shall be styled the Governor of the State of California.

SEC. 2. The Governor shall be elected by the qualified electors at the time and places of voting for members of the Assembly, and shall hold his office four years from and after the first Monday in December subsequent to his election, and until his successor is elected and qualified.

SEC. 3. No person shall be eligible to the office of Governor (except at the first election) who has not been a citizen of the United States, and a resident of this State two years next preceding the election, and attained the age of twenty-five years at the time of said election.

SEC. 4. The returns of every election for governor shall be sealed up and transmitted to the seat of Government, directed to the Speaker of the Assembly, who shall, during the first week of the session, open and publish them in the presence of both houses of the Legislature. The person having the highest number of votes shall be Governor; but in case any two or more have an equal and the highest number of votes, the Legislature shall, by joint vote of both houses, choose one of said persons, so having an equal and the highest number of votes, for Governor.

SEC. 5. The Governor shall be commander-in-chief of the militia, the army and navy of this State.

SEC. 6. He shall transact all executive business with the officers of Government, civil and military, and may require information in writing from the officers of the executive department, upon any subject relating to the duties of their respective offices.

SEC. 7. He shall see that the laws are faithfully executed.

SEC. 8. When any office shall, from any cause, become vacant, and no mode is provided by the Constitution and law for filling such vacancy, the Governor shall have power to fill such vacancy by granting a commission, which shall expire at the end of the next session of the Legislature, or at the next election by the people.

SEC. 9. He may, on extraordinary occasions, convene the Legislature by proclamation, and shall state to both houses, when assembled, the purpose for which they shall have been convened.

SEC. 10. He shall communicate by message, to the Legislature, at every session, the condition of the State, and recommend such matters as he shall deem expedient.

SEC. 11. In case of a disagreement between the two houses, with respect to the time of anjournment, the Governor shall have power to adjourn the Legislature to such time as he may think proper; provided it be not beyond the time fixed for the meeting of the next Legislature.

SEC. 12. No person shall, while holding any office under the United States, or this State, exercise the office of Governor, except as hereinafter expressly provided.

SEC. 13. The Governor shall have the power to grant reprieves and pardons after conviction, for all offences except treason and cases of impeachment, upon such conditions, and with such restrictions and limitations, as he may think proper, subject to such regulations as may be provided by law relative to the manner of applying for pardons. Upon conviction for treason, he shall have the power to suspend the execution of the sentence until the case shall be reported to the Legislature at its next meeting, when the Legislature shall either pardon, direct the execution of the sentence, or grant a further reprieve. He shall communicate to the Legislature, at the beginning of every session, every case of reprieve or pardon granted, stating the name of the convict, the crime of which he was convicted, the sentence and its date, and the date of the pardon or reprieve.

SEC. 14. There shall be a seal of this State, which shall be kept by the Governor, and used by him officially, and shall be called "The Great Seal of the State of California."

SEC. 15. All grants and commissions shall be in the name and by the authority of the people of the State of California, sealed with the great seal of the State, signed by the Governor and countersigned by the Secretary of State.

SEC. 16. A Lieutenant-Governor shall be elected at the same time and places, and in the same manner as the Governor; and his term of office and his qualifications of eligi-

SEC. 17. In case of the impeachment of the Governor, or his removal from office, death, inability to discharge the powers and duties of the said office, resignation, or absence from the State, the powers and duties of the office shall devolve upon the Lieutenant-Governor for the residue of the term, or until the disability shall cease. But when the Governor shall, with the consent of the Legislature, be out of the State in time of war, at the head of any military force thereof, he shall continue Commander-in-Chief of all the military force of the State.

SEC. 18. A Secretary of State, a Controller, a Treasurer, a Attorney-General, and a Surveyor-General, shall be elected at the same time and places, and in the same manner, as the Governor and Lieutenant-Governor, and whose term of office shall be the same as the Governor.

SEC. 19. The Secretary of State shall keep a fair record of the official acts of the legislative and exeeutive departments of the government, and shall, when required, lay the same, and all matters relative thereto, before either branch of the Legislature, and shall perform such other duties as may be assigned him by law; and in order that no inconvenience may result to the public service from the taking effect of the amendments proposed to said Article V. by the Legislature of one thousand eight hundred and sixty-one, no officer shall be superseded or suspended thereby, until the election and qualification of the several officers provided for in said amendments.

SEC. 20. The Controller, Treasurer, Attorney-General, and Surveyor-General, shall be chosen by joint vote of the two Houses of the Legislature, at their first session under this Constitution, and thereafter shall be elected at the same time and places, and in the same manner, as the Governor and Lieutenant-Governor.

SEC. 21. The Governor, Lieutenant-Governor, Secretary of State, Controller, Treasurer, Attorney-General, and Surveyor-General, shall each at stated times during their continuance in office, receive for their services a compensation, which shall not be increased or diminished during the term for which they shall have been elected; but neither of these officers shall receive for his own use any fees for the performance of his official duties.

ARTICLE VI.

JUDICIAL DEPARTMENT.

SECTION 1. The judicial power of this State shall be vested in a Supreme Court, in District Courts, in County Courts, in Probate Courts, and in Justices of the Peace, and in such Recorders' and other inferior courts as the Legislature may establish in any incorporated city or town.

SEC. 2. The Supreme Court shall consist of a Chief Justice and four Associate Justices. The presence of three Justices shall be necessary for the transaction of business, excepting such business as may be done at chambers, and the concurrence of three Justices shall be necessary to pronounce a judgement.

SEC. 3. The Justices of the Supreme Court shall be elected by the qualified electors of the State at special elections to be provided by law, at which elections no officer other than judicial shall be elected, except a Superintendent of Public Instruction. The first election for Justices of the Supreme Court shall be held in the year eighteen hundred and sixty-three. The Justices shall hold their offices for the term of ten years from the first day of January next after their election, except those elected at the first election, who, at their first meeting, shall so classify themselves by lot that one Justice shall go out of office every two years. The Justice having the shortest term to serve shall be the Chief Justice.

SEC. 4. The Supreme Court shall have appellate jurisdiction in all cases in equity; also, in all cases at law which involve the title or possession of real estate, or the legality of any tax, impost, assessment, toll or municipal fine or in which the demand, exclusive of interest, or the value of the property in controversy, amounts to three hundred dollars; also in all cases arising in Probate Courts; and also, in all criminal cases amounting to felony, on questions of law alone. The Courts shall also have power to issue writs of mandamus, certiorari, prohibition and habeas corpus; and also, all writs necessary or proper to the complete exercise of its appellate jurisdiction. Each of the Justices shall have power to issue writs of habeas corpus to any part of the State, upon petition on behalf of any person held in actual custody, or may make such writs returnable before himself, or the Supreme Court, or before any District Court, or any County Court in the State, or before any Judge of said Courts.

SEC. 5. The State shall be divided by the Legislature of eighteen hundred and sixty-three into fourteen Judicial Districts, subject to such alteration from time to time, by a two-thirds vote of all the members elected in both houses, as public good may require; in each of which there shall be a District Court, and for each of which a District Judge shall be elected by the qualified electors of the district, at the special judical elections to be held as provided for the election of Justices of the Supreme Court by section three of this Article. The District Judges shall hold their offices for the term of six years from the first day of January next after their election. The Legislature shall have no power to grant leave of absence to a judicial officer, and any such officer who shall absent himself from the State for upwards of thirty consecutive days shall be deemed to have forfeited his office.

SEC. 6. The District Courts shall have original jurisdiction in all cases in equity; also in all cases at law which involve the title or possession of real property, or the legality of any tax, impost, assessment, toll or municipal fine, and in all other cases in which the demand, exclusive of interest, or the value of the property in controversy, amounts to three hundred dollars; and also in all criminal cases not otherwise provided for. The District Courts and their Judges shall have power to issue writs of habeas corpus on petition by, or on behalf of, any person held in actual custody in their respective districts.

SEC. 7. There shall be in each of the original counties of the State a County Court, for each of which a County Judge shall be elected by the qualified electors of the County, at special Judicial elections to be held, as provided for the election of Justices of the Supreme Court, by section three of this Article. The County Judges shall hold their offices for the term of four years from the first day of January next after their election. Said Courts shall also have power to issue naturalization papers. In the city and county of San Francisco the Legislature may separate the office of Probate Judge from that of County Judge, and may provide for the election of a Probate Judge, who shall hold his office for the term of four years.

SEC. 8. The County Courts shall have original jurisdiction of actions of forcible entry and detainer, of proceedings in insolvency, of actions to prevent or abate a nuisance, and of all such special cases and proceedings as are not otherwise provided for, and also such criminal jurisdiction as the Legislature may prescribe; they shall also have appellate jurisdiction in all cases arising in Courts held by Justices of the Peace and Recorders, and in such inferior Courts as may be established, in pursuance of Section one of this Article, in their respective counties. The County Judges shall also hold, in their several counties, shall not in any case trench upon the jurisdiction of the several Courts of Record. The Supreme Court, the District Courts, County Courts, the Probate Courts, and such other Courts as the Legislature shall prescribe, shall be Courts of record.

SEC. 10. The Legislature shall fix by law the jurisdiction of any Recorder's or other inferior Municipal Court, which may be established in pursuance of section one of this Article, and shall fix by law the powers, duties and responsibilities of the Judges thereof.

SEC. 11. The Legislature shall provide for the election of a Clerk of the Supreme Court, County Clerks, District Attorneys, Sheriffs, and other necessary offices, and shall fix by law their duties and compensation. County Clerks shall be ex-officio Clerks of the Courts of record in and for their respective counties. The Legislature may also provide for the appointment by the several District Courts of one or more Commissioners in the several counties of their respective districts, with authority to perform chamber business of the Judges of the District Courts and County Courts, and also to take depositions, and to perform such other business connected with the administration of justice as may be prescribed by law.

SEC. 12. The times and places of holding the terms of the several Courts of record shall be provided for by law.

SEC. 13. No judicial officer, except Justices of the Peace, Recorders, and Commissioners shall receive to his own use any fees or perquisities of office.

SEC. 14. The Legislature shall provide for the speedy publication of such opinions of the Supreme Court as it may deem expedient; and all opinions shall be free for publication by any person.

SEC. 15. The Justices of the Supreme Court, District Judges, and County Judges shall severally, at stated times during their continuance in office, receive for their services a compensation which shall not be increased or diminished during the term for which they shall have been elected; provided, that County Judges shall be paid out of the County Treasury of their respective counties.

SEC. 16. The Justices of the Supreme Court, and the District Judges, and the County Judges, shall be ineligible to any other office than a judicial office during the term for which they shall have been elected.

SEC. 17. Judges shall not charge juries with respect to matters of fact, but may state the testimony and declare the law.

SEC. 18. The style of all process shall be: "The People of the State of California," and all prosecutions shall be conducted in their name and by their authority.

SEC. 19. In order that no inconvenience may result to the public service from the taking effect of the amendments proposed to said Article Six by the Legislature of eighteen hundred and sixty-one, no officer shall be superseded thereby, nor shall the organization of the several Courts be changed thereby, until the election and qualification of the several officers provided for in said amendments.

ARTICLE VII.

MILITIA.

SEC. 1. The Legislature shall provide by law for organizing and disciplining the militia, in such manner as they shall deem expedient, not incompatible with the Constitution and laws of the United States.

SEC. 2. Officers of the militia shall be elected or appointed, in such manner as the Legislature shall from time to time direct, and shall be commissioned by the Governor.

SEC. 3. The Governor shall have power to call forth the militia to execute the laws of the State, to suppress insurrections, and repel invasions.

ARTICLE VIII.

STATE DEBTS.

SEC. 1. The Legislature shall not in any manner create any debt or debts, liability or liabilities; which shall, singly or in the aggregate with any previous debts or liabilities, exceed the sum of three hundred thousand dollars, except in case of war, to repel invasion, or suppress insurrection, unless the same shall be authorized by some law or some single object or work, to be distinctly specified therein, which law shall provide ways and means, exclusive of loans, for the payment of the interest of such debt or liability within twenty years from the time of the contracting thereof, and shall be irrepealable until the principal and interest thereon shall be paid and discharged; but no such law shall take effect until at a general election, it shall have been submitted to the people, and received a majority of all the votes cast for and against it at such election; and all money raised by authority of such law, shall be applied only to the specified object therein stated, or to the payment of the debt thereby created; and such law shall be published in at least one newspaper in each judicial district if one be published therein, throughout the State, for three months next preceding the election at which it is submitted to the people.

ARTICLE IX.

EDUCATION.

SEC. 1. A Superintendent of Public Instruction shall, at the special election for Judicial officers, to be held in the year eighteen hundred and sixty-three, and every four years thereafter at such special elections, be elected by the qualified voters of the State, and shall enter upon the duties of his office on the first day of December next after his election.

SEC. 2. The Legislature shall encourage, by all suitable means, the promotion of intellectual, scientific, moral, and agricultural improvement. The proceeds of all lands that may be granted by the United States to the State for the support of schools, which may be sold or disposed of, and the five hundred thousand acres of land granted to the new States, under an Act of Congress distributing the proceeds of the public lands among the several States of the Union, approved A. D. one thousand eight hundred and forty-one, and all estates of deceased persons who may have died without leaving a will or heir, and also such per cent as may be granted by Congress on the sale of lands in this State, shall be and remain a perpetual fund, the interest of which, together with all the rents of the unsold lands, and such other means as the Legislature may provide, shall be inviolably appropriated to the support of the common schools throughout the State.

SEC. 3. The Legislature shall provide for a system of common schools, by which a school shall be kept up and supported in each district at least three months in every year, and any school district neglecting to keep up and support such a school may be deprived of its proportion of the interest of the public fund during such neglect.

SEC. 4. The Legislature shall take measures for the protection, improvement, or other disposition of such lands as have been or may hereafter be reserved or granted by the United States, or any person or persons, to this State for the use of a university; and the funds accruing from the rents or sale of such lands, or from any other source for the purpose aforesaid, shall be and remain a permanent fund, the interest of which shall be applied to the support of said university, with such branches as the public conveyance may demand, for the promotion of literature, the arts, and sciences, as may be authorized by the terms of such grant. SUPPLEMENT

THE CONSTITUTION.

Let Every Voter Compare the Old Instrument with that Proposed to Supersede It.

Constitution of the State of California.

WE, the people of California, grateful to Almighty God for our freedom, in order to secure its blessings, do establish this Constitution.

ARTICLE I.

DECLARATION OF RIGHTS.

SECTION 1. All men are by nature free and independent, and have certain inalienable rights, among which are those of enjoying and defending life and liberty; acquiring, possessing, and protecting property, and pursuing and obtaining safety and happiness.

SEC. 2. All political power is inherent in the people. Government is instituted for the protection, security, and benefit of the people, and they have the right to alter or reform the same whenever the public good may require it.

SEC. 3. The right of trial by jury shall be secured to all, and remain inviolate forever; but a jury trial may be waived by the parties, in all civil cases, in the manner to be prescribed by law.

SEC. 4. The free exercise and enjoyment of religious professions and worship, without discrimination or preference, shall forever be allowed in this State; and no person shall be rendered incompetent to be a witness on account of his opinions or matters of religious belief; but the liberty of conscience hereby secured shall not be so construed as to excuse acts of licentiousness, or justify practices inconsistent with the peace or safety of the State.

SEC. 5. The privilege of the writ of habeas corpus shall not be suspended, unless when, in cases of rebellion or invasion, the public safety may require its suspension.

SEC. 6. Excessive bail shall not be required, nor excessive fines imposed; nor shall cruel or unusual punishment be inflicted; nor shall witnesses be unreasonably detained.

SEC. 7. All persons shall be bailable by sufficient sureties, unless for capital offences when the proof is evident or the presumption great.

SEC. 8. No person shall be held to answer for a capital or otherwise infamous crime (except in cases of impeachment, and in cases of military when in actual service, and the land and naval forces in time of war, or when this State may keep, with the consent of Congress, in time of peace, and in cases of petty larceny, under the regulation of the Legislature), unless on presentment or indictment of a grand jury; and, in any trial in any court whatever, the party accused shall be allowed to appear and defend, in person and with counsel, as in civil actions. No person shall be subject to be twice put in jeopardy for the same offence; nor shall he be compelled, in any criminal case, to be a witness against himself, nor be deprived of life, liberty, or property without due process of law; nor shall private property be taken for public use without just compensation.

SEC. 9. Every citizen may freely speak, write and publish his sentiments on all subjects, being responsible for the abuse of that right; and no law shall be passed to restrain or abridge the liberty of speech or of the press. In all criminal prosecutions on indictments for libels, the truth may be given in evidence to the jury; and if it shall appear to the jury that the matter charged as libellous is true, and was published with good motives and for justifiable ends, the party shall be acquitted; and the jury shall have the right to determine the law and the fact.

SEC. 10. The people shall have the right freely to assemble together to consult for the common good, to instruct their representatives, and to petition the Legislature for redress of grievances.

SEC. 11. All laws of a general nature shall have a uniform operation.

SEC. 12. The military shall be subordinate to the civil power. No standing army shall be kept up by this State in time of peace; and, in time of war, no appropriation for a standing army shall be for a longer time than two years.

SEC. 13. No soldier shall, in time of peace, be quartered in any house without the consent of the owner; nor in time of war, except in the manner to be prescribed by law.

SEC. 14. Representation shall be apportioned according to population.

SEC. 15. No person shall be imprisoned for debt in any civil action, on mesne or final process, unless in cases of fraud, and no person shall be imprisoned for a militia fine in time of peace.

SEC. 16. No bill of attainder, ex post facto law, or law impairing the obligation of contracts, shall ever be passed.

SEC. 17. Foreigners who are or who may hereafter become bona fide residents of this State, shall enjoy the same rights in respect to the possession, enjoyment and inheritance of property, as native-born citizens.

SEC. 18. Neither slavery nor involuntary servitude, unless for the punishment of crime, shall ever be tolerated in this State.

SEC. 19. The right of the people to be secure in their persons, houses, papers and effects, against unreasonable seizures and searches, shall not be violated; and no warrant shall issue, but on probable cause, supported by oath or affirmation, particularly describing the place to be searched and persons and things to be seized.

SEC. 20. Treason against the State shall consist only in levying war against it, adhering to its enemies, or giving them aid and comfort. No person shall be convicted of treason, unless on the evidence of two witnesses to the same overt act, or confession in open court.

SEC. 21. This enumeration of rights shall not be construed to impair or deny others retained by the people.

SEC. 22. The Legislature shall have no power to make an appropriation for any purpose whatever for a longer period than two years.
(Amendment of 1871.)

RIGHT OF SUFFRAGE.

SECTION 1. Every white male citizen of the United States, and every white male citizen of Mexico who shall have elected to become a citizen of the United States, under the treaty of peace exchanged and ratified at Queretaro, on the thirteenth day of May, eighteen hundred and forty-eight, of the age of twenty-one years, who shall have been a resident of the State six months next preceding the election, and the county or district in which he claims his vote thirty days, shall be entitled to vote at all elections which are now or hereafter may be authorized by law; provided, that nothing herein contained shall be construed to prevent the Legislature, by a two-thirds concurrent vote, from admitting to the right of suffrage Indians, or the descendants of Indians, in such special cases as such a proportion of the legislative body may deem just and proper.

SEC. 2. Electors shall, in all cases, except treason, felony, or breach of the peace, be privileged from arrest on the days of election, during their attendance at such election, going to and returning therefrom.

SEC. 3. No elector shall be obliged to perform militia duty on the day of election, except in time of war or public danger.

SEC. 4. For the purpose of voting, no person shall be deemed to have gained or lost a residence by reason of his presence or absence while employed in the service of the United States; nor while engaged in the navigation of the waters of this State; or of the United States, or of the high seas; nor while a student of any seminary of learning; nor while kept at any almshouse, or other asylum, at public expense; nor while confined in any public prison.

SEC. 5. No idiot or insane person, or person convicted of any infamous crime, shall be entitled to the privileges of an elector.

SEC. 6. All elections by the people shall be by ballot.

ARTICLE III.

DISTRIBUTION OF POWERS.

SECTION 1. The powers of the Government of the State of California shall be divided into three separate departments: the Legislative, the Executive, and Judicial; and no person charged with the exercise of powers properly belonging to one of these departments, shall exercise any function appertaining to either of the others, except in the cases hereinafter expressly directed or permitted.

ARTICLE IV.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

SECTION 1. The legislative power of this State shall be vested in a Senate and Assembly, which shall be designated the Legislature of the State of California; and the enacting clause of every law shall be as follows: "The people of the State of California, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows."

SEC. 2. The sessions of the Legislature shall be biennial, and shall commence on the first Monday of December next ensuing the election of its members, unless the Governor of the State shall, in the interim, convene the Legislature by proclamation. No session shall continue longer than one hundred and twenty days.

SEC. 3. The members of the Assembly shall be chosen biennially, by the qualified electors of their respective districts; on the first Wednesday in September, unless otherwise ordered by the Legislature, and their term of office shall be two years.

SEC. 4. Senators and members of Assembly shall be duly qualified electors in the respective counties and districts which they represent.

SEC. 5. Senators shall be chosen for the term of four years, at the same time and places as members of the Assembly; and no person shall be a member of the Senate, or Assembly, who has not been a citizen and inhabitant of the State, and of the county, or district, for which he shall be chosen, one year next before his election.

SEC. 6. The number of Senators shall not be less than one third, nor more than one half, of that of the members of Assembly; and at the first session of the Legislature after this section takes effect, the Senators shall be divided by lot, as equally as may be, into two classes. The seats of the Senators of the first class shall be vacated at the expiration of the second year, so that one half shall be chosen biennially.

SEC. 7. When the number of Senators is increased, they shall be appointed by lot, so as to keep the two classes as nearly equal in number as possible.

SEC. 8. Each house shall chose its own officers, and judge of the qualifications, elections, elections and returns of its own members.

SEC. 9. A majority of each House shall constitute a quorum to do business; but a smaller number may adjourn from day to day, and may compel the attendance of absent members, in such manner, and under such penalties, as each House may provide.

SEC. 10. Each House shall determine the rules of its own proceedings, and may, with the concurrence of two-thirds of all the members elected, expel a member.

SEC. 11. Each House shall keep a journal of its own proceedings, and publish the same; and the yeas and nays of the members of either house, on any question, shall, at the desire of any three members present, be entered on the journal.

SEC. 12. Members of the Legislature shall, in all cases except treason, felony, and breach of the peace, be privileged from arrest, and they shall not be subject to any civil process during the session of the Legislature, nor for fifteen days next before the commencement and after the termination of each session.

SEC. 13. When vacancies occur in either House, the Governor, or the person exercising the functions of the Governor, shall issue writs of elections to fill such vacancies.

SEC. 14. The doors of each House shall be open, except on such occasions as, in the opinion of the House, may require secrecy.

SEC. 15. Neither House shall, without the consent of the other, adjourn for more than three days, nor to any other place than that in which they may be sitting.

SEC. 16. Any bill may originate in either House of the Legislature, and all bills passed by one House may be amended in the other.

SEC. 17. Every bill which may have passed the Legislature, shall, before it becomes a law, be presented to the Governor. If he approve it, he shall sign it; but if not, he shall return it, with his objections, to the House in which it originated, which shall enter the same upon the journal, and proceed to reconsider it. If after such reconsideration, it again pass both Houses, by yeas and nays, by a majority of two-thirds of the members of each House present, it shall become a law, notwithstanding the Governor's objections. If any bill shall not be returned within ten days after it shall have been presented to him (Sundays excepted), the same shall be a law, in like manner as if he had signed it, unless the Legislature, by adjournment, prevent such return.

SEC. 18. The Assembly shall have the sole power of impeachment; and all impeachments shall be tried by the Senate. When sitting for that purpose, the Senators shall be upon oath or affirmation; and no person shall be convicted, without the concurrence of two-thirds of the members present.

SEC. 19. The Governor, Lieutenant-Governor, Secretary of State, Controller, Treasurer, Attorney-General, Surveyor General, Justice of the Supreme Court and Judges of the District Courts, shall be liable to impeachment for any misdemeanor in office; but judgment in such cases shall extend only to removal from office, and disqualification to hold any office of honor, trust, or profit, under the State; but the party convicted or acquitted shall nevertheless be liable to indictment, trial, and punishment, according to law. All other civil officers shall be tried, for misdemeanors in office, in such a manner as the Legislature may provide.

SEC. 20. No Senator, or member of Assembly, shall, during the term for which he shall have been elected, be appointed to any civil office of profit, under this State, which shall have been created, or the emoluments of which shall have been increased, during such term, except such offices as may be filled by election by the people.

SEC. 21. No person holding any lucrative office under the United States, or any other power, shall be eligible to any civil office of profit under this State; provided, that officers in the militia, to which there is attached no annual salary, or local officers and postmasters whose compensation does not exceed five hundred dollars per annum, shall not be deemed lucrative.

SEC. 22. No person who shall be convicted of the embezzlement, or defalcation, of the public funds of this State, shall ever be eligible to any office of honor, trust or profit under this State; and the Legislature shall, as soon as practicable, pass a law providing for the punishment of such embezzlement, or defalcation, as a felony.

SEC. 23. No money shall be drawn from the treasury but in consequence of appropriations made by law. An accurate statement of the receipts and expenditures of the public moneys shall be attached to and published with the laws at every regular session of the Legislature.

SEC. 24. The members of the Legislature shall receive for their services a compensation to be fixed by law, and paid out of the public treasury; but no increase of the compensation shall take effect during the term for which the members of either House shall have been elected.

SEC. 25. Every law enacted by the Legislature shall embrace but one object, and that shall be expressed in the title; and no law shall be revised, or amended, by reference to its title; but in such case, the act revised, or section amended, shall be re-enacted and published at length.

SEC. 26. No divorce shall be granted by the Legislature.

SEC. 27. No lottery shall be authorized by this State, nor shall the sale of lottery tickets be allowed.

SEC. 28. The enumeration of the inhabitants of this State shall be taken, under the direction of the Legislature, in the year one thousand eight hundred and fifty-two and one thousand eight hundred and fifty-five, and at the end of every ten years thereafter; and these enumerations, together with the census that may be taken, under the direction of the Congress of the United States in the year one thousand eight hundred and fifty; and every subsequent ten years, shall serve as the basis of representation in both houses of the Legislature.

SEC. 29. The number of Senators and members of Assembly shall, at the first session of the Legislature holden after the enumerations herein provided for are made, be fixed by the Legislature, and apportioned among the several counties districts to be established by law, according to the number of white inhabitants. The number of members of Assembly shall not be less than twenty-four, nor more than thirty-six, until the number of inhabitants within this State shall amount to one hundred thousand; and after that period, in such ratio that the whole number of members of Assembly shall never be less than thirty nor more than eighty.

SEC. 30. When a Congressional, Senatorial, or Assembly district shall be composed of two or more counties, it shall not be separated by any county belonging to another district. No county shall be divided in forming a Congressional, Senatorial, or Assembly district, so as to attach one portion of a county to another county; but the Legislature may divide each county into as many Congressional, Senatorial, or Assembly districts, as such county may by apportionment be entitled to.

SEC. 31. Corporations may be formed under general laws, but shall not be created by special act, except for municipal purposes. All general laws and special acts passed pursuant to this section may be altered from time to time, or repealed.

SEC. 32. Dues from corporations shall be secured by such individurl liability of the corporators, and other means, as may be prescribed by law.

SEC. 33. The term corporations as used in this article shall be constructed to include all association and joint-stock companies, having any of the powers or privileges of corporations not possessed by individuals or partnerships. And all corporations shall have the right to sue, and shall be subject to be sued, in all courts, in like cases as natural persons.

SEC. 34. The Legislature shall have no power to pass any act granting any charter for banking purposes; but associations may be formed, under general laws, for the deposit of gold and silver; but no such association shall make, issue, or put in circulation any bill, check, ticket, certificate, promissory note, or other paper, or the paper of any bank, to circulate as money.

SEC. 35. The Legislature of this State shalt prohibit, by law, any person or persons, association, company, or corporation, from exercising the privileges of banking, or creating paper to circulate as money.

SEC. 36. Each stockholder of a corporation, or joint-stock association, shall be individually and personally liable for his proportion of all its debts and liabilities.

SEC. 37. It shall be the duty of the Legislature to provide for the organization of cities and incorporated villages, and to restrict their power of taxation, assessment, borrowing money, contracting debts, and loaning their credit, so as to prevent abuses in assessments and in contracting debts by such municipal corporations.

SEC. 38. In all elections by the Legislature, the members thereof shall vote viva voce, and the votes shall be entered on the journal.

SEC. 39. In order that no inconvenience may result to the public service from the taking effect of the amendments proposed to Article Four by the Legislature of eighteen huadred and sixty-one, no officer shall be suspended or superseded thereby untill the election and qualification of the several officers provided for in said amendments.

ARTICLE V.

EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT.

SECTION 1. The supreme executive power of this State shall be vested in a chief magistrate, who shall be styled the Governor of the State of California.

SEC. 2. The Governor shall be elected by the qualified electors at the time and places of voting for members of the Assembly, and shall hold his office four years from and after the first Monday in December subsequent to his election, and until his successor is elected and qualified.

SEC. 3. No person shall be eligible to the office of Governor (except at the first election) who has not been a citizen of the United States, and a resident of this State two years next preceding the election, and attained the age of twenty-five years at the time of said election.

SEC. 4. The returns of every election for governor shall be sealed up and transmitted to the seat of Government, directed to the Speaker of the Assembly, who shall, during the first week of the session, open and publish them in the presence of both houses of the Legislature. The person having the highest number of votes shall be Governor; but in case any two or more have an equal and the highest number of votes, the Legislature shall, by joint vote of both houses, choose one of said persons, so having an equal and the highest number of votes, for Governor.

SEC. 5. The Governor shall be commander-in-chief of the militia, the army and navy of this State.

SEC. 6. He shall transact all executive business with the officers of Government, civil and military, and may require information in writing from the officers of the executive department, upon any subject relating to the duties of their respective offices.

SEC. 7. He shall see that the laws are faithfully executed.

SEC. 8. When any office shall, from any cause, become vacant, and no mode is provided by the Constitution and law for filling such vacancy, the Governor shall have power to fill such vacancy by granting a commission, which shall expire at the end of the next session of the Legislature, or at the next election by the people.

SEC. 9. He may, on extraordinary occasions, convene the Legislature by proclamation, and shall state to both houses, when assembled, the purpose for which they shall have been convened.

SEC. 10. He shall communicate by message, to the Legislature, at every session, the condition of the State, and recommend such matters as he shall deem expedient.

SEC. 11. In case of a disagreement between the two houses, with respect to the time of anjournment, the Governor shall have power to adjourn the Legislature to such time as he may think proper; provided it be not beyond the time fixed for the meeting of the next Legislature.

SEC. 12. No person shall, while holding any office under the United States, or this State, exercise the office of Governor, except as hereinafter expressly provided.

SEC. 13. The Governor shall have the power to grant reprieves and pardons after conviction, for all offences except treason and cases of impeachment, upon such conditions, and with such restrictions and limitations, as he may think proper, subject to such regulations as may be provided by law relative to the manner of applying for pardons. Upon conviction for treason, he shall have the power to suspend the execution of the sentence until the case shall be reported to the Legislature at its next meeting, when the Legislature shall either pardon, direct the execution of the sentence, or grant a further reprieve. He shall communicate to the Legislature, at the beginning of every session, every case of reprieve or pardon granted, stating the name of the convict, the crime of which he was convicted, the sentence and its date, and the date of the pardon or reprieve.

SEC. 14. There shall be a seal of this State, which shall be kept by the Governor, and used by him officially, and shall be called "The Great Seal of the State of California."

SEC. 15. All grants and commissions shall be in the name and by the authority of the people of the State of California, sealed with the great seal of the State, signed by the Governor and countersigned by the Secretary of State.

SEC. 16. A Lieutenant-Governor shall be elected at the same time and places, and in the same manner as the Governor; and his term of office and his qualifications of eligibility, shall also be the same. He shall be President of the Senate, but shall only have a casting vote therein. If during a vacancy of the office of Governor, the Lieutenant-Governor shall be impeached, displaced, resign, die, or become incapable of performing the duties of his office, or be absent from the State, the President of the Senate shall act as Governor until the vancy be filled or the disability shall cease.

SEC. 17. In case of the impeachment of the Governor, or his removal from office, death, inability to discharge the powers and duties of the said office, resignation, or absence from the State, the powers and duties of the office shall devolve upon the Lieutenant-Governor for the residue of the term, or until the disability shall cease. But when the Governor shall, with the consent of the Legislature, be out of the State in time of war, at the head of any military force thereof, he shall continue Commander-in-Chief of all the military force of the State.

SEC. 18. A Secretary of State, a Controller, a Treasurer, a Attorney-General, and a Surveyor-General, shall be elected at the same time and places, and in the same manner, as the Governor and Lieutenant-Governor, and whose term of office shall be the same as the Governor.

SEC. 19. The Secretary of State shall keep a fair record of the official acts of the legislative and executive departments of the government, and shall, when required, lay the same, and all matters relative thereto, before either branch of the Legislature, and shall perform such other duties as may be assigned him by law; and in order that no inconvenience may result to the public service from the taking effect of the amendments proposed to said Article V. by the Legislature of one thousand eight hundred and sixty-one, no officer shall be superseded or suspended thereby, until the election and qualification of the several officers provided for in said amendments.

SEC. 20. The Controller, Treasurer, Attorney-General, and Surveyor-General, shall be chosen by joint vote of the two Houses of the Legislature, at their first session under this Constitution, and thereafter shall be elected at the same time and places, and in the same manner, as the Governor and Lieutenant-Governor.

SEC. 21. The Governor, Lieutenant-Governor, Secretary of State, Controller, Treasurer, Attorney-General, and Surveyor-General, shall each at stated times during their continuance in office, receive for their services a compensation, which shall not be increased or diminished during the term for which they shall have been elected; but neither of these officers shall receive for his own use any fees for the performance of his official duties.

ARTICLE VI.

JUDICIAL DEPARTMENT.

SECTION 1. The judicial power of this State shall be vested in a Supreme Court, in District Courts, in County Courts, in Probate Courts, and in Justices of the Peace, and in such Recorders' and other inferior courts as the Legislature may establish in any incorporated city or town.

SEC. 2. The Supreme Court shall consist of a Chief Justice and four Associate Justices. The presence of three Justices shall be necessary for the transaction of business, excepting such business as may be done at chambers, and the concurrence of three Justices shall be necessary to pronounce a judgement.

SEC. 3. The Justices of the Supreme Court shall be elected by the qualified electors of the State at special elections to be provided by law, at which elections no officer other than judicial shall be elected, except a Superintendent of Public Instruction. The first election for Justices of the Supreme Court shall be held in the year eighteen hundred and sixty-three. The Justices shall hold their offices for the term of ten years from the first day of January next after their election, except those elected at the first election, who, at their first meeting, shall so classify themselves by lot that one Justice shall go out of office every two years. The Justice having the shortest term to serve shall be the Chief Justice.

SEC. 4. The Supreme Court shall have appellate jurisdiction in all cases in equity; also, in all cases at law which involve the title or possession of real estate, or the legality of any tax, impost, assessment, toll or municipal fine or in which the demand, exclusive of interest, or the value of the property in controversy, amounts to three hundred dollars; also in all cases arising in Probate Courts; and also in all criminal cases amounting to felony, on questions of law alone. The Courts shall also have power to issue writs of mandamus, certiorari, prohibition and habeas corpus; and also, all writs necessary or proper to the complete exercise of its appellate jurisdiction. Each of the Justices shall have power to issue writs of habeas corpus to any part of the State, upon petition on behalf of any person held in actual custody, or may make such writs returnable before himself, or the Supreme Court, or before any District Court, or any County Court in the State, or before any Judge of said Courts.

SEC. 5. The State shall be divided by the Legislature of eighteen hundred and sixty-three into fourteen Judicial Districts, subject to such alteration from time to time, by a two-thirds vote of all the members elected in both houses, as public good may require; in each of which there shall be a District Court, and for each of which a District Judge shall be elected by the qualified electors of the district, at the special judical elections to be held as provided for the election of Justices of the Supreme Court by section three of this Article. The District Judges shall hold their offices for the term of six years from the first day of January next after their election. The Legislature shall have no power to grant leave of absence to a judicial officer, and any such officer who shall absent himself from the State for upwards of thirty consecutive days shall be deemed to have forfeited his office.

SEC. 6. The District Courts shall have original jurisdiction in all cases in equity; also in all cases at law which involve the title or possession of real property, or the legality of any tax, impost, assessment, toll or municipal fine, and in all other cases in which the demand, exclusive of interest, or the value of the property in controversy, amounts to three hundred dollars; and also in all criminal cases not otherwise provided for. The District Courts and their Judges shall have power to issue writs of habeas corpus on petition by, or on behalf of, any person held in actual custody in their respective districts.

SEC. 7. There shall be in each of the original counties of the State a County Court, for each of which a County Judge shall be elected by the qualified electors of the County, at special Judicial elections to be held, as provided for the election of Justices of the Supreme Court, by section three of this Article. The County Judges shall hold their offices for the term of four years from the first day of January next after their election. Said Courts shall also have power to issue naturalization papers. In the city and county of San Francisco the Legislature may separate the office of Probate Judge from that of County Judge, and may provide for the election of a Probate Judge, who shall hold his office for the term of four years.

SEC. 8. The County Courts shall have original jurisdiction of actions of forcible entry and detainer, of proceedings in insolvency, of actions to prevent or abate a nuisance, and of all such special cases and proceedings as are not otherwise provided for, and also such criminal jurisdiction as the Legislature may prescribe; they shall also have appellate jurisdiction in all cases arising in Courts held by Justices of the Peace and Recorders, and in such inferior Courts as may be established, in pursuance of Section one of this Article, in their respective counties. The County Judges shall also hold, in their several counties, Probate Courts, and perform such duties as Probate Judges as may be prescribed by law. The County Courts and their Judges shall also have power to issue writs of habeas corpus, on petition by or on behalf of any person in actual custody in their respective counties.

SEC. 9. The Legislature shall determine the number of Justices of the Peace to be elected in each city and township in the State, and fix by law their powers, duties and responsibilities, provided such powers shall not in any case trench upon the jurisdiction of the several Courts of Record. The Supreme Court, the District Courts, County Courts, the Probate Courts, and such other Courts as the Legislature shall prescribe, shall be Courts of record.

SEC. 10. The Legislature shall fix by law the jurisdiction of any Recorder's or other inferior Municipal Court, which may be established in pursurance of section one of this Article, and shall fix by law the powers, duties and responsibilities of the Judges thereof.

SEC. 11. The Legislature shall provide for the election of a Clerk of the Supreme Court, County Clerks, District Attorneys, Sheriffs, and other necessary offices, and shall fix by law their duties and compensation. County Clerks shall be ex-officio Clerks of the Courts of record in and for their respective counties. The Legislature may also provide for the appointment by the several District Courts of one or more Commissioners in the several counties of their respective districts, with authority to perform chamber business of the Judges of the District Courts and County Courts, and also to take depositions, and to perform such other business connected with the administration of justice as may be prescribed by law.

SEC. 12. The times and places of holding the terms of the several Courts of record shall be provided for by law.

SEC. 13. No judicial officer, except Justices of the Peace, Recorders, and Commissioners shall receive to his own use any fees or perquisities of office.

SEC. 14. The Legislature shall provide for the speedy publication of such opinions of the Supreme Court as it may deem expedient; and all opinions shall be free for publication by any person.

SEC. 15. The Justices of the Supreme Court, District Judges, and County Judges shall severally, at stated times during their continuance in office, receive for their services a compensation which shall not be increased or diminished during the term for which they shall have been elected; provided, that County Judges shall be paid out of the County Treasury of their respective counties.

SEC. 16. The Justices of the Supreme Court, and the District Judges, and the County Judges, shall be ineligible to any other office than a judicial office during the term for which they shall have been elected.

SEC. 17. Judges shall not charge juries with respect to matters of fact, but may state the testimony and declare the law.

SEC. 18. The style of all process shall be: "The People of the State of California," and all prosecutions shall be conducted in their name and by their authority.

SEC. 19. In order that no inconvenience may result to the public service from the taking effect of the amendments proposed to said Article Six by the Legislature of eighteen hundred and sixty-one, no officer shall be superseded thereby, nor shall the organization of the several Courts be changed thereby, until the election and qualification of the several officers provided for in said amendments.

ARTICLE VII.

MILITIA.

SEC. 1. The Legislature shall provide by law for organizing and disciplining the militia, in such manner as they shall deem expedient, not incompatible with the Constitution and laws of the United States.

SEC. 2. Officers of the militia shall be elected or appointed, in such manner as the Legislature shall from time to time direct, and shall be commissioned by the Governor.

SEC. 3. The Governor shall have power to call forth the militia to execute the laws of the State, to suppress insurrections, and repel invasions.

STATE DEBTS.

SEC. 1. The Legislature shall not in any manner create any debt or debts, liability or liabilities; which shall, singly or in the aggregate with any previous debts or liabilities, exceed the sum of three hundred thousand dollars, except in case of war, to repel invasion, or suppress insurrection, unless the same shall be authorized by some law or some single object or work, to be distinctly specified therein, which law shall provide ways and means, exclusive of loans, for the payment of the interest of such debt or liability within twenty years from the time of the contracting thereof, and shall be irrepealable until the principal and interest thereon shall be paid and discharged; but no such law shall take effect until at a general election, it shall have been submitted to the people, and received a majority of all the votes cast for and against it at such election; and all money raised by authority of such law, shall be applied only to the specified object therein stated, or to the payment of the debt thereby created; and such law shall be published in at least one newspaper in each judicial district if one be published therein, throughout the State, for three months next preceding the election at which it is submitted to the people.

ARTICLE IX.

EDUCATION.

SEC. 1. A Superintendent of Public Instruction shall, at the special election for Judicial officers, to be held in the year eighteen hundred and sixty-three, and every four years thereafter at such special elections, be elected by the qualified voters of the State, and shall enter upon the duties of his office on the first day of December next after his election.

SEC. 2. The Legislature shall encourage, by all suitable means, the promotion of intellectual, scientific, moral, and agricultural improvement. The proceeds of all lands that may be granted by the United States to the State for the support of schools, which may be sold or disposed of, and the five hundred thousand acres of land granted to the new States, under an Act of Congress distributing the proceeds of the public lands among the several States of the Union, approved A. D. one thousand eight hundred and forty-one, and all estates of deceased persons who may have died without leaving a will or heir, and also such per cent as may be granted by Congress on the sale of lands in this State, shall be and remain a perpetual fund, the interest of which, together with all the rents of the unsold lands, and such other means as the Legislature may provide, shall be inviolably appropriated to the support of the common schools throughout the State.

SEC. 3. The Legislature shall provide for a system of common schools, by which a school shall be kept up and supported in each district at least three months in every year, and any school district neglecting to keep up and support such a school may be deprived of its proportion of the interest of the public fund during such neglect.

SEC. 4. The Legislature shall take measures for the protection, improvement, or other disposition of such lands as have been or may hereafter be reserved or granted by the United States, or any person or persons, to this State for the use of a university; and the funds accruing from the rents or sale of such lands, or from any other source for the purpose aforesaid, shall be and remain a permanent fund, the interest of which shall be applied to the support of said university, with such branches as the public conveyance may demand, for the promotion of literature, the arts, and sciences, as may be authorized by the terms of such grant. And it shall be the duty of the Legislature, as soon as may be, to provide effectual means for the improvement and permanent security of the funds of said university.

ARTICLE X.

MODE OF AMENDING AND REVISING THE CONSTITUTION.

SECTION 1. Any amendment or amendments to this Constitution may be proposed in the Senate or Assembly; and if the same shall be agreed to by a majority of the members elected to each of the two houses, such proposed amendment or amendments shall be entered on their journals, with the yeas and nays taken thereon, and referred to the Legislature then next to be chosen, and shall be published for three months next preceding the time of making such choice. And if, in the Legislature chosen as aforesaid, such proposed amendment or amendments shall be agreed to by a majority of the members elected to each House, then it shall be the duty of the Legislature to submit such proposed amendment or amendments to the people, in such manner and at such time as the Legislature shall prescribe; and if the people shall approve and ratify such amendment or amendments by a majority of the electors qualified to vote for members of the Legislature voting thereon, such amendment or amendments shall become part of the Constitution.

SEC. 2. And if, at any time, two-thirds of the Senate and Assembly shall think it necessary to revise or change this entire Constitution, they shall recommend to the electors at the next election for members of the Legislature to vote for or against a Convention, and if it shall appear that a majority of the electors voting at such election have voted in favor of calling a Convention, the Legislature shall, at its next session, provide, by law, for calling a Convention, to be holden within six months after the passage of such law; and such Convention shall consist of a number of members not less than that of both branches of the Legislature. The Constitution that may have been agreed upon and adopted by such Convention, shall be submitted to the people, at a special election, to be provided for by law, for their ratification or rejection; each voter shall express his opinion by depositing in the ballot box a ticket, whereon shall be written or printed the words, "For the New Constitution," or "Against the New Constitution." The returns of such election shall, in such a manner as the Convention shall direct, be certified to the Executive of the State, who shall call to his assistance the Controller, Treasurer, and Secretary of State, and compare the votes so certified to him. If, by such examination, it be ascertained that a majority of the whole number of votes cast at such election be in favor of such new Constitution, the Executive of this State shall, by his proclamation, declare such new Constitution to be the Constitution of the State of California.

ARTICLE XI.

MISCELLANEOUS PROVISIONS.

SECTION 1. The first session of the Legislature shall be held at the Pueblo de San Jose, which place shall be the permanent seat of government until removed by law: provided, however, that two-thirds of all members elected to each House of the Legislature shall concur in the passage of such law.

SEC. 2. Any citizen or this State who shall, after the adoption of this Constitution fight a duel with deadly weapons, or send or accept a challange to fight a duel with deadly weopons, either within this State or out of it, or who shall act as second or knowingly aid or assist in any manner those thus offending, shall not be allowed to hold any office of profit or to enjoy the right of suffrage under this Constitution.

SEC. 3. Members of the Legislature and all officers, executive and judicial, except such inferior officers as may be by law exempted, shall, before they enter on the duties of their respective offices, take and subscribe the following oath or affirmation:

"I do solemnly swear (or affirm, as the case may be) that I will support the Constitution of the United States and the Constitution of the State of California, and that I will faithfully discharge the duties of the office of ——, according to the best of my ability.

And no other oath, declaration or test shall be required as a qualification for any office or public trust.

SEC. 4. The Legislature shall establish a system of county and town governments, which shall be as nearly uniform as practicable throughout the State.

SEC. 5. The Legislature shall have power to provide for the election of a Board of Supervisors in each county, and these Supervisors shall jointly and individually perform such duties as may be prescribed by law.

SEC. 6. All officers whose election or appointment is not provided for by this Constitution, and all officers whose offices may hereafter be created by law, shall be elected by the people, or appointed, as the Legislature may direct.

SEC. 7. When the duration of any office is not provided for by this Constitution, it may be declared by law; and if not so declared, such office shall be held during the pleasure of the authority making the appointment; nor shall the duration of any office not fixed by the Constitution ever exceed four years.

SEC. 8. The fiscal year shall commence on the first day of July.

SEC. 9. Each county, town, city, and incorporated village shall make provision for the support of its own officers, subject to such restrictions and regulations as the Legislature may prescribe.

SEC. 10. The credit of the State shall not in any manner be given or loaned to or in aid of any individual, association, or corporation; nor shall the State, directly or indirectly, become a stockholder in any association or corporation.

SEC. 11. Suits may be brought against the State in such manner and in such Courts as shall be directed by law.

SEC. 12. No contract of marriage, if otherwise duly made, shall be invalidated for want of conformity to the requirements of any religious sect.

SEC. 13. Taxation shall be equal and uniform throughout the State. All property in this State shall be taxed in proportion to its value, to be ascertained as directed by law; but Assessors and Collectors of town, county and State taxes, shall be elected by the qualified electors of the district, county or town in which the property taxed for the State, county or town purposes is situated.

SEC. 14. All property, both real and personal, of the wife, owned or claimed before marriage, and that acquired afterward by gift, devise, or descent, shall be her separate property, and laws shall be passed more clearly defining the rights of the wife in relation as well to her separate property as to that held in common with her husband. Laws shall also be passed providing for the registration of the wife's separate property.

SEC. 15. The Legislature shall protect by law, from forced sale, a certain portion of the homestead and other property of all heads of families.

SEC. 16. No perpetuities shall be allowed except for eleemosynary purposes:

SEC. 17. Every person shall be disqualified from holding any office of profit in this State who shall have been convicted of having given or offered a bribe to procure his election or appointment.

SEC. 18. Laws shall be made to exclude from office, serving on juries, and from the right of suffrage, those who shall hereafter be convicted of bribery, perjury, forgery, or other high crimes. The privilege of free suffrage shall be supported by laws regulating elections, and prohibiting, under adequate penalties, all undue influence thereon from power, bribery, tumult, or other improper practice.

SEC. 19. Absence from this State on business of the State or of the United States shall not affect the question of residence of any person.

SEC. 20. A plurality of the votes given at any election shall constitute a choice, where not otherwise directed in this Constitution.

SEC. 21. All laws, decrees, regulations, and provisions which from their nature require publication, shall be published in English and Spanish.

[We omit Article XII, which simply defines the boundries of the State, and is the same in both instruments; also, the schedule, which provides for submitting the old Constitution to popular vote, etc.]

How She Arranged Matters.

When we hear marvelous stories of the worldliness of Parisians, we are apt to exclaim: "How Frenchy!" But New York furnishes some as incomprehensible acts as we find in its prototype, Paris. I am told the following story as a fact: There is a fashionable woman in this city who aspires to be a leader, and entertains frequently and handsomely. During the life-time of her husband, she issued invitations for a grand blow-out. Her spouse was absent at the time, but there was nothing unusual in this. He was a mere cipher in his home, and like many husbands, enjoyed himself in a separate and different manner from the ways in which his wife filled up the days and nights. Such husbands have a most provoking way, living or dead, of being marplots—always doing things which interfere with the plans of the wife. What can be more inopportune than be frustrated in giving a ball when the preparations had progressed so far as floral decorations, caterers and cooks hard at work, and at the last and most critical moment to receive a telegram announcing the death of one's husband? For a moment the giver of the ball seemed to be dashed by the news, but instantly recovered her self-possession. She felt that her duty to society was paramount to any selfish indulgence of regret that his death should occur so inopportunely. She said that her guests would be grieved if they learned of the calamity before they had danced and eaten the supper prepared. At once she telegraphed for the remains not to be forwarded for a few days, but the telegram was not received in time, and while the revelry was at its height, the lady was notified that the corpse had arrived. Promptly she ordered the box to be carried out into the back-yard, where it remained until morning, when the affectionate wife, having slept off the fatigue of the entertainment, ordered the box opened and her dead husband to be laid out in state and crape to be tied on the door. The withered flowers of the festival remained to decorate the coffin. All of the proprieties were observed, and the fashionable woman's friends found it difficult to decide which was the most elegant, the soiree dansante or the funeral which so quickly followed. This story was told me as a fact, and the lady still shines as the giver of elegant receptions.—New York Correspondent of the Louisville Courier-Journal.

WE were a few days ago permitted to inspect the working model of a machine which we think successfully solves aerial navigation. We are not permitted to describe the machine, as the inventor has not yet patented it, but we can say that we saw it in operation, and, though it weighs but eight pounds, it raised a weight of twenty-one pounds, three ounces, and kept it in the air for nearly half an hour and propelled it against the wind as fast as a man could run. Unlike the generality of aerial machines, this one does not depend upon any balloon or gas-bag for its buoyant powers, and its propulsive machinery is operated by a new motor that is extremely light, reliable and powerful.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

IN ORDER.—Estimates of the population of the country in 1880 are now in order. In 1840 our population was but 17,000 000; now it is nearer 50,000,000 than 40,000,000. Mr. Elliott, of the Bureau of Statistics, estimated our population in 1878 at 47,983,000, and in 1880 at 50,858,000. General Walker, Superintendent of the Census of 1870, places the probable population of 1880 as between 46,000,000 and 48,000,000, with a preference for the higher figure. In 1870 the United States had a population of but 11 to the square mile, while Belgium had 450, England 400, India 207, China but 110. In 1870, Massachusetts had 212 inhabitants to the square mile.

Odds and Ends.

A "Mustgolian" is the latest name for John Chinaman.

A lady temperance advocate is lecturing upon the subject, "Why do men drink?" In nine cases out of ten it is because they are asked.

"Ma," said a little girl, "if you'll let me buy some candy I'll be good." "My child," solemnly responded the mother, "you should not be good for pay; you should be good for nothing."

An exchange puts it thus: "Ex-Governor Hubbard went to the cupboard, to get his sweet daughters a beau, but when he got there the cupboard was bare, and she off with the coachman did go."

Love rules the Court, the camp, the grove, and earth below and heaven above, but it never sewed a gray patch in the seat of your husband's black trousers. That isn't love; that's revenge.

Of course no woman ever did such a thing, but supposing now, for the sake of argument, as it were, that a woman was to go to church for the purpose of showing off her new basque, would it be sac-religious, so to speak?

AN Alabamian started towards town with three yoke of cattle, but a solid streak of electricity met him on the way to Damascus and slaughtered five of them. The man used the word Damascus in small bits to express his dislike of the operation.

"Howdy, this morning?" says an acquaintance to a fat citizen, who was blowing and steaming with great speed along the sidewalk. "Training for a walk?" "No," puffs the fat citizen, turning his bulging eyes neither to the right nor to the left; "I'm walking for a train."

A New Hampshire girl has jilted her young man, name Henry West. She respected Horace Greeley, but she couldn't go West.

It is stated as a bovinological fact that the milk of a young cow is apt to be foaming. Which is highly probable, as the creature is heifervescent.

"Now, isn't he an angel?" said the fond mother, as she seated the little fellow in his high chair at the table for the first time. "A sort of destroying angel," remarked the cynical father, as he saw the five-dollar castor go spinning to the floor with a crash.

His Objection.

"I've only got one objection to your paper," said an up-country farmer as he shelled out two dollars for another year's subscription, and smiled upon us across the editorial desk. We were all attention at once, and asked for the objections. Editors always like to hear objections and suggestions, and if a good old patron was to come along and ask us to publish the Declaration of Independence, we'd have to do it. "I've been taking your paper ever since it started," he continued, "and I like it. It gives all the home news, all the State news, and all the general news of importance; but, as I said before, there's one objection, and that's the advertisements. You see, whenever that paper gets into the house, Maria she goes right for those new advertisements, and every piece of flummery she reads about she wants, and that's where the trouble comes in. Then the girls they get hold of it and read about this, and the other—cheap things, nice things, new things and fashionable things—and you just see between Maria and the girls they keep me in hot water all the time." We assured our troubled patron that we heartily sympathized with him; but told him that sensible men would use the columns of their local paper as a means of communication with the people—that this was something that "in the natural course of human events" could not be prevented; and he finally concluded that it was all right; "for," said he, "your advertising columns frequently save us money, because they tell us where we can by the cheapest goods."—Exchange.

Gorgeousness of New York Layouts.

At the ladies' lunches the same or even greater luxury prevails. What say you to being invited at 11 to hear delightful music, and after feasting your ear, the most elegant gourmet of the senses, to a concord of sweet sounds, then to be fed with a luncheon of delicious headachy viands; afterwards to go to four teas, each very like the other; and then to an exceedingly splendid party of 250, each lady dressed more like a duchess than the last, and "then," as old Papys says, "to bed"—with what chance to sleep? Such was Thursday. One observant foreigner says he notices in New York that the greater the piety the better the dressing, so he believes the well by Presbyterians believe with the Turks in the worship of the body. They do dress!

I saw at one or two ladies' lunches a new idea in floral decorations. It was a landscape in flowers. A fire in a forest, a kettle swinging over the flames, represented by a pouisettia and gladoli, health blossoms imitating ashes, tulips, primroses, pansies growing up around the fire, and the kettle made of bands of flowers, a knot of roses lifting the lid, and a gentle puff ball of smoke-plant imaging the steam of the kettle, while the forest was made of palms and oriental trees, beautiful and luxurious, but very artificial. Other landscapes in flowers represent rustic bridges and flowing streams, and a lovely acacia tree drooping in "yellow hair" into the stream. I do not approve of flowers being thus coerced. I notice, however, that the gypsies who tend these floral teakettles are real girls not made of flowers.

SATURDAY, MAY 3.....1879

THE JUDICIARY ARTICLE.

The new Constitution vests a dangerous and unheard of power in the hands of the Chief Justice—making him the virtual dictator over the construction of each of the two departments of the Supreme Court.

Sec. 2 of Article VI says: "The Chief Justice shall assign three of the Associate Justices to each department, and such assignment may be changed by him from time to time." Under that provision how easy it would be for a corrupt Chief Justice, in making his appointments from his associates to any one of the departments, to select those and only those whose opinions accorded best with his own in some particular case in which he may have a direct interest? The interests of litigants in the Supreme Court would, to a most dangerous degree, be at the mercy of the Chief Justice. The provision providing for a hearing of a case in bank is the only redeeming feature, and that is so slight as to fail to free it from the odium of a "One-man power." And even that provision is open to grave objections, by lengthening the time in which the interests of litigants can be finally determined. First, there is an appeal to the Supreme Court; the case is heard in one its departments. After a hearing and decision there, it may go to the Supreme Court in bank, virtually doubling the time in which a case can be finally decided. Then again, the organization of the Superior Courts, the Judges of which must be licensed attorneys of the Supreme Court, would in this and many of the small counties inflict upon them the necessity of importing their Judges from abroad, and then with the great probability of obtaining one whose sole qualification and fitness for the position would be his license. After a careful reading of the entire article the conclusion is irresistible, that it is infinitely inferior, more open to grave objections, more dangerous to those who are so unfortunate as to be obliged to seek redress for wrongs, fancied or real, through the medium of the courts than the corresponding article in the old Constitution.

THE Oakland Radiator is enthusiastic over the new Constitution, and says that under it we will have Deputy Judges, double taxation, a Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, clothed with imperial power equal to the Czar of Russia, a Railroad Commission clothed with legislative, judicial and executive powers; incompetnet examiners of teachers; an unbridged chasm between the grammar schools and the University; fifty-two different kinds of text books for the fifty-two counties of the State; a local Legislature in fortnightly session in every county, and a general carnival of lobbying and corruption, besides stagnation in business, bankruptcy and an almost total suspension of progress.

THE Bodie Standard comes to hand announcing the full settlement of old proprietary difficulties, the concern passing into the ownership of T. S. Harris. Mr. Osborne continues on the editorial page, Joe Wasson will run the locals and the mines, while H. L. Childs will conduct business affairs generally. A strong team, certainly. The Standard has of late manifested much friendly interest in Inyo county affairs, of which our business men should be appreciative. Here's luck, gentlemen.

THERE will be an additional satisfaction when the revolutionary Constitution is rejected. The San Francisco Chronicle will go down with it. No one cared sufficiently for its influence one way or the other to pay ten cents for opposing the new Constitution, instead of the $10,000 which it asked for and failed to get. The day when blackmailing and purchasable newspapers can influence the votes of Californians has gone by.

MUCH ado has been made by the Chronicle over the omission by the Governor of the word "new" in his election proclamation. The matter was a mere oversight on the part of his private secretary, and is not of the slightest consequence, All the ballots printed at the State office are correctly worded. The ticket to vote should read thus:

AGAINST THE NEW CONSTITUTION.

THE Bakersfield Gazette thinks that Mono county will have something to say about who shall be our next District Judge. Well, let Mono county trot him out, after we have attended to this little Constitution business.

CON. CASEY ACQUITTED.

Yesterday afternoon the jury in the case of the People vs. Con. Casey, accused of the murder of John W. Lewis in Benton last Fall, were out but twenty minutes when they agreed upon a verdict of "Not guilty." In the preceding term of the court Casey was found guilty of murder and sentenced to be hung. Through the exertions of Hon. P. Reddy, a new trial was granted, with the result as stated. Mr. Reddy was assisted in the defense by Frank Owen and Wm. O. Parker.

The foregoing mention of a curious fact is taken from the Bodie Standard of April 29. So Con. Casey is at last cleared! Stands to-day before his fellow-men as guiltless of any crime, without the mark of Cain upon his brow and at liberty—to go and kill somebody else. Singular how perverted men were there at Benton when John Lewis lay dead, cut to pieces; and when Casey trembled lest a strong guard might not be able to protect him — then they actually meant to hang him. And when the case was fresh in the public mind and testimony as to all the facts was obtainable, a jury of twelve men, good and true, found him guilty of murder in the first degree, and the learned Judge set a day for his execution. Then, perhaps, the truth was shown that Casey left his work premeditately and traveled some miles intent upon malicious murder. He sought his victim and opened a quarrel, upon a purely imaginary grievance. As Lewis turned to leave, the knife was plunged into his back. Lewis was never a fighting man, but then he turned upon his assailant, knocked him down, and while on top of him received a half a dozen death wounds. But when, finally, Con. Casey enlisted the aid of friends who employed for him an able lawyer, skilled in his profession and most zealous in all that he undertakes, the case comes up for review. A new trial is obtained and the man acquitted by a jury "out only twenty minutes." The defense has the advantage in any criminal cause, but from the one in question it would appear that the only matters necessary to avoid the penalty of the law is to secure delay and get a good lawyer.

ANY way that events may turn, those prominent advocates of the new Constitution are destined to disappointment, sore and bitter. Morris M. Estee has long wanted to be Governor, but thinks he could perform the duties of United States Senator better than anybody. Volney E. Howard is dead set after going to Congress. J. J. Ayres would like a State Senatorship at the next election. David S. Terry could not wish for anything better than the new law, since it has no clause making duelists ineligible to office. And thus we have named all the men of any ability or prominence in the State who favor the new. Their political goose is already cooked—when the new instrument is rejected they keep it company: if it is adopted the very workings of it will alone damn any man who ever supported it.

THE awful evils of "stock gambling" is now the hue and cry of the pretended Workingmen's organs. This, as is the case with every other matter of any moment whatever, can be easily regulated by law under the present Constitution. But we know of no statute compelling men to deal in stocks if they don't want to. And we do know that if the business of trading in stocks is broken up, thirty thousand miners in the State will have to move or starve. That's just what's the matter.

THE vast, undeveloped wealth of Inyo county—lying dormant in numberless mines and in some of the best lands on the Coast—is just now beginning to attract the world's attention. New York and Europe are awakening to the natural advantages of California as a field for investment. Yet we are asked to repel all of it, to kill progress and commit social and political hari-kari by the ratification of a new fundamental law gotten up by Communists.

WHY have not the people of New York, Illinois and Missouri adoped some Constitutional provision breaking up Stock Boards and all the various Produce and Merchants' Exchanges? To be sure, such a course would ruin the entire farming, railroad and business interests of their States and great cities, but that would be a perfectly parallel case with what is now being attempted by the new Constitution advocates here.

THERE are few men of ability among the members of the late Convention but who are now actively opposing the adoption of its work. And a thousand instances are being published by the big dailies wherein delegates denounced in the bitterest terms the very sections which they are now advocating.

THE legal ticket to be voted on Wednesday next:

AGAINST THE NEW CONSTITUTION.

THE New York Post comments on the recent decision in Denver by Judge Hubbell, of the United States District Court, in the controversy between the Leadville Mining Company, of that State, and the owners of the Little Giant mine on the one hand, and the Ætna mine on the other, and says the importance of the decision can scarcely be overestimated. It is undoubtedly law, and this is not the first time it has been applied even in Colorado. It secures the right of the first discoverer of a ledge of mineral, and even will wipe out the surface line which the discoverer is entitled to establish, so that a mine hereafter is to be measured by the extent of the vein in whatever direction it may take, and not by the extent of the surface line which has been pre-empted or occupied.

WILLIAM W. LOWE, the Greenback member of the House from Alabama, allowed his blood to get too hot the other day. He sent a challenge to John A. Logan, of Illinois, to meet him on the field of honor. The difference grew out of a statement made by Lowe about two weeks ago, and published in a Pittsburg paper in the form of an interview, in which that gentleman is reported to have said that Logan on the eve of the rebellion contemplated entering the Confederate service; that he raised three regiments of troops in Illinois, which entered and fought in the Confederate army, and that just prior to the departure of these regiments from Illinois Logan deserted them. Logan said he lied—or words to that effect—hence the challenge.

AMERICA is fast becoming, if she is not already, the greatest coffee-consuming country on the globe. Coffee is no longer a luxury, but a necessity of the humble home as well as the abode of the rich. We import annually, in round numbers, 300,000,000 pounds of coffee, the value of which is $25,000,000. This country is every year increasing in a greater ratio than that of any other nation. Our increase during the last twenty-five years has been 8½ per cent., against 2½ per cent. for Europe. The substitutes for coffee which have met with such favor in other countries, are not popular in America.

ADVICES from Yokohama say that the Emperor has appointed a commission, consisting of three ex-Daimios, to receive and entertain Gen. Grant on his behalf. In addition to this number of subordinates, a council of State has been named as members of the Commission, and a series of magnificent entertainments has been projected for the gratification of the General. The summer palace of the Mikado is now in readiness for the reception of the ex President, and the most ample and munificent preparations have been completed for his entertainment there.

LATE advices from the City of Mexico say for the first time since the days of Maximillian, the chiefs of the Church and State are in accord. While this feeling lasts no attempted revolution can become important. Diaz grows daily more popular with the Church party, but in consequence is losing some Radical partisans. Liberal private contributions are coming in to aid the payment of the next installment of the American debt.

A TERRIBLE famine is raging in Bolivia. The cloisters of the Convent of San Francisco at Cothabamba present the most pathetic picture. Fourteen hundred beings are awaiting bread at the Convents of San Francisco, Santa Teresa, the Foreign Society of Succor, Santa Clara and other places where food is distributed. It seems as though every industry had been killed by poverty and famine.

THE French Academy has awarded its first prize in poetry to a writer who turns out to be a Communist refugee in Switzerland named James Renard, and no little annoyance has been felt in consequence by this the most conservative institution in France. A way out of the embarrassing situation will, it is believed, be found in procuring a pardon for the offender before he is publicly honored.

ENGLAND and France have addressed identical notes to the Khedive. The note demands the appointment of an English Minister and a French Minister to take the places of Rivers Wilson and De Blignieres, and that they shall not be removed except with the consent of England and France. If the Khedive refuses this demand, strong measures will be adopted.

IN Texas the frontier lines have advanced a hundred miles in two years, and an area of 40,000,000 acres of good lands opened for settlement, reclaimed from savage rule, the cayotes, the buffalo and Comanches giving way to the farmer and stock raiser. Counties are being organized now in a section which two years ago was 300 miles from any court.

ON Wednesday next the great would-be Code yeclept "new Constitution" will get sat upon by 18,000 majority.

A BIG BLAZE AT DARWIN.

DARWIN, April 30.

MESSRS. EDITORS—At about 2 o'clock this morning a fire commenced—it is supposed—in the Darwin Hotel and burned 15 buildings to the ground; little or nothing was saved. The buildings consumed are the Darwin Hotel, Wm. Clausen's or Trapp's jewelry store, R. Hatch's livery stable and three horses, Otto's saloon, J. P. Culp's saloon, Darwin Water Works building, W. T. Hall's building, Paris & Harmon's store, Dan Williams' saloon, Cullen & McDermott's saloon, F. P. Howard's drug store, W. F. Welch's news depot, Sharp Brothers' store, W. H. Woods' old office, S. Lewinsohn's store and house belonging to John Crough, formerly used as a market.

It is supposed that the fire was caused by an incendiary, as no one was known to be in the hotel, as Mrs. Wapelhorst had moved out all her furniture and left for Independence. The effect of the fire on the safes of the Sharp Bros. and Paris & Harmon is not yet known. The Postoffice, express office and stage office were consumed. Yours, in haste,

C. F. O'BRION.

We have been unable to gain particulars further than the foregoing. The fire swept through the center of the town, devouring most of the fine buildings of the place. We estimate that the aggregate loss can not be less than $100,000.

A Dab at Leadville.

Professor Frank Stewart, of Virginia City, has become thoroughly disgusted with what he reads and is constantly reading about the wonders of Leadville, and at last, unable to contain himself longer, has written a card to the Virginia Enterprise, in which he sails into tha camp in the following vigorous way:

"According to the statements in a recent number of the Leadville (Colorado) Chronicle, Senator John P. Jones is credited with making a public declaration that Colorado is the richest mineral-bearing State in the Union, and that Leadville is probably the richest mineral locality in the world. I do not quote the precise words of the Senator, but the above is the gist of his assertions. It requires a marvelous degree of stamina in a professional politician to resist a favorable opportunity for the display of a little popular buncome, and it appears that Nevada's favorite Senator is not an exception to the rule. I have hitherto entertained a high regard for the opinions of Senator Jones in relation to the values of mining properties, but his exhuberant speech at Leadville staggers my faith in his judgment, and weakens my faith in his sincerity.

In all candor, I ask what manner of hashreesh do the citizens of Colorado feed strangers on to thus render an experienced Nevada miner oblivious of the matchless wealth of our own great bonanzas, and to induce him to assert that the shallow lead pot-holes of the Rocky Mountains are more fertile in precious metals than are the innumerable permanent gold and silver quartz lodes of the Pacific States and Territories?

That Leadville District abounds in amazingly rich deposits of silver-bearing lead ores, is unquestionably true, but such deposits are always superficial, limited in volume, and liable to become exhausted at any moment.

I have the testimony of reliable citizens of Nevada who have recently explored Colorado, that there is not a permanent, mineralized quartz vein in Leadville District. The ores of that entire region are simply argentiferous lead ores, which almost invariably occur in shallow beds and limited chambers. It is safe to assert that there is not an experienced miner nor mill man on the Pacific slope who would hazard the experiment of erecting costly reduction works one of those ephemeral carbon deposits. The bitter experience of Hamilton and Shermantown are still painfully vivid in the memory of our people, and notwithstanding the remarkable infatuation of Senator Jones, they desire no more White Pine 'pocket deposits.'

The only safe and profitable silver mines in any country exist in permanent fissure quartz veins or ledges. Nevada is notably the home of permanent mineralized quartz ledges. The entire State is literally striated by vast veins of gold and silver quartz, and there is no portion of this planet where the mines are more reliable or where the average annual output of the mines is so enormous. To say nothing of the Comstock, which, as all men know, has already yielded over $300,000,000 in gold and silver, there are scores of other localities in Nevada, either of which, with a tithe of the expense which has been incurred in developing any leading mine at Virginia City or Gold Hill, would, as a reliable bullion producer, quadruple any base ore locality in Colorado or in any other State east of the Rocky Mountains. With all the pother and bosh which we hear about Leadville, the simple fact remains that two Comstock mines are today turning out more bullion than the thirty-nine paying locations at Leadville, and every old miner in this part of the world will agree that the big bonanzas of the Comstock have not yet been reached."

A LONDON correspondent writes that Joaquin Miller, when seen at an evening party looks as meek as Moses when fished out of the bulrushes, and as abstracted as though incubating an epic in forty cantos. He begins to talk, answers three or four questions you don't ask, tells parts of two or three stories that don't dovetail, forgets who he is or who he is talking to.

IT is stated that the Pope will soon publish a document inviting all European Governments to unite in purging society of the evils which at present beset it, and to join in an endeavor to stamp out socialism.

HOW IT IS AT THE BAY.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 27.

MESSRS. EDITORS: The all-absorbing topic here, among all classes, is the pending Constitutional election. "Well, what are you going to do about the new Constitution on your side of the mountains?" is the question that follows every introduction as certainly as day follows night—and vice versa. The stereotyped reply: "The other side of the mountains is going to burst it wide open," is, in ninety-nine cases in a hundred, received with approving surprise, for, be it known, the Chronicle's persistent lying has impressed the average San Franciscan with the belief that the "country," from one end of the State to the other, is strongly in favor of the new Constitution.

Were I to prognosticate the result of the pending election from expressions of opinion that I myself have heard or received, I would be justified in saying that at least seven out of every ten intended to vote against it. Indeed, during all the long journey hither I did not hear but two persons out of perhaps fifty say they intended to vote for it. One of those—one of our most substantial Inyo farmers, by the way—said he would vote for it because a certain individual or two whom he did not like were opposing it. Didn't think it worth while to argue the matter with a mind of that caliber. The other was a good soul, engaged in an occupation precluding the idea that he did or ever would own a foot of land in the world outside of a cemetery; but he was going to vote for it, "because it would cinch the land monopolists!" Circumstances gave me a chance for a display, and I stood up on my heels and addressed that man most earnestly for many minutes. "Guess your head's level," said he, "but I've got to vote for this 'ere new Constitution." That was my last effort at proselyting while on the road.

In this city among the real business men—traders, manufacturers, merchants, saying nothing of moneychangers, capitalists, etc.—are apparently, all to a man, most bitterly opposed to the new instrument. The interest they manifest impresses one, by its depth and earnestness, pretty much as if the possible inroad of a developed plague was the threatened danger against which they were, almost hopelessly, trying to devise means to avert. In this fear every vestige of partisan politics is utterly swallowed up. Whether rightfully or wrongfully, these men, whose every interest is bound up in the general welfare of the State, actually feel that the adoption of this new Constitution will be the death knell of their prosperity, and in tha belief are leaving no stone unturned to avert so great a calamity. Many of these men are of those so wrapped in business who, in ordinary elections, would not walk a block to cast a vote though it was to determine the partisan politics of the State.

Singular as it is, two of the most antagonistic classes are believed to be the chief and almost the only supporters of the Kearney Koran. These are the farmers in the country and the veriest bummers and Kearneyite riff raff of the cities. But for the former the latter would not be a cause of uneasiness. There is a great mistake somewhere, assuming that it is true the farmers will vote as apprehended. Either they or these merchants are woefully mistaken as to which of the Constitutions is best for the country. But there can be no mistake on this point: Any code of laws that will prove disastrous to the mercantile interest can prove no less so to the farming interest. The farmers and merchants have more mutually dependent interests than any other two callings. It is hard for me to believe any farmer can be such a fool as to think he can subserve his own interests by joining forces with the very dregs of society, who, to a man, are yelling for a change, no matter what, for they have nothing to lose yet but might little to gain, let the change be what it may.

Kearney has been ingeniously retired. The Chronicle failed to obtain the thousands of hush money it struck for, and as every one knows, is making a most desperate fight to "get even." To this end it whoops, yells, lies and spends money by the thousands. It puts its own paid attorneys on the stand and bids them talk. In short, and in truth, it is making a grand fight—a fight for its own existence, as things now look nevertheless; a fight worthy of a better cause and motive, for its arrogance makes mourning thousands feel it were far better were it and all its kind laid away among the things that were. But let the Chronicle's fate be what it may, it will be far more enviable than that of its old rival, the Call, for in any event the latter will go down despised by all for its utter pusillanimity; a great paper afraid to say to say its soul is its own during the most vital contest any paper was ever called upon to take a part in this State.

Five of us, accidentally thrown together, but every one outspoken against the Chronicle Constitution, dropped into Platt's Hall on the night of the 12th instant to hear that paper's attorneys bloviate for the abortion. We were fortunate in getting commanding seats overlooking the main floor. Such a crush of humanity I never before saw crowded into such a limited space, large though that space was. "Workingmen" and policemen were there in immense force. But I doubt if the new Constitutionists composed even one-half of the vast audience. Certain it is that the Chronicle's bracket remarks of "immense applause," etc., were false in fact. Directly beneath our seats was a squad of perhaps one hundred hired applausers; diagonally across the floor was another squad of about equal numbers. Except on one occasion the "universal applause" came from the pillars and no others among the thousands present. But those two squads were ready to blaze away in season and out of season and upon the slightest provocation. Terry, the only speaker worth a notice, was listened to with the greatest attention, but I doubt if his sophistries changed the prospects for one single vote in all that vast crowd. The main floor was covered in about half its area with arm chairs, arranged in somewhat open order. The pressure of the standing crowd to the rear made it necessary for the sitters to close up. The front rank began to hitch up a little, the next to follow, hop-toad style, and soon we had the ludicrous sight of at least five hundred hitching along two inches at a time toward the footlights—a perfect sea of Calaveras frogs all trying to jump at once! That was the time when there was "universal applause, laughter and clapping of hands." It was the grand hit of the entertainment, and everybody laughed unreservedly.

It is absolutely depressing to me to note the difference in business aspects now and as i was four years ago—my last previous visit. Then there were certainly fifty vessels in the harbor receiving and discharing cargoes, coming and going, when not more than one is to be seen to-day. A similar falling off is noticeable in every line of business—in the very aspects of the streets. The cause is summed up in a few words: "The Kearneyites, the new Constitution, and the Chronicle." Can you wonder that all classes look forward to the 7th of May with such deep interest? But for the vote of Inyo county, comparatively insignificant thought it is in point of numbers, there would have been no new Constitution. I hope from the bottom of my heart, anti-monopolist though I have ever been, Inyo's vote will kill that new Constitution so dead it will not even kick as it gives up the ghost.

THE miners on the Comstock have set an example in funerals which ought to be followed everywhere. When, a few days since, the funeral of a fellow-miner, who had met with a fatal accident, took place, his friends gave him a plain, decent funeral, following the hearse to the cemetery on foot. What was economized in display was handed over to the widow of the deceased. This is much better than making a grand funeral splurge, from which the poor family of the defunct return often to a home in which there is neither fuel nor food, nor money to buy them.—Los Angeles Express.

THE mines in the mountains between Carson and Walker rivers, in the Pine Nut Valley, are beginning to attract the attention of prospectors. Gray and Carter have already located and opened to the depth of 30 feet, a fine ledge of gold-bearing quartz, a few tons of which, recently worked by mill process at Silver City, gave a return of $58 per ton. We confidently expect at no distant day to be able to chronicle a lively and prosperous district in that locality. A party of prospectors left Genoa last week, and another is to leave this, with the view of spending the entire season in that locality.—Carson Valley News, April 25th.

NOTICE TO CREDITORS OF INSOLVENT.

IN THE COUNTY COURT OF THE COUNTY of Inyo, State of California.

Thomas May vs. His Creditors. } Notice to Creditors of Insolvent.

Pursuant to an order of the Hon. John A. Hannah, Judge of the said County Court, notice is hereby given to all the creditors of the said insolvent, Thomas May, to be and appear before said Judge, in open Court, at the Court Room of said Court in the town of Independence on the Second Day of June A. D 1879, at 10 o'clock A. M. of that day, then and there to show cause, if any they can, why the prayer of said insolvent should not be granted, and an assignment of his estate be made, and he be discharged from his debts and liabilities in pursuance of the statute in such case made and provided; and in the meantime all proceedings against said insolvent be stayed.

WITNESS my hand and the seal of said Court, this Thirtieth day of April, A. D. 1879. [SEAL]

JOHN CROUGH. County Clerk.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:
SATURDAY, MAY 3.....1879

FOR IT.—Mr. E. W. Taylor, of Benton, according to a posted announcement in which was enunciated a somewhat astonishing proposition, "Let the truth triumph though the gods must fall!" delivered an address to a few citizens assembled on the street, on Wednesday evening last. Where the absurd idea came from, or whether it was not a part of his peculiar programme, we do not know; but it appears that the speaker seemed afraid of interruption or that some effort might be made to prevent his speaking. Certainly a more asinine notion could not get into one's head. The Court-room was at his disposal for the asking, and the disposition of every citizen was to give him at least a most respectful hearing and to advertise the occasion so far as opportunity afforded. As it was, the audience listened with all attention. The speaker has an easy and natural delivery, and occasionally struck upon some felicitous expressions—especially when referring to the average legislator as one who "required considerable 'solid' argument to influence his conscience." As to his effort generally we can only state the truth—that in some arguments upon important points his conclusions were so palpably weak as to work an effect exactly opposite from that intended.

A CHANGE.—The Modock is now under the superintendency of Mr. A. C. Tibbetts, whilom Secretary and, by the way, a thorough-going business man and a gentleman well liked by the company managers and all their employés at the mine. C. J. Barber, the late Superintendent, gave us a call on Monday, from whom we learned of the change. This portion of Inyo, at least, will be the gainer through the change, inasmuch as Mr. Barber has already begun work upon what may be termed the Hanger ledge, above Swansea, it being a continuation of the rich Indiana claim, belonging to Messrs. Boley & Tuttle. Mr. Barber has also some important gold interests in Snow's Cañon, which he proposes developing.

LEADVILLE.—Ex-Sheriff A. B. Elder arrived at Leadville April 23d, and upon a letter sheet illustrated after old-time California style, writes that the place is "muchly overrated;" and "tell all hands to stay where they are." Mr. Elder wishes not to be reported as saying anything against the camp particularly, as the inhabitants are "playing to keep the blaze high." He visited the cemetery: "the graves are many and two men are kept digging all the while." The wife and family of the late W. H. Wood are there. O. L. Matthews is there and flourishing, but Californians generally are scarce.

GOOD TIME.—The Southern stages have been making much better time of late, getting in on time for the answering of important letters the same evening. In a note from below, our senior awards the warmest praise to the line, its equipments, accommodating agents and trustworthy drivers. It is the best route from San Francisco to any part of this country by far, and is equally advantageous with the Northern lines in getting from the city to Mammoth, Laurel, Prescott and Indian Districts.

GRAND JURY.—Upon a respectful and pointed petition from those summoned, his Honor Judge Hannah has agreed to excuse all members of the coming Grand Jury who may not appear until the 12th instant. The object is simply not to debar such citizens from voting, and an agreement has been entered into by our resident attorneys to waive all question as to the legality of the acts of the jury on account of such postponement.

IN BANKRUPTCY.—The County Court, on the 1st instant, was engaged in hearing the petition of John Broder, in bankruptcy. The schedules set forth that the petitioner's liabilities are $88,365 33; total assets, or value of real and personal property, debts due, etc., $33,098. He was by the Court declared insolvent, and at a meeting of creditors representing $56,083 34 in claims, W. A. Greenly was elected assignee, with bonds fixed at $18,000.

LITERARY.—Following is a sample specimen of some of the applications for transfer, received and filed in the Clerk's office: "Mameth Sety aprell 24th. Mr. Yon Craw you will do me the fever to send me my transfer as soon as you get this without feal sow that i can voate at this aleckshion send it to me mameth sety mono county."

COUNTY FUNDS.—Upon the monthly examination of funds in the County Treasury on the 1st instant, by the County Judge and Auditor, there was found the sum of $554 70 in cash; certificates of deposit for $5,587 82, and warrants redeemed for $1,879 60, balancing with the Auditor's books, showing the sum in the treasury—$8,021 92.

VICTORIOUS.—A note from Jerome Hoover conveys the information, interesting to all Inyo turfites, that at the Hot Springs races, on the 26th ult., "Black Harry" won the half-mile race in usual good style, as against "Dusty Bob" from Austin and "Sleepy Dave" from Visalia, under a heavy pull and by slow time. Purse, $700.

A LARGE LEDGE.—Mr. S. A. Densmore lately brought in some very fine-looking specimens of rich base-metal ore from a new discovery of his near the summit of Inyo range. There is a solid ledge seven feet in width, the ore carrying about 60 ounces of silver per ton.

PICNIC.—Judging from general testimony, that picnic affair must have been quite a success. At night the Court-room was filled with dancers, and "all went merry," etc.

DISTRICT COURT CALENDAR.

Hon. Theron Reed, Judge.

Following are the cases on the calendar of the District Court, for the term beginning on Monday next. Judge Reed, however, is not expected until a week later, at least, about which time the several litigants and attorneys will put in an appearance.

346. People vs. J. F. Dillon; recovery upon official bond.
406. V. G. Thompson vs. John B. White and Mary A. White; foreclosure of mortgage.
413. Harmon & Paris vs. Defiance Mining Company; foreclosure of lien.
444. J. S. Rothschild & Co. vs. D. Stubblefield; assumpsit.
448. P. Redy vs. Coso Mining Co.; to quiet title.
451. J. S. Rothschild & Co. vs. J. Vagt; assumpsit.
453. Henry M. Isaacs vs. Nathan Rhine; libel and slander.
454. Henry M. Isaacs vs. Isaac Harris; libel and slander.
459. L. G. Hanson vs. Lulu Wapelhorst; foreclosure of mortgage.
460. J. S. Rothchild & Co. vs. Rex Montis Mining Co.; assumpsit.
461. M. Friedlander vs. Caspar Cohn and Meyer Cohn; foreclosure of mortgage.
463. J. S. Rothschild & Co. vs. J. G. Hitchcock; assumpsit.
464. J. S. Rothschild et al vs. the Swansea Mining Co.; assumpsit.
465. The Inyo Lumber & Coal Co. vs. Swansea Mining Co.; assumpsit.
466. S. J. Newland vs. Paul W. Bennett et al; assumpsit.
467. S. J. Newland vs. Thomas May; assumpsit.
469. Mary Eudey vs. Thomas May; foreclosure of mortgage.
471. John H. Bunts vs. Joseph Rowan et al; assumpsit.
472. John C. Irwin vs. H. C. Wright; claim and delivery of personal property.
473. Thomas Ellers vs. George L. Drake; claim and delivery of personal property.
476. Joseph Frank et al vs. A. Montgomery; ejectment.
478. J. G. Dodge vs. Munzinger & Dodge; assumpsit.
479. John W. Martin vs. Sarah E. Martin; divorce—default.
480. Macarter & Edwards vs. Andrew P. Hitchcock; foreclosure of mortgage—default.
481. H. T. Walker vs. Shawmut Mining Co. et al; foreclosure of lien—default.
482. H. T. Walker vs. Rex Montis Mining Co.; foreclosure of lien—default.
483. H. T. Walker vs. Independence Tunnel Co.; foreclosure of lien—default.
485. John H. Dodge vs. L. Munzinger; dissolution and accounting of co-partnership—default.
486. Charles H. Lander vs. Hidalgo Mining Co.; assumpsit.
490. Thos. J. Goodale vs. Rafael Diaz; assumpsit.
491. Alexander Spencer vs. M. C. Brockman et al; foreclosure of mortgage.
492. J. J. Gunn et al vs. Shelden Collins et al; assumpsit.
493. Thos. Williams vs. R. Merryman; foreclosure of mortgage.
494. J. B. Steward vs. Geo. L. Drake; foreclosure of lien.
495. Charles Lewis vs. Manuel Rivas; assumpsit.
497. John C. Irwin vs. P. W. Murray et al; assumpsit.
499. Thos. Ferguson vs. Hitchcock Brothers; foreclosure of lien.
500. George Smith vs. Charles Keppler et al; foreclosure of mortgage.

PANAMINT.—The "Leota Consolidated Gold and Silver Mining, Smelting and Water Company" has filed in the Clerk's office articles of incorporation and placed on record title deeds from Wm. C. Smith, Arthur S. Chickering and Benj. S. Hill, conveying to the new company the Richmond, Surprise or "4th of July," Venus or "Champion," Mohawk, Pinney, Leota or "California," and the Chick mines, of 1,500 feet each—consideration $15,000. This company is the one mentioned last week as having 200,000 shares and $20,000,000 capital stock. The Trustees are Jas. M. Seawell, Washington Ayer, Jas. H. Johnson, Thos. R. Hayes, Candido Guiterrez and Chas. J. Willey. San Francisco is named as the principal place of business. We learn that the mines named are generally well developed, and that there is lying upon the dumps some 300 tons of high-grade ore.

DESTROYED.—County Clerk Crough has been called upon to replace all of the registers, election blanks, stamps, etc., furnished for the precincts of Darwin, Lee District, Lookout, Panamint and Lucky Jim—the originals having been destroyed in the great fire. The Assessor's office is loser by the same means of a large number of assessment statements. On many of those were listed the property burned, and as they had not been entered upon the roll it would appear that their loss and that of the buildings together will obviate further proceedings except a re-assessment of the lots.

PERSONAL.—Among the week's visitors to Independence were a number of local notables. Dr. Jos. Lesesne of Darwin, en route to Lake....Dr. Middleton of Bishop, from the races in Kern County, bent upon reform and settling down to practice....John H. Stoutenborough, John McGee, Wm. O. Harrell and others from Bishop Creek. ....R. C. Broder, Esq., from Visalia.... "Pap" Walker from Olandha, et al.

ANOTHER MILL.—Messrs. Phillips & Woolsey are perfecting arrangements for the erection of a small mill on the river oposite Independence, convenient to their new mines.

CLEAN UP.—The Mammoth Mill at Lake, after a run of twenty-two days began a clean-up and expected to make its first shipment of gold amounting to $100,000.

Supt. Burnham Snuffs a False Report

BENTON, Cal., April 29.

MESSRS. EDITORS—I understand that the report is being circulated in your county that I am giving my aid and support to the cause of the new Constitution. If so, it is a mistake. I do not wish to bury our mining interests until they are dead, and I am sure they contain some life yet. The Constitution as it is is good enough for the people, and they will support it.

Yours, etc.
ROBERT BURNHAM.

MODOCK OFFICIAL LETTER.—The official letter of the week is as follows:

APRIL 29, 1879.

J. W. Peix, Esq., Secretary Modock Con. M. Co.:—DEAR SIR: Results of operations for the past week are as follows: Tunnel, 1000-foot level, run 48 feet, making total length to date, 1,528 feet. Shaft from 300 foot level sunk 13 feet, it being now down 391 feet. Upraise from 1,000-foot level raised 16 feet; present height of raise, 112 feet. Distance between bottom of shaft and top of raise, 75 feet. From present appearances the connection should be made in three weeks, or four at the outside, when prospecting vein matter passed through in the tunnel can be begun at once. Ground in face of tunnel continues the same as at last writing. Easy breaking white lime, such as is found next to ore-ground in East Confidence upper level. Work for the past week has made good headway at all points.

Yours, respectfully,
A. C. TIBBETTS, Supt. pro tem.

NEW COSO.—The New Coso furnace at Darwin is receiving ore from the Modoc, Minnietta and Custer. A lot of some 12 tons more is to go from the Ygnacio. Boley & Tuttle have from 10 to 12 tons of their rich ore, which Mr. Woodhull of this point is to go down and attend to the sampling, assaying, etc., for the owners.

NO NEWS.—We regret the lack of particulars concerning the disastrous fire in our sister town of Darwin, and as to what the people there are now doing. The valley would stand in solidly for help if needed or called for.

AT LONE PINE.—The Lone Piners experienced the usual May-day picnic, winding up the pleasant affair with a jolly dance.

MINNIETTA.—Bart. McGee, Col. Boley and others have been offered $75,000 for a mine in Minnietta District, near Lake.

A mule saw an ox kick the breath out of a man the other day, and immediately went behind a barn and wept.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:

SATURDAY, MAY 3.....1879

The Ten Commandments.

[ACCORDING TO THE NEW CONSTITUTION.]

FIRST COMMANDMENT.

Like it or lump it—thou shalt have
No other laws before me;
For I the Constitution am,
And all men must adore me.

SECOND.

Unto thyself thou shalt not make
An independent notion
Of anything in heaven above,
Or underneath the ocean;
For I a jealous party am,
And hate those who would sack me,
But unto those will favor show
Who with their votes will back me.

THIRD.

Thou shalt not take my name in vain,
Or give me the cold shoulder,
For him who does so I will call
A lecherous bondholder.

FOURTH.

Remember, now, the seventh of May,
Vote early and vote often;
Nor let deep draughts of forty-rod
Your brain on that day soften;
All other times throughout the year
You're welcome to your whisky,
But vote (at least three times) before
On that day you get frisky.

FIFTH.

Honor the law that hath been made
By asses in contention,
In order that thy ears may be
As long as their invention.

SIXTH.

Thou shalt not kill—thyselves with grief,
My backers, when I'm beaten;
The thought of "what a shave it was"
Your cup of gall will sweeten.

SEVENTH.

And thou, barkeep, to whom my friends
Apply for consolation,
Thou shalt not (more than thou canst help)
Commit adulteration.

EIGHTH.

Thou shalt not steal—and here of course
I speak but to the bloated
Monopolist—I'll let them rob
Who for my reign have voted.

NINTH.

False witness thou shalt seldom bear,
Save when electioneering,
And then—to help me—thou shalt lie
When e'er you get a hearing.

TENTH.

Covet! ah covetousness is
My doctrine fundamental;
Here lie my virtue and my strength,
All else is incidental.
Covet thou shalt thy neighbor's goods,
And I'll fulfill the sequel—
For I am the law that makes the mob
And decent people equal.

Man's Age.

Few men die of old age. Almost all die of disappointment, passion, mental or bodily toil, or accident. Passion kills men sometimes, even suddenly. The common expression, choked with passion, has little exaggeration in it; for even though not suddenly fatal, strong man often die young; weak men live longer than the strong, for the strong use their strength and the weak have none to use. The latter take care of themselves, the former do not. As it is with the body, so it is with the mind and temper. The strong are apt to break, or like the candle, to run out; the weak to burn out. The inferior animals, which live in general, regular and temperate lives, have generally their prescribed number of years. The horse lives twenty-five years; the ox fifteen or twenty; the lion about twenty; the dog ten or twelve; the rabbit eight; the Guinea-pig six or seven years. Those numbers all bear a similar proportion to the time the animal takes to grow to its full size. But man, of the animals, is one that seldom comes up to this average. He ought to give a hundred years, according to this physiological law, as five times twenty are one hundred; but instead of that he scarcely reaches, on the a verage, four times his growing period; the cat six times, and the rabbit even eight times this standard of measurement. The reason is obvious—man is not only the most irregular and the most intemperate, but the most laborious and hard working of all animals; and there is reason to believe, though we can not tell what an animal secretly feels, that more than any other animal man cherishes wrath to keep warm, and consumes himself with the fire of his own secret reflections.

That was a neat bull a clergyman perpetrated in his sermon the other day. Speaking of Bunyan, author of "The Pilgrim's Progress," in prison, he said: "No one but his blind daughter came to see him."

A negro recently undertook to drive an ax-helve in the ground with a Parrot shell picked up near Petersburg, Va. By looking for pieces of him with a ten-horse power microscope they ascertained that his exodus was towards Kansas.

PROCLAMATION.

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT.

WHEREAS, THE CONVENTION, WHICH assembled, at the City of Sacramento, on the 28th day of September, A. D. 1878, to revise and change the entire Constitution of this State, agreed upon and submitted to the people for their ratification or rejection a

New Constitution for the State of California;

AND WHEREAS, the law has fixed the First Wednesday of May, A. D. 1879, as the day upon which the people shall adopt or reject such new Constitution:

NOW THEREFORE, I, William Irwin, Governor of the State of California, do declare that on

Wednesday, May 7th, 1879,

There will be held an election, at which the people of the State shall vote to adopt or reject such Constitution.

All persons, entitled by law to vote for members of the Assembly, shall be entitled to vote at such election in their respective election districts and not elsewhere.

Such election shall be by ballot, and such voter shall express his opinion by depositing in the ballot box a ticket whereon shall be written or printed the words, "FOR THE CONSTITUTION" or "AGAINST THE CONSTITUTION."

And I do hereby offer a reward of one hundred dollars for the arrest and conviction of any and every person violating any of the provisions of Title IV, Part I, of the Penal Code; such rewards to be paid until the total amount hereafter expended for the purpose reaches the sum of ten thousand dollars.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand, and caused the Great Seal of the State to be affixed, at the City of Sacramento, [SEAL] this second day of April, A. D. one thousand, eight hundred and seventy-nine.

WILLIAM IRWIN, Governor.

Attest: THOMAS BECK, Secretary of State.

The British Wars.

The British arms have been crowned with success in South Africa. While the center has remained behind its intrenchments at Rorke's Drift since the massacre of Isandula, there has been hard fighting on the Transvaal frontier and toward the coast. In the north the Zulus have met with a disastrous repulse after surprising Col. Wood's camp and inflicting heavy loss. In the south they have fallen back, after making a desperate effort to overwhelm the column which had set out from the mouth of the Tugela to relieve Col. Pearson. The beleaguered garrison has been rescued, and the troops are now returning to their base of operations. These two victories, although not achieved without serious losses, will establish British prestige in Zululand. If Cetewayo does not sue for peace he will soon be forced to surrender, for it is victory alone that enables a savage king to keep his warriors together. It is only a superior race that can withstand the pressure of defeat. Like Sitting Bull, whom he resembles in many respects, the Zulu King is fertile in resources, without having the talent of using as well as winning a victory. He has now been defeated, and the ultimate result of the collapse of his fortunes will be a loss of territory. Victories in the field may be brilliant, but they can not lend luster to the British arms in a war which is unnecessary as it is iniquitous.

Offensive opperations will soon be resumed in another quarter. Gen. Roberts is waiting for the signal to advance upon Cabul, and the commanders of the remaining columns among the Afghans hills are ready to co-operate with him. Delays are dangerous in a campaign with mountaineers, and although the British forces have not encountered serious resistance at any point the uncertainties of their situation are depressing, and peace can not be made too soon. But when war is waged for imaginary ends it can not be brought to a close abruptly. The avowed object of the British Government is the establishment of what Lord Beaconsfield calls a "scientific frontier for India."

Another Bullion Bill.

The Committee on Coinage, Weights and Measures, have at last agreed upon a free silver coinage bill, and the same will be introduced in the House of Representatives at an early date. A Washington dispatch gives the following as the salient points of the bill:

It repeals so much of the Revised Statutes as made a gold dollar the unit of value; re-established the bi-metallic or double standard of gold and silver, making the standard weight 25 8 10 grains of gold the gold standard of value; authorizes the Secretary of the Treasury to receive deposits of gold or silver coin and gold and silver bullion at the Treasury, or at any office of the United States in sums of not less than $20, and to issue certificates therefor in denominations of not less than $5 each, the same to correspond with the denomination of United States notes and the certificates representing coin in the Treasury used in payment of interest of the public debt. It also permits any owner of silver bullion to deposit the same at any United States Mint to be formed into bars or coined into standard silver dollars of 412½ grains troy for his benefit, and provides that no deposit of silver for other coinage shall be received. It makes trade dollars exchangeable for legal standard dollars when presented at any of the United States Mints in sums of not less not less than $50. The last section of the bill requests the President to invite the International Convention for the purpose of fixing the relative value between gold silver.

Advice to Eastern Investors.

As it was only last week that we took it upon us to suggest the need of caution in the purchase of mining properties on this Coast, it may be asked what then are Eastern investors to do if both the stocks and the mines themselves are such dangerous things to meddle with. To this it may be replied that if parties abroad desire to become interested in our mines they had better go about the business as is the practice with us on this side—that is buy up partially or fully-developed claims already located, equipping them themselves or else buy mines opened, outfitted and actively productive, being careful not to pay more in any instance than a fair equivalent for what they get. Or they might, as is the custom in old mining countries, provision and send out experienced prospectors to hunt for and take up mineral deposits on joint account—a very good plan where there remains, as on this Coast, so much territory but partially explored. The mining field in this region of the extreme West is very extensive; its forms of wealth are varied, and it is, comparatively speaking, but little occupied, offering every inducement for parties to enter and search after metalliferous deposits for themselves. As an encouragement to this course it may be stated that more valuable mineral developments, productive mines and promising prospects included, have been made in Mono county, California, within the past two years than have within a like period ever before been made in any county in this State; and yet Mono was overrun with prospectors as many as 16 or 18 years ago, and afterwards almost totally abandoned, simply because the first crop of prospectors lacked the pluck—or rather, perhaps we should say, means—to open up the gold bearing lodes that so abound here to even the most inconsiderable depths. California, the most thoroughly explored and extensively worked of all our Pacific Coast possessions, after a thirty years' mining experience, remains to energetic enterprise, backed by ample pecuniary means, an almost virgin field, the whole State from San Diego to Siskiyou being full of undeveloped and undiscovered mines of gold and silver. In scarifying the surface here and there we have scratched out the more superficial deposits of gold dust, but have as yet done hardly anything towards developing the deep-lying placers or the metalliferous veins—the sources of a much larger and more permanent wealth.—Mining and Scientific Press.

THERE is a man in Washington with a scheme to elect a Republican President in 1880 by importing from the South enough negroes to carry the three States of New York, Ohio and Indiana. His name is "Col." Hooker, of New York, and he is a brother-in-law of the late James Fisk. He intends to lay his plan before the leading Republicans in Congress and hopes to have it adopted. He says a million dollars can be raised in New York in a single day for this purpose. He would go into the South and boldly advertise his scheme and get as many recruits as possible and then ship them North to be distributed by agents among the farmers of the States in which they are needed. One hundred thousand to New York, and fifty thousand to Ohio and seventy-five thousand to Indiana will be sufficient, Col. Hooker thinks, to turn the scale and give those three States over to the Republican party. He says this plan is legitimate and feasible. It can not be censured as a piece of dishonest party practice, for it will be accomplished openly and by fair means. The amount of money required will be far less than would in any event be spent for campaign purposes and the result would be a solid gain of such proportions that it could not be overcome by tactics of any suggested by the rapidity with which the colored people of the South have followed the suggestion contained in the bill advocated at the last session of Congress by Senator Windom. Col. Hooker says if there was more time he would not have the slightest doubt of the perfect success of this plan, but all the machinery will have to be perfected and put in operation so as to have immigrants at their place of future residence by the next Fall, so they will have been residents of their respective States a year before the election in 1880. If he receives the cooperation of leading Republicans he proposes to go to work immediately.

NO OPPOSITION on its merits will probably be made to the bill reported to the House by Alexander H. Stephens. The bill is intended simply to relieve the retail merchants of the country who are obliged to receive subsidiary silver coins from their customers, but who, when these coins accumulate upon their hands, can not dispose of them except at a loss. This inconvenience was the cause of very widespread complaint among the retail dealers in New York and other large cities last Summer. In some cases several hundred dollars in these small silver coins accumulated in the hands of a single firm in a single day. This money could not be deposited in any bank. It could not be used in the purchase of goods at wholesale and it had to be sold at a discount. It was not the purpose of the framers of the law directing the issue of these coins to make them intrinsically worth as much as they pass for, but only to furnish a convenient medium of exchange. So it is the duty of the Government to remove any source of inconvenience growing out of their use, especially when it can do so without expense. The bill of Mr. Stephens would accomplish this.

A New Indian Settlement.

Secretary Schurz has entered into an agreement with the chiefs of the Umatilla, Walla Walla and Cayuse tribes of Indians, now in Washington, looking to the opening up for white settlement, the whole of the Umatilla Reservation, which comprises 268,000 acres of valuable lands in Northeastern Oregon. The Secretary agrees to endeavor to secure the passage of an Act of Congress granting allotments in severalty to such Indians as may elect to take 160 acres each, the lands thus allotted to be inalienable for twenty-five years. It is further agreed that the remaining land be sold, and the proceeds placed in the Treasury for the use of the Indians or to enable them to leave their present reservation and settle on some other. The chiefs agree, for themselves and people, to assemble their tribes, on their return, in the presence of a representative of the United States, and ascertain the number and names of individuals who will take allotments, and of those who prefer to leave their present reservation to join other reservations already established in Oregon, Washington Territory, Idaho or Montana, and to send these lists to Washington. The chiefs also agree that as soon as this necessary legislation is obtained, such of their people as determine to settle with other tribes will immediately remove to locations selected.

The Water Problem on the S. P. R. R.

The quantity of water now being consumed by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, at its construction front, is prodigious. Eight huge water tanks are daily hauled out from here to the front. No water is now sold by the company at Gila Bend. All that used by outsiders there has to be hauled on wagons from the Gila river, four miles distant. An additional line of pipe has been laid from the water works to the tank here at Yuma. The pumping engine is kept at work till a late hour at night. The new water works at Texas Hill are progressing well, and will soon afford some relief to those here; the tanks are all set up and the pipe is nearly laid. The water is to be pumped up into a reservoir on a bluff near the river, from which it will flow through five miles of pipe into the tanks at Texas Hill. An artesian well is being bored for the S. P. R. R. out on the California desert by a company of Chicago men, who have the finest outfit of boring tools ever brought to this coast. Their derrick is eighty feet high. They are making good progress.—Yuma Sentinel.

POPULAR education is one of the best remedies for socialism. In America this dangerous element is confined almost exclusively to the ignorant classes which have flocked here from other countries. In Russia, where marked progress has been made by social revolutionists, only about eleven per cent. of the population can read and write.

THE last outre fashion in Vienna is the so-called "Boccaccio" stockings, a white silk stocking on the left leg and a pink one on the right. The idea was taken from the costume which Fraulein Link—whose marriage was announced a fortnight ago—wore in the last act of Suppe's new opera.

ACCORDING to a Southern gentleman, who has been interviewed by a Boston reporter, the negroes are not fleeing from the South because they have been ill-treated, but because they fear a return of the yellow fever.

THE man who attains to the age of five score ought to be pretty familiar with Old Hundred.

COUNTY RETURNS.

At San Francisco the result is now known of the vote of probably every precinct in the State, save three unimportant ones in this county. Our letters to the Inspectors at Lookout, Lee, Lucky Jim and Panamint, inclosing cards and stamped envelopes for returns, were destroyed in the fire at Darwin; hence we have no report from those precincts. It is very doubtful if polls were opened at the last named places. Telegrams have been forwarded, however, setting forth the astonishingly light vote so far as heard from and claiming a majority against the new Constitution of about 100 votes.

Appended hereto is a table of the returns by precincts. It will be seen that the total number of votes cast out of 1,443 registered was only 376—for, 139; against, 237 — majority against the new Constitution, 98:

"AMONG THE MINERS OF INYO."

Language fails in words sufficiently expressive of the unblushing cheek, or at least, the gullibility of the San Francisco Chronicle. Instance the following among its "news from the masses:"

LONE PINE, Inyo county, April 25.

Calculations made by me, and which may be relied on as being as accurate as can be made, show that the following precincts in this vicinity the vote will stand: Owensville—For adoption, 41; against, 5; Chrysopolis—For 20; against, 0. San Carlos—Unanimously for adoption. Bend City—For, 32; against, 0; Lone Pine is about solid for adoption.

THOMAS L. ROGERS.

For the purposes of that paper it matters not that no such person as Thomas L. Rogers resides in Inyo, and the fact that the towns and precincts named have no other existence than upon the Chronicle's famous map also amounts to nothing—so long as "news" can be palmed off upon the public.

"The Mining Counties Solid."

THE INYO INDEPENDENT, one of the fairest and most influential papers in the State, presents, under the caption we have used, the following epitome of the situation.—Spirit of the Times.

Thanks, Mr. Spirit; but we are compelled to admit you have greatly overdrawn the "influential" part; otherwise, Inyo would have confused that new confusion very much more than it did. But it's all right; that thing has come to grief, for which the people of this State owe as much, aye, more, to the never-surrender editor of the Spirit of the Times than any other man.

THE Mining and Scientific Press of San Francisco, devotes an interesting article to the mining outlook on the Pacific Coast. That it is brighter than for many years seems true. The heavy discount on silver and the low price paid for lead constitute the greatest barriers to our prosperity. The obstacles, however, let us hope, may prove of but short duration. We make the following extract from the Press' review of the situation: "Thus far during the current year the business of mining for the precious metals on this coast has been well prospered. We speak, of course, of productive mining, the speculative branches of the business suffering unusual depression. Hardly ever have stock operations so languished. The revealment of other bonanzas on the Comstock, now deemed imminent, will be likely, however, to restore animation to the mining share market. Whether or not this will prove to be the case, certain it is, the working miners are pushing their labors with unwonted energy, and with every prospect that they will harvest this year a full crop of bullion. Never since the first pan of dirt was washed at Sutter's mill, has mining seemed to be in a more healthful and progressive condition than at present."

PRINCE LOUIS NAPOLEON aims at making a conquest of the Princess Beatrice of England, and obtaining, by his excursion to Zululand, the Queen's consent to their union.

THE ELECTION.

At this writing we are unable to say positively how the election has gone throughout the State; we feel well assured, however, that the old Constitution yet holds the quarter deck by many thousand votes. A dispatch to the Bodie Standard, dated San Francisco, May 7, 4 o'clock P. M., gives the latest news and is in these words:

"The Chronicle has given up the fight. San Francisco will give 12,000 majority against the new Constitution."

This, of course, cannot be accepted as perfectly decisive as to the sum total of the majority, since at that hour the polls had not closed. Nevertheless we have not the least doubt but it is a safe foreshadowing of the general result, and of the very grandest victory common sense ever won.

We have made arrangements to get the news by telegraph to Mojave, whence to this place by stage thirty-six hours are required. Had the result been positively known at 9 o'clock on Thursday morning the dispatch would have reached us in time for this issue. As it is, we cannot expect it before 8 to-night; on its receipt we shall give it place in our edition for Monday's mails.

SINKING RIVERS.

Upon this subject the Eureka Sentinel says that "All of the principal and many of the smaller streams in Nevada have no visible outlet. The larger rivers all terminate in lakes of very considerable area, respectively. The most singular thing is that the water supply in these lakes is at all times the same. The spring freshets, filling the rivers from bank to bank, work no perceptible change in these great reservoirs. What becomes of all this water is the mystery. It has been the generally accepted theory that there exists a subterranean connection between the Nevada 'sinks' and the Pacific Ocean. But this theory is now disputed by a gentleman who has resided on the shores of Humboldt Lake for years." The Winnemucca Silver State comments upon the above as follows: "A great many persons entertain the opinion that there is a subterranean outlet to the Sink of the Humboldt. One of these expressed his views on the subject yesterday in the presence of Walter Schmidt, who has resided near the Sink for several years, and built a quartz mill near the visible outlet of the lake. Schmidt dissented from this opinion, and argued that as the Sink was a hard, clayey bottom, impervious to water, it would be impossible for it to soak through underground, and attributed the dissappearance of the river to evaporation. 'This,' said Mr. Schmidt, 'is so great in the Summer time that a wooden bucket filled with water in the morning would be empty by noon, and would fall to pieces before night.'" That the sinks and lakes of the Great Basin are held to their levels mainly through evaporation is undoubtedly the fact of the case. Mono and Inyo counties have the most notable sinks of the kind in the world. Probably Big Owens Lake receives as much or more water than Humboldt Sink. It is not true, however, that the quantity of water is at all times the same; the great lake is now some four feet higher than eleven or twelve years ago, yet eight or ten feet lower than up to two years ago. The amount of snow-fall in the mountains is the only thing governing it. In Summer heat the total amount of evaporation from its vast expanse of water is incalculable, and doubtless furnishes moisture for the Winter snow-fall of the adjoining High Sierras. The minute particles of minerals and alkalies gathered from the soil by the inflowing streams are left in solution in the lake, and during the centuries upon centuries of this process the lake has assumed its Dead Sea character, in which no living thing can exist save worms and a small nondescript water-fowl.

THE Gold Hill News has some interesting statistics regarding the Sutro Tunnel sub-drain, now in course of construction, about 900 men being employed on the work. It is believed that the tunnel will be in readiness to receive the water from the flooded mines of the Comstock inside of thirty days. At last accounts about one-third of the ditch had been completed. The drain, says the News, will contain two separate boxes, each 18x24 in the clear. The inner partition, in other words, is to be double. The material to be used is 3-inch. The length of these boxes will be about four miles. If sawed into inch boards 12 inches wide and placed end to end these boards would reach from Virginia to Sacramento. To break joints in the planks a piece of hoop iron 1½ inches wide is to be inserted half in the edge of each plank, thus making the structure water-tight. It will require 64 miles linear measurement of this hoop iron to fill the bill.

THE California and Con. Virginia mines, it is said, have yielded $106,000,000, $71,550,000 of which has been paid to shareholders.

LETTER FROM ROUND VALLEY.

MESSRS EDITOR: Grangers have but little time for scribbling just now. Themselves and every other plug of a "hoss" that is able to even snatch an old setting hen from her nest, are called into requisition, and stuck on the plow or harrow. Most of the small grain is in, and considerable of it up and looking fine. Very little, if any, corn has yet been planted. Time enough, when we recollect that good corn has been raised here which was planted by D. Olds on the 5th of July. Every available nook of ground will, this year, be "tickled with the hoe," and forced to raise something—'taters, squash, melons, beans or taboose. The Lake District and other mines, whose fame is already widespread, give an impetus to farming and everything else in this vicinity.

Old taboose-eaters, who experienced tough times in early days, when struggling for dear life—trying to make something out of nothing (a performance which the gods only undertake)—are just now beginning to assume a grinning smile at the present fair prospects. They hear of such fabulous wealth—ore assaying over $100,000 per ton in gold, besides other truck—and abundance of it right under our noses. Who wouldn't get excited and feel philosophically indifferent to farming—drop the plow handle, shoulder a pick and shovel and strike for gold! Jokes are fickle and flimsy, but facts are stubborn things. We have seen many returning visitors from Lake and among them reliable, practical miners, all of whom agree in pronouncing the Mammoth a big thing—a huge mine. The latest report is that they have struck it still richer in the lower tunnel, which is 1,000 feet from the croppings. The excitement hitherto was created by the rich strike in the middle tunnel. People are already rushing in furiously; not less than 23 teams passed through Round Valley the other day bound for Lake; and every day more or less are sailing through. Teams passed through here lately from Bakersfield and other places loaded with bacon, flour and potatoes. One teamster stated that he paid two cents per pound for his potatoes at Los Angeles. He will not realize much on spuds. Bacon and good ham was sold at 14 and 16 cents per pound.

ROADS.

Mr. J. L. C. Sherwin, with quite a force, is working on the road from Round Valley to Lake, and will eventually make a good road of it. Complaints were made that his toll charges were rather exorbitant. In order to decrease the flow of flourishing expletives discharged by teamsters, Mr. S. has reduced the toll one half of what the law allows him. From the upper end of this valley there is a steep hill of three miles to climb; then you go down hill to Rock Creek. Next week Mr. Sherwin proposes to make a survey and estimate cost of building a wagon road entirely through the rough cañon, thus avoiding climbing the aforesaid big hill. This would be a decided improvement, and the project will undoubtedly receive the approval and assistance of this community. Near the northern end of this valley Inyo and Mono counties join. The toll road extends from this boundary line north to Lake. South of this line, for a mile or two, running on the east side of the valley, is a bad section of Inyo county road. It would be very gratifying to the traveling public to see Mr. Connolly, or any other clever gentleman of authority, attend immediately to such little matters in Northern Inyo.

Mr. C. F. W. has made a short cut-off to the bluff—changed the course of the county road. Some complain of its being too steep, etc. Profanity here again rents the air by teamsters heavily loaded. However, Charles being morally inclined and averse to cussing, he will soon stop this nonsense of mule punchers and other unregenerates by making further improvements. Every farmer should be induced by the present excitement, if not a sense of duty, to improve the roads in his immediate vicinity, and thus slightly contribute to alleviate the weariness of travelers—"hosses" and wagons inclusive.

SAWMILLS

Are played out. The Rowan Bros. have removed their sawmill (the Tim Lewis mill formerly) to Lake or Laurel District. They will be running there in a few days and sawing 8,000 or 10,000 feet every 24 hours. Also Mr. J. Steward, of the Big Pine sawmill, passed through here last week with his ox teams, etc., bound for Lake.

Big Pine appears to have turned loose. McMurry and Campbell, senior, drove bands of cattle through here lately for the new districts. Mr. Sears, of Big Pine, with his family, have located near Lake, and are in the milk business, furnishing the fresh liquid to the city folks of Mammoth, Pine, etc. Mr. Sherwin also, with his large and interesting family, will strike out in a few days for Lake, and will also take the Round Valley school teacher, Mr. Buck, along.

It is evident that these new mining districts will attract large numbers of people this season, so that farmers, miners, teamsters and every one expect lively times. Unless Southern Inyo bestirs itself pretty lively it will be found far behind Southern Mono. Wake up, ye old sinners! JINKS.

IN the Academy of Music, in New York, a few nights ago, a game of chess was played by living pieces. The spectacle was a gorgeous one, and kings, queens, knights, bishops and even pawns, were arrayed in silks, satins, velvets and blazing jewels. The game was played by two persons, one of whom won in 45 minutes.

OLIVE, the Nebraska cremator, who burned two men at the stake because they were suspected of cattle stealing, has been sentenced to the Penitentiary for life. Roasting human beings does not seem to be considered much of a crime in Nebraska.

THE Truckee Republican hoists its Presidential ticket for 1880: U. S. Grant for President, and A. A. Sargent, Vice President.

THE New York Times says the Commission in charge of the New York Exposition for 1883 have selected a plot near Port Morris, Winchester county. They have found there the requisite number of acres of unoccupied land necessary. The facilities of approach by water and land, and other advantages, make the spot peculiarly eligible for the site of the great exhibition. The men who are pushing this enterprise seem to be thoroughly in earnest. The act of incorporation, which Congress is to be asked to pass, is prepared, and the New York Exhibition of 1883, which will celebrate the one hundredth anniversary of Great Britain's formal acknowledgment of American Independence, may be looked upon as a coming reality.

AN excellent song and chorus, "Gentle Daisy Bell," has just been issued with a beautiful photograph of Marie Roze as "Carmen," adorning the title. Either song or photograph is worth more than the marked price of both—40 cents. The publishers, Sherman, Hyde & Co., have found it almost impossible to supply the demand.

BORN.

At Bishop Creek, Inyo county, Cal., May 7, 1879, to the wife of George L. Drake, a son.

MODOCK OFFICIAL LETTER.—The official letter of the week is as follows:

May 6, 1879.

J. W. Pew, Esq., Secretary Modock Con. M. Co.:—DEAR SIR: Tunnel 1000-foot level has been run in 1,585 feet. Shaft from 300-foot level sunk 19 feet. Total depth to date, 401 feet. Upraise been raised 12 feet during the week, giving total height of raise 124 feet. Distance between top of raise and bottom of shaft, 38 feet. Fall of tunnel last night broke into a clay gouge, carrying good indications for ore. At present writing the face and sides of tunnel are about 4 feet in this clay and ledge matter. Have had good ground for the past week, as report of distance made in tunnel will show. Could have no better indications for ore ground than now in face of tunnel. There should be very little ground between shaft and upraise at the end of this week, and we can see nothing that can prevent good progress being made.

Yours, respectfully,
A. C. TIBBETTS, Supt.

HE STOLE THE MAN.—A chain of incidents discloses what appears to have been an organized attempt to relieve our livery stables of some very valuable horses, on Sunday night last, one little affair resulting rather curiously. About 2 o'clock A. M. a Cornishman giving his name as Jacob Hoskins, with the aid of probable confederates sleeping in Bennett's barn, gained entrance and led out Sheriff Moore's well-known stallion, Budd Doble. The noise awakened Mr. Moffat, sleeping in his rooms next door, who upon looking out discovered the would-be thief astride a horse and leading Budd away. Mr. M. immediately gave the alarm, and soon Tom May, B. L. Brown, Sheriff Moore and others were up and doing. But Budd Doble seemed to have taken in the situation and did the most effective work himself. When Tom May captured Mr. Hoskins, a few hundred yards east of town, the powerful animal was in the act of pulling his man back to the stable, and when Tom took his man prisoner the horse led them both in. Hoskins was lodged in jail, and at the close of an examination held by Judge Gardner on Tuesday, he was bound over in the sum of $1,000 to appear before the Grand Jury, on a charge of grand larceny. The same man and some of his companions were in Mairs' stable the same night, it is thought, after the famous racer, Black Harry.

RETURNED.—Dr. P. G. Gelcich, who some months ago left Lone Pine for Los Angeles, has returned and will resume business in our neighboring town. He reports that the southern portion of the State is suffering great financial and business depression. The leading men there are beginning to realize the full effects of their idiotical supineness in not helping along Senator Jones in his efforts to build the Los Angeles and Independence Railroad. The "leading" and business men there have our oft-expressed sympathies—over the left.

DISTRICT COURT.—By an order received from Judge Reed to-day, the District Court has been adjourned to Tuesday, the 8th day of July. It has been fourteen months since Inyo county has had District Court, with a calendar of thirty-eight cases now waiting adjudication or trial. His Honor has had a great number of tedious criminal and civil cases in Kern and Mono counties during the year, and the fact is becoming apparent that the next Legislature will have to divide the Sixteenth Judicial District and provide a new one.

SHAMEFUL.—It is astonishing how ineffably mean some people, even very young ones, can be! Take such, for example, as those boys who break school-house windows, simply to cause annoyance and expense. Now, by the way of fair warning, we give notice to these young candidates for the penitentiary that should any of them ever be caught at such malicious mischief they will be prosecuted to the full extent of the law for such cases made and provided.

"OH, MY!"—Somehow or another this expression has grown into much popularity of late among the boys about town. It is said to have grown out of an attempt made by Al. Robinson to convey a drunken squaw to the jail by aid of a pack-mule.

RESIGNED.—G. M. Gill, Justice of the Peace for this Township, has tendered to the Board of Supervisors his resignation; as also has G. W. Brady, Constable for same.

BENTON.—The vote at Benton foots up 93, there being for the new Constitution 42 and 51 against—majority 9. We have no further returns from Mono county.

BANKRUPT.—A. J. Murphy has been adjudged a bankrupt, and Wm. L. Moore, Sheriff, appointed assignee, no creditors appearing.

Proceedings of the Board of Supervisors.

On Monday, May 5th, Chairman Westerville adjourned the Board to THURSDAY, May 8.

Present, J. R. Westerville, Chairman; C. Meysan and J. L. Garretson.

The following bills were examined and allowed:

FRIDAY, May 9.

OUR DARWIN LETTER.

DARWIN, May 7.

MESSRS. EDITORS: Our little burg has finally quieted down somewhat since its disastrous experience of last week, probably the largest fire that ever occurred in Inyo county. Outside of Sharp Bros. and Paris & Harmon there was no insurance on any of the buildings consumed; the former holding policies to the amount of $9,000 and the latter $4,000. Each of the above firms had cellars in which goods were kept. Sharp Bros. had no insurance on the goods in their cellar, only on the store and contents, and these goods were but slightly damaged. Paris & Harmon's cellar fared worse than their neighbor, theirs being partly under the store, and many of their goods being partially damaged. All the buildings on both sides of Main street, between Darwin and Market streets, were burned to the ground. At one time the building owned by P. Keogan on the opposite side of Market street, was on fire, but by the manly efforts and practical judgment of Peter Taylor, Superintendent of the Emigrant S. M. Co., the whole lower part of Main street was saved. R. S. Hatch is loser fully $800, Dr. Carson probably $500, and G. Carter, Supt. of the Water Works, about $600. The safes of the above firms, when opened, proved to have been sufficiently fire proof to save all their contents in pretty fair order. Postmaster Sharp had $200 in postage stamps, which were so thoroughly stuck together that a "Government mule" could not haul them apart.

The unanimous verdict of the people here is that the fire was deliberately set by some damnable wretch, wearing the guise of man, and if he were known, whoever he may be, it would be a warm camp for his already damned soul.

Mr. J. J. Williams has kindly furnished me with the following statement of his run, day per day, since the starting of the furnace on May 1st, and which has run splendidly ever since. Ores are still coming in from Wildrose, Minnietta and the Ygnacio mine. After this run is concluded, Supt Williams will continue on purchasing ores on the same favorable terms as heretofore. The New Coso furnace was started up on May 1st, the blast being turned on at 10 A. M. The furnace has been running steadily since the start, the record for the week ending at 7 A. M. on the 8th, being as follows:

Date.	Tons Ore Smelted.	Product Bars.	Tons.
1	33 1100-2000	182	7 1133-2000
2	35 1000-2000	242	9 1108-2000
3	38 1600-2000	214	8 1120-2000
4	39 4000-2000	211	8 914-2000
5	38 1600-2000	179	7 357-2000
6	40 1600-2000	164	6 1086-2000
7	41 1200-2000	173	6 1800-2000
Totals...	268 500-2000	1 365	54 508-2000

The company have purchased ores from the Modock, Minnietta, Custer and other mines, and will continue to receive ores during the present run, which may last until the 15th or 20th instant.

Messrs. Birchett & Parker, who have the Snow Cañon 5-stamp mill leased for a season, came in Saturday last with between $4,000 and $5,000 in gold and silver bullion, being the clean-up from a two weeks' run by them, which went down by Wells, Fargo & Co., and consigned to the Bank of California. They are well pleased with the success that is attending their efforts to help out this end of Inyo county, and the voice of us all down here is that their record in this noble work will prove brighter even in the future than it has in the past. Mr. Chas. Mason, agent and manager for Mr. Sheldon Collins, of New York, owner of this property, represents the mining outlook in Snow's Cañon as being very favorable, as all the mines are looking well and yielding good ore. A large proportion of the ores first worked by Messrs B. & P. came from the St. George, represented by Mr. M. and the old Virginia property of Messrs. Grove & Mitchell. Mr. Grove, by the way, is the millman, under whose watchful and able management the present success of the mill is mainly attributable. Mr. Mason reports the St. George as being down over 100 feet, and that ores taken from that depth for the present run averaged $100 per ton in gold. It is a satisfaction to be able to report that our Snow Cañon friends are all feeling so well pleased with their prospects and success and that there is really one little live camp down our way.

There was but a small vote polled here, being probably the most quiet election ever held at this place. Only 22 votes were polled, 12 of which were for the new Constitution and 10 against that document. C. F. O'BRION.

THE LATEST.

By the stage from the south, which arrived since a portion of this edition was put to press, we are in receipt of a copy of the Sand-lot organ, giving the news up to 1 o'clock on the morning of the 8th, and a dispatch from Mohave containing eight hours' later advices.

It requirs but a few words to give the sum of the election news, viz: The majority for the Commune Constitution will foot up to 9,000 for the State. This is sorry news enough for this time.

MARCH, 1880.—And it came to pass that many poor men went out in 1879 to cinch whomsoever they could lay hands upon, but tottered back again most woefully cinched.

WHO says that we really care a continental about the ratification of the great confusion? But if the business interests and the people of the State of California don't smell a political Tophet for years to come it will not be because the odor isn't in it.

The Continental Life.

As there are a good many unfortunates on this coast interested in the Continental Life Insurance Company of New York, these two items may have a value:

Col. Westbrook, a relative of Judge Westbrook, the adjudicator in the affairs of the Continental Life, was appointed accountant to the receiver. As the gallant Colonel's bookkeeping education had been neglected, a Tammany Hall lobbyist, named Mooney, was appointed to instruct him. Both are drawing pay. By order of the Judge, Mooney has just pocketed $2,000.

The receivership management of the Continental Life Insurance Company is a subject of indignant comment by the insurance press of New York. The present receiver, since the time of his appointment, March 31st, 1877, has expended $60,014 50, of which the lawyers had $45,006 09. W. R Grace, one of the former receivers, paid out and carried off $46,315.

HOME AGAIN.—Our senior got back in time to add one more vote to the majority against Denis' last hope for loot, but says he'll sell his shirt rather than go to work—till he gets ready—which signifies that he has become a real Workingman, like Denis.

TAKE THE BANNER.—Three cheers and a tiger for the level-headed ranchers of Round Valley—twenty-eight solid votes against!

THE Central Pacific Railroad Company, now attempting to defeat the Thurman Funding Act, by which they will have to pay their debt to the Government, will owe the Government in 1893, when the bonds fall due, the sum of $127,180,698 04, provided they succeed in making the Government pay all the interest, as has been the case heretofore.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:

SATURDAY, MAY 10.....1879

PROF. ANDREW MASON, A. M., recently addressed the New York Bullion Club on the subject of assaying. In the course of his lecture he explained a new process for parting gold and silver, which he had introduced in the assay office, and which had saved the Government about $100,000 a year. In this process sulphuric acid was used instead of nitric acid, and the silver was precipitated by the introduction of a piece of copper into the matrice. He illustrated this by actual experiment. He said that in the old process the chemicals were wasted, but by the new method the cost of materials was nearly all saved. The gold and silver, after being assayed, were pressed into cheeses worth about $20,000 and $900 respectively. He said that about $5,000,000 in gold was used annually in the arts.—Stock Report.

SHERIFF'S SALE.

BY VIRTUE OF AN EXECUTION ISSUED OUT of the District Court of the Sixteenth Judicial District of the State of California, in and for the County of Inyo, in the suit of Martin Mee, Plaintiff, against the Defiance Mining Company, Defendant, upon a judgment rendered in said Court on the 18th day of May, A. D. 1877, for the sum of One Thousand One Hundred and Eighty-six 11 100 Dollars in gold coin of the United States, duly attested the 11th day of April, A. D. 1879, whereby I am commanded to make the amount of $1,186 11 100 in gold coin of the United States, besides accruing costs and interest, I have levied upon all the right, title and interest of the said Defendant in and to the following real property, to-wit:

All that certain lead, lode or mining claim known and designated as the Defiance mine, situated in the Cerro Gordo Mining District, County of Inyo, State of California, together with all the appurtenances thereunto belonging.

Notice is hereby given that on Monday, the Twelfth Day of May, A. D. 1879, between the hours of 9 o'clock A. M. and 4 o'clock P. M. to wit: at the hour of 1 o'clock P. M. of that day, in front of the Court House in the town of Independence, County of Inyo, State of California, I will sell all the right, title and interest of the said Defendant, the Defiance Mining Company, in and to the above described property, or so much thereof as may be sufficient to satisfy said judgment and all costs, at public auction, to the highest bidder or bidders, for cash in hand in gold coin of the United States.

Supreme Court Decision Regarding Mines.

In the Supreme Court on the 7th instant the following decision was announced: Flagstaff Silver Mining Company, Utah, plaintiff, in error, vs. Helen Tarbet, in error, to the Supreme Court of Utah. The controversy in this case relates to respective rights of two mining companies in the Little Cottonwood District, Utah, who are working subterraneously upon the same lode or vein of ore. The principal question involved is whether the Flagstaff Company has a right to carry its excavations underground outside the perpendicularly drawn side lines of its surface location, when by so doing it infringes upon the rights of the adjoining claimant. With regard to the important question of following lodes or veins of ore below the surface, and the respective rights of contending parties in such cases, this Court hold as follows: First—Location of a mining claim upon a lode or vein of ore should be laid along the same lengthwise of its course, at or near the surface, under Mining Act of 1866 and that of 1872. Second—Each locator is entitled to follow the dip of the lode or vein to an indefinite depth, even though it carries him outside of side lines of location, but this right is based on the hypothesis that the side lines substantially correspond with the course of the lode or vein at the surface, and that it is bounded at each end by the end lines of the location crossing the lode or vein and extended perpendicularly downwards and indefinitely in their own direction. Third—If the location be laid crosswise of the vein or lode so that its greatest length crosses the same instead of following the course thereof, it will secure only so much of the vein as it actually crosses at the surface, and the side lines of the location will become lines thereof for the purpose of defining the rights of owners. Fourth—A locator working subterraneously into the dip of a vein belonging to another locator, is a trespasser and liable to action for taking ore therefrom. In accordance with these principles this Court holds that the Flagstaff Company is outside its rightful boundaries, and it therefore affirms the judgment of the lower Court in favor of Helen Tarbet. Justice Bradley delivered the opinion.

THE question of what Kansas is going to do with the destitute negroes within her borders is becoming an alarming one. Late advices from Atchison intimate that the people of the various towns are trying to shift the responsibility from one to another in a way that is not calculated to relieve the destitute nor afford oppressed communities any but a temporary relief. For instance, 300 negroes arrived at Leavenworth, moneyless and without clothing or shelter. Instead of relieving them, the authorities of Leavenworth paid all their fares to Atchison, thus throwing the burden of caring for them on the people of the latter town. Meantime strenuous efforts are being made to stop immigration both by the Southern people who are losing the laborers and by the citizens of Kansas, who are receiving only a destitute class whom they can not employ.—Stock Report.

THE State of California is 700 miles long, with an average width of 220 miles, making an aggregate area of 98,634,240 acres. Of this amount 65,000,000 are adapted to agriculture, 15,000,000 to grazing, 4,000,000 are swamp and overflowed land, and 14,034,240 are lakes, bays and precipitous mountains. The Federal Government has granted to the State 10,785,160 acres of public lands.

CONGRESSMAN DAGGETT, of Nevada, has been selected by the Grand Army of the Republic, to read a poem, and Gen. Keifer, of Ohio, to deliver an oration, at the Arlington National Soldiers' Cemetery on Decoration Day, the 30th instant.

Verdict of Guilty in Miles Polygamy Case.

On the 6th instant, at Salt Lake City, Judge Emerson charged the jury in the Miles polygamy case. They retired to their room, and after an absence of ten minutes, returned with a verdict of "guilty." He will receive sentence on Friday, but meantime a motion has been made for a new trial, and the prisoner has been placed under $5,000 bonds pending the motion. The verdict was received with applause, and United States Attorney Van Zile was warmly congratulated for the able manner in which he conducted the case. Miss Owen was present, and received the announcement of "guilty" with great pleasure, remarking to a reporter that she hoped the sentence would be hard labor for life. The prospects for a new trial are extremely doubtful, but an appeal will be taken. The case is so clear that no one doubts the result. While the verdict was being announced, another remarkable event was transpiring on the outside. Dan. H. Wells, First Counselor of the Mormon Church, was being escorted from the Utah Penitentiary to the city by thousands of the faithful, who had been summoned from all sections of the Territory to manifest displeasure at Wells' incarceration for contempt of Court. There were between 7,000 and 8,000 men, women and children in line, on foot, on horseback and in wagons, while the sidewalks were crowded with spectators. The American flag was plentifully sandwiched between the banners covered with various mottoes. As they filed by the Federal Court House, deafening yells went up, and Wells, who sat in a carriage with John Taylor, stood up and waved his hat, and ten bands lent their notes to the din. After the parade the crowd were harangued at the Tabernacle and banqueted at the expense of the city.—Salt Lake Cor. S. F. Bulletin, May 5.

FRED. DOUGLASS, in a lecture at Staunton, Va., advised his colored hearers not to trust altogether to prayers, but to go to work honestly, systematically and conscientiously. He himself, he said, had prayed for thr e long years that freedom might come to him, but it never come until prayers got down into his legs and carried him away. He did not approve the "exodus," and added: "Stay where you are, and so conduct yourselves that men will be bound to respect you—work with head and hands—seek to acquire knowledge as well as property, and in time you may have the honor of going to Congress, for if the negro can stand Congress, Congress ought to stand the negro."

ST. PETERSBURG is a nice place to live in just now. After nine o'clock in the evening nobody is at liberty to show himself in the street without a certificate upon which must be written and attested the place from which the bearer comes and to which he is going. At 10 o'clock every light must be out and the inhabitants in bed as in a military garrison. Meantime the Poor old Czar is nearly crazy with the fear of assassination. On the occasion of a recent railroad trip of his, Cossacks took possession of the railway, and for twenty-four hours preceding the start of the Imperial train no person was allowed to approach within one mile of the road on either side.

IT was 'Squire Edmunds, of the Wabash, a cousin of the Senator from Vermont, who remarked to a brace of limber-jawed lawyers who were arguing a case before him: "When you gentlemen get through your speeches you will find my decision in this drawer; the Court is going to dinner." We can't help thinking the speech-making now going on at the Capitol will have as little influence in making up the popular verdict on the question at issue as the arguments in 'Squire Edmunds' Court had on his judgment.—Washington Post.

ONE evidence of the interest taken at the East in everything affecting California, is the frequency with which we see in Eastern journals articles on subjects of vital importance to us. The latest we have seen is a highly interesting two-column letter on the Chinese question in the Woonsocket (R. I.) Times, from the pen of Mr. Richard D. Mowry, of this city, whom the Times designates as "an old New Englander." Such articles as these do a world of good in putting the affairs of the Pacific Coast before the people.—Stock Report.

A TEXAS prayer meeting at Stephenville broke up in a bloody fight over the attempt of a Sheriff's posse to arrest Rusk Hollaway for carrying concealed weapons. Hollaway fell back on his revolver, and the voice of prayer was hushed in a whizz of bullets. Robertson and Ross, of the Sheriff's posse, lost their lives in trying to enforce the law, Rusk's father killing Ross with his own pistol after he had been wounded.

A CINCINNATI paper has been canvassing the tone of Republican sentiment in Ohio, and finds that Gen. Garfield is most generally looked to as leader, to whom the Governorship will go if he will accept it. Next to him comes Judge Alphonso Taft; then Chas. Foster, and several others following close after.

COMMERCIAL drummers are closing up their business in North Carolina and leaving the State, the last Legislature having laid a tax of $300 upon each member of the tribe.

SATURDAY, MAY 17.....1879

THE Pharmaceutical Journal records a case in which a popular "soothing syrup" caused the death of an infant. The child, five months old, was supposed to be teething, and its mother purchased a bottle of "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," administering ten drops of the nostrum about twice a day for about three days. On the night of the third day it died very suddenly from the effects of the medicine. The Coroner said that the effects of "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup" were those of a narcotic, and the Pharmaceutical Journal of 1872 stated that two doses had caused the death of a child fifteen months old, with the usual symptoms of narcotic poison. Analysis of this syrup showed that one ounce of it contained nearly one grain of morphine with other opium alkaloids. "It is not surprising," he adds "that it should prove fatal to infants in small doses." However, it is safe to say that this case will prove no warning, and that mothers will go on just the same, stupifying their infants with Godfrey's cordial and "patent medicines," like the one above noted; and the practice will cease, perhaps, on the same day in the dim future in which the housekeeper and the average servant girl learn that benzine and kerosene are not proper substitutes for paper and wood in kindling the kitchen fire.

WHAT perhaps more than any single thing contributed to the carrying of the new Constitution was the wide-spread belief that the Central Pacific Railroad oposed it. Such is the bitter hostility which the exactions, oppressions and meannesses of this company have aroused that to thousands and thousands of men it was enough for them to get it into their heads that the Central Pacific did not want the new Constitution adopted to make them impervious to argument. "And that puts us in mind of a little story," as Uncle Abe was in the habit of saying. A Hibernian, who had not been long in this country, with the oppressions fresh in his mind inflicted by England, was questioned as to what ticket he contemplated voting at the coming election. Pat straightened himself up to full length and eagerly inquired: "Which side is forninst the Governmint?" So with a great many who voted for the new Constitution—any side being preferable to the one occupied by that corporation.

THE next election will be the most important ever held in California. More officials are to be chosen than ever before, and in commencing operations under a new Constitution which is in great part a series of conundrums, these officials will have more power. Most important of all will be the three Railroad Commissioners, and the seven Judges of the Supreme Court. Beside the power lodged in the hands of these officials, that of the Governor, or even the combined execuive and legislative departments, pales into insignificance.

WE would humbly suggest to Mayor Denis Kearney the propriety of sending his Assessor around to the De Young establishment to ask those very honest getlemen and consistent advocates of equal taxation if they did not swear to a lie in giving in their taxable property this year? The official statement shows the whole taxable value of their types, presses, etc., to be just $9,000! Wonder what has become of that $40,000 ten cylinder about which they made such ado two or three years since?

THE immediate effect of the adoption of this Constitution must be to make times harder than otherwise would have been. Precisely what the new Constitution means, in many important respects, no one can tell. There is no use speculating and guessing; for the only guess worth anything is that which will be made by a Supreme Court yet to be elected. And for some time to come there will exist a feeling of uncertainty and insecurity which will check enterprise and improvement.

THE war between the Democratic Congressmen and the President, in relation to the army, still goes on. On the 12th the President rendered his second veto touching that matter, the bill this time being entitled "An Act to prohibit military interference at elections." Sich is politics.

IT requires 300,000 cubic feet of the finest quality of pine lumber to make the yearly supply of lucifer matches for the United States, and it takes 100,000 cords of fine wood to make our shoepegs. It takes 40,000,000 ties to supply our 90,000 miles of railroad.

UNDER THE NEW INSTRUMENT.

It is a settled fact that the new Constitution is hereafter to shape the destinies of this great State. Very well; "now, we'll thee," as that lisping McCorkle girl remarked on a certain occasion. We sincerely hope good may come of it, but we as sincerely believe it will prove a very great disappointment to its over-sanguine advocates, and were it again at issue, would work more earnestly than ever to defeat it. But as we have it, it is well to see what is first to be done under it.

Section 12 of the schedule provides that "the new Constitution shall take effect at noon on the 4th of July next, so far as the same relates to the election of all officers, the commencement of their terms of office, and the meeting of the Legislature," but in no other respect whatever until noon, January 1st, 1880, when it then goes into full force and effect.

At the September election all State, Judicial, Congressional, Legislative and County officers are to be elected, and all at the same time.

The electors of the State vote in common for the following officers: Governor and Lieutenant Governor, Secretary of State, Controller, Treasurer, Attorney General, Superintendent of Public Instruction, and seven (a full bench) Judges of the Supreme Court.

By districts (3) for Railroad Commissioners; by districts, as under the present law and arrangement of counties; for four Congressmen, 20 State Senators, and 80 members of the House; by counties for Superior Judges, and other county officers as heretofore, and by townships for Justices of the Peace and Constables. In brief, every State, District, County and Township office is to be filled, if we except the places held by the 20 hold-over Senators. The new Constitution men have claimed all along that, by operation of the new instrument, the hold-over Senators all lose their places. According to the conditions of their election their terms do not expire until two years hence. We can not see by what rule of law or equity they can now be forced to step down and out, but at the same time we are given to understand such is the fact. In that event, then, Inyo would have to vote for a State Senator, vice Tom Fowler, "Constiutioned" out of office to give a Kearneyite a chance.

We have also, among other new things, to elect a Superior Judge, whose term of office is six years. No person is eligible to this office who has not been admitted to practice before the Supreme Court of the State. It is provided, however, that if a vacancy in this office should occur from any cause the Governor may fill the place by appointment, and may select the appointee from any other county if he sees proper to do so.

As an exception to the full list to be voted for, it is well to state that terms of County Supervisors are not interfered with. There will be one Supervisor to elect in this county, vice Garretson, who now holds by appointment.

Save Judges and Supervisors, all county officers elected this Fall will have but a one-year term; after the election of 1880 their terms will be as heretofore, unless otherwise ordered by the Legislature.

The next Legislature begins its session on the first Monday after the first day of next January, and may remain in session one hundred days. The term of all subsequent Legislatures is limited to sixty days.

THE splendid new steamship, the State of California, arrived at San Francisco on the night of the 8th. She is of iron, built in Philadelphia, making the run in 50 days and 12 hours. She is of 3,226 tonnage, and altogether is considered one of the finest ships ever built for this coast. She belongs to the Pacific Mail Sreamship Company, and is to run on the Oregon route.

ACCORDING to a letter received by the Virginia Enterprise from Mammoth City, Lake District, that section is coming to the front not only as a great rich mineral-bearing region, but in a social point of view. A wedding took place there a couple of weeks ago, at which eighteen ladies attended! It is also stated that a faro game has been opened, and is doing a lively business.

THE questions in Washington society now is: "Shall the wives and daughters of doorkeepers and messengers of the Legislative body make the first call on the wives of the same officers in the Executive departments, or vice versa?" There is no precedent by which this point can be settled, and no provision for it on the books of etiquette.

A CORRESPONDENT of the Philadelphia Press represents President Hayes as saying that after giving the conciliatory policy a thorough trial, he was convinced that the success of such a course would require material quite different from that which he had attempted to work upon.

THE POWER OF COIN.

The following San Francisco dispatch, dated the 11th, somehow brings to mind the adage, "when thieves fall out, then honest men will get their dues," or words to that effect:

There was a large attendance at the meeting of the Ward Presidents to-day, and the room was also crowded with adherents of the Workingmen's party. The main question before the meeting was that of the organization of a new Constitution party, as proposed by the Chronicle yesterday, which should combine all those who voted for the new Constitution into a solid party to elect legislative and State officers to carry out its provisions. It was evident at once that the proposal met with no favor among the Ward Presidents. Strong speeches were made by Kearney and others, in which Terry, Howard and others were characterized as "honorable bilks" and "political tricksters," whose lead the Workingmen would not follow, and with whom they desired no fusion. Newspaper dictation was roundly denounced, and resolutions were adopted unanimously to the effect that the victory gained in the fight on the new Constitution was due to the exertions of Denis Kearney; that to the Workingmen's party of California is due the adoption of the Constitution; that whereas, a job is being put up to organize a new Constitution party and to take from the W. P. C. the credit due for the adoption of the Constitution; therefore the people are called upon to beware of the men who are endeavoring to organize such party; that their object is too plain; that the Workingmen's party is a good stand by till every political thief now in office is unseated, and every land grabber and bank smasher leaves the State or pays his just proportion of taxes, and that no man or set of men, or no newspaper in the State or nation, can influence the Workingmen to depart from their principles.

The Workingmen's party, and no other, must be the party of this State. In the course of his remarks Kearney said that there was only one set of men lower in his estimation than those who sold their votes, and those were the lawyers. He called the attention of the meeting to the fact that he had never spoken from the same platform with lawyers, slave owners, political tricksters and honorable bilks, and never would, because they were corruptionists. This reference to the legal lights prominent on the pro-Constitution side in the recent contest brought down the house.

At the sand lots there was a good attendance this afternoon, and the sentiments there expressed were in full harmony with those enunciated at the meeting of Ward Presidents. The project of a new Constitution party was denounced as a fraud, and the people were cautioned to beware of those who had acted with the party during the recent campaign with a view of furthering their own ends, and Kearney announced that he would rather vote for Leland Stanford for Governor than for the political blatherskites who had been blowing for the new Constitution but were not members of the Workingmen's party. On the whole, the new party received very little encouragement from the Workingmen to-day, but on the contrary, got a decided black eye in the first round.

COMMISSIONER WILLIAMSON has set aside the survey of township 4 N. 27 E., embracing the famous section 16, on which are located the mines and town of Bodie. The State claimants have appealed to the Secretary of the Interior from the decision of the Commissioner, and by such action have postponed the final settlement of the question. It is the intention of the State claimants to press the matter vigorously at Washington. The settlement of the question has an important bearing upon the school fund of the State.

THE Railroad Commissioner District, No. 3, with which our fortunes are identified, is composed as follows: Alameda, Contra Costa, Fresno, Inyo, Kern, Los Angeles, Mariposa, Merced, Mono, Monterey, San Benito, San Bernardino, San Diego, San Joaquin, San Luis Obispo, Santa Barbara, Santa Clara, Santa Cruz, Stanislaus, Tulare, Tuolumne, and Ventura.

SOUTHERN planters are making arrangements to take whole car-loads of our Chinamen to work on their plantations in place of the negroes, who have gone in such large numbers to Kansas and other Northern States. It is quite likely from this that a good many of the Chinese will go now, but not exactly on Denis' account.

THE Standard Consolidated Mining Company of Bodie has declared its third dividend of fifty cents per share, or $50,000. This, with the eighteen monthly dividends of the same amount by the company under its old name, aggregates the sum of $1,500,000 which has been disbursed among the stockholders up to the present time.

IT is said that at the expiration of ten years after the war Congress had allowed and paid over $100,000,000 on account of war claims. The number of claims and the magnitude of the amount do not seem to diminish. On the contrary, fifteen years after the last gun was fired there were 76,000 of such claims on file in Washington.

THE Chronicle is now fixing up a "New Constitution Party," and pleads with Democrats and Republicans and W. P. C.'s and all sorts of people to come to the sanctuary while there is yet time, but not to stay any longer than September—then they can go back to their old loves and be happy.

THE Second Adventists in Massachusetts are causing themselves and others a good deal of trouble. Some of their preachers are threatened with tar and feathers.

THE New York Sun has dropped Mr. Tilden, and is now strongly advocating Hon. John M. Palmer, of Illinois, for the Presidency.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:

SATURDAY, MAY 17.....1879

REX MONTIS.—We were yesterday favored with a call from Geo. C. Potter and D. Henshaw Ward, respectively President and Secretary of the Rex Montis Mining Company, representing the great interests comprised in the Rex Montis, the Independence Tunnel and the Shawmut consolidation. They left last evening for the mill, and will spend time enough to thoroughly inspect all the mines now working on Kearsarge Mountain. They have settled all company business and satisfied all of the remaining claims against the property. Supt. Holt has been engaged in repairing the mill, and has made it as perfect as can be without increased power, which, however, can readily be obtained at comparatively small expense, by increasing the pressure of water or putting in another wheel. A short run has been made on ore from the Inyo mine, or the "Sardine Company" property, now being worked by Mike Welch and others. Foreman Walker, in charge of the Rex Montis mines, will be able to show the San Francisco party some most favorable developments, made by him at the close of work last season.

THE MISSING PRECINCTS.—The official table of election returns shows some three, several or more blanks. At Panamint the boys may be excused, since the duplicate election blanks sent to replace those destroyed in the fire at Darwin could not reach them in time. At Lucky Jim the Inspector's statement of the matter runs as follows: "We had not enough voters here to constitute a Board of Election. Were our men all voters we would stand 13 against to one for the new Constitution." Following is from Lee District: "As there were only about five voters in the district we concluded it was not worth while to organize, so we let it go by default. The boys got hold of some of the books, the tickets and two copies of the register, and with the assistance of a plentiful supply of whisky managed to poll several hundred votes."

DEPARTED AND ARRIVED.—Mrs. Sarah Samuels departed last week for San Francisco, there to join her husband, Mr. F. S. Samuels, late of Cerro Gordo, but now private Secretary to this father, who is in the employ of the Pacific Mail Steamship Company. Also at the same time, Miss Nettie Heissman, sister-in-law of County Treasurer Isaacs. Miss H., having relatives in the city, expects to remain there permanently. Our old fellow sinner, Lafe Gill, with his bride, has returned from Los Angeles. Lafe says they have an abundsnce of climate down there, but that is about all a man is assured of beyond daily necessities; hence, he prefers the sagebrush for a place of permanent residence.

POSTPONED.—In consequence of there not being a quorum of the Republican County Central Committee present at the called meeting for last Saturday, an adjournment was ordered to this evening. As several members of the old committee, appointed two years ago, are now absent from the county, it is likely the Executive Committee will take it in hand this evening to fill the vacancies, and to transact whatever other business may be necessary to prepare for the coming campaign.

GRAND JURY.—Following are the names of those composing the late Grand Jury, the report of which is given elsewhere: J. H. Dodge, J. L. Wood, F. W. Hilton, Andrew Dell, M. H. White, A. W. Eibeshutz, J. G. Dodge, H. Levy, John Baxter, D. E. Hunter, Thos. Williams, Jos. Le Cyr, J. M. Custer, John Dugan, C. A. Walters, B. S. Glover, John Willett, William Pierce, C. S. Swan and David Olds, Foreman.

POLITICAL.—Parties willing to serve the beloved people in official capacity for the one year term are invited to announce themselves—show their hands, as it were. It only costs $10 cash, whether you come before the Democratic or Republican Conventions, or run as an Independent, Workingman or New Constitutionalist. You pays your money and takes your choice.

THE VOTE AT MAMMOTH.—The bulk of the present population of Mammoth, in Lake District, has but lately been acquired, yet the precint polled 188 votes, as we learn from the Inspector. Out of that number but 18 voted for the new Constitution, which shows that the Mammoths took quite a correct view of that instrument from a mining standpoint.

WHAT HE FEARED.—Here is a literal fact: Just on the eve of the late election, a friend of ours asked a rabid new Constitution man how he thought the election would go. "Oh," was his reply, "California will go for it strong, but I'm afraid them Eastern States will go agin it."

SEVERE INJURY.—On Thursday of last week a Mr. Van Fleet, of Bishop, was, in some unexplained manner, nearly killed while engaged in driving a heavy field roller. His wrist, shoulder and a number of ribs were broken, which, with other injuries of like nature, will lay him up for months to come.

THE MINES.—Within the next few weeks to come, none of the unforseen contingencies likely to happen a country print shop intervening, a member of THE INDEPENDENT concern will pay a reportorial visit to several of the leading mines hereabouts.

LAKEWARD.—Among those who have gone or are about going to Lake District from hereabouts are George Stevens, Kit Johnson, I. S. Brown. Tom May, Johnny Irwin, Harry Wright, Bob Woolard, Jerome Hoover and others.

Petition of R. W. Ford, to be joined to Bishop Creek School District from Irving District, was granted.

Petition of citizens of Big Pine favoring, and proposal of D. Campbell to sell to the county a toll road to Waucoba, was rejected.

Upon statement of the County Assessor that certain signed receipts for poll taxes, amounting to $134, were destroyed in the fire at Darwin, the County Auditor was ordered to credit him with that amount upon the receipts charged.

MONDAY, May 12.

The returns of the late Constitutional funeral were taken up and officially canvassed, with a result thusly:

—Whereupon the Board adjourned for the term.

DISTRICT COURT.—We have been favored with a copy of a petition addressed to Judge Reed, signed by P. Reddy and P. W. Bennett, our well-known attorneys, asking the postponement of the term of Court here, in accordance with which such order was made. It is dated Bridgeport, Mono county, May 6, and sets forth that much important and pressing litigation was still pending there; that in this (Inyo) county "there were but few suits pending, and those of not great consequence or demanding speedy determination," and the attorneys therefore requested an adjustment until the date finally set by the Court—July 8th. Messrs. Bennett and Reddy further stated that they "believed it would be for the best interests of litigants in the two counties to have the calendar of Mono county disposed of before holding a term in Inyo."

COUNTY COURT.—The report of the late Grand Jury is published this week. It leaves nothing before his Honor Judge Hannah except to dispose of the case of J. T. Dely, indicted for burning the Lone Pine bridge. His case was called up yesterday, when Mr. Geo. M. Gill, appointed by the Court as counsel for the accused, interposed a demurrer as to the form and legality of the indictment which, after considerable argument and citation of authorities on the part of District Attorney Snelling for the prosecution and Mr. Gill for the defense, was overruled. Upon arraignment, the defendant plead "not guilty," and Monday, the 26th instant, was set for trial, and a venire of 30 jurors ordered.

MEETING.—The Democratic County Central Committee met Saturday last, there being present the Chairman, the Secretary and the Executive Committee. The usual business was transacted as appears from the announcement given elsewhere. Messrs. S. P. Moffat, P. Reddy and Martin Mee were appointed Delegates to the State Convention, to be held at Sacramento on the 27th instant. The selection of candidates for State officers at the ensuing Conventions is a matter of great importance to the people, and it is to be hoped that in both the regular nominating bodies there may be representatives from this county.

A COUNTY BOARDER. — Constable Drake, of Bishop, Thursday last brought down and consigned to Sheriff Moore's care one David Hamilton, who has been required by Justice Alexander to reside in the County Jail for the period of 30 days, in default of fine. It appears that Mr. Hamilton had been in the employ of Bob Love, and took such a fancy to Bob's property that he abstracted a certain meerschaum pipe, valued more especially by the owner as a keepsake. He took the article away and sold it, was caught in the operation and—hence.

ASSESSMENT.—The Emigrant Mining Company, at Lee District, has levied an assessment of 50 cents per share, delinquent in office June 10; day of sale, June 30.

FROM appearances, the San Francisco mining men visiting the mines on the mountain, are having a rough time of it.

Report of the Grand Jury.

To the Honorable County Court of Inyo County: The Grand Jury impaneled for the May term of 1879, in and for said county, having completed their labors, desire to submit the following report:

1st. We have found an indictment against J. T. Dailey for wilfully and maliciously burning a bridge.

2d. That we have ignored the bill against C. Eisele, charged with wilfully and maliciously destroying property.

3d. That we have ignored the bill against Jacob Hoskings, charged with horse stealing.

4th. As a body representing the people and taxpayers of Inyo county, we would recommend to the Board of Supervisors that immediate steps be taken to rebuild the bridge across Owens river, near Lone Pine. We furthermore believe that the members of the Board are guilty of a dereliction of duty, and have shown an utter disregard of the best interests of our people in their neglect or refusal to take immediate action in this matter.

5th. We have examined into the management of the County Hospital and find that our indigent sick are well cared for and receive proper medical treatment by a physician well qualified to act.

6th. We recommend that our road overseer be more strict in looking after the county roads, and that he prosecute all parties obstructing the county roads after giving them the legal notice.

7th. In reference to the county buildings, we think from the neglect of the Supervisors to act on the reports of previous Grand Juries that it would be useless to examine them and report.

Respectfully submitted,
DAVID OLDS, Foreman.
INDEPENDENCE, Cal., May 14, 1879.

AN event is now transpiring in the heart of the continent which will have a most potent effect upon American commerce and perhaps upon the future of this coast. We refer to the great contest between the two powerful railroad organizations to span the continent below the snow belt, one going eastward as rapidly as it can be pushed, and the other striking westward with all the celerity which means and enterprise can command. The Southern Pacific Railroad is now in progress of construction in Arizona beyond Maricopa Wells, and will be urged on to the city of Tucson. At the same time the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Company are pushing their road toward the same point, having now passed through New Mexico and entered upon the Territory of Arizona. When these roads shall have made a connection at Tucson, their interests will at once diverge. The Atchison road is owned by Boston capitalists who have secured from Mexico a land grant and the right of way to the port of Guaymas. The Southern Pacific people tried to secure this grant, but were outstripped by the Atchison company. Los Angeles Express.

LEAD.—The market for common domestic continues sluggish and rules in buyers favor. Transactions of the past week aggregate about 250 tons in small jobbing parcels, generally at 2⅞ @ 2.85 cents. Large buyers evince little disposition to operate, and the best bid that can be obtained is 2¾ cents, but the holders have thus far been unwilling to accept this. The tone of the market remains weak and there are no strengthening features in the present position. The spot stock is already excessive, and this, together with supplies that are known to be on the way hither, is placed by a reliable estimate at about 14,000 and 15,000 tons, of which about 8,000 tons are reported to be held by the Eureka Company. The last arrival by steamer is going into store, and with the prospect of lower prices and ample supplies for present requirements, manufacturers are unwilling to anticipate their wants. The market closed yesterday dull and nominal at 2¾@2.85 cents.—N. Y. Mining Record.

THE three Railroad Commissioners will have absolute control of the whole business of transportation throughout the State, and may fix what rates they please, not only for railroad charges but for steamboat, steamship, stage and express companies, from the Central Pacific Railroad to the Dime Parcel Express or United Cab Company, and whatever they may do there is no check upon them short of a two-thirds vote of all the members elected to each House of the Legislature. Not even in Russia was such enormous and uncontrollable power ever vested in any three men before. It is a great oversight in our brand-new Constitution that it makes no provision for the importation of three archangels to fill these places. Possibly, however, we may find them in Denis Kearney, Mike De Young and J. P. Dameron.—The State.

The Sutro Independent calls attention to the fact that the accidental deaths during the ten years employed in cutting the Sutro Tunnel have been but five or six, while 185 men were killed in the Hoosac Tunnel, and the accidental deaths in the St. Gothard Tunnel have averaged one a day, and in the Comstock mines average one a week. The low rate of accidents in cutting the Sutro Tunnel is attributed to the strict system under which the work has been carried on, and the promptitude with which the slightest carelessness has been punished by discharge. The contempt which is bred of familiarity is the real cause of most explosions.

JUDGE JERE BLACK, famous in cotemporary history and law, has long worn a black wig. Having lately donned a new one, which looked new, and meeting Senator Bayard, of Delaware, the latter accosted him: "Why, Black, how young you look; you are not so gray as I am, and you must be twenty years older." "Humph," said the Judge, "good reason; your hair comes by descent, and I get mine by purchase."—Albany Law Journal.

A New Treatment of Refractory Ores.

It is a well-known fact that this State abounds in mines, the ore from which could not be worked heretofore on account of the rebellious matter they contained. It is well known, also, that these ores contained a large percentage of gold and silver, but notwithstanding experiments without number have been tried from time to time, with a view to separating gold and silver from the base metal, all efforts in that direction have proved failures. At last, however, a system has been discovered and patented by John A. Robertson, of Oakland, which is known as the Electric Process, which threatens to revolutionize the entire business in the successful treating of ores which were heretofore regarded as worthless. Experiments, on a small scale were made with the process some time ago, and the results were so satisfactory that within a short time extensive works for the testing of the principle on a large scale have been erected in Sacramento, at Thirty-first and J streets, adjoining Clark's pottery, and their working has been so successful as to warrant the proprietors in the expenditure of a large sum of money to carry on the business.

The process is very simple, and the object is to perform in a single operation what has required two or three operations and much time to effect in the process of extracting precious metals from rebellious ore—that is to say, by thoroughly desulphurizing the ore and bringing the precious metals to a condition to amalgamate freely, aggregating the same and freeing it entirely from the influence and union of the base metals.

To effect this object there is placed a vat or receiver of sufficient capacity to hold the ore of the most convenient quantity for a single operation—say one ton—and immerse the same in a quantity of water sufficient to cover it. The required quantity of salt to make thick brine, or as much as can be held in solution with the same, is then used, adding thereto about one-half pound of cyanide of potassium and one-half pound of sulphate of copper, forming a solution of salt and cyanide of potassium in the above described manner. The ton or other desired quantity of ore is slowly heated to a red heat, and afterwards plunged, while red hot, into the aforesaid solution, the ore being broken up to about the same size that it is broken for milling. By bringing the ore in contact with the solution it becomes entirely desulphurized.

The entire operation of desulphurizing and disintegrating the quartz and sulphurets is almost instantaneous.

Iron pyrites and sulphurets generally are reduced to a very fine flour, or almost impalpable powder, and the quartz disintegrated, that it may be readily picked to pieces with the hands, and requires so little rubbing that it may be readily prepared for amalgamating in an ordinary amalgamating pan.

The action of the cyanide of potassium, in connection with the sulphate of copper, cleans, brightens and immediately prepares the precious metals for amalgamation with the quicksilver, no matter how fine and impalpable the same may be.

The solution composed of the above ingredients, and the manner of treating the ore previous to its being brought in contact with the same, rendering the operation of extracting the precious metals from the ore very simple and effectual, and accomplishes it in a very short time.

The works adjoining Clark's pottery have a capacity of one ton per hour; the cost of chemicals will not exceed $1 per ton and two cords of wood will run the furnace twenty-four hours.

Such is the excitement which this new discovery has created that of late numbers of mining men from San Francisco, Los Angeles, Shasta, El Dorado, Placer and other counties have visited this city and thoroughly inspected the workings of the new process and its wonderful results for themselves.

Among the samples worked was one from what is known as the Gold Deposit of El Dorado county, seven miles from Placerville, from which nothing could heretofore be obtained. By the electric process, however, this ore yielded about $2,000 per ton, and so favorably impressed are the owners of claims in that vicinity that several car-loads are to be sent down and worked at an early day.

Meadow Lake ores, than which none more refractory were ever known, have also been successfully worked and made to yield handsomely by this process. One pound of sulphurets from Greenwood, El Dorado county, which was worked here recently (which ore had been heretofore regarded as worthless), yielded $1,600 per ton, and many other similar illustrations of the success of this process might be quoted.

On Wednesday last a clean-up was had of the working of one ton of ore from the Washington mine, Mariposa county, and the result was a yield of $30 per ton, while at the mill only $8 or $9 per ton can be saved by the chlorinization process.

From a pound of refractory ore from Auburn a test by the new process yielded a gold button the size of a large pin-head.

Negotiations have been already entered into for the shipment of large quantities of ore from various localities to this city for treatment by the new process, and in a few days the works will be started up to their full capacity.

At Sweetser & Alsip's office, on Fourth street, between J and K, can be seen the first bar ever produced by this process. The ore was from the Enterprise mine in Mariposa county, very base, and at the mill only $13 25 was saved. Nine tons of ore were worked by the process and the result was a yield of $50 per ton. Some of the gold was kept for small specimens, but the bar, which is about 3½x2 inches in size and 1½ inches thick, is valued at $443.

SATURDAY, MAY 17.....1879

Sutro and the Wat r Stocks.

Mr. Sutro was in Virginia the other day. He announces that the sub-drain continues to be pushed rapidly ahead and will be finished on time. The recent cave has been repaired.

It was reported on apparently good authority on the streets of Virginia this morning that arrangements had been made with the Savage to raise the debris of the last mile of the sub-drain. In fact, Mr. Sutro was said to have acknowledged the impossibility of getting the work done on time in any other way. Col. Gillette was interviewed and declared the report of the agreement entirely without foundation in fact. Mr. Sutro declared the same thing. So, information from a most reliable source was again found to be unreliable.

In explanation of his determination to work entirely on the sub-drain from the Sutro end, Mr. Sutro said that the Savage Mining Company wanted $1 50 for raising one of the tunnel car-loads of rock. He could run the same out through the tunnel for 10 cents per car-load, and proposed to do it and save the $1 40 per car-load. He could do this and get the sub-drain done on time, too.

As to the report of the attempt to stop the water of the Julia from being pumped into the tunnel, there is nothing in it. Since the accumulation in the mine has been exhausted the flow is so small that it does not damage it at all.—Virginia Chronicle.

AFTER the death of William Cullen Bryant questions were often asked respecting the precise nature of his religious faith, and it is well known how "Thanatopsis" has been called Pagan and materialistic. The Rev. Dr. Joseph Alden, of Albany, has just published, through G. P. Putnam's Sons, a volume called "Thought of the Religious Life," to which is prefixed an introduction, written by Mr. Bryant, that was found at the time of his death lying on a table in his study. By some means it was afterwards mislaid, and when found recently several pages of it were missing. In this fragmentary condition it is now published, stars being used to denote the missing passages. "In my view," says Mr. Bryant, "of the life, the teachings, the labors and the sufferings of the blessed Jesus, there can be no admiration too profound, no love of which the human heart is capable too warm, no gratitude too earnest and deep of which He is justly the object. It is with sorrow that my love for him is so cold, and my gratitude so inadequate." Mr. Bryant adds that if he thought the religion of skepticism were to gather strength and become the dominant view of mankind, he should "despair of the fate of mankind in the years that are to come." He trembles "to think what the world would be without Him (Christ)," and continues: "Take away the blessing of the advent of His life and the blessings purchased by His death, in what an abyss of guilt would man have been left. It would seem to be blotting the sun out of the heavens—to leave our system of worlds in chaos, frost and darkness."

THE everlasting Louisiana case is about to be hauled over the coals once more, in the Kellogg-Spofford Senatorial contest. The Senate had a seven hours' struggle over it last Tuesday. This is getting to be like the celebrated Jarndyce vs. Jarndyce case, which Dickens made so much of in his story of "Bleak House." There does not seem to be much more to be added to the story of Louisiana politics, except it be the history of the Hawley-McVeigh Commission, which broke up the Packard Legislature. When that comes out the book had better be closed. People are very tired of it as it stands.—Bodie Standard, May 10.

MOODY and the other celebrated revivalists will have to take back seats. An Illinois revivalist thus addressed the congregation gathered about a fainting sister: "Stand away, brethren and sisters, and let the angels come in and fan her. I feel as if a quarter-section of heaven had caved in and all the stars were tumbling down on me. You Christians are like young pigs. I have to pull your ears off to get you up to the gospel trough, and after you get a taste of the glories, nearly pull your tails off to get you away."

NEW discoveries are constantly being made. It is now said that a man in New York has discovered some new laws of motion which "explain the lateral and horizontal retrospective, correlative, tangential gravity of the zyroscope."

W. E. JAMES, of Rockport, Texas, noticed a duck fluttering strangely while he was walking along the Gulf beach, and found that a group of oysters had closed on one of the bird's toes, making it a fast prisoner.

COL. DRAKE, who put down the first oil well in the United States 20 years ago, is to have a monument at Titusville, Pa. Drake died poor, it is said, without reaping any reward from his discovery.

DECEPTIVE ATMOSPHERE.—Two Englishmen recently started from Denver for a walk to the mountains before breakfast; an apparently easy task, as the mountains did not appear more than a mile or two away. After walking for an hour without seeming to have made any progress toward the desired goal, one of them became discouraged and concluded to return for his breakfast; afterward he took a carriage and went in search of his friend, whom he found on the bank of a small ditch engaged in removing his boots. His friend inquired what he intended to do. He replied: "To wade that ditch." His friend replied that there was no necessity for that, as the ditch was less than three feet across and he could easily jump it. "You can't tell anything about it in this blarsted country," responded the other, "it may be 300 feet across." His morning walk proved to extend about 15 miles before he reached the foot-hills.—Denver News.

ELIAS LIPSIS, the stage manager, who committed suicide in San Francisco the other day, in presence of his wife, was a cousin of Adah Isaacs Menken-Heenan, the famed actress, with whom he traveled for four or five years. In 1867 he left Miss Menken in California and came to Silver City as a clerk for Adler & Co. From there he drifted to Dayton, and bought a half interest in the bar of Cross', the leading hotel of Dayton at that time. While there Miss Menken visited him and tried to induce him to travel with her, but he was obdurate and finally ordered her away. In 1868 he married his present wife, who was then Miss Carrie Mitchell. Lipsis was looked upon as a very honorable and chivalrous young man, of fair ability but exceedingly sensitive. Lyon County Times.

IT is said that one of the means used for getting up the negro exodus was the profuse distribution among the plantation negroes of a highly colored print depicting "A Freedman's Home" in Kansas, where the house is a cottage of the most ornamental sort in the midst of orchards and waving grain fields. The house has French windows, the housewife has a host of servants baking "pies and cakes and things," while the parlor contains a grand piano at which he eldest daughter of the family is discoursing soft music to a sympathetic admirer.

THE Chinese population of New York is steadily growing, and at a recent missionary meeting it was said that 1,000 lived on Mott street alone. There are already complaints that the New York boys stone Chinamen, and before very long we shall doubtless hear of the starting of anti-Chinese Clubs. It will not be long before the Chinese question will be a national one.

THE rumors that George C. Gorham will start a Republican paper in San Francisco are probably more correct than such rumors generally are. A complete equipment for a daily paper has already arrived in this city from New York. Gorham is a vigorous writer and a good newspaper man, and if a successful paper can be started in that way he may accomplish it.

JUDGE DEADY, of the United States District Court for Oregon, in sentencing an Alaska Indian to death, ordered his body to be given to the doctors for dissection. We believe the Alaska Indians have superstition with regard to the connection between soul and body which makes such a sentence as this peculiarly terrible.—Ex.

JOHN C. CHENEY is, according to his advertisements, "Vermont's gifted temperance orator;" but his labor in Northampton, Mass., has been interrupted by his arrest for bigamy. He has three wives.

JOAQUIN MILLER has arrived in San Francisco from the East.

Where the Back Hair Comes From.

False hair having become to be recognized as a necessity of the modern female existence, it may be of interest to learn how this constantly increasing want is supplied. Live hair, bought "on foot" (to use a technical term of the trade), constitutes but a very small percentage of the stock in market, as there are few women willing to part with their locks for money, and those who have superfluous locks to spare grow fewer and fewer year after year. When second-hand tresses were needed merely for wigs for a few elderly ladies, agents found no difficulty in securing a sufficiency among the peasant maids of Auvergne and Brittany. The present demand, however, greatly exceeds the supply, and it is asserted that Paris alone uses more than all the available crop in France, and that Marseilles (the great center of traffic in hair) deals with Spain, the Orient and the two Sicilies for forty tons a year of dark hair, of which she makes upward of 65,000 chignons annually. Under the name of "dead hair" are classed the "combings," which thrifty servant girls save up and sell, clippings of barber shops, faded curls, worn out switches, etc. The scavengers of every city, both at home and abroad, value nothing short of a spoon among the refuse so much as a snarl of combings, however dirty, as it will find a ready sale. Such findings are afterwards washed with bran and potash, carded, sifted, classed and sorted, and then made into cheap front curls, puffs and chignons that abound in the market. Much of this enters into the cheaper grades of the 350,000 "pieces" annually made in France, of which enormous trade England is said to be the best customer, and America almost as good. Late reports on the commerce of Swatow, China, show that a large export trade in "dead hair," gathered in the stalls of barbers, sprang up in 1874, during which year 18,000 pounds were exported to Europe. In 1875 the exports of this refuse rose to 134,000 pounds, with a commercial value of over $25,000. It is an undoubted fact, too, that pauper corpses are often despoiled of their hair to meet this same demand of an unscrupulous commerce. Those, then, who sport other than their own natural locks can never be sure whether these are redolent of the sepulcher, the gutter or the servant girl's comb.

Jesse Pomeroy.

Jesse Pomeroy, the notorious young murderer, made an attempt, a few days since, to escape from the Concord prison. He obtained, but in some unknown manner, probably from outside the prison, a portion of an ordinary case-knife, the edge of which had been kindly serrated by his unknown friend, so that it was very useful as a saw. Pomeroy, as is well known, is in a solitary cell, the walls of which are sheathed with boiler-iron. The only possible means of egress is, therefore, one of the windows which are recessed, the sides being made of boiler-iron, with cast-iron fittings securely bolted on. In front of the windows are iron bars extending from the stone window sill to the capping above, measuring an inch and a half in diameter. Overlooking Pomeroy's cell is the main yard connected with the prison. Pomeroy's work with his improvised saw, was so nearly successful that if an officer of the prison had not observed that the iron attachments of one of his windows were in an irregular position, he would have probably got out into the yard and there, perhaps, been shot by an officer. The investigation which was at once made of the cell, showed that one of the iron bars at the window was completely cut in twain at the bottom and was nearly severed at the top, Pomeroy having used the sawings with hard soap as a cement to hide his work. The cast iron fittings were also sawed apart and replaced into position to prevent detection, being held in place by patches of soap. An opening of several inches had also been made in the boiler iron, which was intended as the finishing labor of the adroit criminal, but which failed him at the very moment when freedom was within his grasp. In replacing the cast iron parts which had been removed, Pomeroy failed to restore them into line, which failure caused the discovery of his scheme. He is now in the most secure dungeon, and a constant watch is kept on his every movement.—Cambridge Press.

THE articles of incorporation of a new telegraph company, to be known as the Union Telegraph Company, were filed on the 1st instant in Albany. The capital stock of the company is $10,000,000, to be divided into 100,000 shares, of $100 each. Jay Gould subscribed for 50,000 shares of the capital stock, David H. Bates subscribed for 25,000 shares, and Chas. A. Tinker, of Baltimore, for the remaining 25,000 shares. These three persons are the only incorporators of the new company. The Union Telegraph Company is intended to do a general telegraph business in all parts of the country.

BEFORE the votes were counted for the new Constitution, and while it was scarcely known whether it was adopted or not, the Chronicle and some other blatant "bilks" in the State began to clamor for a Constitutional party. They knew well enough that they had no chance with the Workingmen, as a separate organization; but they hoped to combine Kearneyites, Grangers, Democrats, Socialists and Communists into one harmonious whole, and ride into office by their united votes.—San Jose Mercury.

FUSION.

The Bodie Standard is decidedly of the opinion that the wisest, therefore the safest thing the well wishers of this State can do politically is to drop all party lines, and for Republicans, Democrats and Workingmen to stand in together to put down this threatening "honorable bilk," Kearney-Terry-Chronicle crowd. Our contemporary advances some pretty good reasons why this should be done, but for the present we can not undertake to recapitulate them. Among other things, though, it is claimed that this state of affairs need not extend beyond the pending election; that, of necessity, the Presidential contest of next year will again define party lines as heretofore.

We are not now prepared to say the advice offered is not the best, but we are of the opinion, however, that it is a mistake to suppose that a citizens' victory this Fall over the H. B.'s necessarily puts them out of future fights. The sick bantling they have adopted will continue to demand their constant attention for years to come. There will always be demagogues enough to keep alive this solicitude for its welfare, consequently, always a party made up in good part of the worst elements of society, standing ready to demand a place or a piece as against both the recognized national parties. If it takes the combined efforts of the two latter to defeat this H. B. party next September, it will certainly take no less in 1880 when the stakes are so much larger. If a three-cornered fight means the triumph of the Communists this Fall, it means no less in the great contest in the Fall to follow.

THE farmers who have been bled annually by the Railroad Company will not trust to the old parties for relief. They have been betrayed in the past by both Democrats and Republicans. Their only hope is in the new Constitution party.—Chronicle.

Of course, an apostate Republican or Democrat is to be implicitly trusted while he allows the Chronicle's Silurian office-seekers to lead him around by the nose. Certainly; let us join in and give these Silurians or "honorable bilks" each an office; then we can all become the same thieving Republicans or Democrats we were before. That's the way to get the farmers to trust you politically, you know.

A REMARKABLE billiard match was played in Chicago on the night of the 16th instant, between Jacob Schaefer, alias the "Grasshopper," and Geo. F. Slosson. The game was played for the championship of the world, three-ball game, 1,000 points up, with and $500 a side, the following result: Shaefer, 5, 690, 305; total, 1,000; average, 333⅓. Slosson, 14, 9, 21; total 44; average, 14⅔. Time, 65 minutes. Shaefer's average is unprecedented. The largest previous run made was 464, which his second run exceeded by 226 points.

COMING.—The following item, taken from the Carson Valley News of Saturday last, will be found interesting: "Mrs Geo. W. McCrary, wife of the Secretary of War, and sister, arrived in Genoa last Tuesday evening. They are stopping at the residence of their brother, R. Gelatt, awaiting the arrival of Mrs. McCrary's son and Wallace Gelatt from California, when they will depart to Fort Independence to visit their brother and our old townsman, H. D. Gelatt."

THE Leadville Reveille says it is estimated that since the 3d of last July about eight thousand tons of ore have been purchased at Leadville, having a coin value of $160 per ton. During the first three months there have been paid out for ore $215,085, and the purchases at this time average about 3,000 per day.

AMONG the present citizens of Leadville, probably not classed with the elite, are—and we have it upon the best of authority—Charley Jones, the Nevada convict and double-dyed murderer; Wels, the Sacramento murderer, who passed a few days in this valley, and Small and McDonald, the Panamint cut-throats.

THE report of the committee on the negro exodus made to the Mississippi Labor Convention, attributes the exodus in part to the prospective possession of Government acres and a patient mule in the promised land.

THE Aurora Herald, belonging to the estate of the late Frank Kenyon, is offered for sale. It is an excellent opportunity, present and prospective, for some good printer man to take hold.

THE total amount of hogs packed in the West this season was 7,840,648, an increase of 875,202 over last year.

BEGINNING OF THE SEQUEL—SOMETHING ABOUT THE OLD KEARSARGE MINE.

The only business before the District Court yesterday morning was the case of R. V. Dey against the estate of Charles H. Van Gorder, deceased. In 1871 Dey and Van Gorder entered into a copartnership for the purpose of securing a title to the Kearsarge mine in California. The company holding the mine was put into bankruptcy, and Van Gorder received $23,000 out of it. After paying expenses about $10,000 remained, one-half of which Dey now sues to recover. The evidence was all submitted to the Court yesterday morning (a jury being waived) and the argument was deferred until the 23d. Seely & Woodburn appear for the estate and John F. Lewis for the plaintiff Dey.—Virginia Enterprise, May 16.

The above will remind our readers of the "long ago." It will also remind quite a number in this immediate vicinity that they once were the victims of an unmitigated swindle, of which the above named plaintiff and deceased defendant were the active agents. The second sentence in the extract should be amended so as to accord with the truth, in which case it would read like this: "In 1871 R. V. Dey, C. H. Van Gorder et als., entered into a partnership for the purpose of perpetrating an unmitigated swindle upon a large number of miners, merchants and other persons mostly resident in Independence, Inyo county, California." These persons were the creditors of the Kearsarge Mining Company, of which Van Gorder was one of the owners and Directors in charge. Gen. John B. Winters was also a resident owner and manager. During one season's operation the property, under the Winters-Van Gorder management, became involved many thousands dollars' worth. These gentlemen ran mine and mill with full crews, and everything in first-class style one whole Summer—and did so well they paid no bills whatever. When that system could be kept up no longer, they resolved to throw the whole business into bankruptcy, and, by means of fraudulent claims of their own, make a good thing out of it for themselves. With this object they put in individual claims against the property to the amount of $75,000 as cash advanced by themselves. Nobody believed they had put in to exceed the seventy-fifth part of this sum in actual cash. At all events, not a cent of their money was used in paying any part of the running expenses of the property during their administration. not even any part of their private board, stable and similar bills. This little town, including the miners and millmen, had advanced the entire running expenses, which amounted to some $30,000. As the property was considered good for this amount, even if sold under the Sheriff's hammer, Winters and Van Gorder saw that their only chance would be to throw the company into bankruptcy, and, by means of their own fraudulent claims and a private sale of the property, etc., could thus manage to not only get possession of the property in their own right, but also swindle the other stockholders out of their interests, and, likewise, the local creditors out of their $30,000 of rightful dues for supplies, labor, etc. To this end this "partnership" between Dey and Van Gorder was fixed up. Dey was not an original stockholder, nor did the property owe him anything in any manner. But what was just as good, he was a Deputy United States Marshal for the State of Nevada, but not for the State of California in which the property was situate. What was still better, and the foundation, doubtless, of his present claim against the Van Gorder estate, he was one of those easy, virtuous souls whose chief ambition is to do what his paying employers tell him him to do. In due course of the law designed to defraud creditors, the United States District Court ordered the property sold, January 24, 1872, being the day set, the sale to take place on the premises. Messrs. Winters and Van Gorder did not have things quite ready for that day, and procured a postponement until the 27th—three days later. Mr. Dey was the Marshal selected to conduct the sale. That he was the right man in the right place for Van Gorder's purposes is manifest from the following facts: He came down, via the Northern stage, booked as "Mr. Passenger" from Aurora to Benton, as "Mr. Richards" to this place, whence, on the following morning, he next took the stage south, booked as "Mr. Bonds;" he remained in the stage until it got about three miles from town; then he left it, and mounted a horse kindly furnished him by Harry Clausen, a party in interest with Winters and Van Gorder; he then took to the sagebrush, and proceeded directly to the mine, to reach which he had to partially retrace his morning's ride in the stage, the mine being located nearly due west of this place, while the stage had gone the three miles due south before he left it; finally, he got to the mill, only to his great dismay, there to meet certain parties who had an interest in what was going on, and were there prepared to bid, and pay down the required 20 per cent. of their bids! There was no help for it; he was a sworn United States officer; he was there at the appointed time to sell this property pursuant to order of a United States District Judge; he pulled forth his red flag, announced his true name and title, and offered the property to the highest bidder. One of the unwelcome intruders made a final bona fide bid of $6,150; that was just what Mr. Deputy U. S. Marshal Dey did not want, so to save his pals from loss, he decided at once to declare the sale off, and postponed to the 24th day of the following month. But the sale never came off in the manner proposed. Some sort of a settlement was fixed up between the parties chiefly interested, by which the property was finally sold in San Francisco for $24,000, of which, as it now appears, Van Gorder realized $10,000; the honest creditors received about 4 per cent. of their respective claims, or at least some of them did; others nothing. The remainder of the $24,000, less Van Gorder's nip of $10,000, went to pay the expenses, but who got it, remains yet to be seen.

Of course, it is very plain, Mr. Dey ought to have his share, since, as it now appears, he was operating in the steal, not as an officer altogether, but as a party in interest. It was evidently no fault of his that A. K. Briggs and Sher. Stevens, acting agents for the honest creditors, happened to ride up to the Kearsarge mill that 27th of January, thereby preventing the Winters-Van Gorder agent from bidding in the whole property for a song. In short, it was no fault of Mr. Deputy U. S. Marshal Dey's that it didn't turn out to be one of the cleanest swindles on record. Of course, he ought to have his share of the little clean-up he did help to make.

It may interest him to know that this Kearsarge property this day bids fair, very fair, to soon prove itself as valuable a property as there is in the whole Sierra Nevadas. Such is the fact, anyhow.

MONO LAKE.

The Bodie Standard comments as follows upon the subject of the evaporation, sinking and stage of the water in Mono Lake:

Mono Lake is fully twelve feet higher than it was many years ago. At the northwest corner of the lake, near the Frenchman's, the posts of a former sheep corral can be seen far out into the water. A pre-emptor recently appeared in the U. S. Land Office to prove up his claim located five or six years ago. Of his 160 acres he stated that all but 40 acres was under water, and he very naturally did not wish to pay for more than that amount. Some ascribe the fact of the water rising to an increased amount of snow on the mountains during the winter over former times; some believe that the turning of Virginia Creek into the lake has caused the change; while others hold to the theory that some secret outlet to the lake has become filled up. Whatever may be the cause, the fact is evident that the lake is rising at the rate of a foot or two a year. There are numerous evidences that in former times Mono Lake extended over a vast extent of territory—certainly ten times as great as now. Is it not possible that in course of time it may again assume its ancient proportions?

THE campaign in New York this Fall will be an active and bitter one. To say nothing of the influence that it may have upon the Presidential election, it will be the most important ever held in the Empire State. For the first time in a score of years an entire State ticket is to be chosen, the terms of all the present officials expiring with the present year. Besides this, the new Governor will have the appointment of a hundred of the most important State officials, men who can make or unmake a candidate, so that the party that has their selection will have a hold upon the State for three years that it will be almost impossile to break. The Senate will also participate in the election of a Senator to succeed Mr. Kernan.

THE first annual meeting of the California Press Association will be held in the parlors of the Palace Hotel, San Francisco, on Wednesday, July 16, 1879, at 12 o'clock M. Arrangements are in progress by the Executive Committee of the Association to render the occasion a memorable one in the history of the press of the Pacific Coast. Among other features of the programme will be a special entertainment at one of the leading theaters of the city, a banquet at the Palace Hotel, and an address by a distinguished ex-member of the press.

POSTPONED.—The Democratic State Convention has been postponed from the 27th instant to the 1st day of July. The Republicans have talked some of taking a similar action, but as yet have not decided upon it, and will very likely stick to the original programme, viz: to meet June 17.

THE Bodie Daily Standard has attained the age of a year, all the while proving itself an able exponent of the wondrous mining interests of Northern Mono.

A "Whooping-Up Fizzle."

A grand meeting of the "honorable bilks" was announced for last Saturday in San Francisco. It was to be a "conference." The leaders of the W. P. C. were to be invited, and, according to the programme, they were to walk like lambs into the new party fold, and the affair was to end in a grand fraternization. The H. B.'s were of course present in force. Not a man of the well known stock company of hacks and hucksters was absent. Howard and Terry, Melancholy McCallum, De Young and his satellites, McKune and McConnell, John Lord Love, ex-Senator Cole—all were on hand promptly. There was only one remarkable feature about the gathering, and that was its inelastic character. An unsophisticated observer, judging from the noise these people have been making, might have been led to believe that they were enlisting thousands into their new organization daily. But when the muster-roll is called only the old familiar names are heard. Several of the Workingmen's leaders were present. As appeared in the end, they had come to listen and not to fuse. The H. B.'s, however, proceeded to develop their programme. Howard gushed, Terry gushed and they all gushed, and the purpose of the gush was that here was a new party being formed, for the express purpose of sharing out all the offices, and that if the W. P. C.'s would only abandon their organization, and come in under the new deal, they could have a reasonable proportion of the spoils. The Workingmen, however, failed to take kindly to this magnanimous proposition. Barbour and Beerstecher declined to be named members of the Committee on Resolutions, and in speeches plainly declared that the W. P. C. would not abandon its organization. Another Workingman, Reynolds, thought as the chief difficulty seemed to be about a name, the matter might be adjusted, and to that end he offered a resolution committing the proposed new party to the support of the W. P. C. On motion of Campbell, the attorney of the Chronicle, this proposition was laid on the table, and the Workingmen having finally withdrawn, the H. B.'s proceeded to pass a series of resolutions to the effect that they would never desist from the pursuit of office while there was a shot in the locker.—Record-Union, May 21.

THE Chronicle of San Francisco reproves Mr. Kearney for his exultant and defiant expressions on the sand lot, and reminds him that his organization numbers only 15,000 members and that he must go slower, must draw it milder, so to speak. It would be a funny termination if Kearney and the Chronicle should quarrel so badly that respectable citizens would have a show in the coming election; but we do not look for any such thing. The Chronicle will go to Kearney if Kearney is only resolute enough to hold on. The strongest is bound to prevail. By the way, Mr. Kearney will find an excellent text for his next Sabbath's sermon on the sand lot in the Eastern dispatches to-day. Seats in the New York Stock Board are swiftly increasing in value, and many San Francisco companies have already transferred their business to a city where the people do not want to be protected against themselves. It is not strange. A State whose foremost man is Denis Kearney and whose foremost journal is the Chronicle, ought to be a good State to emigrate from.—Virginia Enterprise.

SAN DIEGO possesses a genuine heroine in a young lady named Miss Mary Lawrence. Last Tuesday a band of wild cattle were being driven through the streets, when one of them singled out a child at play and started for it. The vaquero, who was drunk, tumbled from his horse as he attempted to turn the furious animal. At this moment Miss Lawrence came along, and, taking in the situation at a glance, sprang into the vacant saddle, ran down the wild steer, threw her shawl over its head just as it was about to gore the child, and taking advantage of the confusion of the beast, rode up to the child and without leaving her saddle reached to it and lifted it into her lap and then carried it off in safety. This was not only a genuine act of heroism, but an exhibition of horsemanship such as few, if any, in this section could equal. The young lady deserves a medal, both as the most expert equestrienne in these parts and as a lady whose courage and presence of mind are equaled only by her skill as a rider.—Los Angeles Express.

EXPERIMENTS made at Gloucester, Mass., last winter, by Prof. Baird, show that the artificial breeding of codfish is just as practicable as the artificial breeding of trout or salmon. The fact is that man is just beginning to extend his dominion over the fish of the sea, and there is practically no limit to the amount of food which may thus be provided.

AURORA has been quite lively for the past week. Business is much improved compared with the last several months. The result is that business men have a smile that is cheerful to behold, notwithstanding nothing particularly is known of the bowels of Last Chance Hill.—Esmeralda Herald.

CONSIDERABLE attention is being paid on the Comstock to overhauling old waste dumps for ore which was thrown away years ago. Several loads from the old Central, Mexican and Ophir dumps have been selected out and taken to the Ramsdell mill for reduction.—Virginia Chronicle.

WHETHER right or wrong, the vote of California last week has lost the people who oppose Chinese immigration many friends both in California and in the East. Then the exodus of the negroes from the South has so alarmed the men of that region that it is doubtful if another Chinese bill could be forced through Congress at present. The situation is very discouraging, and still we look for a reaction soon. There is a principle which involves the very liberty of the people of the United States underlying this Chinese business, and patriotic men will not remain passive while the danger is impending.—Virginia Enterprise.

KIT CARSON'S nephew, Charlie, is very much chagrined to think that after heroic service as an Indian scout and hunter, and after killing ten dusky children of the forest and dangling their scalps from his belt, he should be arrested on the prosaic charge of stealing two army blouses and a pair of cavalry boots. Yet for such action does he meditate in the Winnemucca jail. Charlie's mother, sisters and brothers were killed by the Apaches. He gets himself up after the fashion of Buffalo Bill and Captain Jack, carries a Winchester rifle, a big knife and a tremendous revolver.
